SPEAKS IN DEFENSE OF LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE

Hiram Bingham, lieutenant-governor of Connecticut, made a stirring defense of the old-fashioned, despised "little red school house" before the three hundred diners who attended the 20th annual banquet of the McKinley association held at Waterbury Saturday. His appeal for the preservation of the small town school was applauded enthusiastically.

The lieutenant governor's address was a closely reasoned argument against centralization in social and political authority, both federal and state, with particular emphasis upon the disadvantages that accrue from an educational policy that places machine efficiency before independence. He spoke in particular of the "well meaning" legislation that has been introduced into the assembly in the course of the present session, the effect of which would be very centralization which he deplored.

The principal speaker of the evening, ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, chose for his address a topic closely akin to Hiram Bingham's. Taking for his subject the gigantic expansion of governmental authority, he emphasized the necessity for a return to decentralization. If American democracy is not to foundder, Mr. Lowden stressed, the rapid increase in taxation that has outstripped our growth in wealth.

The banquet was presided over by Governor Templeton.

In attendance from this city were Dr. J. J. Donohue, compensation commissioner, and former Representatives A. J. Bailey and C. V. Pendleton.

The total list of taxable property in Norwich this year shows an increase of $350,829 over one year ago, according to the grand list made up by the assessors, Albie L. Hale, John B. Oat and Arad R. Manning, who finished their work Saturday.

The grand list of taxable property this year stands at $20,388,369, consisting of $18,754,940 owned by residents and $1,633,429 owned by non-residents. Last year the total taxable list was $20,037,540.

The grand total of taxable and exempt property this year is $26,964,813, consisting of $20,388,369 total taxable, $240,983 soldier exempt, $9,700 blind exempt and $6,325,760 other exempt property. Last year the total property list was $26,574,013.

Total increases over last year in the different classifications in the list were $553,244 and total decreases $262,415, accounting for the net gain of $350,829 over a year ago.

The number of lists this year is 6,082 which is an increase of 265 over last year, which adds eight more pages to the abstract book which has been written up by Clerk Oat of the board of assessors. Lists of property owned by residents increased by 293, soldier exempt lists increased 58, blind exempt 1, and non-resident lists decreased by 20.

The number of items in the list this year and last compare as follows:

	1922	1923	Increase or Decrease
Total lists	5,817	6,082	265
Residents	5,197	5,495	298
Non-residents	280	260	20
Soldier exempt	263	321	58
Blind exempt	5	6	1
10 p. c. lists	1172	1,186	14
Houses	4,708	4,831½	123½
Barns	516½	672	155½
Bldg. lots	4,044	4,383	339
Stores	520 1-2	525	4 1-2
Mills	71	74	3
Acres	13,275	12,970	2 85
Horses	565	519	46
Cows	1,286	1,244	42
Autos	2,125	2,432	307

Additions to what property owners put their lists in at were made by the assessors in about 400 cases and notices have been sent to those whose lists have been raised. They will have opportunity to appear before the board of relief if they wish to make an effort to have their assessments reduced.

In the list of taxable property there are 97 1-2 more dwelling houses than last year, making an increase of $117,915 in value. Another item in which there is a large gain is valuation of stores, which is increased $91,600 and there is an increase of $101,283 in stock in trade. The manufacturing item also shows a substantial increase, which is $74,232. In mills and manufacturing there is shown a loss of $164,640, but this is somewhat accounted for by the transfer of the Norwich Water Power Co. assessment from this item to the item of "not previously mentioned," which shows an increase of $70,500.

There are other minor changes in different items in the list as shown by the accompanying table comparing this year and last.

2,302 Motor Vehicles Taxed.

There are 2,302 automobiles with a valuation of $1,172,285 in the taxable list which is a gain of 283 machines over last year and an increase in valuation of $16,880. The whole number of taxable and exempt vehicles owned in Norwich is 2,432, which is an increase of 307 over last year. In the exempt machines are 20 owned by the city, the same number as last year, and 110 owned by soldiers which is an increase of 24 over last year.

In taxing automobiles the assessors followed the same general rule as they adopted last year. Cars one year old were put in at 75 per cent. of the present factory price, plus freight but not war tax. Cars two years old went in at 50 per cent., and cars three years old and older at 25 per cent.

The grand list from which to compute the state tax is $20,439,369, which consists of $20,388,369 taxable property and the two exemptions of $37,500 on the Y. M. C. A. building and $13,500 on St. Mary's T. A. & B. society.

The assessors closed their work Saturday, when Clerk Oat had finished the abstract book, which they signed and took oath to before Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the superior court.

The accompanying table gives the summary of the grand lists of taxable property this year and last.

DIDN'T KNOW HOW TO PULL FIRE ALARM BOX

Ignorance of how to pull a fire alarm box sent the fire department to Thamesville about 2 o'clock Sunday morning instead of to Greeneville, where the alarm was sent in from box 226 on North Main street, near Erin street. From the way the box was pulled, the alarm sent the department to box 112 at the foot of Shipping street.

The fire was in a chimney at the house 8 and 10 Central avenue, which is owned and occupied by Pantelis Varvaris and others.

A Greek joker employed at 193 North Main street, sent in the alarm and when he pulled the hook down in the box he tried to push it back again instead of letting it go back itself. This interfered with the box working properly.

The man acknowledged to Chief Howard L. Stanton that it was the first time he had ever sent in an alarm and he supposed he was doing all right.

Box 226 is one of the old pony type of boxes which has been in service in Norwich nearly fifty years, being rebuilt over some years ago, and since put back into service at its present location. Before being rebuilt the box was in service in the center of the city. Then as the fire alarm signal system commenced to grow, the more modern type of box was put in service in the center and the old rebuilt pony type was used in other sections of the city.

The time is coming when all the old boxes will have to be replaced with the more modern type of box.

To send in an alarm from a box first break the glass in the little key guard door, then turn key, opening large door, then pull down hook once and let go. The box will do the rest. Anything else one may do to a box will prevent the alarm from coming in properly, thereby causing confusion at the stations receiving the alarm also causes great delay in the department responding.

XENS SOCIETY HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Xens society was held Friday evening at the First Baptist church with a large attendance. At 7 o'clock the following appetizing menu was served:

Roast Turkey
Giblet Gravy Dressing
Mashed Potatoes
Turnips Onions Celery
Cranberry Sauce
Rolls Coffee
Assorted Nuts Ice Cream
Assorted Cakes

During the banquet Walter M. Cowan, acting as toastmaster, called upon various members who responded with jokes. The annual roll call was held, each member responding with stories or jokes as the name was called by the secretary, Mrs. John B. Oat. Mrs. Herbert Willey read a paper on Looking Backward, a clever story of past activities of the society.

The entertainment of the evening was by Mrs. H. I. Richardson with a selected group of songs, and Frank L. Mill of Jewett City, elocutionist. Other members read stories or gave reminiscences.

The banquet committee comprised Mrs. Arthur Armstrong, chairman, Mrs. Walter M. Cowan, Mrs. Earl Christman, Mrs. Bertha Smith, Mrs. Edward Briggs, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Frederick Freeman and Mrs. William Breed. The entertainment committee was as follows: Mrs. John O. Peckham, chairman, Mrs. Herbert Willey and Mrs. Walter M. Cowan.

The next meeting of the society is to be held on Friday, February 9th.

MYSTERY IN CAUSE OF PRESTON CITY FIRE

Reports from Preston City of the fire that burned the store and post office of Clifford M. Main there early Friday morning put the start of the fire in the mystery class. When first seen a blaze was burning in the north end of the building where there was nothing to account for a fire. The only stove in the building was located in the south room which was entirely dark when the fire was first discovered. It is even that the fire did not start from the stove.

This is the third fire in Preston City in the past 4 months. Nov. 29, 1921 the residence known as the Meyer's place, then owned by Lyonal Lerrett of New York was reduced to ashes; Jan. 26, 1923, the residence owned and occupied by Miss Martha Palmer was entirely consumed and the burning of the post office and store occupying exactly one year after the Palmer fire makes the list complete. Previous to these fires no houses or public buildings have been burned in Preston City since 1886 when the Congregational church was destroyed.

Up to six months ago the store that was burned Friday morning was owned by John F. Richards who ran the establishment for 30 years. In April of last year Mr. Richardson sold the building and business to Clifford M. Main. Mr. Main has since enlarged the stock and improved the building by laying a new floor, reshingling the east roof, etc.

In the few months that Mr. Main has operated the business he has won the friendship and esteem of the community and his neighbors sincerely hope that he will re-establish a place of business in the community.

CHURCH SCHOOL INSTITUTE FOR EPISCOPAL PARISHES

A church school institute for the Episcopal parishes of Norwich and vicinity is to be held at the Columbus house on Church street, on Wednesday evening of this week. Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, this city, will be in charge of the programme and will be assisted by P. W. Chapman, secretary of the Trinity church school.

The programme will open at 6 o'clock with a reception which will be followed at 6.30 o'clock by a get-together supper. At 7.30 o'clock there will be an exhibit of church school material and at 8 o'clock addresses will be given by Rev. James S. Neill, of Hartford and Rev. John H. Rosebaugh, of Hartford, director of religious education for this diocese.

The music will be in charge of Miss Jennie Mitchell, organist of the church school, and the supper arrangements will be in charge of Mrs. F. N. Clarke of the Parish Aid.

BILL LICENSING FISHERMEN ALSO CARRIES EXEMPTIONS

The bill introduced in the general assembly last week by Senator Gibbs "To prevent fishing in inland waters except by male persons over 16 years of age who have obtained licenses," is misleading from the fact that in this caption there is no indication given of the exemptions.

The bill provides that all male persons over 16 years of age shall secure a license to fish in inland waters, but it exempts all persons under 16 and women from obtaining a license.

It also exempts the owners of land and members of their families when fishing on their own land.

Evangelist at Mt. Calvary Church

Rev. York A. King, who is conducting the evangelistic meetings at the Central Baptist church, is to conduct a meeting this (Monday) evening at Mt. Calvary Baptist church. It will be a stirring evangelistic service and he will preach upon The Ways of Salvation. It is a meeting to which the pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson, is extending a general invitation to the public.

ASKS NO-STRIKE YEAR IN CHRISTIAN WORK

The Norwich Christian Endeavor union opened its meetings of Christian Endeavor week Sunday evening at 7 o'clock at the First Congregational church, Norwich Town. There was a large attendance at the meeting, which was opened with a song service led by Rev. Roderick McLeod of Hanover. The scripture lesson was from Matthew, 11th chapter, and was read by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey of the First Congregational church, who also led in prayer.

The business session was in charge of President Orrin Maples and announcements were made of the service at the Universalist church next Sunday morning to be conducted by the young people. It was announced that an exhibition of Christian Endeavor work would be on display in the windows of a Broadway store later in the week, also at a Norwich Town store. It was also announced that the union was the first to reach the quota in state and national work.

The sermon of the evening was delivered by Rev. Ezekiel L. Beach, Jr., of Guilford, state superintendent of evangelism, his subject being The Greatest Strike of the Twentieth Century. In part he said: The greatest strike of the twentieth century was not in coal nor on the railroads, but it was a nation-wide strike. In these days of strifes, wars, divorces and selfishness no one ever saw it strike that the best path for straight and narrow path true to peace, love and peace. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SATURDAY'S MARKET.

New York, Jan. 27. There were few important price movements in today's brief and irregular session of the stock market, the chief interest of the financial community centering on the weakness of foreign exchange, including the further collapse of the German mark, and the establishment of more new low records by some of the French governmental bonds.

Some of the principal activities in the stock market took place in shares whose fluctuations ordinarily have little or no influence on the general trend. These included United States Hoffman Machinery, up six points, and Spicer Manufacturing, Invincible Oil and Parish & Bingham Corporation, all up one to nearly two points, buying of these issues being based largely on reports of large current earnings.

Baltimore & Ohio was quite active just before the close on publication of the December net earnings report, which showed an increase in net operating income of $3,485,000 over the same month of 1921. The stock touched 46 1-2, as the high record, and closed at 46 3-8, a net gain of 1 1-8. St. Paul preferred gained nearly a point and Lackawanna 1 1-2. Changes in the other rails were largely fractional.

U. S. Steel, Baldwin and Studebaker, the usual leaders, moved within very narrow limits the first two closing at a slight loss against last named at a small fractional gain. Some of the foreign oils, notably General Asphalt and Royal Dutch were under pressure. Marland preferred dropped 10 3-4, its lowest price since 1921. Other conspicuous weak spots included Hendee Manufacturing, Republic Steel preferred and Maxwell Motors A, all of one to 2 1-2 points.

Kresge established another new top at 31, up 2 3-4, buying being influenced by the exceptionally good earning statement published yesterday. Mathieson Alkali, Reynolds Spring, Air Reduction and Brooklyn Edison also made good gains.

Foreign exchanges opened lower in response to the weakness exhibited in the London market. Demand Sterling, which was quoted slightly above $4.64 1-2, was approximately 1 1-2 cents below its final quotation last week, while French francs were only 12 cents above their extreme low of last year, which was 6.37 cents. German marks sustained an overnight depreciation of nearly 32 per cent., being quoted at 1,000 marks or more than 28,500 to the American dollar.

The weekly clearing house statement showed decreases of $2,750,000 in loans, discounts and investments, $467,000 in cash in own vaults and $69,826,000 in time deposits. Net demand deposits increased $64,000. Aggregate reserve totaled $345,072,000, making the excess reserve $14,024,520 or $1,331,920 below that of last week.

MANSFIELD CENTRE

Mystic C. Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lyon of Conantville, and Arthur H. Burdick were quietly married on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Mariette E. Webster, aunt of the bridegroom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. F. Sayre of Lebanon. Mr. and Mrs. Burdick will reside with Mrs. Walker. They have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Echo grange held its installation of officers Tuesday evening and very courteously invited the public to attend. The installing officer was the secretary of the state grange, Art Weston, of Plymouth, who conducted the ceremony in an impressive manner, with Mrs. A. R. Anthony as installing assistant. Music was furnished by a four-piece orchestra, Jesse Inman and Rexford Crane, violinists, James Eaton, cornetist, and Mrs. F. B. Eaton and Miss Frances Crane, pianists. After the ceremony, a lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served to about 80 members and guests.

The Young People's club was invited to meet last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold James on Wednesday evening. Unfortunately, the storm limited the attendance.

Members of the Young People's club enjoyed a sleighing party Thursday evening with Willard Stearns as driver. The party attended the concert given by the Piedmont college quartet in Willimantic.

The Christian Endeavor society gave a ten cent social in the church parlors Friday evening. A miscellaneous program was given by home talent and the remainder of the evening was devoted to games. A lunch of cocoa and cookies was served.

A group of young people had a slide party on the hillside near the church Saturday evening. The storm favored the sliding and the remainder of the evening was spent at Miss Ruth Olden's home.

Miss [illegible] was the week end guest of Miss Helen Bartlett, who is teaching at East Douglas, Mass.

Alexander Leander spent the week end in East Hartford with Mrs. Leander at the home of Mrs. Otis Kingsley.

Miss Mary Toplif has returned from Hartford, where she attended the graduation exercises of the grammar school of the South district, her cousin, Merwin Daly, being one of the graduates.

Gifts received for the Near East from Mansfield Center and vicinity amount to $34.68. This added to the amount given at Spring Hill makes a total reported for the South parish of $56.68.

The deep snow and consequent scarcity of food is driving game birds toward the houses. A pair of pheasants has been making dooryard visits in the village and at Mansfield Hollow Richard Johnson is feeding four pheasants.

ROAD SOCIETY

Supt. Snyder visited the school at Tanguwonk on Tuesday.

Miss Dorothy Wheeler, having graduated from the Montclair teacher training school, has accepted a position at Trenton, N. J.

Dr. Ira H. Noyes of Providence, R. I., motored to Stonington on Sunday and spent a few hours at his father's home.

A fire which might have been most disastrous occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Harvey on Thursday morning, when the chimney caught fire, and before it was known the mantel in an upper room was blazing. The Mystic Fire company responded to a call for help

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES.

MOTHER WISH.

If I could only follow,
Little son, little son,
Your way by hill and hollow
Till your long road's done!
You have so many miles to go,
So many things to meet
Where I can never guide
Your careless feet. . . .
Will they know you true and kind,
The stranger-girls you find
When you journey from your mother
Where the world's roads wind?
But I can only strive to build you strong and wise
Before your path leads far from me and childhood dies.

If I could only find you,
Baby-girl, baby-girl,
When colored world-lights blind you
And world-dances whirl;
But you will only laugh to stand
And greet the careless hour
When love shall take your willing hand
And show the world in flower. . . .
Will the man you love that day
Keep you safe and glad and gay
When you journey from your mother
Down the old, new way?
But I can only strive to build you fair and true
Before you pass too far to heed my love for you.

—Margaret Widdemer, in Good Housekeeping.

PERPLEXING GRAMMAR.

A drummer is a man, we know, who has to do with drums.
But I never met a plumber yet who had to do with plums.
A cheerful man who sells you hats would be a cheerful hatter.
But is a serious man who sells you mats a really "serious matter"?

You take a girl to Gary, then you are a pair of trippers.
If you slipped with her while skating would you be a pair of slippers?
If it freezes when it's frosty, is it
squeezy when you squeeze?
Would you have to buy a biograph to write biographies?

A man who brews ale you well know, is always called a brewer.
But if your landlord sues you, would you say he is a sewer?
A girl will change the color of the hair
upon her head,
It's strange, but still, though dyed, she surely is not dead.
Would a pious man who fried a fish be called a "holy friar"?

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Next month, which is now but three days away, we will observe the birthday anniversaries of two of the greatest figures in the history of the United States—George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. To some boys and girls the arrival of these birthday anniversaries mean but a holiday from school. But to others the birthdays of these two great men have a deeper significance, the honoring of patriotism, honesty, patience, bravery and perseverance which dominated the lives of Washington and Lincoln.

Both Washington and Lincoln were inspired by patriotism, which means love of country and flag and determination to protect their country and defend it. Patriotism is one of the greatest character builders there is. To be a true blue patriot one must in fact have all the qualities mentioned above.

A true patriot must be honest—honest with himself, honest in his intentions and honest in his dealings with others. A true patriot must also be patient. He must not "fly off the handle" when things don't go right. As one writer has said "Start little—and things will right themselves."

Another qualification which a true patriot must have is bravery. He must be able to bravely face disappointments and discouragements, and he must be able to face his troubles (if he is unfortunate enough to have enemies) with a clear unflinching. He must be able to cope with any situation.

The last quality mentioned is that of perseverance. Never give up hope of attaining an ideal or aim if it is a worthy one. Never give up hope. Go at your problems and difficulties again and again until you succeed. Remember the familiar saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Carl Prater, Mansfield Center—I received the prize book entitled The Auto Boys' Quest and wish to thank you for the same.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.

My First Experience on a Bicycle.

Dear Uncle Jed: Riding a bicycle is good sport for all American boys. I have not known one yet who did not enjoy this sport. Of course, it takes quite a bit of patience to learn. It isn't so much fun to learn, but it is great sport after you know how to ride one.

Would you like to know about my first experience? Well, one nice day I resolved to ride, so I took the bicycle up to a platform. There I started. I would only get two or three feet and the bicycle would tip over.

Once I had a good start and I was headed for the well, but I threw the bicycle over and jumped off in time. About a half hour later I took a rest because I was so hot and tired. After ten minutes' rest I started to ride again. I bumped into a tree and the shock threw me up against the fence.

I had quite a bump then, so I stopped riding for a few minutes. Then I started out once more. After trying quite a while I was able to ride around the house. Now by this time I was full of bruises from falling off so many times.

While I was riding around the house I bumped into the cistern well and I fell off my bicycle, landing on a piece of tin, tearing my stocking and receiving a serious scratch on the leg. By and by, as I kept riding, I was approaching a mud puddle when one of my feet slipped off the pedal and I lost control of the bicycle and I went right into the middle of the mud puddle. I tried to save myself from getting wet but it was in vain. All these adventures happened in one day.

The next day my riding became more proficient and I began to get some pleasure. Now when you learn to ride a bicycle have patience and don't try any fancy stunts until you know how to ride.

The Young Surveyor

Dear Uncle Jed: George Washington left school when he was sixteen years of age. At that time a large part of Virginia belonged to Lord Fairfax who did not know how much land he owned, because he had never surveyed it. Although a mere boy, George had learned surveying.

One day the great Fairfax sent for the young surveyor and said to him: "I want you to survey my land beyond the mountains. You will find me in the wilderness full of hardships. Indians and wild beasts will molest you. But I will pay you well for your work, and you will not lack food for the woods will be full of wild turkeys and other game."

The boy accepted the offer crossed the mountains and lived a rough life for three years. It was in this way that he learned to be a soldier.

A Sleighing Party

Dear Uncle Jed and Wide-Awakes: I am sure you Wide-Awakes and also Uncle Jed will enjoy reading the story of a sleigh ride or a straw ride which I have written.

About a week ago as I sat at the writing desk busily preparing the work at school for the following day, and mother and father sat reading while the small children were playing some of their Christmas games, a knock was heard at the door. My father answered the call. It was two of the neighbors who had come to ask us to go on a straw ride, and soon my father said, "Get on your coats and come on for a straw ride."

We hurriedly put on our wraps, bundled up good and warm and were soon ready.

Out in the road there stood patiently waiting a pair of horses with the driver, and two large sleds, one in back of the other. We were soon comfortably seated on the sled and were off. Gathering up other neighbors as we went along we soon had twelve in the party. A few persons were absent, one nursing a lame knee, cut by sliding down hill.

On such laughing and shouting as there was! Everyone old and young seemed to have a merry time, and was even made happier when the fudge and candy were passed around. The noise was increased by tunes played on the accordion by my father.

We went around the square which is a distance of about three miles. We arrived home about nine o'clock.

I hope you enjoyed reading my letter as well as we did the sleigh ride.

Our Sewing Class

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to tell you about our sewing class. We meet every Thursday afternoon at one o'clock and sew.

We made some holders and hung them up in the school. Our teacher is the secretary. I am in the eighth grade at school.

MARY MIKLOJCIK, Age 13.

Our Christmas Exercises

Dear Uncle Jed: It has been quite a while since I wrote to the Wide-Awakes so I will tell them about our school Christmas tree. We had Christmas exercises and I was in a play, A Discouraged Worker. There were several other plays and songs. Last of all came the presents.

I received a neck chain and each child received an orange and a bag of candy and pop corn. I have received many presents. There were around 25. The ones I enjoyed the most were two dresses, a pair of tan shoes, four hair ribbons, a pair of stockings, a pair of overshoes, a slip-on sweater, a sterling silver pencil, a pair of woolen socks to wear over thin stockings and four books. One of them was Marjorie's Vacation which I have seen in the Wide Awake Circle that Helen Green received also. The others were Marjorie Dean, High School Sophomore and Marjorie Dean, High School Junior.

From my Sunday school teacher I received the Girls Scouts at Home. Many other things I received that I have not mentioned.

I like Christmas best of all the year because Christ was born on that day.

I hope all the Wide-Awakes had as many presents as I did.

Saw Many Deer

Dear Uncle Jed: I haven't written to you in a long time, so I thought I would write now. We have seen thirty-two deer this year. One night When I got home from school I looed out the window and I saw four deer. We had a man chopping wood for us, so I went out an dtold him to go out in back and see them. When he got out there, the dog scented them, so off he ran. Pretty soon we saw about 20 deer go up through the woods.

My father works down at a plant. There are some other men working down there also. One day when they were out they saw a deer, and two dogs were after it. It swam right up to the dam, and there was some ice there, and it got on it and went up on the dam. It jumped over, but it didn't break its neck. It swam across the river to the other side and there it met a dog. The dog stood looking at the deer, but pretty soon it kicked the dog in the face. The dog got so scared it ran away. It then swam across to the other side where it met another dog. Then it swam across to the other side and ran up the mountain.

One day my mother was looking out the window and there were three deer walking down the hill. They stopped down at our shop. They stayed there about an hour. My mother thought they had gone, but all of a sudden they came from behind the shop and went up the hill past our neighbor's house.

A Tame Woodpecker

Uncle Jed: Once there was a hollow tree near our house. There lived a pair of birds in the tree. When I looked in the hole I saw four eggs. After three weeks I looked in and saw four young woodpeckers.

I found some worms and gave them to the birds. I kept feeding them for three weeks.

One day I looked in the hole and saw one woodpecker. The others had flown away. I took it home and fed it. One day I took a cat on one knee and the woodpecker on the other.

The bird would stick out its tongue in the cat's eye and the cat got frightened and ran away. The next day I gave him currants. The bird would try to pick the currants with its tongue. But the currants would roll away. After we kept him two weeks we let him go.

A Narrow Escape On Christmas.

Dear Uncle Jed: Last Christmas after I had eaten my dinner I heard some of my girl friends call me to go skating. It was a fine day for such sport. It did not take us very long to get to the pond for it was not very far from our homes.

It was a jolly crowd that we met when we got to Ben's pond as the place is called. Everybody seemed to be in the gayest of moods. After putting on our skates we joined in the games. We played cross tag for a while and then we started a game of snap the whip. I snapped once and then I changed and went on the end. There were about twenty of us and when the snapper snapped the whip everybody in about the middle let go and we who were at the end went around in a whirl and soon landed on the ice. My head seemed to have struck something sharp, then it grew dizzy and dark and I remembered nothing else. When I next opened my eyes I found myself on my bed with a big bandage on my head.

After a while my mother came up to me and told me that I had struck the side of my head on an open can and it was lucky that I had not been hurt on my temples.

I have never since that day played snap the whip and I believe I never shall.

Waiting For Santa Claus.

Dear Uncle Jed: I went to bed at eight o'clock in the evening. I tried to stay awake but didn't succeed. I had a dream hoping Santa Claus would leave me a sled. And my dream came true. At three o'clock it was on the floor under the Christmas tree. I got lots of other things. My sister got a sled, too. I like it very much. The name is Fire Fly.

Our Weeds.

Dear Uncle Jed: Our native weeds, are for the most part shy, and harmless, and retreat from cultivation. Weeds are great travelers. They are the tramps of the vegetable world; going east, west, north and south; they steal a ride, they travel by rail, by flood, by wind, they go under ground, and they go above, across logs and by the highway. But like other tramps, they find it safest by the highways. In the fields they are cut off. But on a public road, every boy, every passing drove of sheep, or cows, give them a lift.

I am in the Sixth grade, and I go to the Gurleyville Grammar school.

BERTHA MIKOS.

A Sheep Ranch.

Dear Uncle Jed: Most of the sheep ranches are out in the western states and the men who take care of them are called sheep men. In winter the sheep feed on the plains and eat a kind of grass called bunch grass. In winter the snow nearly always gathers in big drifts and then the sheep can't get anything to eat so the sheep men get them all together and give them food.

A little after Christmas a warm wind comes and melts all the snow and then the sheep men let the sheep lose and then they go wandering over the plains again. In summer it gets so hot that the sheep men have to get in the sheep and have them sheared. This is done by hand and sometimes by machinery. After the wool is washed very clean they send it away to all parts of the United States to factories where they make clothes out of it and then it is sold.

Skating in the Meadows.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day when one of my next door neighbors came over, she said "Let's go out skating." We told her that we would and away we went.

When we got to the place which is known as "Navin's Meadow," we put on our skates. At first we named places. There was a brook to separate them. On one side was Connecticut and Massachusetts. On the other side was Maine.

As the brook was frozen over we skated from one side to another. Later it grew dark and we took off our skates and started for home.

Little Sunrise.

Dear Uncle Jed: Little Sunrise was just an ordinary sort of boy, but there was not another like him in all Muskoma, because Muskoma was an Indian village and all the other boys were redskins.

Their skins were not really red, you know, only ruddy-brown; and certainly the white boy's skin was not white, because the sun and the wind had tanned it almost as ruddy-brown as an Indian's.

What made him different from all the rest of the Muskoma boys was his hair, because it was red and curly, and their's was black and straight. There was another thing that made him different from all the Indian boys. They could sit still, and he could not, except when Ossawippi, the old chief, was telling him a story, and even then it wasn't what an Indian would call sitting still. The only time he was' still was when he was asleep in bed. When he was awake everybody had to wake up, too. That was why the Indians called him Little Sunrise, though perhaps the color of his hair had something to do with it. His real name was Kennis. At least, that is what his father and mother called him. They called him Reginald when they wanted to be very severe.

The Kitchen Dance.

Dear Uncle Jed: "Oh! Dear!" cried the sink, "I thought that maid would scour my skin right off. Well, anyway, I am nice and slippery. I can give a dance.

The sink sent invitations to the dance to all the aristocracy of the kitchen. The whole kitchen was upset and everybody was on his way to the dance. Mr. String was the father and elevator, both. Miss Spoon was always first so as to get her dances engaged ahead of time. The orchestra was made up of Professor Egg Beater, Miss Can Opener and Mr. Tea Strainer.

The dance was about to begin when the news came that Mrs. Match couldn't come, because little Safety Match had the whooping cough. But the dance was sure to be a success. They started the evening with a "Paul Jones one step."

To the surprise of everyone, after the first dance, who should enter the room but Mr. Carving Knife and Miss Carving knife and Miss Tea Kettle.

The dishes on which the refreshments were served had their faces painted so much that you would think they were all blushing. The dance came to an end altogether too soon.

Nearly all the people had reached home when out went the light; Miss Tea Kettle began to hum and the sink was chuckling over the success of the dance when the maid came in and turned the faucet on and spoiled her dance hall.

But all the kitchen aristocracy agreed that they had had a very enjoyable time.

An Every Day Hero

Dear Uncle Jed: There was once a poor boy, the son of a candle merchant. He had to work hard for a living. He wanted to read books and learn all that he could.

He never gave up trying to learn. He used to stand by the book stores by the hour and would read any books he could find. When he grew to be a man he watched the lightning. And he founded a way to catch it, and coax it to make electricity. He made a plan for peace, between the colonies and after the revolutionary war was over he made peace between England and this country. He was an everyday hero. His name was Benjamin Franklin.

Received Letter From Santa

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell you what a beautiful Christmas I had. Santa brought me everything I asked for and a great many more things I didn't ask for. I received a letter from Santa before Christmas. He said for me to be a good girl. I have three more sisters and a brother. My brother received a train and tracks. My sister received a piano and two cut glass dishes and my little sister received a doll and I received a blackboard, which I wanted most of all.

My Little Angora Pet

Dear Uncle Jed: My little angora pet is the prettiest little white rabbit that ever lived. His fur is long and white and his little feet are very delicate looking. His ears are very long and pointed and his eyes are dark pink. When he washes his ears he takes his front paws and rolls them down to his mouth so he can wash it with his tongue.

Don't think that he is an old rabbit because he has white hair because that is a natural color for some rabbits. He is just a little baby around four or five months old, but very mischievous.

He is like a real baby. You hold him in your arms and put a blanket around him and rock him to sleep. You can also give him a ride in a doll carriage.

He likes to get out of his pen and play tag and hide and seek with me in the snow. His name is Snow Flake because he is as white as one.

I have read some of the Wide Awake stories by other children in the paper and was greatly pleased by reading the nice and funny little stories.

Snowflake has gone to bed long ago and is sound asleep, so I guess I will go also. He believes in going to bed early and getting up early.

My Surprise.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day when I came home from school father said he had a surprise for me. I guessed many things but I could not guess it so father told me to come in the barn and he would show me. I went and guess what I saw. A nice little calf. It was red so I asked father if I might call it "Strawberry." Don't you think that is a nice name?

I have lots of fun living on a farm. I hope all the Wide-Awakes have as much fun as I do.

My First Hunting Trip.

Dear Uncle Jed: One warm, sunny autumn afternoon in November, when I was ten years old, my father gave me a 16 shot repeating rifle. I was very much pleased. The farm is not so very big, but a very good hunting ground.

I got on my hunting things of which were a knife, a gun, box of bullets, few traps, and a hunting coat. I started my trip which ran down the road, and then up a narrow valley, around a corner and then into the woods.

The first thing I did was to walk around the wood piles. I heard a woodcock. I then turned around very quickly to see where it was.

Just then I saw a rabbit run across the track, around a corner and into one of the wood piles. I ran around one end and my brother, who is older than I, ran the other way. And what do you think I saw? The same rabbit under a big, black log.

I took good aim and then let my gun go off. My aim was true and hit the rabbit in the right eye. I was very happy when the rabbit was dead because it was the first thing I ever shot with my sixteen shot repeating rifle.

JEWETT CITY

Sarah Elizabeth Browning, wife of Simon Brewster, died suddenly at her home, the Brewster homestead, early Saturday morning. She was apparently as well as usual when she retired Friday night, but wakened early, the family was summoned but she died before the doctor arrived.

Mrs. Brewster was Sarah Elizabeth Browning, the daughter of Berlah Hopkins and Sarah E. Browning. She was born at Norwich Town, April 2, 1834.

On April 5, 1873, she married Simon Brewster and they have since resided at the Brewster homestead. Mr. and Mrs. Brewster were to have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in April.

Mrs. Brewster is survived by her husband, one son, Simon, Jr., four daughters, Mrs. Asahel R. Cook of Seattle, Washington, Abbie F., of Flushing, N. Y., Mrs. Russell Davenport of Holyoke, Mass., Margery M., who lives at home, and two granddaughters. There are also two sisters, Mrs. A. B. Burdick of Preston City and two brothers, Arba Browning of this town and Rr. Ralph Browning of Myersville, Md.

The passing of Mrs. Brewster marks the death of a member of one of Griswold's old time families. During fifty years of life at the old homestead her best interests have found their center in the home. Here no effort was deemed too great in the service of those she loved.

It is hardly within the memory of church goers that Sunday morning service had to be held in the vestry because there was no coal to run the furnace, as was the case at the Congregational church.

After the service the opinion was expressed here and there as members of the large audience talked one with the other that the arrangement was much to their liking and that it savored of the true get-to-gether spirit so vital to the church's best interests. The pastor spoke from that text in Corinthians, Where Paul tells them, I Come Not for Yours, but for You.

The speaker presented to his attentive audience the wonderful, age old, story of service for love. What is the measure of gold, or what shall be the amount of the reward, that is to be given to the mother as a payment for her years of service, anxiety and toil in the home, solving its problems and bracing herself, even in her frailty to ward off all approaching danger? Yet, said the speaker, she does it daily in the thousands of homes on this great planet, just for love. The impressive teachings of this great Christ taught lessons, are not to be forgotten in a day.

Mindful of the friends back home, W. S. Christopher, captain of the house on wheels, has written to Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bitgood, telling of the end of the voyage to Florida. The Pachaug party are at Dania, twenty miles from Miami, and fifty miles south of Palm Beach. Mr. Christopher writes:

We are nicely settled for the winter. I have given estimates on a number of buildings that are to be erected and am going to work tomorrow. The house on wheels has been dismantled, and we have put a business body on in place of the house we came in. It seems as though every carpenter in the country was in Florida this winter.

It is nice and warm here, our windows and doors are open and the thermometer stands at 82 outside. We went over to a nearby orange grove last evening and bought 5 dozen windfall oranges, too ripe to ship, just fine to eat, for 40 cents. About our trip, which is done, I wouldn't drive it again for $500. From my home in Pachaug to where we are now, Dania, Fla., is 1,957 miles. It cost us $323 for eats and gas including very little for pulling out of the mud, and repairs. It was an awful experience, mainly on account of the roads, but it is worth it all. No coal to worry about, no woolen stockings and no overcoats. And the whole outfit is in the best of health.

I have bought a half acre of land, with 150 front on Dixie avenue, just for an investment. We took our campers, and I promised to take some pictures as we went along. I have sent sixteen of the best ones, and Charlie Carey is going to put them in his window, so that all our home friends may see some of the bad, also some of the good experiences of our trip. One picture we could not get; our car and house needed all our attention. It was on top of a mountain side hill in Georgia. The machine slid out of the road, and our house was on a balance ready to drop 100 feet into the valley far below. But I guess the good Lord thought He would give us one more chance.

No little interest was centered in the civil suits tried before Judge Arthur M. Brown in the Griswold town court Saturday afternoon.

Last fall one morning Dan McCracken was driving his mother's car (she is now Mrs. Ezra James) from the milk train to their home in Glasgo. The same morning George Frink was driving his mother's car from their home in the south part of the town, to Plainfield, with his sister as a passenger. At the four corners, just below Mrs. Mary Brewster's home the two cars came together. The resultant legal actions were for damages of approximately $700. Mrs. James brought suit against Mrs. Frink, which was followed by a counter suit.

Attorney E. W. Perkins appeared for Mrs. James, the plaintiff, and Judge A. F. Libby for Mrs. Frink, the defendant. Judge Arthur M. Brown took the papers pending his later decision.

A special meeting of Anne Brewster Planning chapter, D. A. R., was held at the home of Mrs. H. E. Olson Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. H. E. Oleson was appointed as delegate to the D. A. R. convention in Washington. The following alternates were appointed: Mrs. Arthur M. Brown, Mrs. J. H. Tracy, Mrs. J. E. Phillips, Mrs. W. R. Burdick, Miss Ethel M. Burdick, Miss Ida I. Foster, Miss M. A. Burdick, Mrs. Charles E. Spicer and Mrs. Ida B. Ladd. The chapter voted to hold a food sale in the town hall in the near future.

Old Oney Watson said Sunday that now he wishes he hadn't caught that blue breast-bone skunk, for now his trap line is all covered with snow again for the twenty-fifth time this winted. He says, further that so it will be, every few days until Easter, April 1. He recalls that Sunday was the anniversary of the one big snow storm last winter, at which time Washington, D. C., got a three foot fall.

Shea Bros. were intending to rush the ice cutting right through Sunday from as early as the men could see in the morning until it was too dark to work at night. For the third time since operations were begun last Wednesday the housing was handicapped by a storm. Sunday the great fields had to be deserted on account of the rapidly gaining snow.

According to Methodist church notices if the weather will permit there will be a stereopticon lecture on the Life of Christ at Voluntown Tuesday evening.

The names of Mrs. Joseph Roode and Mrs. James Crary, vice presidents of the Community club, should have been included in the list of officers printed in Saturday's Bulletin.

H. M. Dunbar, former cashier of the Jewett City Trust company, visited the borough last Friday. Mr. Dunbar is connected with a Boston house handling first mortgage bonds. His headquarters are in New Bedford.

The Pachaug Singing class under Prof. Geer's, of Norwich, instruction, is planning to give a concert near the middle of February.

Miss Alice Jenkins of Norwich and Miss Freda Bauer of Taftville, and Miss May Guile of Norwich were week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Steward.

Miss Margaret Boylan of New London, William Shaw and Howard Hanson of New York were week end visitors at Miss Alice Barnett's home.

MYSTIC

Friday afternoon the funeral of Miss Mary E. Coates was held at her late home in Mystic. Rev. J. G. Osborne, pastor of the Union Baptist church officiated. Interment was in Elm Grove cemetery.

The male members of the Country club had charge of arrangements for their semi-monthly social. Cards and music were enjoyed and refreshments were enjoyed.

Mrs. Lottie Taylor, president of the Mystic Rebekah Sewing Society was the guest of honor at the home of Mrs. W. H. Van Pelt, Thursday evening.

There were 35 members present and Mrs. Taylor was most pleasantly surprised by being presented a gold hat pin set with jewels as a token of appreciation of her services during the past year. Refreshments were served.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

Your other organs may need attention first because their work is most important.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition commence taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, because as soon as your kidneys begin to improve they will help all the other organs to health.

A Trial Will Convince Anyone.

Thousands and thousands of people everywhere have testified that the mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized, and that it stands the highest for its remarkable results in distressing cases.

Symptoms of Kidney Trouble.

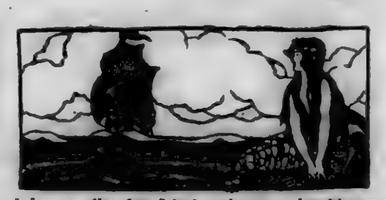
Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequently passing water night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust or sediment, headache, backache, lame back, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, uric acid rheumatism, lumbago, loss of flesh or sallow complexion, kidney trouble in its worst form may be stealing upon you.

Swamp-Root is Pleasant to Take.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. This gives you the opportunity to prove the remarkable merit of this medicine. They will also send you a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from people who credit Swamp-Root with what they consider a wonderful healing power in bladder troubles. The value of this preparation is known and you are advised to send for a sample bottle and book. Mention the Norwich Bulletin when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

SHORT STORIES OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE



The Girl From Danbury

By Joella Johnson

SHE was tiny and timid, a slip of a girl, with the freshness of country daisies and green fields about her. For many minutes she had been standing by the big revolving doors of Beacon's department store, searching every face as the crowds surged in and out.

As the minutes lengthened an occasional tear trickled down her pink cheeks. Slowly darkness settled down over the busy street; millions of bobbing and twinkling colored lights began to glitter and glisten about her. The drab street of daytime became a maze of blinking brilliance. The doors of Beacon's department store ceased to revolve, the crowds stopped surging in and out, and Daisy was alone, lost in a big city, a strange city and many miles from home.

Choking back the persistent sobs and fears, she realized that she must think, and think hard. For the first time in her life she had no one to lean upon, no one to shield her.

She had heard that in all big cities there were men whose duty it was to direct strangers and to help them, and she had always been warned to be very careful about speaking to people promiscuously.

"Always ask a policeman"—that was it. "Always ask a policeman," mother had said, and Aunt Carrie had said, and Cousin Lucina had said—"Always ask a policeman."

Through the thinning crowd she sifted, glancing timidly about, until she spied a big, glowing-faced policeman at the cross streets. Up to him she rushed, heedless of traffic or traffic regulations.

"Oh, sir," she cried, "Jim's gone, and I'm lost! Please tell me what to do?"

"You're lost, are you?" smiled the policeman. "Well, who is Jim, and where do you live?"

Autos honked, drivers shouted and pedestrians scowled and scolded while Officer Dane listened to the half-sobbed story of the little country Daisy.

"Jim is James Dee from Chicago, and I've run away from home to marry him, and now I can't find him. I'm so afraid something has happened to him. Please find him for me?"

Officer Dane signalled for the impatient drivers and pedestrians to cross. Fuming and seething, they swept past the stalwart man and the frightened girl. The spot upon which they stood was like a tiny island in a tempestuous sea of traffic.

"Wait a minute," encouraged Dane, "and I'll help you."

Soon the home-bound rush hour was over, and Dane piloted his charge to a sheltered corner.

"So Jim is lost, is he. And you are going to marry him, are you?" Just play I'm your granddad and tell me all about it," and his kindly blue eyes invited confidence.

Hesitatingly Daisy explained that Jim had come to her home in Danbury Hill for his Summer vacation a month before when her mother had advertised for a few boarders to help fill the family pocketbook. Jim was wonderful—the finest man in the world. He loved her but mother didn't trust him and wanted to know him better before giving her consent. Finally, Jim's vacation being over, he had found it impossible to leave Daisy, and she could not let him go without her; so they had eloped, and now he was lost and she was lost and she was very unhappy.

Big Bill Dane pondered a moment.

"Do you love this Dee fellow well enough, little lady, to go back home tonight and face the music alone, while I hunt for him?"

"Oh, if I only could go home," she sobbed. "I'd never run away again."

Gently Officer Dane led Daisy, somewhat crumpled and crushed, through the now quieter streets to the railroad station where, promising her news in the morning, he placed her on the train for Danbury Hill.

The next noon a trim, big-shouldered, blue-eyed man swung off the train at Danbury Hill station. Daisy, from the hill-top watched him climb the hill and come straight up to her door.

"Good morning little lady," he sang out to her. "How's your heart this morning? All battered and torn or can it stand a little shaking up?"

"Why, it's my policeman," gasped Daisy, "only you aren't a policeman at all."

"Oh, yes; I am a policeman, all right," chuckled Dane; "but it's my day off and I came to deliver my message in person. It's not I who is masquerading but James Dee of Chicago, U. S. A."

"Masquerading?"

"Sure," and genial Bill Dane settled himself on the stone wall that skirted the farm. He mopped his cheerful face and beamed a smile of understanding that warmed Daisy's heart.

"I thought I was right yesterday," he said, "but I wanted to be sure before I took a chance on breaking your little heart. Your friend Jim never saw Chicago. He's a soda clerk in a drug store. Many a lemon and lime he's mixed for me and I dropped in for one this morning. He was just back from a month's vacation. Here's a note he sent you, by the way."

Trembling, Daisy opened the note while Dane strolled away, his heart singing as it had never sung before.

"Dear Daisy"—the note read. "I'm a cad. I'm not a rich guy from Chicago at all, so I quit you cold yesterday. You're too good a girl to jolly. Bill Dane ferreted me out. He's some detective and the squarest man I know. Forgive and forget, Jim."

The afternoon train was leaving Danbury Hill station for the city as a broad-shouldered man with glad blue eyes jumped gaily on the rear platform.

"Good-by, little lady," he shouted. "I'll be back for my vacation—and, say, that family advice of yours is all right. 'Always ask a policeman.' Don't forget to follow it."

Luxury Not Everything

By Abner Anthony

"Tired, Allie?"

Her companion clumsily tried to steady her as she was almost swept off her feet between the human maelstrom, those fighting to get off and those getting on, like two mighty streams, each determined to have the right of way. His hands were stained with labor which no amount of scrubbing would remove, but the glance which he bent upon the girl held the same look of adoration which is seen in a dumb animal's eyes for its beloved master.

The girl felt that if he touched her again she would scream. Tonight more than ever he seemed to typify all the things she hated with every fibre of her being, all the sordidness which so far had made up her life.

All about her was the same apathy; the self-evident signs of a struggle for a roof over one's head and enough to cover one's nakedness of body if not of spirit. She tried to bring her hard-won philosophy into play.

She had her health and Jo, and a momentary pang of compunction smote her. In all the world he was the only one who really cared anything about her. To all the hustling, pushing throng she was nothing but a mere atom, the world only cared for success.

In the deep recesses of her soul she knew that in marrying Jo she was not being true to her higher self. She knew it would mean the end of all her striving for some of the beauty and joy of life. No matter how hard she tried she could never take him upward and onward with her; she would have to come down to his level. While he secretly admired and stood in awe of her "notions," as he called them, they were entirely beyond his comprehension.

When she allowed herself to think, Alice despised herself for giving up the struggle so ignobly. But she was so tired of the eternal loneliness, the terrifying abysmal loneliness of her cheerless room, with its musty dampness and single gas jet, of the bargain basement with its tight-skirted, gum-chewing, roughed prisoners, with whom she felt so inadequate to cope. And Jo seemed to offer her the only escape, her only surcease. Dull, plodding, yet he could give her physical companionship, a home better than she could win for herself, and mitigate the ever-present spectre of the wolf on her horizon.

But her dreams; they could never be anything else but dreams, and she would have to dream alone. So they were to be married the next day.

Suddenly, she looked down straight into the eyes of a woman who was the very essence of all her visions. Svelte beautifully gowned, with the pride of race in every line, she looked as out of place in that throng as a lily in a potato patch. And as their eyes clung for one long moment, Alice envied with an envy that was as poignant as a knife in an open wound.

Leila had dropped breathlessly into a seat, her pulse tingling with a new excitement, rather childishly proud of the fact that she, among all that awful crush, had secured a seat. Not that she was tired, for she had been at a matinee all afternoon and as usual had stepped directly into her luxurious limousine, waiting for her at the close of the performance. But midway the car had broken down and she had taken a sudden fancy to go home on the cars. The experience at this hour was a unique one, something beyond her ken.

What lay behind all this struggle for a seat, even for a foothold, meant nothing to her. She could not even sense the crushing weariness of the tired-eyed women and perspiring men. For Leila had had ease and beauty and luxury all her life and she had married for more ease and luxury. But she had had her dreams, too—such wonderful dreams of a gallant lover, a tender comrade and laughing little children—a life above the selfish, indolent life a worldly mother had forced on her. And she, too, had had to give up her dreams; had watched them drift away day by day like little errant silver clouds overpowered by gold and might.

For instead of a gallant lover she had married a power, instead of a comrade, a money-making machine, and instead of encircling little arms and childish prattle, there was a big house those rooms seemed filled with a haunting quiet that thrilled her soul.

For the first time in many weeks she felt exhilarated, she forgot her boredom; forgot that she was going home to a silent dinner to sit opposite a husband who thought that women were only dolls to be bought and paid for and looked upon as a symbol of a man's material success. These pople all about her—what interests they must have, what strivings for dreams not yet fulfilled, what glorious hopes.

She watched hungrily the tender solicitude of the man for the pretty girl who stood before her, and her mind painted glowing pictures of their future together. Oh, to be once again at the threshold of youth and love, out of her golden prison, free to choose and dream again, even as this girl.

And as the car rounded a curve and Alice's slim body was shielded by the protective embrace of the man by her side, Leila envied with an envy that was more bitter than gall and wormwood.

Love Finds a Way

By Parke Whitney

AND we are sorry to state that we can do nothing to assist you in this matter."

The hand of the unperturbed stenographer moved swiftly across the page. She was by no means surprised at the words of her employer—she was only too used to his harsh ways and methods. She was startled, however, a few minutes later to note a softer expression on the old man's face than she had ever seen before. He began to speak, and soon she realized he was telling her a story—the story of an ungrateful nephew, whom he had looked upon as a son. He had intended him to enter his firm and finally to inherit his fortune. In preparation for the bright future before the lad, he was sent to college.

"But what did that young scamp do," he fairly shouted at the girl, "but run off with the dean's stenographer. A boy with his prospects to marry a mere stenographer—criminal!"

Miss Faroff moved uneasily in her seat. "Mere stenographer," indeed. It occurred to her that in her employer's mind she was summed up in just those two words. She had often built castles of her own, in which she pictured herself loving and being loved by a handsome and exceedingly wealthy young man. But now—

The old man went right on without noticing, or at least without pretending to notice, her discomfiture.

"That was 35 years ago. I cut him off without a cent and today I received a letter—the first in all that time—asking me to finance his son in some fool business project. Like as not, the boy is just like his father, and most probably will run off with a ribbon clerk or some blonde stenographer."

Life indeed was becoming unbearable under him. "Mere stenographer," and with a toss of her head she turned once more to her machine, and soon the rhythmic "clickety-click-click" of the typewriter was the only sound to be heard.

An hour later the quiet of the office was broken by a young man who stepped in and inquired for "Mr. Jackson, please?"

He was informed in a soft voice that the manager would be back at 11:45. And as that voice sounded so musically in his ear, and because the face before him was so very attractive, he decided to wait.

The clock hands reached 11:45 and passed it—but not Mr. Jackson. However, the visitor was by no means bored. He informed Miss Faroff that he was the son of her employer's nephew, and was seeking a business loan from him. This brought on more conversation, and his listener was so very attentive that Mr. Jackson, Jr., did not even notice the flight of time. He was quite surprised when she rose to go to lunch, and asked if he might accompany her. Anne agreed and the two went off.

At 2 o'clock the stenographer was once more seated at her desk, thinking things over. She admitted to herself, she had never spent a happier hour, or ever conversed with a more delightful young man. He had left her with a promise to return the following day. And as he did, but strange to say, just after the manager had left. Of course he stayed a while to chat with Anne, and promised to come in the next day. This went on for a week. Each day he arrived just after Mr. Jackson's departure.

Finally he told Anne he had received assistance from another source, and that he was calling to see her and for no other reason. Following this explanation, he asked permission to take her to the theater that evening, and received it.

The next morning Anne was startled to hear her employer ask: "Who was the fine young man I saw with you last night?" and then in a sadder tone—"I once had a nephew who looked like that. Oh, how I worked and planned for him! But now—"

The voice trailed off into silence, a silence which Anne broke by remarking nervously:

"Yes, he is fine! Would you like me to bring him to see you?"

The much flattered old man readily gave his consent, so that very afternoon Anne escorted a tall, strapping young fellow into the office. She left him straight to the manager and said sweetly:

"Mr. Jackson, meet Mr. Jackson."

For a moment there was silence, in which the two men scrutinized each other. Then young Jackson felt his hand shaken in a mighty grip, and heard a choking voice stuttering in an attempt to speak.

There followed a long explanation of the injustices done years ago to the father, and a promise to make ample restitution through the son.

But when the old man looked up through his tears, he found his nephew gazing—not at him—but deep into the eyes of the girl beside him.

And as Jackson, Sr., looked from the proud smile of the boy to the flushed and happy face of Anne, he exclaimed and admitted in his heart that

An Undying Love

By Phil Moore

ON her small, shiningly-immaculate back porch, almost completely screened by morning glory vines, sat Miss Willis, red-nosed, red-eyed, and sniffling dismally. Even had she been seen, no one who knew her would have been surprised, for weeping was quite as much a habit with Miss Willis as combing her scanty hair in a tight, uninteresting pug on the very top of her sedate, uninteresting head. One never would have guessed that "sniffling Lalia" (as the younger, less respectful citizens of Blue Hill had christened her, with a delicious thrill of haughtiness) had ever been pretty and—in love. Yet such is the case.

If perhaps you ever chance to visit the small, insignificant town of Blue Rock and catch a glimpse of poor Miss Willis, with unappreciated salty tears dripping in a forlorn way from her long, vermillion nose, you will not smother a care-free snicker, as others do, but instead feel a bit of real pity. I suppose you can judge better if you know the facts. Anyhow, this is her story as she told it to me, amid tears and tea, on a cold, wintry afternoon:

"Once, many years ago, long, long before you came on earth to turn the heads of fickle, unlovely males, I" (with a modest blush that caused her to resemble nothing so much as an over-ripe tomato) "was young and pretty just like you, Molly, dear," (I quivered with mortification.) "I was blue-eyed and rosy-cheeped, with a few bleached-looking freckles scattered around and upon my nose, but not as disfiguring as yours. To look at me now, you never would think that I was the belle of the town, but I was, and John was my best beau, for we all had 'em then.

"John was a handsome boy, Molly, and I guess I led him a twisted trail. When John was 18 his parents decided to send him off into the wiles of the city for an education that he didn't need, for John was clever, too. At first, while my blue eyes remained in his memory, he wrote—and such lovely letters! I have 'em all done up in a box, scented with lavender, on the top shelf of my pickle and preserve closet. But gradually he remembered only the squash-tinted freckles, so he stopped writing.

"I loved John, and because I was young and silly I imagined he still cared for me. As the years passed by, I guess I must have faded, for when he at last came home" (she paused dramatically while I held my breath) "handsomer than ever, looking like he'd just stepped out of a bandbox, he didn't seem to see me, but sort of looked right through me. I was glad he could not, really, because I'd eaten cheese for dinner, and John never could tolerate cheese, especially homemade.

"I'd have run up to him, in spite of his January stare, but a slim, scantily-clad young woman, with hitching-post heels and yellow hair was holding my John's arm as if it were her own. They all kissed each other, John, his pa and ma and that clinging-vine female. I began to feel kind of small and insignificant, not to mention injured in spite of my new flowered muslin. I didn't see John again, while he was home, but a few weeks later I read an account of his wedding—his wife wore white satin and carried yellow roses. I went to bed with an ice-pack on my head.

"For four years I had faithfully waited for John's return. I had disdainfully refused three suitors, all well off young farmers—and one had offered me a washing machine for a wedding present! I've always pined for one. My home town soon became unbearable. John's wife and her high-flung city friends monopolized the whole town, so I just packed up and came here; and here I've been for 20 years of old-maidhood, feeding the cats and sweeping the back porch and—crying."

I ventured: "Yes?"

"Crying," she repeated, with an extra sniff. 'Yes. Some day John will realize his mistake, when it's too late! Won't you have some more tea, before you venture out, Molly? Well—good-night!"

My eyes were a little damp, possibly because I could almost picture the tears running off her nose into her tea, and the lavender-scented relics in the preserve and pickle closet.

On Time.

"He believes in being on time, doesn't he?"

"Yes, he even buys things that way!"

An Unexpected Romance

By Elsie Endicott

SOMEONE yawned and sighed, and others seemed preoccupied, watching the clouds drift by. Then a brown-eyed girl drawled lavily: "Well, for lack of something else to do, let's be young and innocent cherubs again and tell fairy stories. Come on, you all; a box of candy to the best story-teller."

Stories of giants and queens, fairies and knights were told by the others.

Then came Cynthia's turn. Cynthia was a plain little person, but with a certain quaint charm, perhaps inherited from her Southern ancestors. She began in a low voice:

"Once upon a time there lived a young girl who was neither beautiful nor talented. She lived a quiet life, dreaming among the hills. Sometimes she dreamed of meeting a beautiful prince who would bow low and say with a smile, 'Come, let us go away and enjoy this world of treasures together.' Then they would ride away over the hills. But the prince did not come.

"One day, just at sunset, a stranger, weary and ill, came to her cottage—a young man, 'tis true, but not the prince of her dreams. For many days he lay helplessly ill in her humble cottage, and with tender, deft hands she cared for him. Gradually strength came to him, and soon he declared that he must return to his people. She regretted his leaving, but he consoled her by the promise that he would write to his faraway princess often and in the future return for her.

Many months passed, and the girl thought often of the stranger who had drifted into her life, then out again; but she waited in vain for some news of him. At last she gave up hope of his return, holding his visit only as a wonderful dream, a golden memory.

As Cynthia ended her story the others remained silent for a moment; then someone questioned, "Well, what happened to the prince?" and Cynthia answered, "I do not know; he never returned to his faraway princess."

Suddenly one of the boys spoke up. "I'll finish the story for you. When the stranger left his far away princess, he returned to his country. Then came the call to arms. War was raging and threatened his land. He answered the call and for many weeks fought in terrible battles. Many of his comrades were slain, but he seemed to lead a charmed life. Then came the crisis of the war, a great battle that was to decide the victory or defeat of his country.

"He wrote to his far away princess and bade a carrier take it to headquarters, where it would be sent on its way. He never knew that the messenger was killed on the road and that the letter never reached its destination. Not till the war was over did he realize that the letter had been lost. When the smoke of the battle cleared away there were rows of dead and wounded, and he was among the wounded.

"After many months he was discharged from the hospital as cured, but his memory was a blank, his past had been completely wiped away—even the memory of his far away princess.

"Two years later his memory was restored. A bit of bone pressing against the brain was removed by a simple operation. He made haste to write to his far-away princess, but his letter came back, unopened, and he gave up hope of ever meeting her again."

As he paused, he glanced at the girl who had begun the story. There was amazement, mingled joy and disbelief in her eyes, but she remained silent.

He continued with the story: "One day, very unexpectedly, he met her. She had become more attractive than before and his love flamed as strongly as ever, and he asked her to marry him."

"Did she?" came expectant queries.

"Did she?" he repeated, looking steadily at the girl.

"I think she did," she said, as she arose and went into the garden.

He quickly followed, leaving a chattering excited group to talk over the unexpected romance.

A Dilemma.

Mistress (engaging maid)—And remember, Margaret, there are two things I must insist upon—truthfulness and obedience.

"Yes, mum," said Margaret politely, "and when you tell me to tell the ladies you're out when you're in, which shall it be mum?"

Screen and Stage

The screen can do things that the stage can merely suggest.
This was never illustrated better than in the George Fitzmaurice production of Willard Mack's stage play, "Kick In" which is coming to the Strand theatre next Thursday with Betty Compson, Bert Lytell and May McAvay as the stars.
In the stage version there were three acts each built around one big moment in the story. The hero's past was merely suggested in the conversation, very little attempt was made to develop the heroine's character or to relate the circumstances from which she sprung. On the other hand, Ouida Bergere, in preparing the scenario for the screen version, filled in the chinks in the stage story and put in some pictures material of her own.
For instance a big jazz palace is shown, in which Kathleen Clifford performs a sensational dance that fairly out-marrays Mae Murray herself. The heroine is revealed as the daughter of a prominent district attorney, which adds considerable dramatic interest to the drama, since the girl falls in love with a crook. Something about the hero's criminal past is also shown, so that you feel better acquainted with him.
In every way, the film "Kick In" is bigger and better than its stage brother. It is a bang-up, melodrama that starts off like a whirlwind and never pauses for breath. There are flashes of jazz, moments of extreme pathos, many chuckles of laughter, wonderful gowns, and a story comparable only to "The Miracle Man." Besides the three stars, Gareth Hughes Kathleen Clifford, John Miltern and Walter Long are also among those in the cast. The picture is a Paramount. mlkpn wai6re'.ttf now is the time for

Breed Theatre

One gains the habit of always expecting something exceptional from the directorial genius of George Fitzmaurice—and one is never disappointed. Looking backward, the character of such sensational stuff as "Cappy Ricks," "Idols of Clay" and more recently "Three Live Ghosts" come to mind, each bringing with it a gleam of pleasure.
And now Mr. Fitzmaurice has done it again, but with a different type of picture. He has transferred what is perhaps the most popular of all of Booth Tarkington's novels to the screen and the story is interpreted by a cast of players who fit it so closely, that the author might have had them in mind when he was writing. The picture is a distinct success. It blends human interest and suspense, heart-interest and beauty of settings with a degree of perfection seldom seen and never surpassed on the screen of the Breed theatre, where it was presented to delighted audiences last evening.
The interpretation of James Kirkwood in the chief role was unsurpassable, as was also the support rendered by Anna Q. Nilsson and Norman Kerry. The remaining members of the cast all acquitted themselves with honor.
The Man From Home will be the feature at the Breed again today and Tuesday and other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and a Christie comedy.

Bannon Keith Bill at the Broadway Today

The headline attraction at the B. F. Keith vaudeville at the Broadway for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is the Rainbow Six. This is a septette of dancers and singers who are just as attractive as the bill of varied lights that appear in the sky after a rain storm. Bright hits of fun, song and dance make up this attractive offering.
Williams and Daly appear in a novelty western rope spinning and juggling novelty.
Three Wilson sisters are three kiddies who present an engine, dances and acrobatic novelty.
Don't miss the most thrilling picture of the year, One Week of Love, now playing at the Broadway theatre. A little birdie whispered something about this picture being a "bird" and the little birdie was right. Action, beauty of photography and some excellent acting by Elaine Hammerstein and Conway Tearle raise this Selznick photoplay to the heights. It is worthy of taking its place in the motion picture hall of fame without further ado.
The backgrounds here are those constructed by nature, mountains of incomparable magnificence, raging torrents and great spaces of sky. Without its story, "One Week of Love" would be a succession of very beautiful pictures, but when you add a man about a high-stepping society girl who falls into a nest of outlaws you have the picture you've been waiting for through many a film-hungry day.
In support of the leading stars are Kate Lester and Mr. Hallam Cooley who do splendid work. "One Week of Love" was written by Edward J. Montagne who has written often and well for the screen in the past. In this instance it is no secret that he has surpassed himself.
Add some very able direction by George Archianbaud under the supervision of Myron Selznick and the production's splendor is explained.
You'll love "One Week of Love" for weeks.

"Back Home and Broke" Delightful George Ade Story at the Strand Today.

Sometimes the small town boy who leaves his native village to go forth and conquer the world, succeeds. After a few years of adversity and hard knocks, he "busts" the market or marries the boss's daughter, or invents something profitable. Then he drives into the old home town looking wealthy and wise, while the inhabitants pat him on the back and say, "Knew you had the stuff in you to do it, boy."
George Ade in his new Paramount picture for Thomas Meighan, "Back Home and Broke" which comes to the Strand theatre today, sees the side he would naturally see of such a story, and has his hero return hom apparently broke. But there is a reason for this, as the picture, which is full of sparkling humor and deft characterizations, proves. Lila Lee heads the supporting cast.

The more mistakes a man makes the easier it is for him to invent excuses.

GREENEVILLE

The annual meeting of the Greeneville Congregational church was held on Thursday evening in the church parlors. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, the pastor, presided and there was a large attendance of the members of the church. Reports of the officers and committees connected with the church were read and showed that the church had completed an active, prosperous year. There was a gain in membership; extensive repairs have been made to the building and there is a substantial balance in the treasury.

The Sunday school under the capable superintendency of Oscar W. Carpenter is in an exceptionally flourishing condition. A Men's club of the church has just been organized, with members carefully. Farmer in the near future. A troop of Boy Scouts was formed.

The following officers were elected: Trustee, five years, Oscar W. Carpenter deacon, John McWilliams; standing committee, one year, John McNeely, Mrs. L. W. Whiting, Charles Piper; church and visitation committee, one year, Mrs. John A. Scott, Mrs. Thomas S. Lathrop, Mrs. Margaret Burton, Mrs. Charles E. Meech, Mrs. Fred A. Fox, Mrs. Charles J. Hall, Miss John McNeely; music committee, one year, Oscar W. Carpenter, Mrs. L. W. Prentice; auditor, Fred Brookside, Milton Osborn; assessor, treasurer, two years, Tom H.

TAFTVILLE

The bazaar being given by Ponemah council, No. 34, Knights of Columbus, attracted a large crowd last night to the Parish hall on Central avenue. The booths were well patronized, and dancing enjoyed until 11:30. The Imperial orchestra furnished music.

The Taftville Football and Social club held a bean supper and smoker which was attended by all the members at the Naturalization club, Saturday evening. When the cigars were lighted several of the members entertained with vocal selections. The entertainments were in charge of the entertainment committee of the club.

Miss Helen C. Aberg entertained the Camp Fire Girls at her home on North Third avenue, Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fritsche, who were married a few weeks ago from Gerard hall, who have been the guests of Mrs. George Simons of Merchants avenue have taken a house on North Third street.

Rev. Roderick McLeod of Hanover was the preacher at the Taftville Congregational church, Sunday morning. Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis, pastor of the church, preached at Mr. McLeod's church in Hanover. There was no Sunday evening service, as many of the members of the parish went to Hanover Town to hear the address of Rev. Mr. Bacon on A No Strike Case.

Miss Ruth E. Heap of South Second avenue, who has been confined to her home by illness, has returned to her work in the Ponemah Mills office.

Mr. Gray entertained several of his friends at his place on Fancy Corner Saturday evening in honor of his birthday. There was some speaking and the host entertained his guests with sleight of hand, proving his ability as a performer by pinning a glass on the wall without injuring the (wall.) Ed Joubert entertained with a strong arm act. The party broke up at a late hour wishing the host many more such birthdays.

STATE KLAN LEADER SPEAKS TO SPECIAL AUDIENCE OF NORWICH MEN

Little did the vast majority of people in Norwich Saturday evening imagine that within the confines of the city the Ku Klux Klan, that much talked of organization, was holding a meeting in the interests of getting members into its secret fold. Little did the people realize that Norwich was entertaining unawares the highest official of the Klan in Rhode Island and Connecticut and in fact in New England. Such was the case and that personage was no less than J. W. Scott Sanders of Darien, this state, chief executive of the Klan forces in Connecticut and Rhode Island, who came here with W. W. Philcox, assistant chief executive of the western Connecticut division.

Two representatives of The Bulletin were informed late Friday evening that if they would be present at a certain place in the center of the city they might gather some news that would be bigaly interesting. The message which was received with more or less mystery aroused the curiosity of the two to whom the message was intended and it was decided to follow it up, even if it led to a wild goose chase. At the time specified in the communication the two representatives happened along at the appointed place where they were met by several men, the largest part of whom were unknown to them. They were conducted to an automobile and taken to a small hall in the outskirts of the town where they were informed that they were to attend an open meeting of the Ku Klux Klan.

Upon receiving this information the reporters declared that if they attended the meeting everything would be recorded just as it took place, otherwise they wished to be excused. They were taken before Chief Executive Sanders to whom they told the same thing. Mr. Sanders told them that everything that went on at the meeting could be published.

Gathered in the little hall, which was bleak and chilly without any semblance of heat, were perhaps 30 or 40 men, some of whom were recognized by the reporters as local men, but the larger number being unknown. The meeting was slow in getting started and at frequent intervals cars would stop outside and two or three men would file into the hall, until along toward nine o'clock there was a sizeable gathering.

There was no evidence of any Ku Klux regalia nor was the much talked of fiery cross anywhere in evidence. From snatches of conversation gathered about the hall it was understood that the meeting was for the purpose of organizing a Klavern in this city but nothing of this nature took place at the meeting. Who were Klansmen and who were not could not be determined from anything that was said or done there.

Chief Executive Sanders Speaks.

The meeting was opened by a man unknown to either of the reporters and not recognized as anyone residing in Norwich. The chairman of the meeting introduced the speakers, first of whom being Mr. Philcox. Mr. Philcox spoke briefly saying that since he became interested in the Ku Klux Klan it was always a pleasure to meet with 100 per cent. Americans and that today the 100 per cent. American is vastly in the minority. He said the purpose of the Klan was the banding together of 100 per cent. Americans to combat the influences of the element that sought to undermine the American ideals. Mr. Philcox in turn introduced Mr. Sanders who talked for over two hours while his audience listened with apparent interest but shivered with the cold, even in their overcoats.

I suppose you want to know what it's all about, said Mr. Sanders, especially the why of the statements you see appearing daily in certain newspapers throughout the country. You want to learn the whys of Mer Rouge, Texas, Oklahoma and Brooklyn.

Just for a moment think of the feuds that have for years existed in the mountains of West Virginia. Now go down into Louisiana and take Mer Rouge and Eastrop and between these two places you will find the same feud spirit. Each place is the center of its own crowd and during the past five years there have been 65 homicides in those towns, knifings, shootings, etc., among bootleggers who hate each other and have for years. You know that the Klan wears a white robe and mask and it would be foolish for the Klansmen to go out at night dressed in white robes, an easy mark for anyone to hit. It is known that another organization, however, does wear a black robe and mask in their ritualistic work and these are Jarts. Testimony at the hearings showed definitely that black robes were worn on the Mer Rouge occasion.

Now I say if Klansmen are found guilty of those murders, hang them and hang them quick, for they have violated every oath they have taken in the Klan which stands back of the constitution and laws of our country as they now are.

One of the principal witnesses is a man, formerly a Klansman, and one who said he was proud to be one. He was found $20,000 short in his accounts and the Klan made him pay it back, and now he's out to get the Klan backing the governor of that state.

Spread of the Klan

To give you an idea of what the Klan means in this country let me give you some official figures. In Texas there are 396 chartered Klans and 261 provisional Klans with a membership of 365,000. Oklahoma has 182,000 chartered members and 47,000 provisional Klansmen. Indiana, the second largest state in the union, in Klan strength, has 220,000 Klansmen and Pennsylvania has 156,000 in chartered Klans and 12,000 in provisional Klans. other states run likewise and the membership is growing rapidly. New York State is well organized and in every section the Klansmen are American citizens and are law abiding. What man living in a city where he has his home and business would join any order not clean? If I as a Klansman would say: "Go out and kill every negro you see, you'd arrest me as a maniac, wouldn't you?" Then you know that this is not true of the Klan.

In the Pennsylvania Hotel three weeks ago some of the greatest men in the country, all Klansmen, were present; there were 27 members of the bar in New York, 15 physicians, many ministers, business men and others of high type of American manhood. Today not more than 15 miles from here I asked a judge what percentage of the people that came before him for crimes were Americans, native born, during the past year. He answered only one. I asked him if there were others of the other type and he said there were scores. Lawyers have given in writing that the criminal returns show less than 2 per cent. are Americans, and this proves that Americans are not criminals.

Members Must be Americans

Now, to be a Klansman you must be an American, and in spite of fake newspaper stories of the criminals in the Klan, I brand them as lies because if only Americans belong to the Klan how can they be criminals when less than 3 per cent. are in that class of all persons arrested for crimes of any nature.

Punishment for Oath Violators

Now, I say, if a Klansman committed those murders in Mer Rouge, for God's sake hang him and hang him quick for he's violated the laws of our country and thus is not true to his Klan oath. If any man in my district commits a crime and I hear of it I'll hand him to the authorities quick with all the evidence I can secure. The Klan teaches this.

Klan Supports Law

We don't take the punishment into our own hands, why, I can start in with men high in government offices in Washington, go down through Congress and the state offices, judges, lawyers and right down to common workmen and point out Klansmen. Do you think for a moment that these men would back up any organization that attacks anyone in a physical way. Not a tear down the greatest organization that has ever been build up, this wonderful United States. Our constitution created by free-born men and has been handed down by our forefathers, and would any American born citizen tear down his own country and his own laws. Would you go to an Italian or a German in France to look for patriotism, or would you go to a Frenchman, one who loves his own land. You'd go to the Frenchman. Then why should we not look to Americans in America for real true patriotism. If they don't stand by their country, who will? Surely not any group bound to another country by strings or to any ecclesiastical group with a foreign potentate or prince.

Recently in Washington I attended a meeting of the Klan. There were men with stars on their shoulders mingling with buck privates, men with gold on their cups mingling with enlisted men. All men who love their country. I addressed them on what they owed to their flag and how they would become nothing but serfs under someone else if they did not defend and honor their own country.

If men such as these belong to the Klan, can it rightfully be said that such an organization is composed of crooks. Go to Yale university, there are Klansmen there, go to other colleges and you will find the same men Klansmen. Some of them members of the faculty. Those men are the leading minds in their communities.

Rid Country of Lawlessness

The Klan is out to rid this country of lawlessness, not by physical violence but by securing the evidence and taking it to court. If justice isn't found in the lower courts we will take it higher and again still higher for in our country there is such a thing as justice. Some places may be bad, but the matter can be taken away from that place and tried in a clean place where justice will prevail.

The Klan asks only that a man be a native born American, a Protestant, Gentile, white, and owing no allegiance of any nature to another government, creed, sect, people, other than the government of the United States. Why then are there such attacks from certain creeds and kinds, having absolutely no justice in their attacks?

I'll give any man $100 who can show me how I can be a Knight of Columbus man. I can't because I'm not a Roman Catholic, nor one of good standing. I can't belong to a Jewish organization because I'm not a Jew; the same with other like organizations. I'm an American, and hasn't an American the right to belong to an American organization of his own choosing? Religious men of another creed have made statements of the laws of the Ku Klux Klan, but you know anything about the secret order to which you now belong before you were a member? No. Then tell me how can that man tell of the Klan if he's not a member. I tell you he cannot.

The Klan is not against the Hebrews but no Hebrew true to his belief can be a Klansman because the Klan teaches the principals of Jesus Christ. The Roman Catholic cannot belong because he owes allegiance to a foreign potentate. We don't deny him this right of his, we don't attack him for his belief. The Klan simply stands back of the laws of this country and will not allow any group, no matter the race or creed, to destroy the principals on which it was founded.

To Crush Radical Movements

The Klan is out to crush the I. W. W. movement, Communism, and other such organizations, also to vote out of office any such people that are not clean or honest. Take your delegates to the presidential convention, they were instructed to vote for Lowden but did they, no they voted for Harding against the vote of Connecticut people and in violation of the law. They ask us if the Klan will back a Catholic in politics? I say yes, any man no matter what creed, provided he is clean. Where I live the Klan voted a Catholic into office against the votes of his own people.

Backs Public School System

The Klan stands back of the public school system and believes this should be the only system. In our constitution it reads that children up to 12 years of age must go to public schools. In our country there are many schools not public schools, and we mean to have the law enforced and end this breaking of the law. If we today do not rectify these conditions, what will they be like when our children grow up? You know they'll be infinitely worse.

We claim that there are some amendments to the constitution of our country that are unconstitutional, and I don't mean the 18th amendment. The Klan will see that these laws are upheld until the time when by public vote they shall be stricken from our constitution.

Want Justice for All

We must not expect the foreigner to become an American in a short time but by being kind to him, showing him he's welcome we can make good Americans out of his children. We don't want any pogroms in America, we want justice for all, Protestant, Catholic, Jew and Negro.

It is not your neighbor who is spreading this lot of lies about the Klan, it is the machine back of him, that ecclesiastical body that aims to crush any body that fails to conform with its program. We are out to defeat them in a political sense no matter the race or creed, and make America for Americans.

The Negro has nothing to fear from the Klan. In the south in the last year the Klan has started 296 public schools for negroes and the Klan is now forcing southern states to educate the negroes. We are now trying to start a normal school where negroes can go and become teachers to go among their own race.

White Supremacy

We believe in white supremacy, the ruling element in the United States, and we will give over that right to no one. The Klan is working to pass a law in every state making it a criminal offense for persons of color intermarrying. This has been long enough a curse on our land and has ruined every other country where it has been allowed. If this policy is going to hurt America, then I'm willing to quit.

I believe that in the next five years the Klan will make this country a better country, there will be greater spiritual harmony, mental development, a better brotherhood of man and a better America.

What the Klan Is

Now I will tell you what the Klan is. It's an autocracy founded upon and working under the policy of democracy. It's an autocracy because we have had the nerve to select our men. Hundreds may apply but only a few are selected, every day I return the money of those refused membership. We have an emperor, a spiritual one only, an emperor who is a minister and one who can draw up the spiritual work of the order. In our communities we decide which way to act and headquarters backs us up in the movement for good. We are autocrats because every thinking man is an autocrat. We aim to get closer to the constitution, to teach it, and spread its doctrines.

Why the Robe

You ask, why the robe. I will tell you why the robe is worn. In this country especially in New England and certain northern states certain factions are out to crush the Klan and care not what vile or untrue methods are used. We use the robe so that our business and home can not be destroyed and the robe will be worn until congress asks us to refrain from wearing it and then we'll wear buttons and you'll be surprised to see the thousands of men, big men, wearing the Klan button in the country.

We are criminals before we start, they tell of messages that Catholic churches are to be blown down, and this spreads hatred. This is why the robe is worn. There is no horse-play in the Klan. It has a serious business ahead. In 1865 a law permitted the Klan to use the robe and the law still stands. In the charter members of the Ku Klux Klan are members of the original Klan and we have permission to use their robes and insignia. The robes by law are kept in under lock and key cared for by a committee and it is impossible for a Klansman to wear his robe except in meeting, and then he is held responsible for its return immediately at the close. These photographs you see in certain papers are purely faked, no Klansmen posed for them. Every knock from the outside acts to solidify our members. Why man, if a paper dared print the truth about us they would lose their circulation and advertising because wrong stories have been told of us. Anytime the government asks us to tell the creed of the Klan it will be furnished because we are back of the government, heart, brain and soul, despite faked stories, such as interviews with me that never took place printed in one Connecticut paper, and others in Boston.

The Klan is made up of he-men, red-blooded men, banded together to do good, and make America, what our forefathers intended it should be, a Protestant nation, where religious liberty should be allowed, but no tampering with the church and state tolerated.

NORWICH BLIND MAN'S WORK ON EXHIBITION

Norwich people will be interested to learn that Elmer P. Alexander of 249 Prospect street, who has lost his sight, has done some creditable work which was placed on exhibition at the booth of the state board of education of the blind at the winter exposition at the state armory in Hartford the past week. The work consists of tea stands which have been made from reed material. The reed has been woven about a wooden base which has been fitted with cretonne covered by a circular piece of glass. The reed and the wooden piece have been bound with the reed and the whole gives a very pleasing effect.

Mr. Alexander has learned to do this work through Raymond E. Reasor, one of the home teachers of the state board of education of the blind. Mr. Reasor comes to Norwich once in two weeks and visits the blind people in their homes. He teaches them to read with their fingers and do hand work. The work is taken by the state board and is sold, the full proceeds for it being paid to the blind person who made it. Several people from this city who have visited the state exposition in Hartford the past week have noticed Mr. Alexander's work and commented favorably upon it.

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF ANNOYING WOMEN

Henry Lambert, 45, who lives on High street, was arrested on McKinley avenue about 6.30 Saturday evening on complaint of an Otis street young woman that he had followed her home from the neighborhood of the Boswell avenue park as she walked up Franklin street and McKinley avenue. Lambert denies the charge.

When the young woman reached home she telephoned to police headquarters and her brother kept watch of the man until he was arrested by Officers Ryan and Pounch, who were sent to intercept him. It is also charged that he beckoned to the young woman's mother when she came to the door.

Of late the police have received a number of complaints from women that they have been spoken to and followed by men in the neighborhood of the Boswell avenue park.

EDWARD M'CORMACK NAMED PITTSBURGH BRANCH MANAGER

Edward T. McCormack, son of James McCormack of Summit street, has been appointed manager of the Pittsburgh branch of Pierce, Butler & Pierce Manufacturing corporation. This New York concern is one of the largest manufacturers of boilers, radiators and kindred lines.

Mr. McCormack has been with his company only about a year as salesman in their Newark, N. J., branch, but his work attracted immediate attention. He was selected for his new position from a host of metropolitan competitors.

He was born in Norwich and attended the public schools here, later entering Dickinson Technical school in Jersey City, finishing with a post-graduate course at City College of New York. He entered the employ of the Page Boiler company of this city, later being promoted to their New York office.

He has made many friends in the trade who will regret his being transferred to another field.

NORWICH TOWN

Rainbow Circle of the King's Daughters, Miss Marie Louis Atterbury, leader, was in charge of the musical hour at the Backus hospital, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Under direction of Dr. Charles H. Lamb, an elaborate concert of vocal instrumental selections provided much enjoyment for all who were privileged to hear it. The participants were, Miss Mary E. Gray, Robert Gray, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Vaughn and Stanley Vaughn, Frederic H. Wyant, Dr. Charles H. Lamb, all of Norwich and Loue E. Stockwell of Worcester. The opening number, Prayer of Thanksgiving, by Baker, was given by a male quartette, Messrs. Lamb, Gray, Wyant and Vaughn. The beauty and pathos of this number (an ancient folk-song of the Netherlands), was finely interpreted by the quartette, which in their solo work also displayed to advantage their rich and appealing voices, showing cultured training.

Miss Gray who possesses a charming soprano, gave delight with her numbers playing her own piano accompaniments, also accompanied the male soloists with exquisite expression and accuracy.

A pleasing feature of the programme was the soprano and tenor duets by Miss Gray and her brother, Mr. Gray, which were given in splendid harmony with Mrs. Vaughn sympathetically accompanying at the piano. Stanley Vaughn, violinist was heard with pleasure in his classical selections, has numbers showing careful training in bringing out the melodious tones of the violin. He was ably assisted by his mother, Mrs. Vaughn, who executed with skill the piano accompaniments; also played the accompaniments for the violin duets by Vaughn and Mr. Stockwell, which won much favor being most heartily received. In the closing number by Mr. Gray and Miss Gray the latter was at the piano.

There were several representatives of the circle present, including the leader, Miss Atterbury, also several visitors.

The programme was as follows:

Quartette, Prayer of Thanksgiving, (Baker); Dr. Charles H. Lamb, Robert Gray, Frederic H. Wyant, John E. Vaughn; songs, My Dear Soul, (Sanderson: Hearts Delight, (Rogers, Miss Mary E. Gray; songs, Happy Days, (Strelezki); Calm as the Night, (Bohm, Mr. Wyant; vocal duet, 'Neath the Stars, (Thomas), Miss Gray, Mr. Gray; violin, Spanish Serenade (Bohm), Stanley Vaughn; violin duet, O Sole Mio (My Sunshine), (Capua), Stanley Vaughn, Loue Stockwell; songs, Calling Me Home to You, (Dore), Heart of Gold, (Manney), Dr. Lamb; songs, My Ideal, (Tosti), Love's a Merchant, (Carew) Mr. Gray; violin duet, Fiddle and I, (Gontieve); Stanley Vaughn, Loue Stockwell; vocal duet, In a Garden of Roses (Sanderson), Miss Gray, Mr. Gray.

AUTOMOBILE IN COLLISION WITH TROLLEY CAR

While driving along Thames street in his automobile about 8.45 Sunday morning, Samuel E. Sleeper of Montville skidded in trying to get out of a rut and his machine hit a trolley car.

The machine had a mudguard damaged and a dent put in the body of the automobile.

Autos Skid and Bump.

An automobile driven by A. L. Woodward skidded on Laurel Hill avenue Sunday morning about 11.30 and hit the car driven by Leon Duget of South Manchester. There was no damage.

Mr. Woodward, who reported the collision at police headquarters, said the driving was too dangerous for him and he was going to get back home as soon as possible.

Given Birthday Surprise.

A number of friends surprised Miss Margaret Schaffauser at her home, 6 Bushnell place, last Thursday in honor of her 19th birthday. Games, dancing and music were greatly enjoyed by all the guests. Luncheon was served later by Mrs. John Schauffauser, assisted by Mrs. Martin Wessel.

THE AFTER EFFECTS OF COLDS AND INFLUENZA

There is real danger in the after effects of colds and influenza because these attacks leave their victims with a cough or in a weakened condition, wide open to the attacks of other illness.

You can build up your lowered resisting power by taking Father John's Medicine, the pure food elements of which strengthen and nourish the system. Father John's Medicine soothes and heals the lining of the breathing passages and being a real food medicine builds new strength and flesh without using dangerous drugs.

POETRY

BARTIMAEUS.

God, grant to us Thy blessed Gift again—
To walk with us, as once in Galilee
Talking of pebbles, and of birds o'erhead—
Of little children, and our daily bread.
To us, Thy lowly flower-folk, make plain
The shining wonder of Himself again
That we may touch the seamless garment's hem—
And be made whole of selfishness and sin!
Behold the hearts made humble and contrite—
Lord, that we may at last receive our sight!
—Laura Simmons, in The Churchman.

REVOLUTIONS.

Before man parted for this earth strand,
While yet upon the verge of heaven he stood
God put a cup of sorrow in his hand
And bade him make with it, who would the good.

And when he turned from many times and places
Home he passed, [illegible]
Was after was changes that never cease;
The letters have combined, [illegible] was made.

But still an inexplicable sense
Haunts him that he has not [illegible] what he should;
That he has still, though old, to recon[illegible]
Since he has not yet found the [illegible] God would.

And, empire after empire at their height
Of sway, have felt this boding [illegible]
Have felt their huge frames [illegible]
And drooped, and gone to [illegible] throne

One day, they say, there will [illegible] appear
The word the order which God meant should be,
Ah! we shall know that well when [illegible] comes near;
The hand will quit man's heart, be [illegible] free.
—Matthew Arnold.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

KALEIDOSCOPE

Queen Wilhelmina, of The Netherlands, who will celebrate her jubilee on the throne next August, is the only woman in the world who is reigning sovereign in her own right, a position she has held since 1890 when she reached her majority and was formally crowned.

The Dictionary of the Egyptian language, begun a quarter of a century ago will be completed, barring another war, in 1928. There will be approximately 2,000 folio pages of type and 5,000 folio pages of "autographs" or "editions." It was an even 100 years ago that a Frenchman deciphered some of the Egyptian hieroglyphics. Since then Egyptiology has flourished, though obscurely. The dictionary will mark a new epoch. About three-fourths of the text is already in type.

The gutta-percha tree is now cultivated in eastern Bolivia in the territory of the colonies of the northwest and it is hoped it will take the place of the rubber tree. A prominent firm of former producers of rubber has 150 trees planted and has already extracted some gutta-percha from them. It is noted that the last of the important rubber producers in either the department of Eli Beni or in the territory of the Colonies of the northwest (Colonias del Noroeste) suspended operation at the beginning of last year.

WHY CHILDREN ARE SICK IN WINTER

CHILDREN get sick in winter because they don't get the pure fresh air and outdoor exercise they need and their blood gets out of order.

If your children are the least bit run down, thin in flesh and subject to colds, build them up with Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It will give them a new supply of rich, red blood, give them strength and vigor, and help them to resist disease.

Your druggist has Gude's in both liquid and tablet form.

RIGOROUS PROCEDURE BY FRENCH AND BELGIANS THROUGHOUT OCCUPIED ZONE

French Authorities Are Engaged in the Systematic Arrest and Expulsion of German Officials for Refusal to Obey Orders—Arrests Are Being Followed by Strikes—Premier Poincare Says French Troops Will Remain in the Ruhr as Long as Necessary to Assure the Payment of Reparations—Denies Reports That France is Seeking to Annex the Ruhr Valley.

(By the Associated Press)

The Ruhr valley is virtually isolated and communication for the most part is cut off and a censorship has been established. Berlin was out of touch with Essen and other Rhineland points after 5 o'clock Monday evening.

The railroad strike is in full swing and the telephone and postal services are badly crippled.

The French authorities are engaged in the systematic arrest and expulsion of German officials, state and municipal, for refusal to obey orders. A number of papers in the occupied territory have been suspended by order of the Rhineland high commission for brief periods for the publication of prejudicial articles.

The British parliamentary labor party wants parliament convoked earlier than February 13 so that the situation arising out of Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr may be given full consideration.

Premier Poincare announces that the French troops will remain in the Ruhr until reparations are paid, but no longer.

Fritz Thyssen, who is in Berlin, announces that "the people of the Ruhr form a compact unit in their determination to resist French encroachments and under no circumstances will they give in."

The council of the league of nations, which is holding sessions at Paris, will tae no part in thke Ruhr controversy beyond assisting in a settlement if requested by the interested powers.

FRENCH OFFICIAL'S VIEWS OF PRESENT CONDITIONS

Paris, Jan. 29.—(By The A. P.)—The resistance that the French now are meeting from the Germans in the Ruhr would have been encountered at the end of a moratorium had one been granted a high official of the French foreign office declared tonight.

Furthermore, the postponement would have facilitated military preparation on the part of Germany as well as the economic interests of that country consequently the French would have been in a much worse position, he says they are today.

"We have gained a decisive point," said we shall stick to the case until it is thoroughly cleaned and healed."

There is an air of greatest confidence in official circles that favorable results will follow the action in the Ruhr. Even the closing of French blast furnaces because of the lack of coke is looked upon as unavoidably necessary and temporary inconvenience that must be suffered in order to attain the end in view.

It was stated by a high official this afternoon that the leaders of the iron industry had been consulted on this question and that they had all agreed they would rather draw their dues now than see all hopes of collecting the reparations due to France fade away.

There is far greater uneasiness around French official quarters over the situation in Asia Minor and Mesopotamia than in the Ruhr, it is stated.

Premier Poincare is so exercised over the possibilities of failure of the Near East conference at Lausanne that he has sent an urgent appeal to Mustapha Kemal Pasha asking him to use his influence to moderate the Turkish viewpoints. This action was taken after the premier had conferred with M. Franklin-Bouillon, who has represented France in Turkey in the past and who is understood also to be personally using persuasion with his Turkish friends.

As to Memel, the international district on the Baltic recently invaded by Lithuanian irregulars, the allies are understood to be undisposed to send more troops there, although the latest information received by the French officials leads them to fear a possible raid upon Memel from other than Lithuanian quarters.

BERLIN UNABLE TO GET IN TOUCH WITH ESSEN

Berlin, Jan. 29 (By the A. P.)—Up to a late hour tonight official quarters here had been unable to get in active touch with Essen and therefore were unable to verify a rumor to the effect that the French had rightened their provisions of martial law.

The government leaders do not conceal their conviction that the situation rapidly is becoming acute in view of the drastic procedure of the French who, they assert, are chafing under continued rebuffs from the passive resisters.

The mine situation is expected to become critical in the course of the next few days, because rolling stock no longer is available in the same quantities as previously, which fact is likely to result in the overstocking of coal at the mines. Whether the French will be able to haul away the accumulated output is being strongly questioned, as the Germans have moved much of their rolling stock into unoccupied Germany to prevent its seizure.

FRANCE NOT SEEKING TO ANNEX RUHR VALLEY

Paris, Jan. 29.—(By The A. P.)—The French troops will remain in the Ruhr as long as may be necessary to assure the payment of reparations, but not a single day longer." This was Premier Poincare's answer today to reports that France was seeking to annex the Ruhr valley.

FRENCH INTENSIFYING CONTROL IN THE RUHR

London, Jan. 29.—The Duesseldorf correspondent of the Times sends the following:

"Late this afternoon it was announced in the German press that General Degoutte has handed a proclamation of an intensified state of siege throughout the Ruhr to the police presidents for subsequent publication. The proclamation forbids any movement in the streets between 10 o'clock at night and 6 in the morning, five years' imprisonment or a fine of ten million marks, or both, is provided as a penalty for disobedinece in such cases, the French law not providing for more severe punishment."

20 GERMANS KILLED BY FRENCH SOLDIERS

Paris, Jan. 29 (By the A. P.)—Twenty Germans are reported to have been killed today when French soldiers were obliged to use their arms to protect themselves during a violent nationalist demonstration at Boppard, near Bingen, says the Echo De Paris. The newspaper says it has been impossible to obtain confirmation of the report on account of interruption of communication with the Rhineland.

RHINELAND RAILROAD TRAFFIC AT STANDSTILL

Coblenz Jan. 29.—(By the A. P.)—Railroad traffic in the Rhineland was brought almost to a standstill at four o'clock this afternoon when the partial strike which has been in progress the last few days suddenly became general.

The railroad men, according to the French semi-official Havas agency, are said to have been paid in advance to the end of February in order to induce them to strike.

One German, who was arrested, was carrying a large sum of marks which the French authorities allege was being used to encourage the strikers.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS FOLLOWED BY STRIKES

Berlin, Jan. 29.—(By the A. P.)—The government's latest advices from Essen this afternoon indicate rigorous procedure on the part of the French and Belgians throughout the occupied zone where wholesale arrests of German officials are taking place, which are promptly followed by strikes in all branches of the governmental service. The telegram, telephone and postal employees of Essen walked out in a body as a protest against the arrest of six officials who declined to accede to French orders.

CATHOLICS APPEAL FOR PEACE AND RECONCILIATION

Berlin, Jan. 29.—Representatives of all the Roman Catholic organizations and unions of the German occupied territory, according to a despatch from Cologne, have, with the express approval of the archbishop of Cologne, decided to issue a proclamation appealing, in behalf of the five million Catholics of occupied Rhineland, to the Catholics of the whole world and to all mankind "in the interest of justice, peace and reconciliation."

GERMAN TELEGRAPHERS MUTILATE TELEGRAMS

London, Jan. 29.—A Havas despatch from Duesseidorf says the municipal gas and electricity workers have decided against striking, by a two-thirds majority vote.

The German telegraph workers at Cologne, adds the despatch, are "systematically mutilating telegrams to France and Belgium, both military private."

JOHN W. MAWBEY OF WORCESTER A SUICIDE

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 29.—John W. Mawbey, former registrar of probate for Worcester county and for several years assistant city solicitor and city solicitor, committed suicide late today by shooting himself through the heart at his home. Illness from which he had suffered for more than a year is believed to have prompted the act. Mr. Mawbey was apparently in good spirits during the day and received callers in the early afternoon. Later his sister heard a shot and hurrying to his room found him dying with a wound through the heart. Mr. Mawbey, who was born in Portsmouth, N. H., was one of the most widely known members of the Worcester county bar.

CONDUCTOR OF HARVARD GLEE CLUB DECORATED

Boston, Jan. 29.—Dr. Archibald T. Davison, conductor of the Harvard Glee club and associate professor of music at Harvard university, was decorated with the Paume Academique here tonight by M. Darius Milhaud, the French composer, on behalf of the French government. The award was made in recognition of the musical achievements of the glee club which visited France in 1921 at the invitation of the government.

FASHION ARBITERS DECIDE UPON KNICKERS FOR WOMEN

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 29.—Knickers for women is the edict of the New Jersey Retail Clothiers session in convention here.

The fashion arbiters decided today that the short skirt which is fast becoming a pleasant memory shall be replaced this coming season by knickers. Reports in the south already are witnessing the latest styles in knickers and unprecedented demand for this season is expected.

BOMBS THROWN AT CITY HALL IN DUBLIN

Dublin, Jan. 29.—Bombs were thrown at the city hall and central telephone exchange this evening. Many fires were reported, and the residence of State Solicitor Corrigan was partially burned. Another house was blown up by a mine.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS

People in Ancona are getting stirred up over the coal situation, which is growing from bad to worse.

Philip Elting of Kingston, N. Y., yesterday was nominated by President Harding, to be collector of customs at New York city.

It is reported in Berlin from Treves that a German workman, while leaving a restaurant, was shot dead by a Moroccan soldier.

British Chancellor Attacked in Senate

Senator McKellar Resents "Aspersions" Cast Upon Congress and Americans in General.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The administration was called upon by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, speaking in the senate today, to make "immediate demand upon the British government to disavow the statements of its chancellor of the exchequer casting aspersions upon the American senate and the American house of representatives and upon the American people, and lastly, upon the American debt funding commission.

"The British people," said Senator McKellar, "have always been a debt paying people and it is inconceivable to me that these self-respecting, these contract-observing people, will permit one of their own number to utter these uncalled for, untrue and discourteous words toward the American people and American representatives."

The Tennessee senator read the statement given out Saturday by the British chancellor, Stanley Baldwin, upon arriving in England, and said that if Mr. Baldwin had "exhibited the same elements of sordid parsimony and uttered the same crude

CHICAGO POLITICIANS ARE CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Capiases ordering the arrest of Fred Lundin known as the silent power behind the political machine of Mayor William Hale Thompson and twenty-three others, were issued today following the returning by the grand jury of a blanket indictment containing twenty-four counts of conspiracy to defraud.

The charges of conspiracy mentioned twice a sum of $1,000,000, which was said to compose graft from the school board and the illegal conversion of checks and vouchers from the board, city and state.

Immediately upon the issuing of the warrants and their delivery to the sheriff's office they were recorded and given to deputies for service. Most of the men named were detained in the city and were expected to appear and give bonds of $10,000 each when they were tried.

An additional charge of assault on two girls will be placed against Thomas McCarthy tomorrow, it was stated by the police. Kijauskas is now awaiting trial in the superior court on a charge of breaking and entering a railroad car. All three have police records.

AN HEROIC DEED BY NEW YORK POLICEMAN

New York, Jan. 29.—After breaking a jam of ice and snow in a sewer twenty-five feet below the street level, Michael Cordiano, a city employe, tonight lost his footing and was swept to death by the torrent.

Patrolman George Palony, 23, recovered the body, after an heroic effort to save Cordiano's life. Shouting to bystanders to aid him, he flung off his overcoat and, with a line about his waist, plunged down one manhole after another until he encountered Cordiano's body.

Palony removed his lifeline and tied it about the body of the drowned man, standing in the darkness in the buffeting swirl of ice cakes until the line was lowered to him again, and he was hauled, frostbitten and stiff, to the street.

ONE OF MASKED BAND TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Ardmore, Okla., Jan. 29 (By the A. P.).—Eleven jurors had been tentatively accepted when district court recessed here late today in the trial of Jeff Smith, an old field worker, one of eleven prominent Carter county citizens charged with the murder of Joe Carroll, slain in December, 1921, when he attempted to resist a masked band that called at his home in Wilson.

Smith is the first of the defendants to go on trial, having obtained a severance when the joint case against all eleven men was called this morning.

Questions by the prosecution as to membership in and sympathy with the Ku Klux Klan and other secret organizations featured the examination of prospective jurors today.

Another witness before the grand jury was Billy Minor, a nurse who was mentioned in letters written by the dancer.

Dr. Jacobs was before the grand jury for about forty-five minutes. No statement was forthcoming as to whether the grand jury would continue consideration of the case tomorrow.

BIG CUT IN VERMONT BY STATE BUDGET COMMITTEE

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 29.—The report of the new state budget committee, made public tonight, recommends for the two fiscal years of 1923-24-25 the expenditure of nearly $1,500,000 less than was expended and estimated for the current biennial period.

The committee would appropriate for the two coming years $910,860 less than the previous committee recommended, making the deficit in general revenue $410,000 less in the first year and $500,860 in the second. To bring about these economies many appropriations have been cut out bodily. The vote for eradication of bovine tuberculosis has been cut from $200,000 to $100,000 for the first year and to $75,000 for the second year.

Ruhr Not Mentioned By L. of N. Council

Fear That Any Radical Move Would be Made by Any of the New Members Has Been Dissipated.

Paris, Jan. 29—(By the A. P.)—The council of the league of nations, which began its session at the residence of Leon Bourgeois this morning, occupied itself promptly with one of the oldest and most familiar subjects on its agenda—"article ten" of the league of nations covenant—and once again put off a decision whether or not it shall be eliminated from the covenant until the states, members of the league, can send in any suggestions they may have to make concerning the Canadian proposal to amend the covenant by striking out the article or modifying it by introducing an interpretative clause.

This was the first meeting of the council since the last assembly of the league of nations gave the small states a majority in it, and the representatives of some of the big minority states came to Paris for the session with some apprehension as to the announced aggressiveness of the new members on such important subjects as occupation of the Ruhr and reparations generally.

Conferences between the members of the council prior to the session, however, dissipated these fears; and when Rene Viviani, who presided, called the council to order it was practically certain that no radical move would be made by any new member.

If the Ruhr is mentioned during this session, it will be only with the view of announcing that the league of nations is ready to undertake negotiations for a settlement of the reparations controversy whenever the interested powers ask the council to do so.

The council today decided to ask the governments of states belonging to the league of nations to send in before July 1 their suggestions as to the Canadian proposal to amend article ten of the league covenant One of the amendments would provide that, when it is necessary to have recourse to article ten, account should be taken of the geographical situation and the political condition of the states concerned.

As soon as the council receives the opinions of the members of the league it will compile and refer them to the juridical committee for the preparation of a report to the next assembly.

The project for mutual or general pacts or guarantees concerning conditions of proportional disarmament must await the report of the temporary mixed committee on armaments which will meet in Geneva, early in February according to a decision of the council.

"The members of the league undertake to respect and to preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression the council (of the league of nations) shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

MISSING MER ROUGE WITNESS REAPPEARS

Monroe, La., Jan. 29.—Harold Teegeratrom, time-keeper at the Spyker plant of the Southern Carbon Company, who disappeared the night of December 29, shortly before the state's ope nhearing into activities of masked men in Morehouse parish here today and announced that he was back home to stay. Federal and state officials had conducted an intensive search for Teegerstrom.

Immediately after it became known to the attorney general at New Orleans that Teegerstrom had returned, Cheriff M. Carpenter of Moorehouse parish was instructed to arrest him as a material witness in connection with the forthcoming grand jury investigation into the Morehouse situation, which culminated August 24, last, in the kidnapping of Walt Daniels and T. F. Richard, whose bodies were found December 22, in Lake La Fourche. The arrest had not been made early tonight.

Teegerstrom said today that he went away voluntarily and that neither the state nor federal officials nor the Ku Klux Klan was aware of his whereabouts.

New York, Jan. 29.—Furs worth between $75,000 and $100,000 were carried away by week end burglars from the West 37th street store of Sharstein and Cohn, it was discovered today.

The thieves, who apparently had a fur expert among them, cut their way from an upper roomtariesgw. Thea from an upper floor of the loft building and picked the most expensive Russian sables, silver fox and mink furs in the stock.

They knocked off once to consume a bunch of sandwiches, milk and crackers which they had brought along in their kits, and also smoked cigars found in the office of Mr. Cohn.

APPEAL FOR ENFORCEMENT OF PROHIBITION LAW

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 29.—Governor Warren T. McCray today held a conference with Bert A Morgan, head of the federal prohibition enforcement department in Indiana, and requested him to put an end to liquor law violations at Blanford in an effort to prevent further outbreaks of race hatred and bloodshed, which early today resulted in the death of thre men and the wounding of several others.

"White mulo of the chained lightning variety and not the race question, is the trouble at Blandford," the governor declared.

New York, Jan. 29.—James (Big Jim) Larkin, who recently was pardoned by Governor Smith while serving a term at Sing Sing for criminal anarchy, will sail for Ireland shortly, to lend his support to De Valera and the Irish republicans, his friends announced tonight.

TURKS ARE STUDYING A COPY OF NEAR EAST PEACE TREATY

Treaty Was Privately Presented to the Turks Yesterday—France and Italy Will Oppose Anything of the Nature of an Ultimatum When the Treaty is Formally Handed to the Ottoman Delegation—The Angora Delegates Are Distrustful of Anything and Everything the Allies Put Forward.

Lausanne, Jan. 29.—(By The A. P.)—Constructive influences are being brought to bear on the various delegations at the Near East peace conference to reduce to a minimum the chances of a rupture of the conference on Wednesday, when the allied draft of the proposed treaty of peace is to be officially submitted to the Turks.

Although the allied front still remains unbroken there are clear indications that France and Italy, at least, will not subscribe to any proceedings having the ring of an ultimatum to the Turks when the draft treaty is handed them.

As for the Turks, they are beginning to show evidences of despair. The treaty was presented privately to them today. It consists of more than one hundred and fifty typewritten pages, and contains many clauses to which they are absolutely opposed, and many others, inserted at the last minute, which they say they are unable to understand.

The Angora delegates have worked themselves into such a state that they are now distrustful of anything and everything the allies put forward, and they hesitate to make definite decision.

If the Ottoman delegation returns an answer Wednesday which will permit further negotiations on the vital, essential clauses it seems likely that the French and Italian delegations will be ready to remain in Lausanne for limited period, even if Marquis Curzon adheres to his announced programme of leaving Friday night.

Lord Curzon's departure is deemed quite justified in view of the imperative duties calling him to London, but it is believed the representatives of the other allies will hesitate to abandon the conference while there is still hope of reaching an accord.

The idea of an adjournment is becoming repugnant. It is pointed out that such a step might well be interpreted as a rupture and that despite the terms of the Mudania armistice, this would open the possibilities, from even the considerations of which all Europe shrinks.

Richard Washburn Child, chief American spokesman at the conference, is filling an important role in the present attempts to reconcile the views of the various delegations.

A delegati situation at Lausanne and alarming possibilities are likely to follow a brusque rupture of the conference; this is further emphasized by reports relating to the movement of troops and threatened troop movements. Turkey and Russia were alleged to have already signed a special accord whereby Russia would hasten to the aid of Turkey in the event of resumption of hostilities, and occupy Mesopotamia, wresting this disputed territory from the British.

The Russians and Turks, however, have declared this report to be an invention, but these and other rumors are causing the statesmen to hesitate to make decisions which would menace the Orient with war.

BANDIT SUBDUED BY NEW HAVEN POLICEMEN

New Haven, Jan. 29.—After holding up three men in an automobile tire shop in the heart of the city tonight, a man giving the name of Lawrence Mikowski of Meriden, fired a shot at a policeman, who arrested him, and was only subdued when another officer reached the scene. The hold-up and subsequent shooting took place a short distance from Chapel street, when theatre crowds were beginning to fill the neighboring streets.

Mikowski, according to the police, entered the store of the City Auto Tire company, and at the point of a pistol, ordered Joseph Glanz, the proprietor to throw up his hands. He had obtained 40 cents from Glanz, when two customers, hidden by a high desk, suddenly appeared in an effort to discover what was happening.

Apparently unnerved by the appearance of the men, Mikowski covering all three, backed out of the door and ran down the street. The men pursued but lost sight of him among the passersby. Welch and Glanz came upon Mikowski near Chapel street, near the Green a few minutes later and the policeman arrested him.

Mikowski said he had thrown the pistol in a vacant lot several blocks away and promised to get it. When they neared the lot, Mikowski whipped a revolver from his sleeve and fired one shot, the bullet grazing the policeman's hat. Welch, however clung to his prisoner and with the assistance of another officer, who had run up subdued him. Mikowski, who was badly battered, was charged with assault with attempt to murder, robbery and violence and with carry concealed weapons. He is 24 years old and, according to the police, has served in a federal prison.

Welch did not know whether or not he had been wounded and went to a neighboring physicians after Mikowski had been taken to the police station. No wound was found.

RUM RUNNERS AT WORK ON MASSACHUSETTS COAST

Boston, Jan. 29.—Landing parties from a flying squadron of rum runners are playing hide and seek with federal prohibition agents along the south shore, according to a statement tonight by Albert J. Lynch, head of the prohibition field forces in Massachusetts. So far the prohibition army has the best of the contest, Lynch claimed.

A cargo of 250 cases of whiskey was landed this morning by a vessel that had been scouting up and down the coast for ten days, according to Lynch. Using their advance information the dry squad seized the liquor later in the day in a beach hotel.

"Another boat is manoevering off Scituate and we are informed will try to get rid of its cargo in that vicinity," Lynch said. "We have information that others are waiting outside awaiting favorable opportunity to dash for shore."

GLIDER RECORDS BROKEN BY A FRENCH AVIATOR

Cherbourg, Jan. 29.—The French aviator Andre Mareyrol has beaten all world glider records by remaining in the air for eight hours, one minute and 26 seconds. He took off at 1.13.34 this afternoon and landed at 9.16 tonight. The flight was made in a pelting rain but there was a favorable southwesterly breeze.

Lieutenant Thoret, of the French army, on January 3 last set a world's glider record at Biskra, of hours, 3 minutes.

BEQUESTS IN WILL OF LATE SARAH T. ROBINSON

New York, Jan. 29.—Bequests totalling $95,000 were made to institutions at Nashua, N. H., under the terms of the will of the late Sarah J. Robinson, filed for probate today.

Gifts of $25,000 each were made to St. Joseph's French Catholic hospital and the Memorial hospital of Nashua, and $10,000 to the Good Cheer society and the Unitarian church of the same place. Harry M. Hobson, a brother, was left $25,000 in trust, the principal to go to the Unitarian church at his death.

Florence M. Presby of this city, described as "my faithful nurse," was willed $25,000.

NO ROCKEFELLER SUPPORT FOR ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

New York, Jan 29.—The financial support of John D. Rockefeller, Sr. and Jr. has been withdrawn from the Anti-Saloon League of New York state, it was learned today after the appearance of Raymond D. Fosdick representative of the Rockefellers at the district attorney's inquiry into the financial affairs of William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the league.

Both the Rockefellers ceased contributing to the league several months ago, it was asserted, after their representatives were informed league officials were splitting commissions on contributions.

Mr. Fosdick and Miss Maude Odell assistant to Anderson, were the only two persons questioned today by Assistant District Attorney Pecora. The questioning of the state superintendent scheduled for today was postponed, at his request, until Wednesday.

"I granted the extension," said Mr. Pecora, "only after an urgent appeal and on Mr. Anderson's promise to bring with him on Wednesday, all books of the league that will be necessary for the inquiry.

Mr. Fosdick, at the close of his interview with the district attorney, refused to make any comment. He was ushered to the elevator by Mr. Pecora at his request in order, he said to avoid the cameras.

"Mr. Fosdick with the utmost freedom gave me all the information I sought," said Mr. Pecora later. "I am confident the inquiry meets with his entire approval. I am certain he has no intention of shielding anyone whose conduct is a subect of inquiry by this office."

"I wanted particularly to know what he had learned from Mr. Anderson. He had talked with Mr Anderson only a few months ago about the same matters now under inquiry. In general our talk was about the leagues indebtedness of $24,700 to Mr. Anderson and the question of commission splitting."

A meeting of directors of the State Anti-Saloon League has been called for tomorrow.

AN EFFORT TO ABOLISH INTERNATIONAL HATE

New York, Jan. 29.—America should lead the world in a determined effort to abolish international ignorance and hate, Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma declared tonight in an address before the First National School of Democracy.

"The United States should raise its voice in world affairs," the senator said. "Not with the bayonet nor with the expectation of gain, but in a real effort for peace and stability."

Senator Owen referred to the growth of democracy throughout the world during the last few years, pointing to the accomplishment of self-government in Ireland and in Egypt. He said the United States should lend a helping hand in order that the nations might forget their hatreds and sordid crimes and turn toward the establishment of peace and resultant prosperity.

OBITUARY.

Prof. Albert Granger Harkness.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 29.—Prof. Albert Granger Harkness, for 34 years a member of the Brown university faculty in the Roman literature and history department, died here today in his sixty-seventh year. Professor Harkness was the son of Professor Albert Harkness, distinguished internationally as a scholar of the classics and author of text books in Latin. In the preparation of these books the younger Harkness collaborated with his father.

Born in Providence in 1856, Professor Harkness received his early education here. He graduated from Brown university in 1879. For the next two years he taught Latin and Greek at Peddie Institute, Hights town, N. J., and then went abroad, where he studied for two years.

Returning to this country in 1882, he became professor of Latin at Colgate university, known at that time as Madison university. He remained there six years, and then came to Brown as an associate professor. On the death of Professor John Larkin Lincoln, head of the Latin department at Brown, he was made a full professor.

In the police court Monday morning there were four cases heard by Judge Foss. Donat Gadoury and Dillie Rock were charged with breach of the peace. Gadoury pleaded not guilty and Rock asked to have his status explained before he would plead. The two young men were arrested in front of Milhomme's lunch cart on Union street by Officers Hurley and Anderson.

Gadoury and Rock explained that a fight started in the lunch cart and when they attempted to act as peacemakers they were thrown bodily from the lunch cart. When they were placed under arrest they were standing outside and talking back to the men in the cart who had been doing the fighting. The court was of the opinion that the case was not quite clear and the prosecuting attorney stated that only the person or persons who had caused the trouble should be apprehended and this will be done. The two men were ordered to appear in court this (Tuesday) morning, to which date their cases were adjourned.

Levi and Clara Upton were then called. He was charged with breach of the peace and Clara Upton, his wife, with intoxication and breach of the peace. The couple were arrested late Sunday night by Officer Hurley at their home on Clark street. They entered pleas of not guilty to the complaints. Upton was fined one dollar and costs and his wife was given thirty days in jail.

Monday marked the date of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Buckley Clark of No. 176 Pleasant street and the occasion was observed in a fitting manner at a reunion. Three generations, eight children, and twenty-four grandchildren. Other relations and friends and neighbors also were present at the social time which was held in Labor Union hall during the afternoon and evening. Over one hundred and fifty were in attendance. The reception was held from 3 to 10 p. m., with a buffet luncheon from 5 to 6 p. m. and ice cream and cake later in the evening.

While Mr. and Mrs. Clark were enjoying the fine entertainment which had been provided a number of their friends called and extended hearty congratulations, wishing them many more years of wedded life.

The aged couple are both in the best of health and attribute it to simple living and the observance of the Golden Rule. Up to twelve years ago Mr. Clark was a farmer by occupation. At that time he retired and came to this city to reside.

Ralph Buckley Clark, aged 77, was born in Marlborough, Conn., April 6, 1845, the son of Elijah and Abbie Ann (Hading) Clark. He was one of four sons. The first twenty-eight years of his life were spent in his native town. The following seven years were spent in Portland. Mr. Clark then purchased the Captain Gillette farm in Hebron which he conducted for thirty years. Twelve years ago he came to Willimantic.

Mrs. Clark was formerly Betsy Amelia Chamberlain, and she was born in Colchester, April 29, 1853, the daughter of William and Adeline (Strong) Chamberlain sixty-seven years ago. She was one of four children, two brothers and two sisters.

Of the two families there survive Mr. Clark's brother, Charles A. Clark, who resides in Malborough and Roswell Chamberlain, brother of Mrs. Clark, who makes his home in the old homestead in Hebron.

On January 29, 1873, fifty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Clark were married at the home of her parents, by Rev. Samuel Williard. The couple were blessed with five sons and three daughters all of whom are living. They are: George T. Clark of Hartford, William E. Clark of Willimantic, Ralph G. Clark of Hartford, Roswell H. Clark of Chicopee Falls, Mass., and H. Clark of New Haven. Mrs. Bessie A. Hinckley of Lebanon, Mrs. Mabel Richards and Mrs. Ethel A. Smith of this city. There are twenty-four grandchildren, Marion, Georgiana, Alice, Lois, Clayton and Ralph, children of George T. Clark; Vernice and Thelma, children of William E. Clark; Howard, Lloyd Verna and Mabel, children of Roswell H. Clark; Doris, Victor, Evelyn, Rose and Carr, children of Ralph G. Clark; Ralph, Charles, Jr., and Kenneth and Harry, children of Mrs. Bessie Hinckley; William R., child of Mrs. Ethel A. Smith.

The public now have a chance to purchase hard coal in large quantities several dollars less retail than the present prevailing low prices. Monday morning local fuel administrators in this section of the state, including Fuel Administrator James M. Smith of this city received a telegram from Waldo E. Clark, commissioner of the state pier, New London, stating that during the first week in February a steamer would arrive from England, with a cargo of 5,000 tons of hard coal known as British Admiralty Coal, from Hills, Plymouth, England. Arrangements can be made with the commissioner by individuals as well as firms for the purchase of coal in car load lots at $9.00 per ton f. o. b. on cars at the pier. The freight rate from New London to Willimantic would be $1.19 per ton making the price $10.69 a ton.

A seven passenger Jordan touring car, owned by the J. Authier Applegate, of New Brunswick, N. H., was wrecked Sunday morning about 8 o'clock near the foot of Roaring Hill, South Windham, when the car skidded and W. G. Roberts of Perth Amboy, N. J., lost control. The machine crashed into the state road fence on the south side of the road and after ripping out about forty feet of railing and overturning three posts the car went down a six foot embankment. The driver escaped injury and the auto was hauled to this city for repairs.

It is of interest to local people to know that Mrs. Emma Emmerson of 20 Schoolhouse lane had on exhibition in Hartford some rag rugs which she made for the state board of education of the blind. Mrs. Emmerson has lost her sight but she is able to do fine work with her hands and keeps busy weaving rugs. The state board of education of the blind has several home teachers who go about the state visiting blind people in their homes and teaching them to read with their fingers and do hand work. The work is taken by the state board and sold and the profits of the article be paid to the blind person who makes it, giving them a chance to earn money and keep busy. Raymond E. Reasor, teacher from the board, comes to this city once in two w

Martha Arline Harris, the seven-months old daughter of Albert H. and Florence (Bolton) Harris, died at the home of her parents, No. 120 Chestnut street Sunday afternoon.

William Tighe, who died in Bridgeport late Saturday evening was a native of this city and is survived by his wife and one brother, James J. Tighe, chief of the local fire department.

Miss Rosina Don Dero of this city has loaned thirty paintings, illustrations and charcoal sketches to Mrs. William Terry, librarian. They are on exhibition at the local public library at the town building. Three of the paintings were completed in Cohasset, Mass., and four were done in California. Miss Dero's art is highly developed, as is indicted by her work.

A number of friends of Miss Mabel B. Hardman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hardman of 137 Windham road, recently gave her a linen shower at a local tea room. The occasion was in honor of her approaching marriage. The table was handsomely decorated in pink and favors of flowers were distributed among the guests. The handsome linen gifts were cleverly arranged on a clothes line. Those present were Misses Florence Howie, May Cheney, Evelyn Thompson, Cecelia Morin, Florence Hevrin, Edna Vanderman, Antoinette Girar, Mary Twomey, Elizabeth Hardman and Mabel Hardman.

The annual reception of the junior and senior classes of the state normal school will be held in the town hall Friday evening. A New London orchestra will furnish the music. Miss Magdalene Moriarty of this city and Miss Beatrice Hahn of New Haven, the former of the senior class and the latter of the junior class, are in charge of the arrangements. The affair has all the indications of being a great success. Various sub-committees are assisting in the completion of the plans.

Roderick Lariviere of the local police force has purchased the three tenement residence at 108 Hope street from John Spencer. Mr. Spencer has purchased a building lot on the corner of Jackson and Bolivia street from Albert E. Gurley, and plans to erect a two story building on the property, in the spring. The first floor will be used for a store and the second for tenements.

Rev. Marshall Dawson, pastor of the Storrs Congregational church delivered a very interesting address on The Economic Value of Ideas Monday morning at the assembly of the Willimantic state normal school. WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Caused by Troubles Women Often Have—Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Medina, New York.—"I had a great deal of trouble such as women often have, and this affected my nerves. For over two years I suffered this way, then I read in the 'Buffalo Times' about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have taken it with very good results. I am very much better and feel justified in praising the Vegetable Compound to my friends and neighbors who suffer from anything of the kind."—Mrs. WM. H. ADKINS, 311 Erin Road, Medina, N. Y.

Feels Like Girl Sixteen

Rochester, N. Y.—"After my twin girls were born I was all run-down. My neighbors thought I was going to die. I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle helped me and I kept on taking it. I only weighed ninety pounds when I began taking it, and I have gained in weight and feel like a girl of sixteen. I never can say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. NELLIE DOBEY, 16 Skuse Park, Rochester, N. Y.

COLUMBIA

Leland Randall of Rocky Ford, Col., son of the late John Randall of Willimantic, was a visitor in town on Friday.

Many of the taxpayers in town have received notices from the board of assessors that the assessed value of their property has been increased, but it is understood that it is the intention that the rate of taxation shall be reduced, so that the amount of tax to be paid by the people generally will be about the same as last year.

The Christian Endeavor society held a social Friday evening at Yeomans hall, which was well filled. The Epworth league of Willimantic provided the entertainment of the evening, the principal feature being a one-act farce entitled Pa's New Housekeeper. The play was preceded by a piano duet played by Mrs. Beebe and Mrs. Haling, a recitation entitled The Rebellion of Melinda Ann by Mrs. Beebe and various on the song Way Down on the Swanee River for four hands on the piano. The characters in the play were: Pa Jackson, a widower, Walter Greiner; Jimmie Jackson, his son, Earl Haling; Jack Brown, Jimmie's chum, Leonard Clough; Mattie Jackson, Jimmie's sister, Miss Hope Morrill; Mollie Holbrook, her friend, who gets things mixed up, Miss Mildred Johnson. The play was well staged and the acting was very meritorious. The whole entertainment was greatly enjoyed by the audience. Cocoa and cake were served to the audience, which entirely filled the dining hall.

A resolution passed by the legislature, which was introduced by Representative Edward P. Lyman, provides for the payment of the personal tax in town for last year, which by some was held to be void because the list had not been filed in time as the law required.

Miss Marion Holmes, teacher of the Center school, was unable to attend to her duties on Friday last because of illness.

Chester B. Lyman, who has been in Charleston, W. Va., since the first of the year, visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hurlburt, is on his way home, being expected in Columbia the early part of this week. He will make a brief stop at Middletown.

There was a good attendance at church on Sunday morning notwithstanding the storm. Rev. Mr. Owens' sermon was on the subject Listening to One Who Inspires. The text was from St. Luke xxiv 32, "Our heart burned within us while He opened to us the scripture." The two men mentioned in the text were slow to believe but listening to the One who inspired them, their attention was brought to a focus. They caught sight of the chief point, the one thing that is going to save the world—God living as a man and suffering for the sins of the world. The speaker said in conclusion: You do not have to find the Lord; let Him find you and inspire you. Walk with Him, listen to Him, yield to Him, and your heart will kindle with interest and He will make Himself known to you.

The continuous snowstorms have made it difficult for the birds to obtain food, and flocks of them are seen daily nearer habitations than usual, looking for food which may be thrown out for them. Recently a pheasant was found dead near an unused chicken coop and had the appearance of having starved. Quail and partridge were killed recently by a fox which was seen to be very near a dwelling.

LEBANON

The activities and work of the Lyman Memorial High school are progressing steadily. Temporary song books have been purchased to provide for group singing at the weekly assemblies in the auditorium. The student body recently decided that the school colors are to be blue and gold.

The next basketball game of the L. M. H. S. team will be with Bacon academy of Colchester, and by that time the players hope to have their new uniforms.

At the community social held in the vestry of the First Congregational church 70 young people enjoyed a varied program of games and music, after which light refreshments were served. While these socials are held under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church, an invitation has been extended to all to attend.

Mrs. Fred Madley attended an executive meeting in Norwich Town of the Y. P. S. C. E. held in the M. C. A. building in Norwich on Saturday, Jan. 20.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Congregational church held an all-day meeting in the church parlors Tuesday. One quilt was tied and other work accomplished. In the afternoon at the annual meeting the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Miss Harriet Hewitt; vice president, Miss Mary Randall; secretary, Miss Ellen Huntington; assistant, Mrs. Fred Stark; treasurer, Mrs. H. W. Sweet.

Mrs. Sarah Gager is spending a week with Mrs. Mercie Gillette.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mason of Willimantic spent Sunday with Mrs. Mason's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lathrop.

Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Taylor, Mrs. Charles Froland and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Goodwin visited Preston City grange on Tuesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Taylor installed the officers. They visited Columbia grange to install the officers.

On Wednesday evening Battery B basketball team of Norwich came to Lebanon. They left at the first part of the last half of the game. At that time the score stood Lebanon 29, Battery B 10.

A party of about 40 from Willimantic came to Lebanon on a sleigh ride Saturday night, Jan. 20, and held a dance in Grange hall. On account of the heavy rain they had to stay in the hall all night.

F. N. Taylor was in Hartford Thursday to attend the meeting of the deputies of the granges.

Miss Myra Geer has returned to work at the Carpenter Manufacturing company in Norwich.

WAGE SCALE AGREEMENT IN PITTSBURGH DISTRICT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 29.—The Pittsburgh Coal Producers association and the officers of district No. 5, United Mine Workers, today agreed that the mining scale now in force in mines controlled by members of the association shall b continued until March 1, 1924. The agreement affects about 20,000 miners in western Pennsylvania.

COVENTRY

The Ladies' society held an all-day meeting in the chapel on Wednesday. Dinner was served at noon.

The installation of officers of Coventry grange was held on Thursday evening, followed by a banquet.

A number from here attended the various agricultural meetings in Hartford the past week.

The Ready Helpers went to Andover and gave the play A Southern Cinderella Friday evening.

Benedict Twordy and Frank Garmalinski were brought before Justice William B. Hawkins on Wednesday morning, charged with assault and abusive language. The fight, in which clubs and fists were freely used, was an outbreak of an old feud, it is said. A fine of $5 and costs was imposed on each and, to prevent further trouble a sentence of 15 days in jail was suspended and they were put on probation till June 1.

Stage doors often lead to divorce courts.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole
It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.
Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.
Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

What does the cup supply for you?

Many people find harm to health in the seeming friendliness of coffee and tea. They first notice the unfriendly side of their table drink in sleeplessness and nerve-irritation—signs that health is being disturbed by the drug, caffeine, which these beverages contain.

It pays to face the facts when health is involved. It's a good plan to look for the cause of restless nights and nerve-fagged days.

Postum is a safe and satisfying mealtime drink for everybody. It meets every demand of taste, and it contains nothing which can disturb health. The children may safely share it with you—as many cups as desired, without risk of disagreeable after-effects.

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared; made by boiling fully 20 minutes.

FIGHT DEVELOPES OVER BILL TO PROHIBIT MEMORIAL DAY SPORTS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 29—The fight over the bill pending before the Indiana legislature to prohibit commercialized sports on Memorial day, resulted today in the dismissal of Humphrey C. Harrington as judge advocate of the department of Indiana of the American Legion, which is sponsoring the measure, by Perry Faulkner, state commander, because Mr. Faulkner said Mr. Harrington had "interested" him in the controversy over the bill.

A meeting of the Skidmore-Dean post, whose charter was revoked Saturday by Mr. Faulkner following its action in opposing the bill, planned for tomorrow was postponed indefinitely. It was announced that the post would not sponsor the meeting which was planned as a protest against the bill.

The charter of the St. Mihiel-Loer post was revoked by Commander Faulkner today after its executive and advisory committees had adopted a resolution urging that the bill be defeated.

The state commander had announced that any post acting as did the Skidmore-Dean post would be "summarily dealt with."

Theodore Myers, manager of the Indianapolis motor speedway, has announced that passage of the bill means the removal of the speedway race from Indianapolis.

REFUNDING BRITISH DEBT.

On his return to England the British chancellor of the exchequer has been indulging in some statements concerning the impressions he received as the result of his trip to Washington in connection with the efforts to bring about a refunding of the debt owed this country by Great Britain that are not going to help the situation on this side. He apparently gives the British view of certain American attitudes. Certainly he could not regard it as smoothing the way in this country for the refunding, though he may regard it as a statement that will convince the British of the futility of expecting anything else than the proposition that has been offered by the American commission. There's the possibility that he has been talking for home consumption.

Time is getting short, however, everything is going to be accomplished at this session of congress. So short is it, in fact, that it seems impossible that within the next five days the negotiations can be completed and permit of congress giving the attention to it which is necessary to obtain ratification.

It is interesting to note that while the terms as revealed to the British are higher than it was expected would be arranged, a new attitude is being shown by members of congress. Instead of adhering to the terms by which they tied the hands of the commission there is evidence that there has been a change of mind as the result of study and a realization of the situation.

While the indications are that congress is taking a view of the debt refunding plan more in keeping with that of the commission, it is perfectly evident that nothin gcan be done unless an agreement is reached and [illegible] no surprise if the whole matter went over for a year or two before final adjustment.

THE RAILROAD'S POSITION.

Not even the railroad heads will undertake to claim that the conditions are as good as they would like to see them. They appreciate the [illegible] under which the New Haven and other systems are being operated at the present time and the demands that are being made on [illegible]

Due credit is due them for consideration is given to the statement which is made by General Manager Barde concerning the shortage of coal that has been handicapping the road in the past few months. When it is realized that the road has transported in the past four months more than like seven thousands more carloads of anthracite than it did in the corresponding period last year and over eight thousand more carloads of bituminous it becomes evident that the road has not been negligent.

Not only has the system had its own troubles but it has had thrown upon it the result of the troubles of others. It is not the fault of the railroad if the coal which they should have been transporting last summer was not available until fall. The demand that the coal production for the winter's supply should be started within a few months permitted of no preparations even if the railroads were in a position to [illegible] neither the fuel administration nor the railroads can be commended for the embargoes that have been established in order that necessities, including fuel, might be shipped to the people of this and other New England states.

Whatever can be done in the way of relieving any congestion or of moving up accumulated coal is of course justified. That the road [illegible] is glad to move a greater number of cars can be appreciated when it is mindful of the situation [illegible] is doing its best is a fact that cannot go by unnoticed.

It would seem that it wasn't smoothly handling an abnormal situation, it is to be remembered that it is working under handicaps for which others are responsible.

MODERNIZING WARSHIPS.

When it is urged that congress appropriate the sum of six and a half million dollars for the purpose of modernizing thirteen of our present battleships, it doesn't mean a desire to circumvent the naval agreement and it doesn't mean taking an advantage of the other nations.

The purpose of the changes is to bring these ships up to an efficiency that will correspond with vessels of similar type in other navies. [illegible] have been giving the same degree of attention to our big warships that the others have. Lessons have been taught as the result of the World war but we have not applied them. Through the appropriation sought for this work it is planned to bring our ships up to the point where they could give as good an account of themselves and offer as great resistance as those of other nations. It means the applying of structural improvements which comparisons with other navies show that these vessels need.

These vessels which it is proposed to spend about half a million apiece on might make as much speed, fire as many shots look as good as long, provided there is no occasion for a test [illegible] ers, but should the time ever come when they were expected to go into action it could not be expected that they would give the same account of themselves with the present equipment that they would after they had been modernized, and given increased protection against attacks from airplane and submarines as well as from warships.

Thus the appropriation that is sought is for the purpose of getting the best possible protection from these ships at an expenditure that is not large when the price of a new battleship at the present time is considered. If we are to maintain a navy, the day for abolishing which is as yet far off, it is folly to handicap ourselves and expect to get desired results in case of an emergency.

GETTING QUICK JUSTICE.

Were there more instances like that in Tennessee, where a man accused of murdering five has been brought to trial, convicted and sentenced to death, all within a period of two months it is not improbable that certain of the demands for the resort to lynch law would be overcome in southern states.

Too often is it the case that there are unreasonable delays in dealing with such matters, even after the arrest of the accused has been accomplished. Through exasperating delays, which in themselves are frequently the means of the ultimate escape of the individual from a just penalty, indignation is not only aroused but resentment takes possession of the mob. Feeling runs high and the determination to take affairs into their own hands quickly replaces a proper respect for law and order.

In this instance the crime was such as to create much talk of lynching. What might have happened but for the fact that assurance was given that there would be a prompt trial cannot be told. The promise of speeding up justice served to quiet the mob, however, and now it has reason to feel that it took the sane and sensible course.

Whether the disposition of such a case within two months would be soon enough to satisfy some communities seems improbable, in view of the manner in which persons are taken out and hanged or burned at the stake, without waiting [illegible] lish proof. But it is impossible to disregard the importance of disposing of such matters with as little delay as possible. It is one of the ways in which much can be done by the authorities to discourage the lynching habit. Quick punishment following conviction should supplant the idea of quick justice where only suspicion exists.

THE DISCHARGES EXPLAINED.

It has required some time to find out just what was back of the trouble in the bureau of printing and engraving at Washington some months ago. Then there was a wholesale discharge without an excuse being given except that it was for the good of the service. Now it is disclosed that conditions relative to the printing of the government bonds made it necessary for a thorough investigation, which it would hardly have been prudent to conduct while those who might be involved in it were still connected therewith.

With the investigation practically finished it is disclosed that, through what appears to have been carelessness, there was a duplication in the numbering of the bonds while they were being printed. This would have made it possible for certain of the bonds to have been extracted and disposed of but the free and unhampered investigation has permitted it to be established that it was not a scheme to raid the United States treasury, although it can be appreciated that through such a means there could be endless confusion and great loss.

Having reached the conclusion that there was nothing criminal and that nothing more than carelessness was at the bottom of it, the decision to reinstate all who desire it, with the exception of one, must be looked upon as the proper course. The case was one where it was impossible for the president to give a full explanation of the situation at the time of the discharge without giving encouragement to those disposed to take advantage of the government's predicament. The reinstatement clears up the claims about the discharges being a political trick.

Strange with so many looking for advantage they never found that 3350-pound steer until this year.

You can already feel the warmth that comes with the announcement that there'll be plenty of coal next winter.

A fellow gets about as mad when he falls down on his coal order as when he slips up on the slippery pavement.

Turkey had just enough success with Greece to cause it to do more than scowl when told to sign on the dotted line at Lausanne.

With an increase of $6,000,000,000 in life insurance in the United States last year there are those who believe and practice thrift.

Perhaps the proposed reduction in the trolley fare isn't much, but what a howl would go up if it were planned to boost it that much.

From certain features of the report about conditions there, the move to clean up Greenwich Village hasn't been undertaken any too soon.

The only trouble with that offer of a residence for the vice president to the government is that it didn't include an endowment for maintenance and operation.

The indications are that the French have gone into the Ruhr with the intention of staying until they get what they have been insisting on, if it takes all summer

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

Washington, Jan. 30.—Secretary of War Weeks has made it known that he is very friendly to the proposed aviation field in Wallingford, as a memorial to Ace Raoul Lufbery, who lost his life over seas during the war. Mr. Weeks has notified Congressman Tilson that while he cannot see his way clear to recommend federal financial aid to the project, he will see that if such a field is made a memorial to Lurbery that it has a place of the war department aviation maps and is utilized by the government flyers when possible. In other words the secretary of war promises cooperation of the government so far as is possible at this moment. Mr. Weeks this week said "I cannot recommend financial assistance to an aviation field in Connecticut at this time because the plans of the government do not include immediate action in that locality. The larger centers fields must first be cared for. But I shall be very glad to cooperate as far as possible in making the field useful and giving it prominence. I am heartily in sympathy with the idea of such a memorial aviation field."

Congressman Rogers of Massachusetts this week gave some significant figures to congress showing that much coal needed by the people of the United States is being shipped to other countries. Referring to the official figures of coal shipments in the months of December 1921 and 1922 Mr. Rogers stated that in 1921 the anthracite exports amounted to 800,000 tons but in 1922 had increased to 875,000. The bituminous showed even a greater increase. In 1921 exports were 621,000 tons and in December 1922 had risen to 1,376,000 tons. "The people of the country have a right to demand an embargo on exports of coal till the urgent needs of the United States are provided for" said Mr. Rogers. "Congress ought to take immediate action.' Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has a similar bill before the senate.

There are now underway informal negotiations between various factions of the shipping bill program, to get an agreement under which debate may be limited. There is also an attempt being made to modify and change the bill in some details by which certain senators may be drawn into the supporting line, who are now opposing the passage of the bill. There are apparently votes enough to pass the measure if it can be brought to a vote, but with scarcely more than a month left of the 67th congress a filibuster sufficient to kill the bill would be an easy matter. Senator McNary, republican, has introduced amendments under which reductions of proposed government aid to passenger liners and increased payments to freight carriers are features. There are also changes in time of payments and other details by which Mr. McNary hopes to gain support of the bill, or perhaps it would be better to say, hopes to keep down the spoken opposition and so decrease the chances of a killing filibuster. As soon as farm credits are out of the way administration leaders intend to press the shipping bill vigorously, for it is regarded as a certainty the appropriation bills will all pass in due time for adjournment March 4th.

The 4th of March falls on Sunday, so it is not improbable the adjournment will take place before midnight Saturday, the 3rd, if the business of the congress is completed so far as it will be possible to complete

Senators and members who have been here almost continuous for the past dozen or fifteen years of long sessions and extra sessions are as anxious as school boys to start for home and the long vacation that is in view, if no extra session is made necessary between March 4th and December 3rd when the 68th congress automatically convenes.

If little Seymore Rechtzeit sings loud enough, and long enough and to the right folks, his mother will unquestionably be permitted to come across the ocean and join his father and himself, even though the quota from Poland has been exhausted. Little Seymore has a remarkable voice, and this week showed up in Washington, coming over from New York, where he is in a Hebrew kindergarten. He wants his mother and the 9-year-old youngster sang to the immigration committee, after he had pleaded with them. He sang his way right into the hearts of the committee, and it's pretty safe to guess the boy's mother will be permitted to join him soon. The boy has made money enough by his voice to see that she is provided for when she arrives.

Senator Brandegee has had a slight attack of the grip which has been very prevalent here, but is now practically recovered.

Senator McLean has been in charge of the banking and currency bills and is also one of the conferees on the Kellogg bill one clause of which is designed to validate collections already made in certain states under state taxation of national banking corporations.

"Shall a woman congressman be required to make the official calls required of wives of members, or shall she be required to make the official calls required of members themselves? Or shall she be put in a class by herself and a new code of social rules be framed for her especial benefit?" The matter may seem simple to folks far away, but to those who know how strictly social precedence is observed here, the question is of such magnitude that it has already been taken to the very doors of the state department, where officials are supposed to hold social precedence in the hollow of their hands, and mark out the path Washington official society shall tread. These gentlemen are silent on the subject, and are said to have parried it when it was sprung on them.

Although the old days of general calls has passed, there is still much form and ceremony in the matter of official visits. This is necessary in a city where political, army, navy, congressional, diplomatic and residential "sets" some time mingle and sometimes hold aloof. And just where a woman senator is congressman comes in, is second only to Coue's formula.

DOCTOR'S ORDERS

The lady with the severe nose and unsheltered ears in the row behind leaned forward suddenly, sniffed and then leaned back with an expression of unbelief. Regaining her breath, she whispered to her companion with the retiring chin. He, too, leaned forward, eyes wide, and sat back, shaking his head.

"Something," said the gentleman with the retiring chin indignantly, "should be done about it. But I don't seem to smell it!"

"He was quick about it," explained the lady aggrievedly. "Neither could I. He just pulled the bottle out, uncorked it, took a drink and then put it back. I suppose he thinks with the lights turned down this way nobody can see him! He'll get arrested right here and we'll be dragged in as witnesses, and all that company coming tomorrow, and everything! Aren't you going to do anything about it, Augustus?"

"You're spoiling the play for me," the gentleman with the retiring chin told her irritably. "I shall speak to the management in the intermission, if he does it again!"

"He did it!" the severe lady gasped a minute later in vast excitement. The middle aged man in front of her rested his head on his hand and his elbow on the chair arm when he completed his swallow. "I hope he doesn't fall out of his chair," she gasped.

When the lights went up in the intermission she nudged the irritated gentleman until he arose and wandered out, meeting a nervous usher.

"Say," began the irritated man, "guy right in front of us is swallowing liquor from his hip pocket, and as a peace-loving and law-abiding citizen I protest!"

"Gee!" said the usher unsertainly. "Whaddiew expect me to do about it?" he inquired in injured tones. "Is he a big guy?"

"Immense," said the informer positively.

"I'll tell the head usher," brightened the nervous usher. "What's he do to earn his salary, anyhow, I'd like to know! Come on!"

"Huh!" said the head usher. "Lemme see him!"

The three tiptoed back to a position of vantage. Even as they stared the middle aged man was seen to take a quick look around, extract the bottle and a swallow from it.

"There!" cried the irritated gentleman triumphantly.

"Gee!" breathed the nervous usher.

"Er-r-r-hum!" the head usher coughed. "I shall speak to the manager at once! Come on!"

"Where is he?" whispered the worried manager.

"There!" said the irritated gentleman. "Right in front of my wife—can't you see him? He must have swallowed nearly all the bottleful by now and if you want any evidence you've got to act quick!"

Heaving a sigh, the manager pussyfooted down the aisle and touched the middle aged man on the shoulder. He whispered in his ear.

Everybody looked around. The perspiring manager conveyed the information that the middle-aged man was wanted outside. He obediently arose and clumped out after his captor. He followed until in the deserted corridor they met the others.

"Sorry," the manager said then. "But you can't drink here! Can't have the show ruined! Police, you know! Better give it up peaceably!" He indicated the guilty hip pocket.

"Gin!" said the irritated man sternly.

"It's that there Chinese rice wine!" declared the nervous usher.

"Doesn't smell!" objected the worried manager who had uncorked it.

"Say, doggone you!" exploded the middle-aged man, reaching for the bottle without any ceremony. "Whatchu mean, anyhow? That's water, plain water! I wanted to see this show and the dentist told me this afternoon to keep ice on a congested jaw and I couldn't carry a ton of ice to the theater, could I? So I brought a bottle of cold water! Cold water, understand?"

"Well, can you beat that!" said the nervous usher.—Exchange.

Wives of Famous Men

Mathilde Mirat, wife of Heinrich Heine.

A marriage of tears and laughter, of joys and despairs, but a happy marriage withal, was that of Heinrich Heine, great German poet, writer of "The Loreley," and Mathilde Mirat, a beautiful, though unintellectual Parisienne. The keynote of this marriage was the spirit of youth and play. Mathilde was humorous, and a sense of humor was among the poet's strong points. Therefore, she was in a constant state of wonder over his queer jokes. He treated her very much as a child, and would say to her, "You must be beaten today," and proceed to mete out playful blows in punishment for her various little misdeeds.

Physically, she was much stronger than Heine, who was a very sick man, but she always took his "beatings" seriously or pretended to, and call loudly for help, usually ending by weeping, prostrated on the floor.

He teased her continually, although it is plain that he loved her devotedly, despite the fact that she did not appreciate his art in the least. As a matter of fact, it is said by commentators that she never read any of his poems. But he did not resent this, it amused him rather.

Once he expressed a wish that she remarry in the event of his death. Asking why, he said that he wanted at least one man to lament his death.

"Have your jest, my dear," was her undisturbed reply, "but you know you cannot do without me." And it was true. Her simplicity of mind seemed to rest his overworked brain, and her faith in the ultimate recovery of his health spurred him in his efforts to justify her assurance. She was invincibly cheerful, and there is no doubt that this attitude did much to help him fight his long battle with death. And there was no question of his recognition of this fact. In his will Mathilde was the sole beneficiary and in leaving her his estate Heine wrote: "I leave everything to my wife, Mathilde Crescence Heine (nee Mirat), who, as true and loyal as she is beautiful, has cheered my existence."

Today's Anniversaries

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Roland W. Boyden, whose operations as "unofficial observer" on the reparations commission seem to have caused some friction between the United States senate and the state department, was appointed to his post by President Wilson and retained in the same capacity by President Harding. Mr. Boyden is a native of Beverly, Mass., a former Harvard athlete, and prominent in Boston as a lawyer and financier. He figured prominently in the various international financial conferences at Spa and other centers in the highly taxing background work necessary in determining the amount and apportionment of the German war indemnity. Once before he was in the public eye of the nation when, in 1917, about a year before the close of the war, he was called to Washington to become a member of the legal staff of the United States Food administration and to direct prosecutions under the food laws.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Making Correct Return

Arrival of the period for filing income tax returns—January 1 to March 15, 1923—presents to American citizens and residents the question "Am I required to file a return?" and "How shall I be assured of making a correct return?"

To every person who last year filed a return will be sent a form for making a return of income for the year 1922—Form 1040A for reporting net income of $5,000 and less, and Form 1040 for reporting net income in excess of $5,000. Careful study of the instructions on these forms will solve many difficulties which, at first glance, may seem perplexing.

As a further aid, the Bureau of Internal revenue has prepared a series of newspaper statements based on the latest ruling and decisions governing the administration of the revenue act. Answers to the questions, which from the bureau's correspondence during the last year appear perplexing, will be presented daily. Taxpayers are advised to preserve these articles as they appear, in order that when they begin preparation of their returns they may have before them a comprehensive summary of the requirements of the revenue act.

The tax is imposed upon net income, which is gross income less certain specified deductions for business expenses, losses, bad debts, etc., to be fully explained later. Single person may substract from net income, before calculating the normal tax, an exemption of $1,000. The exemptions for married persons and heads of families are $2,500 on incomes of $5,000 or less and $2,000 on incomes in excess of $5,000.

Taxpayers are allowed, also, an additional credit of $400 for each person dependent upon them for chief support, if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective.

Requirement to file income tax return rests upon every single person whose net income for 1922 was $1,000 or more or and upon every married person whose net income was $2,000 or more or whose gross income was $5,000 or more, regardless of whether or not the income is taxable. For example a man and wife with two children 12 and 14 years old had a net income for 1923 of $2,700. Their exemptions and credits amount to $3,300. A single man whose net income was $1,800 supports in his home an aged mother. His exemption is $2,500 as the head of a family, plus a $400 credit for a dependent. In both cases returns must be filed, though the incomes are not taxable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Scouts to Help and Include All Birds

Mr. Editor: The sugestion of Mr. Ives in The Bulletin today relative to the feeding of the game birds is a good one, and the Boy Scouts are requested to cooperate with the Norwich Fish and Game association. The Scouts would include all birds, and would ask the help of all "in doing a good turn" and save the birds from starvation.

CHILD TRAINING

That Little Margin.

By Mrs. Nestor Noel.

The whole day is crowded with work. We try to do twenty hours' work in sixteen hours, and we arrange our days so that there is not any time for interruptions. We race the children off to school, and then we give ourselves to the day's work. When they come back, we tell them "to get out of the way and not bother us; we have enough to do." Then, when they are safe in bed, we bring out the huge mending basket and tackle that! At last worn out, we, retire, only to begin the same hard life all over again There is no relaxation, no pleasure in such a life.

Children are afraid to come to us with their broken dolls and their cut fingers, because they will interrupt our work! What kind of a home is this, where Work reigns supreme as a kind of Tyrant and there is no room for love?

A mother who really loves her children and loves to be with them could not tolerate such a life. If she has twelve hours in a day, she will plan eleven or even ten hours' work, and leave a margin over for the children. Her windows may not be quite so shiny, and perhaps, no one will want to eat off her kitchen floor; but she will not be a nervous, worn-out wreck at forty and her children will be happier.

One should leave a margin for a rest, another margin for recreation and a third for her children. This last is the most important of all. What kind of a life do children have, when their mothers have not even time for a kiss?

I like to imagine a family where the mother is everything to her children and they are not afraid of interrupting her. When the children come back from school, they are longing to "tell Mother" all the little happenings of their day. They want to tell her the joys and the sorrows, the pleasures and the pain. Perhaps, one child fell down and got a bruise. It may not hurt very much. Still, if mother knew it would feel better at once! The teacher may have been cross, then Mother would explain that perhaps she had a headache, and the child would return to school the next day, without dreading it. It might be a prize was won. Now, what use is a prize, if mother does not take pride in it?

I once knew a woman whose children seemed to me to be interrupting her from morning to night! She was never even ruffled! At her busiest moments, they would rush in and need all her attention.

"How do you ever get your work done?" I asked.

"I never even notice their interruptions," she said. "You see, I always leave a margin in my time. This margin belongs to my children. If all I plan is not done; does it matter so much after all? There is to-morrow. Even if there were no to-morrow, what then? We owe ourselves to our children."

It was quite true, I thought, and she made a most excellent mother.

If we made friends of our children, their society would never bore us. Those women are lucky who have time to spare for their children. We can and must make the time, even if we have to neglect a little work. Do let us resolve that, from this moment, we shall so arrange our work that the children may have, not merely "a little margin," but a good, big margin of our time!

GOV'T MAY AVOID DEFICIT DURING THE FISCAL YEAR

Washington, Jan. 29.—Representatives of the government's "business organization" assembled for consideration of the budget problems, were told today in a message from President Harding that for the first time since the fiscal year 1916 the nation's income and outgo probably would balance at the end of the current fiscal year on June 30. The president's message, delivered by Vice President Coolidge announced that instead of a deficit of $698,000,000 estimated at the beginning of the fiscal year, the economy drive had ten days ago forced a reduction to $92,000,000.

Mr. Harding urged a continuation of the efforts at curtailing expenditures and eliminating waste, declaring that by such continued attention would the balanced budget be realized on June 30. Supplementing the president's plea, Brigadier General Lord, director of the budget, called on all government workers to subordinate local, departmental or sectional requirements to the greater good of the whole people, admonishing the officials that "U. S." means the United States and not "Us."

General Lord reported that the final estimate of expenditures for the current fiscal year surveyed January 15, was $4,814,954,152, while the forecast of receipts on the same day was $3,-481,904,569. This leaves, he pointed out, a deficit of slightly more than $92,000,000, and he expressed the belief that with five months of the fiscal year ahead in which to cut away less than one-fifth of the amount eliminated in the excess expenditures in the first months of the twelve month period, the deficit could be eliminated. He declared, however, in this connection, that "the tireless, unremitting efforts of the president to accomplish the result must have the support of every public servant."

General Lord's speech carried evidence in support of statements in the president's message that results were only now becoming apparent. He reviewed the work of the various agencies subordinate to the budget bureau, showing how thousands of dollars were cut from estimates here and there, and millions in some instances were lopped off of the original figures by those intent on making the nation pay as it goes.

The administration's economy program alone has not been entirely responsible for the showing which now seems to warrant definite statements of a balanced budget this year, the general said. He pointed to increasing collections of revenue under the drive for back taxes by Commissioner Blair, of the internal revenue and greater customs receipts from duties levied in the new tariff act. More highly specialized handling of all the government's revenue sources, he added, have also brought in funds.

While expressing satisfaction at the accomplishments of his subordinates in the direction of saving government funds, and declaring that most of the means of curtailment had been exhausted, President Harding suggested that potention reduction remain which, if taken advantage of will bring realization of a balanced budget. He said the executive departments had not only accomplished a great saving without impairing their effective operation, but had shown an actual increase in efficiency.

"When the spirit of real economy has permeated the entire rank and file of the public service," the president continued and the use of time and supplies is regarded as a public trust, many of our problems will be solved."

New Haven—Marion Winnick, 20, of 26 York street, was arrested by Detective Sergeant James P. Ward on charges of theft and practicing the profession of nursing without a certificate. She was placed under $500 bonds.

Freedom from constipation, mild or chronic, can be surely looked for if you will eat Kellogg's Bran every day! Two tablespoonfuls are sufficient; for severe cases with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is nature's most wonderful food awaiting a chance to bring back your health. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation and it will do that.

Being cooked and krumbled, Kellogg's Bran is delicious in its nut-like flavor. It should not be confused with common bran which is unpalatable and hard to eat. Kellogg's Bran adds greatly to the pleasure of eating other hot or cold cereals. A popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran is to cook it with hot cereals. In preparation, add two tablespoonfuls of Bran for each person, mixing it with the cereal to be cooked.

Kellogg's Bran is especially delicious in raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes appear on each package.

Realize what Kellogg's Bran is doing for constipation sufferers all over the nation, then just think what it can do for you and yours. The horrors to come should guide you to eat bran regularly, to serve it in some form each day.

You can drive constipation out of your family with Kellogg's Bran—and remove the cause of 90% of human illness! First-class hotels and clubs serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers

CONTAGION DEATH RATE WAS LESS IN STATE

Figures from the state department of health show that during the past year 40 fewer persons died from scarlet fever than in 1921, six fewer from typhoid fever than in the previous year and there were 54 fewer deaths from whooping cough. Besides this improved health record the death rate from pulmonary tuberculosis was lower, though the actual number of deaths increased and the state maintained its remarkably low death rate in diphtheria cases. In 1921 Connecticut had the lowest death rate from diphtheria in its history and in the eastern section of the United States. Although the rate increased slightly in 1922 it was kept down to the unusually low rate of 12.7.

The significance of these figures is seen when a comparison is made with the diphtheria death rate in other states. The 1921 figures are New York, 16.1; Massachusetts, 15.6; Illinois, 22; Indiana, 24; Michigan, 25, and Pennsylvania, 22.

The reason for this changed condition in Connecticut was attributed by State Commissioner of Health Stanley H. Osborn to the fact that parents are now calling in a physician more promptly than they used to do and especially to the fact that the state legislature of 1921 appropriated sufficient money so that antitoxin is now available in all towns of the state with the local health officer as distribution agent.

Measles have been epidemic in Connecticut for several months. Deaths have increased with the number of cases but the records of the state department show that percentage remains the same. About one in every hundred cases proves fatal.

Scarlet fever killed 62 persons in this state last year and 102 the year before. The 1922 death rate per 100,000 population was 4.3 compared with 7.2 in 1921.

In 1919 there were six cases of smallpox in the state and no deaths resulting while in 1922 there were 447 cases and six deaths.

The health department records show that this sudden and large increase was due to the fact that smallpox got started in Bridgeport, where children in the schools had not been vaccinated. From Bridgeport the disease spread to about 20 other towns.

The death rate from pulmonary tuberculosis has been decreased from 103.4 in 1920 to 83.4 in 1921 and 82.8 in 1922. There were 1,605 cases reported in 1922 and of these 1,199 were fatal.

The state health department records show that this decrease in the death rate is due in large measure to the efficient work of local health officers and physicians, the state tuberculosis commission's activities and to the work of local tuberculosis associations. Connecticut is one of the few states showing a continued reduction in deaths from typhoid fever the past three years. The death rate has been reduced from 4.2 per hundred thousand population in 1920 to 3.4 in 1921 and 3 in 1922. There were 315 cases in 1922 and 43 deaths.

Miss Emeline Kieran of New London and Charles Chapel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chapel of Montville, were married Monday morning at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, New London, by the Rev. Father Joseph N. Raniszewski officiating. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus T. Kessler, 50 Addison street.

Miss Kieran wore a gown of dark blue silk with picture hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Edward J. Donyille of Montville was best man. Miss Margaret Kessler of New London was the bride's only attendant. She wore blue satin and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapel will reside in Montville, where the former is employed.

NEW JERSEY AUTO STOLEN IN NEW YORK STREET FOUND IN NIANTIC

State Policemen M. R. Sterling and C. M. Gingras, who had been working for some time on the case of a 1922 Ford sedan, which had been stolen from a New Jersey man, seized the car Sunday at Niantic, where it was in the possession of H. M. Swinney, who is connected with the Niantic Lumber Co.

Swinney had bought the car Jan. 5, 1923, from Thomas A. Rodden of 42 Tilley street, New London, and 844 Main street, Bridgeport. Seizure of the car was followed by the arrest of Rodden on the charge of receiving stolen property. It is suspected that Rodden is implicated in the wholesale stealing of Ford automobiles for which the police have made several arrests in Bridgeport, where Goldy Bros. and a man named Singer are charged with being the heads of a band of automobile thieves.

Rodden was presented in the New London police court Monday morning and the case was continued until Feb. 10 under bonds of $750 which were furnished by Charles J. Ducy.

The car which Rodden sold to Swinney for about $460 is alleged by the state police to be one belonging to C. M. Ehrlich of Spring Lake, N. J., which was stolen from the corner of 53rd street and Broadway, New York, on Sept. 10, 1922. The car had its owner's initials on the side and these are still discernible. It is claimed, although the car has been painted over. The engine number has also been altered, it is claimed, and the way it was done indicates that the ob can be credited to Singer, according to the state police. The number is in the six millions. The first and last figures remain as they originally were but the five middle figures have been altered.

State Policeman John Tracy has taken the car to Hartford where Mr. Ehrlich will look it over today (Tuesday) in an attempt to identify it.

Attorney George Curtis Morgan, counsel for Rodden, stated that Rodden was entirely innocent in the case, that he had purchased the car in good faith, and knew nothing of its having been stolen. Rodden is alleged to have admitted having bought a number of cars from Goldy Bros. and Singer in Bridgeport, principals in the Bridgeport round-up and to have re-sold the cars. Rodden alleges, however, that he had no suspicion at the time of purchase that the cars were stolen property.

Four second-hand Ford sedans and three coupes are said to have been sold by Rodden, one in Waterford, one in Lyme and the others in New London, and all have been checked up by the state police but without finding anything upon which they could make a charge against Rodden until they came to this city.

WINE BARRELS, PRESS, AND MOONSHINE SEIZED

Two barrels of wine, containing a total of 84 gallons, a wine press, and a 5 gallon jug containing what is alleged to be moonshine whiskey were transported to police headquarters Monday evening about 10 o'clock, after a raid at the store and dwelling of Anthony Zigarelle, 29 Roath street.

Zigarelle was arrested but soon secured his release when a $300 cash bond was put up for his appearance in police court this (Tuesday) morning.

Sergeant John H. Kane, with Officers Charles Ebberta, John Carroll, P. Murphy, Charles McFadden and Al Lamphere, conducted the successful raid, going to the place in the auto patrol wagon and reaching the store without being observed except by a boy who was seen to run into the store as the machine came to a stop nearby.

The barrels and press were found in the cellar, the jug in a clothes closet and a bottle of moonshine in a cupboard over the sink.

According to the police, Zigarelle said that one of the barrels contained 48 gallons of grape wine made about a month ago and the other had 29 gallons of raisin wine made about a week ago.

The press was filled with the pulp for making raisin wine.

When the amount of the seizure was reported to Capt. D. J. Twomey at police headquarters he secured Joslin's truck to bring the barrels and the other articles away from the Zigarelle place.

TESTIMONY OF DOCTORS TO CLOSE PLAINTIFF'S CASE

Trial of the suit of Mrs. Mary A. Bates of Preston, executrix, against George W. Carroll of this city for $25,000 damages for the death of her husband after an automobile accident on the Jewett City road, will be continued in the superior court here this (Tuesday) morning before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury.

When the trial adjourned last week Thursday the attorneys for Mrs. Bates stated that they had two more witnesses before closing their case. These were to be Dr. Paul F. Gadle and Dr. J. W. Callahan, the former having been called to attend Mr. Bates at the time of the accident and the latter some time later.

After Attorneys A. M. Brown and Telley E. Babcock close the case for the plaintiff, Attorney A. W. Broder will call his witnesses for the defendant, and it is expected his evidence will all be put in in one day.

The accident happened on the Jewett City road on Oct. 24, 1920, when it is claimed the Carroll car cut in ahead of the Bates car, which Mrs. Bates was driving, hitting the left front hub cap and causing the Bates car to upset.

WORKING ENVELOPE TRICK IN CITIES OF STATE

Slick swindlers are at work around the state with the old envelope trick. The slick chap goes into a store hatless and coatless and informs the clerk that he wants $20 in exchange for some change, his wife wishing to forward the bill to a relative through the mail. When the clerk counts the change he discovers there is only $18 or $19 instead of $20.

While the clerk is counting the change the stranger cunningly slips the envelope containing the $20 bill into his pocket and as quietly and inconspicuously produces another envelope already sealed but containing only paper. Seemingly annoyed by the discovery of the clerk that the change is shy a dollar or two, the stranger remarks he will immediately call his wife to task for being so careless and tossing the envelope on the counter he asks the clerk to hold it until he brings the correct amount of change. The stranger then scoops up the change and leaves the store never to return.

FORTY TABLES PLAY AT CATHOLIC COUNCIL WHIST

Connecticut Council of Catholic Women gave a very successful whist Monday evening at the Buckingham Memorial at which about 40 tables were played. The prizes were given as follows: William H. Bowen, Miss Molly McIntyre, Mrs. James Manning, Mrs. Joseph Moran, James Purdon, Mrs. M. V. Murphy, Mrs. Mary McGarity.

The successful affair was in charge of the following committee: Mrs. Joseph E. Burns, chairman; Mrs. P. J. Hattersby, Mrs. William T. Browne, Mrs. John W. Bowne, Mrs. Henry D. Buckley, Mrs. Maurice J. Buckley, Miss Nellie O'Hearn, Miss Elisabeth Buckley.

LATHROP TWIN BROTHERS REACH AGE OF 81

Elijah, who has lived for over 40 years on his farm at the lake, had the day observed by a postal card shower through which many of his relatives and friends reminded him of the anniversary, while several friends called on him.

Both men are well and vigorous and have the wishes of their friends for many more anniversaries.

FOURTEEN AUTO DRIVERS SUMMONED TO HEARING

Fourteen automobile drivers have been warned by the automobile commissioner to appear at the court house in New London at 1.30 o'clock Friday afternoon to answer to various charges of motor law violations. The list is as follows:

Rudolph Erickson, 11 Bath street, Norwich, intoxication.

Gyeguse Memmik, Danielson, intoxication.

Charles Gordon, Killingly, overloading.

Also the following conferences:

Rosa Moran, Chaplin, one conviction, two accidents.

Jesse M. Burgess, 23 Farrows St., Putnam, one conviction, three accidents.

H. H. O'Neil, 121 Broad street, New London, three accidents.

John Ryan, Putnam, two convictions, one accident.

STATE FUEL SITUATION IS UP FOR HEARING

The Connecticut fuel situation will be reviewed in detail both from the coal dealers' standpoint and consumers' points of view at a public hearing in the state capital at 1.30 this (Tuesday) afternoon. The hearing will be held before the legislative judiciary committee with Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham and Speaker Leonard H. Nickerson sitting with the committee by special invitation.

Senator Arthur P. Ells of Waterbury is senate chairman of the judiciary committee and representative John Buckley of Union is house chairman. The other members are: Senator Frank L. Wilder of Bridgeport; Representatives Daniel M. Cronin of New London, Elbert L. Darbie of Killingly, Benjamin W. Alling of New Britain, Frederick A. Hubbard of Greenwich, George R. Sturges of Woodbury, J. Mortimer Bell of Salisbury, Raymond A. Johnson of Manchester and Edward L. Kelly of Colchester.

The report being prepared by Superintendent Robert T. Hurley, of the Connecticut state police following an investigation of the coal situation in Connecticut, probably will be submitted to Governor Charles A. Templeton at once. It is understood that it will show certain delays in coal transportation. Chief Hurley said Monday that he would welcome complaints from householders all over Connecticut who have trouble in securing coal from their dealers.

SELECTING CHAIRMAN FOR SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

In anticipation of the coming Salvation Army campaign to raise $13,000 for their building fund and $3,000 for their local budget, a conference meeting was held Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms by citizens interested in the campaign.

The principal topic of discussion was the selection of a chairman for the intensive drive from Feb 23 to March 3. Mayor Milo R. Waters, H. M. Lerou and W. A. Nicol, regional campaign director, were appointed a committee on the appointment of a chairman.

Headquarters for the drive will be opened at 10 Cliff street, which is the building upon which the Army has an option until February 1. There will be a strong woman's organization for the drive, which will be under the leadership of Mrs. Eben Learned.

Those attending the meeting were H. M. Lerou, who was chairman, Mayor Waters, J. C. Macpherson, A. G. Peale, Eben Learned, Robert McNeely, Edmund W. Perkins, C. Edward Smith, C. J. Twist, Mrs. Lucius Briggs and Mrs. Walter T. Camp.

Meeting for Shut-ins.

A meeting for shut-ins, which is to be addressed by Rev. York A. King, is to be held this (Tuesday) afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock at the Central Baptist church. Automobiles will be available to bring the shut-ins to church and take them home again after the meeting.

The committee in charge of transportation is Mrs. C. W. Burton, Mrs. C. W. Gale and Carl Breed.

Ledgers Take Refuge from Cold.

The cold weather of Monday night drove the drifters to take refuge in lodgings at police headquarters. Every cell was filled by 9.30 o'clock and in some cases there were two in a cell after that. Of the sixteen lodgers given quarters, the oldest was 62 and the youngest 19.

Torrington—Michael F. Dwyer, who is an officer of the state organization, was elected president of Padraic Pearse branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, at the annual meeting held in Ashborn hall. Mr. Dwyer is one of the most enthusiastic workers in the cause of Connecticut.

Nelson B. Crandall.

Nelson Billings Crandall, retired contractor and builder, having been in business with his father, the late Lewis Crandall for many years, died Monday morning in his home in New London, following two weeks' illness from complication of diseases.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, John C., Attorney Lewis, and Robert Crandall, a daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Rose, two brothers, Herbert L., and Fitch D. Crandall and a sister, Mrs. Edmund D. Barker.

Miss Sarah Becker.

Miss Sarah Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Becker, formerly of 77 John street, New London, and now of Washington, D. C., was buried on Sunday in the Jewish cemetery in Waterford. Miss Becker died Friday night in Washington. She was a graduate of Williams Memorial Institute and was well known in New London. She was injured in an automobile accident last summer and never recovered.

Mrs. Harry J. Converse.

Mrs. Harry J. Converse, daughter of Daniel C. and the late Lottie R. (Slocum) Wetmore, died Saturday night at Stratford. She had been in poor health for more than a year but was apparently no worse than usual on Saturday, until she was stricken and died in a very short time. She was born in New London 36 years ago. She is survived by her husband, her father, two brothers, Herbert V. Wetmore, U. S. N., now at Constantinople, Ralph W. Wetmore of New London, an uncle, Walter M. Slocum, and several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Albert Williams.

Mrs. Ella A. Williams, wife of Albert Williams of New London, died at 5 o'clock Monday morning at her home, following two weeks' illness. Death was due to her advanced years. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Charles and Bertis Williams of New London, three daughters, Mrs. Henry R. Tisdale, Mrs. G. A. Williams, Miss Alice Williams of New London, a brother, John L. Daniels of Montville.

Mrs. Irving W. Stark.

Ida E. Sherman, wife of Irving W. Stark, died Sunday evening at her home, 364 Washington street. Mrs. Stark was born in Lebanon Dec. 1, 1864, the daughter of Clark B. and Abby Mumford Sherman. On Feb. 28, 1883, she was united in marriage with Irving Winslow Stark at Lebanon. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. W. Humphrey Almy, both of this city; also a brother, Rev. Robert H. Sherman, of South Glastonbury, and several nieces and nephews.

She was a loving and devoted wife and mother and her death leaves a vacancy that can never be filled.

She was a member of the Congregational church in Lebanon Center and the news of her death will come as a shock to her many friends.

Mrs. Alvin C. Bentley

On January 26th, Anna M. Waterhouse, beloved wife of Alvin C. Bentley, formerly of this city, died at her home in Woodmont, near New Haven, aged 70 years.

She was born in Plattsburg, N. Y., and later lived in Lakewood, N. J., where she was married to Mr. Bentley, a native of Norwich. Mr. Bentley was a printer by trade and now is retired and is a pensioner of the International Typographical Union.

Mrs. Bentley is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mabel Elizabeth Bentley, who lives at home, a son, George Bentley, who holds a responsible position with the Elgin Watch company, also brothers and other relatives.

During her residence in Norwich Mrs. Bentley made many friends, who knew her to be kindly and helpful, a loving mother and true wife.

Andrew Ward Gailey.

After a lengthy illness, Andrew Ward Gailey, formerly of Norwich, died January 26th at Washington, D. C. Mr. Gailey had completed a course in the Seamen's Naval School at Washington, had passed all examinations and was ready for promotion when he suddenly became ill and despite all efforts to save him steadily became weaker until the end Friday.

Mr. Gailey was born in Norwich April 14, 1891, the son of Annie E. Ward Gailey and the late Samuel Edward Gailey, and received his early education in schools in this city. He joined the boys' choir of Christ Episcopal church and later became a member of the Episcopal church choir in Washington.

When a young man he entered the United States Naval Reserve and after the completion of his term was kept in the reserve force. In April 1917 when the United States entered the war he returned to the navy and became a range finder on the U. S. S. Wyoming, serving with that battleship in the grand fleet during the war. For his record in the navy he was given opportunity to go with other selected men to the Seamen's Naval School at Washington, D. C.

He is survived by his mother and a sister, Mrs. Horace S. Gallager of Washington, D. C., and other relatives living in this city.

Mr. Gailey, while residing in Norwich, made many friends. He was a likable young man, willing to give aid wherever it was needed, and true friend. News of his death comes as a shock to his many friends in Norwich and his family have their sympathy in their time of deep sorrow, in the loss of a son, brother and loved one.

Charles F. Bartlett.

One of the best known citizens of Montville, Charles F. Bartlett, died suddenly Monday morning at 1.10 o'clock at his home from pulmonary hemorrhage.

Mr. Bartlett had been a sufferer from asthma for a long time but was in his usual health Sunday. The sudden hemorrhage came on in the night and he died before a doctor could be secured.

He was born in East Killingly 66 years ago, but had lived in Montville for many years. He was superintendent of the Pequot mill for several years, conducted a store for a considerable period and of late has been employed in the office of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. He had served the town as a member of the board of school visitors.

He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Rufus Hurlbutt and Mrs. Irving Hurlbutt of Gales Ferry, and Mrs. Robert Townshend of this place. He also leaves a son, Harold, who is in Colorado.

Mr. Bartlett had a wide acquaintance with the people of Montville and his sudden death will be the cause of sincere regret.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Monday morning at his home in Oneechaville the death of Charles F. Bartlett occurred. His was a native of Killingly but has lived in Uncasville and vicinity for the past 40 years, being engaged in clerical capacities for various employers. His last work was in the stock room of the Eastern Connecticut Power company at Norwich.

Mr. Bartlett was born Sept. 27, 1854, a son of Waldo and Mary (Cowell) Bartlett. He leaves his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Rufus Hurlburt, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlburt, both of Gales Ferry, Mrs. Robert Townsend of Waterford; a son, Harold Bartlett, of Hartford, this state, and a brother, R. S. Bartlett, of Norwich.

An important affair among the social events of the scholastic year at Killingly High school is scheduled for Friday evening of this week, when the junior promenade is to be held. Admission is to be by invitation. This is a social in which members of the senior class are particularly interested, but it also is of special importance to all members of the student body and to the alumni. The dance is to be held in the assembly hall of the high school.

Moosup now has regular bus service to and from Providence, as was announced in this column some time since would be undertaken in the near future. The service was inaugurated last Saturday and is to be regularly maintained hereafter, providing, of course, those who are financially interested can make a go of the undertaking.

That the line will earn a profit for its owners seems likely. Its routing is from Moosup through Sterling via Almyville to Fairbanks Hill, thence over what people in this territory call the Race Cliff state highway through Hopeville, Rockland and other communities to Providence. Here is more or less hard transportation facilities for the traveling public brought about by cessation of service on the one hand and the urge of a new and important mode of transportation on the other.

The Moosup-Providence line starts a service unit ahead of another bus line that is to operate between Danielson and Providence and for which the necessary permits have been made available.

Inaugurating of the bus service between Danielson and Providence will compensate, insofar as passenger carrying accommodation is concerned, for the elimination of the Danielson and Providence trolley road, which lingered along until it was financially inexcusable to attempt longer to prolong the activity of the line.

The Moosup-Providence line seems to have been selected for an interstate route by a well known Providence concern operating passenger vehicles because of the number of villages that can be served. Its success will be watched for with interest.

Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. James' church Miss Thelma F. Gartland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Vincent Gartland of Mechanic street, and S. J. Masthay of Southington were united in marriage by Rev. John Keane, M. S., who also was celebrant of the nuptial high mass. The bride was attended by Miss Anna Masthay, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, and the best man was V. Bernard Gartland, brother of the bride. The bride was married in her traveling suit.

The wedding was attended by numbers of guests, representative of various communities hereabouts and more distant points. Following the marriage there was a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, about 50 being present.

During the day Mr. and Mrs. Masthay left for a wedding trip, after which they will return here preliminary to going to Pensacola, Fla., where Mr. Masthay is a mechanic in the naval aviation organization.

The bride received many very beautiful gifts. She is among the best known of Danielson's young women and for several years has been employed in the office of the People's Light and Power company. The many friends of the couple are wishing them every happiness.

Windham High school's basketball team will make its first appearance of the season here Friday afternoon. This particular game is scheduled for afternoon so as not to conflict with the junior promenade, which is scheduled for Friday evening of this week.

While this is not a league game, it is bound to be of special interest to patrons of high school basketball because of the fact that both Windham and Killingly contemplate sending their teams to the state conference games to be played in New Haven on dates in the early part of March.

Killingly at the present time is credited with ratting the Quinebaug Valley Basketball league, notwithstanding it has lost a game to Putnam, which also has lost but one game, and that to Killingly High. Killingly's hold on the league leadership may be strengthened if Plainfield High school protests a game in which it was defeated recently at Woodstock by the academy team. It appears that a Putnam man refereed that game and there is some talk to the effect that a league rule was violated and that Plainfield may ask to play the game over again.

However, interest for the week will center in the Killingly-Windham contest. Killingly has been showing in splendid form of late and confidence is strong here that the local team should earn another victory from the Willimantic visitors next Friday afternoon at the town hall.

Monday morning the funeral of Mrs. Gustav Borgquist was held at the Borgquist home on the state highway between Danielson and South Killingly, with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. E. Shetley, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem, attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. The body was placed in the receiving vault at Holy Cross cemetery. The bearers were Martin Wolfe, Patrick F. Murray, James Monohan and Ovid Fercier. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

Just before the close of the fishing through the ice season there is more or less satisfaction in recording for the aggravation of fishermen who like this kind of sport and who have had little opportunity to indulge it this winter on account of the heavy snows that have covered bodies of water throughout the winter, that Killingly men figured in the taking of 70 pickerel that weighed 30 pounds at the week end.

Very naturally every fisherman who is hungry for an outing on the ice before the close of the season, which is pressing close at hand, will want to know where the fish came from. Well, that must continue to remain a secret, but the fish were caught and members of people saw the string and got all "het" up over the fact that the largest pickered in the catch weighed 4 pounds and 7 ounces and that two others weighed well over 3 pounds each.

All of which may be taken as indicating that ice fishing would have produced real satisfaction this winter if weather conditions were such as to permit of going out when things were right for the sport.

This evening at the rooms of the Girls' club in the Exchange block, Prof. H. W. Lawrence of Connecticut college will deliver a lecture on Borough and City Government as a feature of a course of lectures on civic matters arranged jointly by the Civic federation and the young woman's organization. Prof. Lawrence occupies the chair of political economy and history at Connecticut college and is an authority who will have much of value to present to those who hear him.

A feature of his lecture this evening will be a discussion of direct primaries as opposed to caucuses, and those who like will have an opportunity for a quiz on any point that may occur to them in considering this election proposition in this country.

Sunday brought demonstrations that Sunday's storm didn't amount to anything insofar as interrupting traffic hereabouts was concerned. Trains, trolleys, buses and all other vehicles got about practically upon schedule time Monday. The last of the snowfalls to date was light and easily brushed aside or trampled down.

And considering matters pertaining strictly to winter, mention may be made here of letters and pictures that are coming through telling of real illustrating the kind of season that northern New England is getting. When one looks at a picture showing a highway buried under four to five feet of snow or roads of Waterville, Me., blockaded to even a greater depth, one may be more or less complacent over the heretofore mean stretch of weather and the snowstorms that January has produced in southern New England.

A. F. Wood was in Uncasville Monday on a business trip.

Thomas J. Aylward was at Waterbury to attend the McKinley banquet at the Hotel Elton Saturday evening.

PUTNAM

Here is another chapter in the new famous V-V romance, as it has been called since it first came to the attention of the general public during the past year, and has been of particular interest because of the fact that the present Mrs. Vonsiatsky formerly was Mrs. Marion Buckingham Ream Stephens, whose father, Norman B. Ream, multi-millionaire, was a resident of Thompson, where he built the magnificent Carolyn Hall, where Mrs. Vonsiatsky spent much of her time, frequently visiting in Putnam, where she has been a familiar figure in the past.

Mme. Liobouf Mouromsky Vonsiatsky arrived here from Paris yesterday on the Bremgaria to fight for her rights as the first wife of Anastase Andreivitch Vonsiatsky-Vonsiatsky. The authorities of the Russian Orthodox church last month declared her marriage void and upheld the subsequent marriage of Vonsiatsky to Mrs. Marion Buckingham Ream Stephens. The first wife is now expected to open a fight in the American civil courts.

The first Mme. Vonsiatsky was accompanied by Fernand L. Freaud, as attorney. Freaud spoke only French and his client only French and Russian. They declined to discuss their visit, but the lawyer said he might have a statement to make today. Mme. Vonsiatsky is beautiful and 28 years old. A man who said he was Henry Graham, a friend of Mme. Vonsiatsky, met her at the pier and escorted her to the Hotel Brevoort.

Dispatches from Paris several months ago said that the first Mme. Vonsiatsky intended to bring an action for $500,000 damages, charging alienation of affections, against Mrs. Marion Buckingham Ream Stephens Vonsiatsky. It also was reported that she would ask the American courts to uphold her marriage. Subsequently, however, she took the matter up with the authorities of the Russian Orthodox church in this country.

The church declared her marriages performed in the cathedral at Yalta in the Crimea in 1921) null and void because it was brought about by the use of alleged false documents and because its purpose was said to be merely to give the women a husband's protection during the threatened evacuation of Yalta by the Russian soldiers.

Vonsiatsky was married to Mrs. Stephens last February in the Russian Cathedral of St. Nicholas, on Ninety-seventh street, near Fifth avenue. He is 34 years old and comes of a Polish family ennobled by Czar Nicholas I. of Russia. After serving with Kornilloff, Denikin and Kolchak against the Russian revolutionists, he went to Paris as a refugee. Through Americans he met in Paris he came here and went to work in the chemical department of the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Philadelphia at a small salary.

Mrs. Stephens, who gave her age as 45 at the time of the marriage, was the daughter of the late Norman B. Ream and was one of the principal heirs to his $40,000,000 estate. She was divorced in Chicago five years ago by her first husband, Redmond D. Stephens, on the ground of desertion.

Mr. Davis is almost as familiar a figure in the prisoner's dock as is the janitor of the building in the bailer room or wherever else duties happen to call him about the municipal building. In fact Mr. Davis has become such a periodical decoration of the pew usually occupied by the accused that it isn't really healthful for him.

Earl is a good scout. Anyone who knows him will tell you that. But he will get drunk, prohibition, the courts, jail sentences, et al, notwithstanding. Mere contemplation of a long term in jail doesn't make even a dent in the armor of his desires. He wants what he wants when he wants it—and gets it.

When Davis appeared Monday morning he was charged with having been intoxicated. After listening to the reading of the complaint Judge M. H. Geissler called the attention of the responsible court officials to the desirability of including in the papers a charge that Davis broke jail here last August—or at least made his way out of a cell at the police station without permission. This fact seems to have been unintentionally overlooked in making out the charges against the prisoner. How that happened, of course, cannot be explained.

When Judge Geissler, having obtained the insertion of the additional charge, inquired of Davis as to how the latter made his way out of a locked cell in the police station last August Davis balked. He didn't want to tell—and as a matter of fact he didn't tell, taking a jail sentence of six months rather than squeal, as he described the matter.

There is more or less curiosity as to how Davis got out.

Mrs. Ellen A. Whitmore, 80, widow of Edmond T. Whitmore, is dead at her home here. Mrs. Whitmore had been a resident of Putnam for many years. She was Miss Ellen Sheppy before her marriage. Her husband was a shoe manufacturer in this city in the years when that industry was flourishing in this section of northeastern Connecticut. Mrs. Whitmore leaves a son, Edward T. Whitmore of Williamsville and a daughter, Mrs. A. B. Williams. Mrs. James B. Tatem of this city is a granddaughter of Mrs. Whitmore's.

The death of James Henry Murray of West Woodstock occurred Monday at the home of a relative in Worcester. Mr. Murray was 64 years of age and was known all through this territory as a lover of horses and dogs. He had lived in West Woodstock for years and leaves a wife and children. The body was brought here on Monday.

Stanley Kelley, erstwhile prominent citizen of Pomfret and Woodstock, flashed into the limelight for his second weekly appearance on the front pages of New York papers on Monday morning. Mr. Kelley, as the confidential investigator of the Washington Square association, is engaged in a valorous effort to clean up Greenwich Village. According to the well informed, this is somewhat similar to invading the Ruhr with the idea of getting money where marks once grew.

The raid reported Monday morning was not so prolific of arrests as the one carried out last week and after which Mr. Kelley congratulated the officers for their efforts to make the Bohemian rendevous "a decent place for homefolks and artists to live in." Latest reports tend to indicate that the artists are standing better than the home folks.

However, the police took another shot at Cushman's Sunday night and demanded the names of all persons found therein. Proprietor Cushman mounted a table and urged the patrons of his place not to give their names, saying the officers had no right to ask them.

Then Cushman's the raiding squad went to the Jolly Friars' inn and stirred things up there. The evening's performance resulted in one arrest—that of a young man who was found to have a pint of gin in a hip pocket.

It appears, whatever the results of the raids, that Mr. Kelley is making the big town sit up and take notice. Probably he will be back here in the spring. In any event, he is expected and numbers of persons will be glad to meet him—to extend congratulations, you know.

A week-end fire at the C. S. Asdeen house on Grove street was not extinguished until after the roof had blazed near the chimney and slightly damaged. The house was not at all seriously insured by the fire.

Everett A. Elliott, a graduate of Putnam High school, is serving as a member of the committee on agriculture in the present session of the legislature. He is a member for Newington and for several years has been a member of the board of selectmen of that town.

The Connecticut company is to be congratulated on the excellence of its service on the Putnam lines—an honest to goodness winter with all kinds of trials and tribulations for those charged with keeping a trolley line in operation. Sunday's storm had practically no effect on the service. The cars ran on time as a whole. Plows were kept running up and down the line to assure the success of the service. The only pity is that the road does not get more business. It is doing everything to deserve it.

A party of fishermen made up of Fred Bruce, Jack Maynard, Fred Richard of this city and Armand Hemault of Danville brought in the finest string of pickerel seen in this city this winter. Thirty of the fish weighed 50 pounds, and to get that average one fish had to weigh 4 pounds and 7 ounces, two more upwards of three pounds each and others well over a pound. Fishermen's eyes bulged when they looked at them on display here Monday. Still a man is going to know where the fish came from by reading this column. That would be a violation of fishermen's ethics. Only those who caught the fish have a right to tell, and that right will not be violated here.

Those who are engaged in putting out food for game birds should not let down in their efforts. The need of feeding is as great now as at any time for the past five weeks. Good sports all through the game officials and are regularly supplying food for the feathered friends, that hunting may be good next fall. Peculiar indeed, though, is the fact that some of the most enthusiastic hunters are tightwads of time and money when it comes to saving the birds for another hunting season.

JEWETT CITY

A 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Mary's church a pretty wedding was solemnized when Rev. J. J. McCage, pastor of the church united in marriage, using the double ring service, Henry J. Ladieux and Mrs. Celia Cyr, the couple were attended by Miss Alma Cadieux, the groom's sister, as bride's maid and Napoleon Cyr, the bride's brother, as best man. The bride was gowned in white silk crepe with pearl trimmings and her veil was caught with pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of roses. The bride's maid wore silver gray with silver gray trimmings with hat to match and carried Ophelia roses. During the ceremony, the choir, James Olsen organist, was in attendance and Ave Maria was rendered by Mrs. Clifford Langlais, the groom's sister and O Promise Me was sung by Miss Lioza Cyr, the bride's sister.

Friends and relatives congratulated them under an arch of fancy beads and palms. There were many gifts including silverware, cut glass, gold, linen and china. The groom's gift to his bride was a purse of gold. The bride's gift to the groom was a gold fob and to the bride's maid a gold fountain pen. The best man received a gold scarf pin and the ushers gold cuff links. A gold vanity case was given Miss Lioza Cyr and a hand painted hat pin to Mrs. Clifford Langlais. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Cadieux left for their wedding tour to Springfield, Webster and New York. The bride's traveling suit was of tan serge, with hat to match. On their return they will make their home with the groom's parents on Green Street.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Xaivier Cyr and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cadieux and served in the world war. Relatives and friends attended from Webster, Springfield, Taftville, Norwich and Jewett City.

Not even a little cold is to be sneered at, because it is an infection which may easily spread through the air passages and result seriously, if you don't break it at once.

There are three mighty good points about Sterling's Vapor-Eze—it's quick—it's safe—and it's sure. Just rub it on that sore, tight chest, all around that raw, husky throat, and place a little in each of the clogged, inflamed nostrils. Then go to bed—and simply breathe the cold away.

Vapor-Eze releases healing, medicated vapors continuously for 8 hours. They go directly to the seat of the cold, and break it up before it has a chance to break you up. Be sure it's Sterling's Vapor-Eze—only 25c at family druggists.

HOPKINTON

The social gathering in the Rest Day Baptist church Tuesday evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed. Other gatherings of a similar nature will doubtless follow.

Walter F. Mills, Walter C. James and a gang of helpers have gathered a fine crop of 14-inch ice from the Chester mill pond and will probably cut from nine to 10 inch ice on the pond west of Hopkinton City this week.

Everett P. Mathewson was appointed last week in the Rhode Island house of representatives a member of the committee on education and special legislation and was elected secretary of the education committee upon its organization.

Douglas Champlin has resigned as janitor of the Ashaway schoolhouse and is planning to return to his former position in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Walter Gray has so far recovered from her recent illness as to be out again.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE.

New York, Jan. 29.—Sharp depreciation of the foreign exchanges and further liquidation of French bonds, several of which established new low records, apparently had no effect on today's stock market which was featured by a remarkable buying demonstration in railroad shares, gains of 1 to nearly 3 1-2 points being recorded by more than a score of active issues. Industrials were irregular during the early part of the session, but rallies later when the demand for rails embraced a number of investment issues.

The abrupt decline in foreign exchanges was generally construed as a recognition of the local and European financial communities' pessimism concerning the success of the French invasion of the Ruhr. French francs dropped 16 points to 6.13 cents, the lowest price in two years, and the German mark continued its course toward the vanishing point, being quoted at .0035 cents, or 40,000 to the American dollar. This represented a week-end depreciation of approximately 25 per cent, Saturday's closing price being .0035 cents. Demand sterling sold around $4.63, or 5 cents below the high mark established a few weeks ago.

Switching of speculative interest from the industrials to the rails on the stock market followed the publication of additional December earnings statements, which disclosed in several instances substantial increases in net income. Baltimore & Ohio was the most active of the carriers, selling 1,000 shares changing hands at prices between 46 1-4 and 46 1-8, the closing price of 49 representing a net gain of 2 5-8 points. Gains of 2 points or more also were scored by Chesapeake & Ohio, Northern Pacific, Western, "Nickel Plate" common and second preferred, Frisco preferred, Jersey Central, "Soo" Rock Island, St. Paul preferred and Chicago & Northwestern. Delaware & Hudson and Reading first preferred were among the few reactionary issues.

Activity in rail shares was used to cover selling of a number of industrials. Pacific Oil was depressed to 42 1-4 on reports of new financing at 7 per cent, off 1 1-2 points to 43 7-8, Saturday's closing price. Other oils were irregular, Producers & Refiners was off 1 1-2 points, buying being checked by additional announcements of higher prices for mid-continent Crude. Royal Dutch continued under pressure, dropping 1 1-2 points.

Baldwin Locomotive 14 points to 170 on announcement of a new note offering. Steel & Tube preferred dropped 3 points to 99 7-8 after selling at 103 3-8 selling being credited to speculative fears that the federal trade commission will order a merger with Youngstown Sheet & Tube. Other weak spots included Bush Tobacco common and preferred off 5 3-4 and 11 points respectively and Kelsey Wheel, off 5 points.

American Smelting advanced 1 1-2 on another increase in prices and speculative expectation of a favorable earnings report. Union Gas, Columbus Gas, United Retail Stores and Carolina Chemical preferred were strong spots.

Sterling sold at 4 1-2 per cent for demand in the close when it advanced to 4 3-4 per cent. Brokers bid 4 3-4 per cent for demanded 4 3-4 for all maturities with the exception of business small. Commercial paper was somewhat firmer with the bulk of the prime names at the six months maturity commanding 4 1-2 per cent.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Jan. 29.—Interest in today's bond market was divided between a sharp decline in French bonds, coincident with lower exchange rates, and a brisk advance in a number of railroad mortgages.

New low records for all time were established by French 7 1-2s at 85, French 8s at 88 1-4, Seine 7s at 75, Bordeaux 6s at 70, Lyons 6s at 70, Barseilles 6s at 70, Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s at 64 3-4 and French 7 1-2s at 84. Partial recovery was made later, the French 8s closing at 90 and the 7 1-2s at 86 1-4. The net losses on the day ranged from 3-4 of a point in the case of Lyons 6s to 2 3-4 in the case of Seine 7s. Prague 7 1-2s and Czecho-Slovakian 8s also established new lows, the former at 65 and the latter at 79.

Selling by frightened investors combined with a lack of fresh buying power was held responsible for the decline, international bankers generally being of the opinion that although the European financial and economic situation is in a somewhat chaotic state, the possibility of France's default on her external obligations is remote.

Railroad mortgages, particularly the convertible and debenture types were bought heavily in response to materially higher stock prices, which in turn were founded on exceptionally good December earnings statements. Gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by a number of issues, some of the most active being Baltimore & Ohio Convertible 4 1-2s, St. Paul Convertible 4 1-2s and Convertible 5s, Norfolk & Western Convertible 6s, St. Louis-Southwestern Consolidated 4s and Seaboard Air Line 6s.

Industrial liens were irregular, U. S. Rubber 5s, Steel & Tube 7s and Colorado Industrial 5s gaining 1 point or more while marine 6s, Cerro De Pasco 8s, Commonwealth Power 6s and the bonds of independent steel companies were heavy. U. S. government securities were slightly reactionary, the losses ranging from 2 to 6 cents on $100.

Total sales (par value) were $11,539,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Wheat showed stubborn resistance to price declines today, considerable notice being taken of reports that threatening sources Germany had arranged credits in America and England. The market closed steady at 2-8 @ 1 4c advance with May 1.16 1-8 to 1.16 1-4 and July 1.13 3-8 to 1.13 1-2. Corn lost 1-8 to 1-4c and oats 1-8 to 3-8@1-2c. In provisions the outcome varied from 5s decline to 10c rise.

It was a see-saw market in wheat with dealings of only moderate volume and with price changes kept inside of a fractional difference either way as compared with Saturday's finish. Besides gossip current about credits having been arranged by Germany, an upturn in Liverpool quotations tended to uphold values here, and so, likewise, did the fact that world shipments were smaller than had been predicted. The latter circumstance, however, was more or less offset by an increase of supplies on ocean passage.

News that the United States visible supply was greater for the first time than at the corresponding time last year, that flour demand had fallen off and that moisture was in evidence or expected over most of the winter crop belt, enabled the bears in the wheat market to force several downturns in price but failed nevertheless to prevent subsequent rallies, military preparations for a clash between the British and the Turks being construed in some quarters as bullish. On the other hand, lack of export business continued, and farm bills in congress appeared to be making little if any progress toward enactment.

Slowness of domestic shipping demand were weakness corn and oats. Provisions were sustained by higher quotations on hogs, and by heavy exports of bacon and lard.

TAFTVILLE

Domonic Benoit son of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Benoit of 9 Providence street, and Miss Harriet Boucher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boucher of Occum, were united in marriage at a nuptial high mass in St. Joseph's church, Occum, by the pastor, Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, at 8 o'clock Monday morning. They were attended by Camillien Chaquin as best man, and Miss Aurore Benoit, a sister of the groom, as bridesmaid. The bride wore a tan suit, with hat to match, and corsage bouquet of pink roses. Her maid was attired in a brown suit with hat to match and also wore pink roses. Following the ceremony, there was a reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boucher of Occum, which was attended by many guests, many coming from out of town. The gift of the bride to her maid was a rosary, and the groom presented his best man with a silk shirt and necktie. Later

The house of Charles H. Grandall and family at Gales Ferry was destroyed by fire [illegible] morning. The alarm was turned in from box 24 at the corner of Route 12 and Gales Ferry road at 5:30 o'clock. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Grandall, who was awakened by the crackling of the flames. She aroused the other members of the family and they escaped through the window. Mr. Grandall was the last to leave the house, and he was forced to break the window in order to get out. The fire had gained such headway that the entire interior of the house was destroyed before the arrival of the fire apparatus from Gales Ferry. The house was owned by Mrs. Grandall's father, Edward Latham, and was insured for $1,000. The loss on the furniture is estimated at $2,000 and is covered by insurance. Mr. Grandall is employed as a carpenter by the Gales Ferry Lumber company.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week six applications for permission to build have been granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton showing that as the year advances there is a tendency to increased building operations. The total value of proposed construction as described by the applications is $53,000, the largest of these being the proposed new eight-tenement building to be erected on West Main street by Alexander M. [illegible], the cost of which will be approximately $35,000.

The White Star Clothing company has awarded the contract for a brick addition to their building at 147-153 Main street to Contractor P. F. Sweeney. The addition will be 50x86 feet and will be erected in the rear of the present store. The construction will be of brick and steel with wood floor joists. The cost will be about $5,000.

Fowler & Rathbun have been awarded the contract for a two-story dwelling house on Joseph Perkins road for Forrest G. Fielding. The foundation will be of stone and cement with brick composite. The house will be of frame construction with oak floors and oak boards and shingle. The approximate cost will be $7,500.

Felix Smith has been granted a permit to build a two-apartment house on Crescent avenue. Each apartment will contain [illegible] rooms and bath. The house will be of frame construction with [illegible]. The house will cost [illegible]. The contract for finish will be awarded [illegible]. The permit will be for [illegible]. Cost about $5,000.

P. F. Sweeney has the contract for a small addition to the garage on West Main street of the Max Silkon corporation. The addition will be of frame construction, 9x16 feet, with composition roof. The cost will be about $250.

William Sawicki is to erect a piazza to his dwelling on North Main street. The piazza will be of frame construction and will cost about $[illegible].

During the past week good progress has been made on local projects on hand despite the unfavorable building weather, the most notable work being done on the Osage block and a Howard block on Main street.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease constantly undermines the system.

Weak kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles at times have headache or dizziness, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results are sure to follow; Kidney Trouble in its very worst form may steal upon you.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition, begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. They stand the highest for the relief of bladder troubles because as soon as your kidneys are well, they will help the other organs to health.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular medium and large size bottles at all drug stores. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., which you will find on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by sending ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. They will also send a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of grateful letters received from men and women who say they found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed in kidney, liver and bladder troubles. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample size bottle. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Camden Man's Amazing Message to Rheumatics

After Suffering Intense Agony for Many Years—He Wants to Tell Others.

Dr. Brigedell—I simply had to write and tell you what a wonderful Camphorole has done for me. For many years I suffered the tortures of Rheumatism as many others who read this do now. At times I was a terrible sufferer and could not get around. I had to give up and [illegible] which only gave me temporary relief. I am a steam fitter by trade and had to give up my work. I saw your advertisement in a paper. I thought I would take another chance and told my daughter to get me a package of Camphorole for me. [illegible] my surprise after using Camphorole I started to get better right away. After using two jars of Camphorole I am well and happy and have gone back to work. I shall never forget the day I took a chance on Camphorole. After all the years I suffered, it feels good to be well again. Robert W. Ferguson, 1911 High St., Camden, N. J.

A DAINTY PARTY OR BEST FROCK.

Canton crepe or crepe de chine would be attractive for this style, but it is nice also for gingham and other cotton weaves. The skirt is joined to a fitted waistband underneath. The overblouse, caught up at the sides in soft folds under ribbon trimming of a bluff or russet, is slipped over the dress when worn. One may have both skirt and overblouse in straight or scalloped outline.

This pattern is cut in four sizes, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 2 and 3/4 yards of 40-inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

HOUSE VOTES FAVORABLY FOR AN EMBARGO ON COAL

Boston, Jan. 29.—The house of representatives today unanimously adopted a resolution favoring passage by congress of the bill proposed by Congressman John J. Rogers, of Lowell, for an embargo on coal. The resolution declared that the measure would relieve distress.

NEAR-NAKED CHILDREN DEMONSTRATED SUN CURE

When the Mid-winter State Fair at Hartford closed last week a remarkable demonstration of the sun cure treatment for all forms of tuberculosis was ended. All the week near-naked children from the Seaside sanatorium at Crescent Beach and from Undercliffe at Meriden have been viewed by thousands in the booths of the state tuberculosis commission at the state armory and have mingled with the representatives and senators in the state capitol and on the walks of Bushnell park, through which the kiddies walked through the snow and ice, giving an object lesson of the fact that curable tuberculosis by nature's methods has replaced surgery in Connecticut.

Children from the Seaside, chaperoned by Dr. John F. O'Brien, the superintendent, gave the general assembly and the state fair patrons lying pictures of the sun cure treatment the first half of the week, and children from Undercliffe, accompanied by Supt. Cole I. Gibson, the last.

In connection with the picturesque spectacle of youngsters parading outdoors in the winter conditions which have prevailed the past week the commissione has issued statements calling attention to the noteworthy features of the situation resulting from three years' use of the sun cure treatment:

Norwich, Tuesday, Jan. 30, 1923.

WEATHER Conditions

Monday night the pressure continued low over the Canadian Maritime provinces and Newfoundland, and an extensive area of low barometer covered the northwestern states and had its center over western Colorado. High pressure prevailed generally east of the Mississippi river and in the northwest with the maximum pressure north of the region of the great lakes. This pressure distribution has been attended by snows in southern New England and New York.

Colder weather has overspread the northwestern states and cold weather continues in New England and New York.

In New England and New York, the weather will be fair and cold Tuesday and probably unsettled and somewhat warmer on Wednesday followed by snow in the middle Atlantic states, the upper Ohio valley and the lower lake region. Unsettled weather Tuesday will be followed by rain and snow Tuesday night and by Wednesday.

Winds

Forecast

Southern New England — Cloudy Tuesday; Wednesday unsettled and [illegible] with snow.

GREENVILLE

Friends attending the Girls' Friendly society of St. Andrew's church gave a miscellaneous shower for Miss Lillian Pendell at her home on Smith avenue in honor of her approaching marriage which is to take place in February. An extra large clothes basket was needed to hold the many gifts. The girls enjoyed singing various songs and played games. During the evening ice cream and cake were served.

NORWICH TOWN

The Sunday morning worship of the First Congregational church was held at the usual hour in the chapel. Special Results of Thinking was the topic of the sermon by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey. The text was Psalms 138:6: "Though I walk in the midst of trouble, Thou wilt revive me: Thou shalt stretch forth Thine hand against the wrath of mine enemies, and Thy right hand shall save me." The theme was the topic of the address by Rev. David N. Beach of the First Congregational church of Fulford.

At the First Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. [illegible] B. Aldrich, preached on Philippians 2:5-11. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." I count not myself to have apprehended. But this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock [illegible] church, the Rev. [illegible] W. Brennan celebrated a requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of [illegible]. The offertory was sung by [illegible]. Some [illegible] attended the funeral which was held from [illegible] church.

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN T. LEACH

Two natives of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Leach celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Jan. [illegible] their home, 3389 Valentine avenue, New York city. A host of relatives and friends gathered from far and near to make the day memorable.

The bride of fifty years ago, becomingly gowned in gray Canton crepe, received and entertained her guests afternoon and evening ably assisted by her attentive groom.

Mr. Leach, a youngster of 78, maintains his erect soldierly bearing, displaying a spryness that would easily discount his age by at least 25 years. Besides serving his country through the strenuous campaign of '61, he has a record of 46 years to his credit with Uncle Sam in the postal service from which he retired several years ago.

Among those present were the following: Rev. Mr. and Mrs. T. Chalmers, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. Knipe, Mrs. Utz, Mrs. C. Day, Mr. and Mrs. George Strong, Mrs. Chas. J. Carroll, Mrs. McKaul, Mrs. John Schultz, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. McRae, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Hillock, Andrew Maxwell, Mrs. Littlejige of Hollis, Long Island, Mrs. Dan of New Rochelle, Mr. and Mrs. F. Schlesier of Glen Ridge, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Leach, Raymond and Alice Leach, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Leach, Alfred and Elsie Leach of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Allen, Philip, Arthur and Elsie Allen, of Richmond Hill, L. I., Mr. and Mrs. Gesick, of Newark, N. J., Mrs. Mary Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wilson, Mrs. Mundy, Professor and Mrs. W. Morrison, Walter Schaffner, Mr. and Mrs. Katz.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET TO JUDGE TURANO

A complimentary banquet was given Michael J. Turano, member of the Rhode Island general assembly and recently elected judge of the Third district court Sunday afternoon at Elm Tree Inn, Westerly, by a large gathering of his Italian admirers.

Nearly one hundred enjoyed what was conceded to have been the greatest tribute to an Italian-American citizen of Westerly. Speeches were delivered by the following invited guests: Maurice W. Flynn, John J. Dunn, M. Walter Flynn, Andrew J. Martin, Michael McCarthy and Edwin C. Sawyer. Among a number of prominent Italian-American citizens who paid tribute to Judge Turano were Mr. Agostaro, Mr. Cappuccio, Mr. Guarino, Capt. Romenoli, Mr. Salemard and Mr. Gervasini.

The committee of arrangements was Joseph Grillo, George Montalto and Joseph Lundomo. Mr. Grillo was toastmaster. Among those present were Antonio Longo and James Matti of Norwich and guests from Providence.

WORKERS ARE COMPENSATED FOR FRACTURED BONES

REPORT BRITISH COAL COMING TO STATE PIER

It is reported that a shipload of 5,000 tons of British admiralty coal is due to arrive at the state pier at New London and that D. Webb Clark, resident manager at the pier, has notified local fuel administrators in this territory that the coal can be bought in carload lots by individuals or dealers at $9.50 per ton f. o. b. New London. With the freight to Norwich added, the price for the coal would be several dollars less than the ruling price here now.

M. E. Jensen, local fuel administrator, had received no notice of the expected arrival of the cargo of coal up to Monday evening.

NEW YORK SENATE FAVORS BEER AND WINE

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29.—The senate, by a vote of 27 to 17, tonight adopted the Walker resolution to memorialize congress to modify the Volstead act so as to permit traffic in beer and wine. Two republicans, Senators George R. Fearon of Oneida and James L. Whitley of Monroe, voted with the democratic majority.

In the assembly, by a majority of 78 to 64, a similar resolution sponsored by Minority Leader Charles D. Donohue, failed of adoption and was referred to the judiciary committee.

CLASSES REV. DR. GRANT AMONG FALSE TEACHERS

Rev. F. W. Tholen, formerly pastor of Preston City, but now pastor of the Baptist church at Stafford Springs, in his sermon at the church Sunday classed Dr. Percy Stickney Grant of the Church of the Ascension, New York, with the false prophets and teachers predicted in the New Testament.

In part he said:

"There are false teachers in our colleges and pulpits in every denomination and they have been in the Christian church since its early history and will continue to be till the end of time. But in our text this morning we are exhorted to fight against it and to contend for the faith once and for all delivered unto God's people. The epistles of the apostles are largely written to correct some error that had been taught by some false teachers.

"Is Dr. Grant unfamiliar with the teachings of the New Testament having followed the tradition of his church and the teachings of college professors rather than investigate for himself, which in his own parlance he calls 'bunk.' There are millions of people like him in the church, both in the pulpit and the pew who have a second hand religion, having accepted the teachings of men rather than being taught of God. He says that the Friends of Jesus deal in facts but the theologians in metaphysical theories: is this what he has done and found it unsatisfactory?

"Dr. Grant says that he would rather accept the testimonies of the friends of Jesus, Matthew, Mark and Luke regarding his divine nature than to accept the tradition of the church and the theories of theologians. But we ask why did he not mention John who, being more intimate perhaps than any other disciple, declares emphatically that Jesus was divine. The same was in the beginning with God. And the world was made flesh and dwelt among us and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father full of grace and truth.

"Dr. Grant says: 'When your son comes back from college and you ask him to go with you to church do you want him to say to you, 'Oh, don't ask me to listen to that old bunk!' In reply I would say if the glorious gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ is not preached with authority, sincerely, and in truth it will be so insipid and sound so foolish to an intelligent man that we can hardly blame him for calling it "bunk." But the gospel, wherein is revealed the judgment of God against sin, but also the love of God toward the sinner, is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth. This was the gospel believed by William Gladstone, Lloyd George, President Harding and Charles E. Hughes and countless others whose faith is unshaken in spite of false teachers that preach another gospel than was delivered unto the saints."

BLOCK ISLAND FOLKS ARE COLLECTING COAL

Fishek folk of Block Island have laid aside their nets for the past two days and turned their attention to picking up coal along the shores as a result of the breaking in two of a coal barge which grounded off the island in a heavy storm two weeks ago.

Some 1,500 or more tons of the fuel will find their way into the homes of residents in the course of the next few days, as tons of it are being daily washed up on the shores. Sunday all the residents were out "picking coal" and carting it in baskets and drays to the cellars of their homes. One man, with the assistance of his family, is understood to have gathered approximately 20 tons since Thursday.

GUINAN MAKES ADMISSIONS IN INFANTICIDE CASE

John J. Guinan, who was placed under arrest by the naval authorities at Newport Friday evening, at the request of Coroner J. J. Desmond and State Attorney H. A. Hull, following the confession of Grace M. McSheffery, which had implicated him in connection with the death of the infant found in New London in the lot at the corner of Reed and Blinman streets, was brought to New London at 4.15 o'clock Sunday afternoon, under guard of two sailors from the Newport station. Guinan was taken to the Submarine Base, and was examined on Monday by Coroner J. J. Desmond.

During the course of his examination he made statements that implicated him in the matter, according to information given out by State Attorney Hull Monday afternoon. As soon as orders come through from the navy department he will be transferred to the custody of the civil authorities and arraigned in the New London police court to answer to the charge of murder.

Miss McSheffery is reported as making satisfactory progress toward recovery at the Lawrence and Memorial hospital, where she is confined under constant guard, through orders of State Attorney Hull, and in a week's time will be able to answer to the same charge when arraigned before Judge S. Victor Prince. The rumor had spread broadcast Monday that the McSheffery girl had died of blood poisoning but it was entirely without foundation.

A revision of the New London grand list on a scientific appraisal basis which has been effected in the past year will make the new list approximately $39,800,000 which is an increase of about $5,600,000 over last year, according to Assessor F. C. Burrows.

In round numbers last year's list was $34,200,000 and last year's tax rate was 27.5 mills.

As this year's budget is about the same as last year it is therefore expected that the tax rate can again be materially reduced this year.

Practically every property owner will be pleasantly surprised to find their list less than a year ago, while many others will find their valuations increased from 10 to as high as 50 per cent.

The general average increase amount to a little over 15 per cent., and all property is now on practically a 90 per cent. basis of valuation, instead of anywhere from 60 to 75 per cent. as heretofore.

CITY COURT CASES BRING IN $124.26 IN FINES

Transgressors of the law paid over $124.26 into the hands of Clerk A. J. Bailey of the city court Monday morning, Judge A. F. Libby putting in a busy session.

A boy arrested by constables for being drunk was found guilty and was freed. A man really drunk, however, paid over $19.50. Breach of the peace and the black eye he handed his wife cost John Das $20.10.

A man charged with theft was discharged by City Attorney Robbins for lack of evidence. In two cases the bonds were called one for $15 and the other for $20. Another man paid $15 for drinking to excess.

George H. Moore who had been working in the city was held by the police at the request of the Nashua, N. H., department, charged with deserting his wife and three small children. Policeman Casey made the arrest.

Harry Lambert paid $25.66 for breach of the peace on the charge of annoying a young woman on Franklin street Saturday night. He was fined $25 and costs.

DOPE SELLER BOUND OVER FOR SUPERIOR COURT TRIAL

The underground route through which dope is being distributed among the colored population of New London was uncovered Sunday when Sergeant Nelson S. Smith and Patrolman William Babcock arrested Joseph Young of Providence who, on the witness stand in police court Monday, confessed to a violation of the Mann act in bringing Mrs. Elizabeth Feruth does to New London from Providence. At the conclusion of a lengthy hearing in court Monday Judge S. Victor Prince bound Young over to the next term of the superior court under bonds of $2,000.

Judge Morris B. Beardsley of Bridgeport, once a democrat candidate for governor, who has been dangerously ill at his home was resting comfortably Monday. He has been in failing health for some time. He is suffering from hardening of the arteries.

PAST EXALTED RULERS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

The annual business meeting of the Past Exalted Rulers association of Connecticut was held at the Elks' club in New Haven Sunday afternoon.

The committee in charge of welfare work at United States Veterans' hospital in Allingtown, and at Gaylord farm, Wallingford, reported. The work is carried on by all of the Elk lodges in the state through the Past Exalted Rulers' association.

The following officers were elected: President W. L. O'Connell of Bristol; vice president, Dr. Thos. F. O'Laughlin of Rockville; secretary, Harry C. Brown of New Britain, and treasurer, Louis Brock of Bridgeport.

Following the business meeting a banquet was held at the Hotel Taft. More than 100 Elks attended.

SNOWS FOLLOWING LUCAS ON WESTERN TRIP

Herbert W. Lucas, the Norwich weather prophet, who departed for a southern and western trip about a week ago, with a parting prediction that the worst snow storms in ten years would be seen before spring, seems to be pursued by snow on his trip. Accompanied by Daniel Fitzgerald, he arrived in Washington, where there had been no snow this winter. But the day Mr. Lucas arrived the city had its first snow of the season.

Today (Tuesday) Mr. Lucas and Mr. Fitzgerald are to start for New Orleans, where they will remain for a week to attend the Mardi Gras before going on to San Diego, Cal.

Mr. Lucas was in Washington fifteen years ago in March to attend the inauguration of President W. H. Taft, which took place in the worst snow storm of the season in Washington.

ST. NICHOLAS RUSSIAN ORTHODOX CHURCH ELECTS

The annual meeting of St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox church and congregation was held Sunday afternoon in the church hall on Convent avenue. The reports showed the church in good financial condition. The officers who were re-elected are: President, Nicholas Cherwiak; secretary, Alexander Horelin; and treasurer, Stefan Bulko.

JORDAN BROTHERS WINNERS IN WEST SIDE PINOCHLE

There were many shakeups Monday night in the play of the West Side Pinochle club, Peckham being pulled down from the premier position to land in third place and Dr. Lewis dropping from second to fourth place. The Jordan brothers combination were what did the damage, J. Jordan going to first place and A. Jordan into second place. There were several other changes further down the ranks. Three substitutes played, Hallisey for Haskell, E. Peckham for Parker, and Hawley for J. Jordan. The scores Monday night were J. Jordan 7850, A. Jordan 7830, Pendleton 7695, Dr. Boynton 7230, Pettis 6870, Haskell 6930, Underwood 6690, Bailey 6655, Peckham 6645, Schuler 6640, Parker 6585, Dr. Lewis 6450.

The new standings with but three nights to play are J. Jordan 30645, A. Jordan 29,625; Peckham 29,190; Dr. Lewis 28,895; Schuler 28,335; Bailey 28,105; Dr. Boynton 27,930; Pendleton 27,870; Parker 27,525; Pettis 27,455; Underwood 26,270; Haskell 26,185.

"Scotch Whiskey" Was Wood Alcohol.

"Scotch whiskey" selling at $10 a bottle was found to contain 25 per cent. wood alcohol on analysis, according to F. Earle Lockwood, chemist at Block Island, Saturday. Two inhabitants of the island bought the stuff and each took generous swigs which were followed quickly by cries of "I'm dying." Prompt use of antidotes ended the trouble. They did not reveal where they bought it.

EACH IN HIS OWN TONGUE.

A fire mist and a planet,
A crystal and a cell—
A jelly-fish and a saurian,
And caves where the cavemen dwell;
Then a sense of law and beauty
And a face turned from the clod—
Some call it Evolution
And others call it God.

A haze on the far horizon—
The infinite, tender sky—
The ripe, rich tint of the cornfields,
And the wild geese sailing high—
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the golden rod—
Some of us call it Autumn,
And others call it God.

Like tides on a crescent sea beach
When the moon is new and young
Into our hearts high yearnings
Come welling and surging in—
Come from the mystic ocean,
Whose rim no foot has trod—
Some of us call it longing,
And others call it God.

A pickle frozen on duty,
A mother starved for her brood
Socrates drinking the hemlock,
And Jesus on the rood;
And millions who humble and nameless
The straight, narrow pathway trod—
Some call it conscience,
And others call it God.

A BUTTERFLY FANCY.

Beneath the bare, wind tortured trees,
Across the frozen snow,
A score or more of withered leaves
Are blowing [illegible]
Like russet butterflies they seem [illegible] and [illegible],
Like butterflies that rise to rest
Upon the rocky crust.

They hover where the [illegible]
Are sleeping, [illegible]
And poise a moment [illegible] brow
Fast fettered by the cold,
And float above the naked bush
Once gay with rose and red,
As if, behold! their hope to find
A bud of promise there.

Who knows the secrets Nature hides
In her maternal breast?
Or when a miracle may come
To pass at her behest?
So to the dormant butterflies
Perhaps she said today:
"Slip out of your cocoons, my dears,
A little while and play."

A combination distillation and burning process in which the tar products are driven off from coal before being burned under boilers, is now being introduced in Germany. Coal from the bunker is fed to the boiler furnace through a retort, at the bottom of which is a distilling chamber facing the glowing fire on the grate. The gases are driven off from the coal discharge into an extraction apparatus alongside the boilers and the tar, ammoniacal liquors, and the products recovered. This method is said to be more efficient than the separate gas and cooking plants.

The wandering Jew was a legendary personage condemned to wander upon the earth until the second coming of Christ, for reviling the Savior while on His way to Calvary. Some say he was a porter in the service of Pontius Pilate, named Cartaphilus, but others identify him with Ahasuerus, a cobbler, on whose doorstep Christ attempted to rest when overcome with the weight of the cross. Tradition has it that Ahasuerus drove the Saviour from his door with curses, whereupon Jesus calmly replied: "I truly am going; but thou shalt wander over the earth until I return." Southey's "Curse of Kehama," Croly's Salathiel," and Sue's "Le Juif Errant" make use of this legend, although not in its original form.—Kansas City Star.

RUHR MINERS REJECT STRIKE PROPOSAL; PROTEST AGAINST NATIONALIST INTRIGUES

Telegraph Operators Who Were on Strike Have Gone Back to Work—The Situation in the Ruhr Towns is Reported Quiet—Occupational Forces Are Taking Over Warehouses and Other Places Containing Foodstuffs and General Merchandise—France and Belgium Are in Full Accord for Control and Administration of the Ruhr—German Mark Has Dropped to 45,000 to the Dollar.

(By The Associated Press.)

France and Belgium are in full accord on measures for control and administration of the Ruhr region. Such was the report made by the French minister of public works and General Weygand at a conference at Paris after their return from Brussels, where they were in close communication with the Belgian government.

General Degoutte, commander in the occupied zone, declares that "Germany's fate is in her own hands," and that "nothing will make us deviate from the course laid out for us."

The situation in the Ruhr towns is reported as quiet. Arrests and deportations of German state and municipal officials continue; the allies are restoring traffic on the railways; coal is being mined, and it is reported that the miners' union has rejected the proposal for a general strike; telegraph operators, who were on strike, have gone back to their keys, and the occupational authorities are taking over the warehouses in Duisburg, Duesseldorf and other places containing foodstuffs and general merchandise.

The French Federation of Labor has adopted a resolution protesting against the repressive measures in the Ruhr.

The German government continues to issue orders to the German railroad men forbidding the transport of coal or timber from the occupied areas to other France of Belgium, and co-operation of the railway officials with the French or Belgians is also forbidden.

The German mark has dropped to 45,000 to the dollar.

FRENCH TO HAVE FULL SUPPORT OF BELGIUM

Paris, Jan. 30—(By the A. P.)—M. Le Trocquer, minister of public works, and General Weygand, Marshal Foch's chief of staff, returned to Paris this evening and reported the results of their mission at a conference held at the Quai d'Orsay at which there were also present Premier Poincare, Marshal Foch, M. Maginot, minister of war, M. De Lasteyrie, minister of finance, and M. Reibel, minister of liberated regions.

They announced that they had secured full adhesion of the Belgian government to the measures planned by the allies and had established complete control of the railroads in the occupied German territories. Sufficient trains were running to assure to the population and some passenger trains, and the services will gradually be increased in accordance with measures drafted by General Payot.

The northern part of the system, M. Le Trocquer stated, is almost entirely dependent upon French workers, while the southern section is operated by French and German railwaymen in about equal numbers.

Other measures decided upon include the stoppage of all coal shipments to unoccupied Germany.

GERMAN MINISTER ORDERS CRIPPLING OF RAILROADS

Berlin, Jan. 30.—(By the A. P.)—The minister of railways today issued precise regulations to the German railway personnel forbidding the transport of coal or timber from the occupied areas on both banks of the Rhine to France of Belgium.

Co-operation in any form with French or Belgian railway officials or the execution of any orders, unless given by the German authorities, also is forbidden.

The minister orders the employment of all "legitimate measures" to bring to a standstill any trains run by foreign crews on the lines under the control of the German staff. The regulations do not apply to the British occupied zone.

The Prussian minister of the interior has forbidden in the Rhenish Westphalian area from saluting officers or colors of foreign armies.

WATER AND LIGHT SHUT OFF AT COBLENZ

Coblenz, Jan. 30 (By the A. P.)—The water service in Coblenz was shut off this afternoon and the electric light service tonight. This necessitated the filling of bathtubs tonight with water from whatever source it could be obtained and the use of candles for lighting.

Except for a few trains manned by French crews, the railways are still inoperative. It is feared the transit situation will interfere somewhat with the plans for the remainder of the American officers and men here who are due to sail from Antwerp on board the steamer American Feb. 7. If conditions require, a majority of the men may be sent by automobile to unoccupied Germany, whence trains are running to Antwerp. John A. Dolan of the American section of the Rhineland commission has offered his three-ton river boat "Mary Jane" to convey friends down the Rhine to points where they can catch trains.

SAYS GERMANY'S FATE IS IN HER OWN HANDS

Duesseldorf, Jan. 30 (By the A. P.)—"Germany's fate is in her own hands. Nothing will make us deviate from the course which has been laid out for us. We will take whatever time and measures are necessary."

In these words, General Degouette, allied commander-in-chief in the occupied zone, today summarized the situation in the Ruhr from the standpoint of the French and Belgians.

"We came here with pacific intentions," he went on. "The German government responded with every possible effort to provoke a general uprising among the population. Moderation is not a sign of weakness. Our patience has reached its limits; responsibility for the evils that may strike their country lies with the German government."

When the French and Belgian forces entered the district, he said, they promised to trouble the normal life of the inhabitants as little as possible, and asked the workers to continue at their labors calmly and orderly.

"Our appeal to the population, inspired by common sense and reason," he continued, "was on the verge of being accepted when the Berlin government used all means of pressure to cause the people to rise against us. The wisdom of the working classes having made this plan a failure, the Berlin rulers enjoined the functionaries and state officials to enter into open rebellion against us."

"Strikes, sabotage and boycotts had been resorted to, he added but the occupying forces had not lost their heads and given way to the immoderation which, he said, characterized "the disciples of Bismarck."

The allies could not continue in the way they had started. They were determined to break the stubbornness of their adversaries and officials who obstructed them would be arrested or expelled, as would also "all people who will not recognize the right conferred on us by the peace treaty and by international law."

In the further actions which were to be taken, he intimated, the pressure would be brought to bear, not upon the German workers, but upon their government.

SITUATION AT COLOGNE IS ENTIRELY NORMAL

London, Jan. 30.—The Duesseldorf correspondent of the Times, after a tour of the Ruhr towns, says he found the situation at Cologne entirely normal, the reports of sabotage in this neighborhood being denied.

In Essen there were no signs of resistance weakening, though, according to the French authorities, the miners were beginning to feel dissatisfied because the railroad workers were drawing full pay for doing nothing, and were inclined to blame the railroad men for a shortage of certain articles of food.

The rail strikes continue and the Duesseldorf station is guarded by cavalry. Only two French trains reached Duesseldorf today, bringing railroad personnel and new uniforms.

The telegraphic and telegraphic services have been fully restored at Duesseldorf, but remain suspended in Essen.

POSITION OF VATICAN ON POLITICAL MATTERS

Rome, Jan. 30.—(By the A. P.)—Queries from arious unofficial quarters as to whether the vatican intends to mediate in the present situation between France and Germany have brought the answer that neither side has approached the Holy See asking for such mediation.

It is pointed out that the Vatican makes it a rule never to interfere in political differences between countries unless religious interests are so involved as to be endangered.

Naturally, it is added, the Holy See exerts its efforts at all times to avoid war, limit conflicts or relieve suffering, but it will not inquire into the merit of political questions unless asked to do so by the interested parties.

BELGIAN LABOR TO APPEAL TO SWEDEN

Brussels, Jan. 30 (By the A. P.)—The executive committee of the Belgian Socialist party, after discussing the Ruhr situation today, decided to send a telegram to Premier Branting of Sweden asking him to bring the question before the council of the league of nations now in session in Paris.

FRENCH LABOR PROTESTS MEASURES IN THE RUHR

Paris, Jan. 30 (By the A. P.)—The French Federation of Labor, at the opening today of its annual meeting, with 600 delegates in attendance, voted a resolution protesting against the "repressive measures, imprisonments and arbitrary searches" in the Ruhr.

The federation demands the release of those held prisoner by the French authorities, and sends greetings "to the Ruhr workers, upon whom military force is being imposed to compel them to work."

RUHR MINERS' UNIONS DECIDE NOT TO STRIKE

London, Jan 30.—The miners' unions in the Ruhr valley, says a Havas despatch from Duesseldorf, have unanimously rejected the proposal for a general strike, adopting instead a resolution protesting against nationalist intrigues.

ACT OF WAR NULLIFIED VANDERBILT INSURANCE

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 30.—The sinking of the Lusitania was an act of war, the court of appeals held today in deciding the case of the estate of Alfred G. Vanderbilt against an insurance company. A clause in the policy held by Mr. Vanderbilt, who was drowned when the Lusitania went down, automatically nullified it in case death was caused by war. Today's verdict upheld the action of the insurance company in refusing to make payment on the policy.

To Invite the United States and Germany

To Take Part in the Customs Regulations Conference Next October by Committee of the L. of N.

Paris, Jan. 30.—(By the A. P.)—The United States and Germany will be invited to take part in the customs regulations conference next October organized by the economic committee of the league of nations, the council of the league of nations decided today.

This conference will deal with customs regulations exclusively in an endeavor to obtain some uniformity in in such regulations and their application.

In addition to all the members of the league, the council decided to ask the United States, Germany, Mexico and Ecuador to send delegates.

L. OF N. COUNCIL WOULD HEAR BOUNDARIES DISPUTE

Paris, Jan. 30.—(By the A. P.)—It is for Turkey to say whether the council of the league of nations shall take up the question of the frontiers between Anatolia and Irak and the disposition of the rich petroleum deposits in the Mosul region.

The Earl of Balfour, in presenting this subject to the council today, did not go so far as to submit a proposition. The council decided, therefore, that there was nothing for the moment for it to act upon, but it was made clear by Lord Balfour and M. Viviani that if Turkey would accept the jurisdiction of the leagueshewouldhave a chance to defend her case on a footing of absolute equality with Great Britain.

Lord Balfour said that the British government was of the opinion that the only way to provide for the contingency of refusal by the Turks was to invoke article XI of the covenant and summon a special meeting of the council to deal with a situation which would menace the peace of the world.

The council will wait intil after adjournment of the Lausanne conference, giving the Tuhks what is considered ample time to reflect and accept Lord Curzon's proposition for mediation by the league.

If the Turks simply refrain from replying, then action by the council will await developments on the frontier. If no attacks are made upon the mandated territory—what was formerly Mesopotamia, but is now the kingdom of the Irak—no action will be taken at all.

CORBIN, KY., QUIET AFTER GUN BATTLE IN STREETS

Corbin, Ky., Jan. 30.—This city was quiet tonight following a gun battle in the streets early today between railroad employes and special policemen, in which two men were killed and two others wounded. Officials declared no further trouble was expected. The cause or the clash has not been definitely established.

J. C. Barker, 44, engine despatcher for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and George Yaden of London, Ky., employed as a special officer here, were killed. Jesse Barker, railroad switchman, and Fred Day, special officer, were wounded.

A K. Richmond, another special officer, also was a participant in the fight but escaped without injury.

Two Corporals Held Up Post's Pay Car

Made Off With $43,000 at Hampton, Va.—Were Captured by a Posse 20 Miles From Newport News.

Newport News, Va., Jan. 30.—Corporals John S. Wood and James S. Harvey, of Langley Field identified by Captain Norman D. Cota, chief finance officer at the field, as the bandits who held up him and four companions at the First National Bank of Hampton this morning and escaped with the army pay roll of $43,000, were captured by a posse about 20 miles from here tonight. The authorities announced.

According to telephone reports the men were captured in the woods near Big Bethel. Most of the money was recovered, it was added, although the bandits had been forced to abandon $5,000 in silver.

Roy Crockett of Hampton, one of the witnesses of the holdup, said the entire affair was carried out so methodically that he thought an army guard was merely arresting some military offenders. The man who covered Captain Cota, according to Crockett, said calmly: "Keep quiet or I'll blow your head off."

Although Hampton is but ten minutes by automobile from Langley field, no alarm was taken by officers at the absence of Captain Cota until noon, when city, state and county officials in this vicinity were urged to assist in finding them.

Few details of the holdup were made public by army officers but it was said that on their flight from Hampton the bandits stopped at a hardware store while one stood guard over the captives and the other bought rope with which to tie the prisoners. The last seen by Captain Cota of the two bandits after the automobile had run into a ditch, they were walking through the woods.

TURKS PREPARING COUNTER SUGGESTIONS FOR ALLIES

Are to Have Them in Shape for Presentation Within a Few Days—"Final" Session Had Been Scheduled for Today—Turks Are Furious Over the Treaty as It Now Stands—Turks Have Signed Two Conventions Relating to the Return of War Prisoners and Hostages and the Obligatory Exchange of Populations by Turkey and Greece—Ambassador Child is More Optimistic Regarding the Situation of the Conference—British Are Provoked by French Decision to be Patient With the Turks.

Lausanne, Jan. 30—(By the A. P.)—After a lengthy conference tonight with Riza Nur Bey, one of the chief Turkish delegates to the near east peace conference, Richard Washburn Child, head of the American delegation, said he was distinctly more optimistic regarding the situation of the conference.

The Turkish delegates tonight informed the Associated Press that they were preparing counter suggestions to the allied draft treaty. It was added that these suggestions might not be ready tomorrow, but Ismet Pasha would have them in shape for presentation within a few days.

The long heralded "final" session of the near eastern conference will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock in the quaint little chateau of Ouchy. Whether there will be a rupture or an adjournment of a nature that will be equivalent to a rupture, or whether there will be a continuation of the negotiations which eventually may lead to peace, are moot questions tonight.

The Turks have the answer to the existing problem; but nothing definite or reliable is available from Turkish circles to justify any reasonable prediction of what the morrow has in store. The Turks are furious over the treaty as it stands

Desperate attempts to have the conference continue are going on unflaggingly. Richard Washburn Child, the American ambassador, is active in efforts at mediation and Lord Curzon, M. Bompard and Marquis di Garroni went into an important conference tonight. These efforts to straighten out the tangle will be continued up to the opening of tomorrow's session. The atmosphere is heavy with apprehension tonight, but hopes are still held by some that a collapse of the conference may be prevented.

The Egyptian delegation tonight addressed a protest to the conference against the clause in the treaty [illegible] Turkey [illegible] to renounce all her rights over Egypt and the Sudan, dating from 1914. The Egyptians declare the carrying out of this provision would only permit Great Britain to fasten her grip in Egypt. They appealed to the world to remember that the powers in 1913 proclaimed a willingness to establish peace on the basis of President Wilson's principles for the self determination of [illegible].

In addition to the two conventions relating to the return of war prisoners and hostages and the obligatory exchange of populations by Turkey and Greece, the Turkish delegation affixed their signatures today to a press protocol agreeing when a general peace is signed to return to Greece all the Dodecanese islands who have been held by Turkey since the Greek [illegible] in Asia Minor and the Smyrna campaign. This protocol affects some 100,000 men.

The Mosul dispute, which came up before the council of the league of nations in Paris today, and which threatens to wreck the near east conference, brought about one amusing incident which served momentarily to lighten the diplomatic gloom. One difficulty had been to determine what the Kurds in the Mosul region want.

A Kurdish representative appeared at British headquarters today and outlined the desires of his fellows, saying: "I no like the Turkish government; I no like Arabian government; I no like no government. I am farmer."

The indications late tonight were that the Turks tomorrow would adopt an attitude which would place responsibility for a rupture of the negotiations upon the allies. A statement issued by them declares that the allied draft treaty not only contains some clauses which the Turks never heard of, but also some which in the session of the sub-commissions both sides agreed should be left out of the compact. The statement declares the Turks never heard of the clause "recognizing the open door," by which the Turkish government should consult the council on the Ottoman debt before granting concessions to Turks or foreigners.

It is insisted by the statement that the sub commissions unanimously greed to omit the clause giving privileged treatment to foreign merchantmen in Turkish coast traffic, but nevertheless thisc lause hash een inserted in the draft treaty to the detriment sovereignty.

"Generally speaking," says the statement, "the allied treaty is worse than anything we ever expected. The inclusion of a system of legal advisers, who would sit as judges in cases involving foreigners, is absolutely inacceptable. It means that Turkey would be treated as inferior to Albania."

FRENCH DECISION IS PROTESTED BY BRITISH

Lausanne, Jan. 30 (By the A. P.)—Complications suddenly arose among the allied representatives at the Near East peace conference at a late hour tonight when the French delegation announced that it had decided to remain in Lausanne as long as there was any hope of carrying on successful negotiations with the Turks.

The British delegation considered the decision of the French as a flagrant violation of the understanding reached between the allies a few days ago that all of them would leave Lausanne at the end of the week if the Turks did not sign tomorrow the treaty which has been handed them.

All the British delegates announced officially tonight that they would adhere to this program, whatever the other allied delegations decided to do. Earl Curzon will start for London Friday.

The British protest against the French decision is based on a statement issued by the British delegation last week. This was to the effect that the treaty would be presented to the Turks for signature on Wednesday, and that the allied delegations had agreed to depart Friday. If the Turks asked further time to consider the treaty, then the conference was to adjourn, but the plenipotentiaries would be ready to return to Lausanne when there were indications that the negotiations could be brought to a successful conclusion.

IRISH IRREGULARS GET TRADE AGENCY IN PARIS

Dublin, Jan. 30.—(By the A. P.)—The Irish trade agency in Paris has passed into the hands of the irregulars, owing to "the treachery of the late trade agent," the Dail Eireann was informed today by Desmond FitzGerald, minister of foreign affairs.

The Irish office in Madrid has been closed, but that in Rome is still open, and no decision has been taken by the government to curtail its external relations, he added.

William T. Cosgrave, president of the Dail, said the government had decided to suspend payments to those government officials who had supported disorder and whom the military had imprisoned. These cases were few, he declared.

The minister of education, Prof. John MacNeill, said some of the Free State teachers had been imprisoned and directions given to the schools to appoint other teachers.

It was announced by Richard Mulcahy, minister of defense, that the bodies of men executed by the Free State would not be handed over to their relatives.

NO LEGISLATION ON COAL TO BE PROPOSED

Hartford, Jan. 30.—A few minutes after the close of a long hearing on the coal bill, the legislative committee adjourned this evening without attempting to draw up any proposed legislation on the subject.

The situation was believed to be due to two reasons. The first that Fuel Administrator Thomas W. Russell had made the statement in the public hearing, in response to rapid-fire questions of House Chairman Buckley, that no general fuel emergency now exists in the state, and, second, that coal shipments into Connecticut have been greatly accelerated in the past few days by Governor Templeton's action in instituting a state police investigation.

COLOMBIA ASKS SERVICES OF PROF. F. R. FAIRCHILD

New Haven, Jan. 30.—Professor Fred R. Fairchild chairman of the department of social and political science at Yale university, has been asked by the government of Columbia to serve as one of a commission of American experts to assist in an advisory capacity in re-organizing Columbia's financial system. It was announced tonight. Professor Frederick B. Luquiens, also of Yale, will act as secretary of the commission.

Professor Fairchild will work in connection with taxation and public debts, having been employed by the military government of Santo Domingo in 1917 to draw up a tax plan for the republic. Professor Luquiens holds the Colgate Chair of Spanish at Yale.

FRENCH DIVORCE OF GOULD RECOGNIZED

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 31.—New York state officially recognized today the decree of divorce which the courts of France awarded to Frank Jay Gould. The court of appeals affirmed a decree of the lower court sustaining a dismissal of the complaint in the action of Edith Kelley Gould for divorce in this state.

Frank Jay Gould married Edith Kelley in October, 1910. They were separated for some years when Mrs. Gould instituted an action for divorce in this state. Gould responded, setting up the defense that he had obtained a divorce in Paris.

TWO AUTOS DESTROYED IN FIRE AT CLINTON

Clinton, Jan. 31.—Fire tonight did approximately $5,000 damage when it swept through a two story structure opposite the railroad station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. Two automobiles owned by Anton Fettig, which were stored in the building, were destroyed.

BROOKLYNITES FINDING FAKE FUEL UNBURNABLE

New York, Jan. 30.—Brooklynites, who last week encountered difficulty in buring gravel dyed black, today found iron ore mixed with a few stray lumps of coal equally unburnable. The fuel administrator's office is trailing those guilty of putting the latest fake fuel on the market.

IRISHWOMEN BRING TROUBLES TO PARIS

Paris, Jan. 30.—A delegation of Irish women today presented to M. Viviani, acting president of the council of the league of nations, a protest against executions in Ireland. Mrs. Despard, Field Marshal French's sister, Mary MacSwiney and Mrs. Margaret Pearse were among the signatories.

NOT TO REVISE THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER

London, Jan. 30.—The national assembly of the Church of England decided today to postpone until next July consideration of the proposal to revise the book of common prayer.

S. Chauncey Hooker, 86, one of this city's oldest and most respected citizens, died at his home, 290 Prospect street Tuesday morning. Mr. Hooker was prominently known in this city in connection with the hotel business but since 1909 he had been living in retirement at his home on Prospect street.

Mr. Hooker was born in Sturbridge, Mass., on February 23, 1836, the son of Levines and Caroline (Clements) Hooker. He had but slight opportunity to receive an education and attended night school in order to learn. At an early age he was employed in a cotton factory in Fiskdale, Mass., and after five years of this work he became a polisher in an auger shop where he remained for three years. He was then employed with the Cook's Patent Bit and Auger Company of Shelbourne, Mass., in which place he worked for ten years and became very efficient in his trade. When the Civil war broke out he spent two years doing gun work in Northampton, Mass., and then removed to Meriden where he was employed by the Parker Gun Company for five years.

After following the gun and auger trades for a number of years Mr. Hooker opened up the first billiard parlor in Bridgeport and later established one in Milford, which was destroyed by fire three years later.

During the five ensuing years Mr. Hooker conducted the Bradley house in Southington and in 1882 he opened the Brainard hotel in this city. The construction of the Hooker house was started in 1886 and he conducted that establishment for 22 years. During that time he gained much popularity all over New England as a hotel proprietor and the Hotel Hooker soon was known as one of the best hostelries in this section. In 1909 he retired and up to last December gave his attention to the management of his private affairs.

On June 16th, 1867, Mr. Hooker married Miss Sarah S. Lounsberry.

Mr. Hooker was connected with several hotel associations and he was the oldest hotel man in Windham county. He organized the Venerable Sachem Inn, every member of which was over seventy years of age. He was one of this city's most honored citizens and he earned the good will and respect of all who knew him.

He is survived by one brother, Jefferson H. Hooker of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Addie Perry of Fiskdale, Mass., and Mrs. Wilbur Witter of North Brookfield, Mass., and a number of nieces and nephews.

Adelbert E. Welden, aged 744, one of Windham Center's best known residents, committed suicide Tuesday by hanging himself in the attic of his home on North street. The body was found hanging from a rafter by Mrs. Welden, who then ran from the house and secured help from the Harvey & Keeney store, close by. Mr. Keeney came to the house and cut down the body which was still warm. Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason was called and after viewing the body pronounced death due to suicide. The body was taken in charge by a local undertaker.

Mr. Welden had been suffering from an infection of the jaw for some time and at times had shown signs of despondency over his poor health, but he had never hinted at taking his own life and retired in apparently good spirits Monday evening. Mrs. Welden arose about 7.30 Tuesday morning and when the breakfast was ready about an hour later she called for her husband but received no answer. She then went to his room but found it vacant. A thorough search of the rooms led Mrs. Welden tothe attic where she discovered the fully clothed body of her husband hanging from a rafter. A chair was placed within a foot of the body when it was found and as as indicated by the position of the rope knotted about the crossbeams. Mr. Welden slipped the noose around his neck and then stepped off the chair.

Mr. Welden was born in Eagleville, town of Mansfield, October 3, 1848. He entered the employ of the Everett Potter Furniture store when a young man and then continued in that position with Marshall Tilden who bought out the business from Mr Potter. Mr. Welden then removed to Scotland and purchased a farm which he conducted for twenty-seven years. Eleven years ago he sold the farm and built a home in Windham where he lived in retirement.

The deceased is survived by his wife, one son, Elmer C. Welden of New Haven, an engineer of the Connecticut State Highway department; a grandson, Robert Welden, of New Haven; two brothers, Alonzo and Alphonso of Berlin; three sisters, Mrs. Belle Moffi of Berlin, Mrs. Cora Pease of Monson, Mass., and Mrs. Rose Alden, also two nephews, Fred Welden of New Jersey, and Herbert Welden of this city.

Willimantic Rotary club held their regular weekly meeting and luncheon Tuesday noon and had as guests Otto Ernst, Hugh Campbell, and "Grove" Ely of the Norwich Rotary club. Albert J. Fournier and Lieutenant Ellison Smith of this city and "Kip" Oat of Norwich.

"Val" Murphy presided over the meeting. Secretary Hills read a communication from District Governor Don Adams of Boston, stating that he planned to attend the meeting of the local club on Tuesday, February 20, and it was voted to hold that meeting in the evening. Rev. Harry S. McCready spoke in regard to the Community Forum which will be held at the town hall next Sunday night. Dr. Ryan of the Catholic University of Washington, D. C., will be the speaker. Another communication was read from the Municipal thretare in St. Louis, Mo., asking for the opinion of the local club as to which oper should be staged for the benefit of the visiting Rotarians at the St. Louis convention of Rotary clubs.

C. Harry Branch then gave his life history. He said that he was born in East Springfield, N. Y., on October 12, 1870. His boyhood days were spent doing farm work on his father's property in the region of Central New York which was made famous by J. Fennimore Cooper's Leather Stockings Tales and the Deerslayer. He was the fourth of a family of eleven children, nine of whom are still living. He attained his education in a small schoolhouse and later in the East Springfield Academy. Mr. Branch came to this city in March, 1907, and entered the employ of the Hall & Bill Printing Company as a printer's devil. Mr. Branch is now director and secretary of the company. The speaker concluded by saying that he had no advice to offer to his hearers as he was better fitted to rective it.

Charles W. Alpaugh made the presentation speech and in regard to the fact that so man fires occurred in the Hall & Bill Printing Company, he handed Mr. Branch a gas mask and a pencil.

The meeting was then turned over to the chairman of the entertainment committee, Harry W. Standish, who introduced Lieutenant Ellison S. Smith of Company C. 169th Infantry. Lieutenant Smith's talk was most interesting and full of information in regard to the equipment, training and good results of the National Guard. His talk was concluded by an invitation from Captain Morrison and the members of the organization to visit the armory on any Tuesday night to witness the drilling. Lieutenant Smith was given a rousing vote of thanks.

An attempt was made Tuesday morning to discover who the individual was who had caused the trouble in Milhomme's lunch cart early Sunday morning but the court officials were baffled as the witnesses claimed that they did not know him. Ollie Rock and Donat Gadoury who were arrested by Officer Hurley at the time of the fracas were presented in court Monday morning and stated that a man named "Sousa" had started the fight. It was found that his name was Alphide Souci and through an interpreter Souci testified that he was probably guilty to the charge of breach of the peace.

Suici said that he was eating peacefully when someone struck him behind the ear and he then arose and proceeded to clean out the place in self defense. Gadoury stated that he tried to stop one man from fighting and was thrown out of the place and Rock testified that he came into the cart and was struck at. He struck back in defense but missed his aim and hit Souci who threw him out on the sidewalk.

Judge Foss found all three guilty of breach of the peace and imposed fines of one dollar and costs amounting to $8.15 in each case.

At a meeting of the general committee in charge of the Knights of Columbus carnival which will open this week in the state armory, elaborate preparations was made for the affair which will be preceded by a street parade.

Mrs. Amelia J. Juranty, wife of Albert J. Juranty, died at her home, No. 94 Chapman street, Monday at the age of 34 years. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Peter and Edward Juranty of this city; one sister, Mrs. John Saiar of this city; two brothers, John of Putnam, and Zalukiwick of Central Falls, R. I. The deceased had been a resident of this city for the past six months.

Mrs. Louisa J. Rosebrooks, aged 83, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Faulkner of 481 Maple avenue, Hartford, after a long illness. She leaves her husband, George L. Rosebrooks of this city and Walter Rosebrooks of Webster, Mass.; two daughters, Mrs. John Faulkner of Hartford and Mrs. Hattie Small of this city, and eleven grandchildren of this city, also one great-grandchild.

Olivine Laberge died late Monday afternoon at her home, 38 Maple avenue after a few weeks' illness. She was born in St. Cuibert, Canada, on March 26, 1855, the daughter of Norbert and Odelaide Plante Laberge. The deceased was a devoted member of St. Mary's parish and highly respected in this city. She leaves five brothers, Oensime Laberge, Joseph Laberge, Henry Laberge, Diodonne Laberge of this city and Octavien Laberge of Westfield, Mass.

A joint special service for the communicants of St. Paul's church in this city and St. Paul's Windham Center church, will be held at St. Paul's church here Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock. Suffragan Bishop E. Campion Acheson of Middletown will deliver the sermon and will make an announcement of interest to the members. The services will be in charge of the rector, Rev. Walter F. Borchert.

Samuel Goldstein has brought a civil suit against Morris Spector and the case will be heard before the justice of the peace on February 19. The plaintiff claims damages of $30 and an attachment has been served on the defendant's auto true.

The following notice appears on the boarded panel of the Y. M. C. A. front door which was smashed by a deer last Saturday morning:

John Doe enjoyed his visit at the Y and was very much cut up about leaving. Why don't you joint? The placard is a very good synopsis of what the animal did at the Y M. C. A. when he made a hurried call there.

A large crowd of music lovers were present at the town hall Tuesday evening to hear Mary Jordan, the noted contralto, who appeared in solo numbers under the auspices of the Community Entertainment Association. The affair was the second of a series of high grade entertainments which are being presented to the public by the association.

Dennis F. Haggerty has been appointed delegate to the state convention of the National Letter Carriers' association by the Willimantic branch of the association. The convention will be held in Hartford at the old state house, on Washington's birthday, February 22. William Harold was chosen alternate.

On account of the death of S. Chauncey Hooker, the reception in Windham for Rev. Mr. Borchert will be postponed until Tuesday, February 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert T. Clark who are wintering in Miami, Fla., state in their letters that they have taken a furnished apartment. A clippinga lo ells of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Bill being ntertained at the Royal Palms hotel Miami.

WINDHAM

John M. Potter has received his appointment for postmaster at the local office. Mr. Potter was assistant to Postmaster Johnson and is well fitted for the responsible position.

There were about 45 present at church Sunday. The C. E. service was omitted because of the storm. There were no services at St. Paul's, but next Friday at 10 a. m. holy communion will be celebrated. Notices for the week include the Woman's Missionary society at Mrs. Keeney's, on Wednesday. The mid-week prayer meeting on Thursday. The Woman's Guild of St. Paul's will give a reception for Rev. W. A. Borchert and family at Miss Bingham's on Thursday from 3 to 5.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lathrop entertained about 20 young people in recognition of the 18th birthday of their daughter, Miss Charlotte E. Lathrop, Saturday evening.

The February meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association will be held in the new school building at 3 p. m. on Thursday.

Due to weather conditions there were only about 40 present at the Victrola recital given under the auspices of the Girl Scouts in the chapel. The machine and records were loaned by the United Talking Mashine Shop. Cake and ice cream were sold after the programme. The proceeds of $7.31 were divided between the Scouts and the P. T. association piano fund.

The Auction club met with the Misses Johnson and Mrs. H. C. Hatch this week.

The Parent-Teachers' association held a successful food sale in the domestic science room in the new school house on Wednesday. Although the usual snow storm was in progress there was a good attendance and the proceeds were about $35, which will be added to the piano fund. The piano arrived Wednesday afternoon.

A number of Windham poultrymen attended the meeting of the State Poultry association in Hartford. Among them were Harold Leffingwell, Paul Hopkins, Jack Thompson and Kingsley Brown.

The local Poultry association held its January meeting in the chapel on Thursday.

George Potter, 2nd, is confined to the house with the grip.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooper were in Hartford, Tuesday.

MANSFIELD DEPOT

The monthly study meeting of the Mission department was held at the parsonage on Friday afternoon.

Miss Freda Wilson of Merrow visited Miss Annie Grant from Friday to Sunday.

W. H. Pollard disposed of his livestock last week, and on Saturday went to Willimantic to spend the remainder of this winter with his children.

Clifford Botham was at home for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Downing were in charge of the institution's exhibit at the Winter Exposition in Hartford last week.

SOUTH WINDHAM

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Backus have sent out announcements of the marriage of their daughter, Calista Ellen, and George Lester Gardner of Providence. The wedding took place at the home of the bride in South Windham Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 24.

Although many families are using wood for fuel this winter, there have not been many fires reported, although within a week the local fire department has been called out for two fires. A chimney fire in the house occupied by the Langworthy and Summiston families did but little damage. The second fire started from sparks on the roof at Mr. Porter's, making a lively blaze. The firemen, under the direction of Chief Larkum, did effective work at both fires.

John Ericson had the misfortune to sprain his back one day last week and will be laid up for some time.

Leslie Clark, George Hatch, Mrs. Edna Hatch and Charles Palmer have been ill at their homes.

Friends and former neighbors attended the funeral of Mrs. Sophie Hedman, widow of Gustaf Hedman, which was held in Willimantic Saturday afternoon. Rev. A. W. Clifford officiated. Much sympathy is felt for the children, Evelyn, Alice and Herbert, and all who knew the family regret the untimely deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Hedman, who were both well liked people.

The annual election of officers fo the local Sunday school was held at the regular session of the school Sunday. Miss Tillie Colbert was re-elected secretary and treasurer, and Miss Sarah Beckwith was elected as assistant. Miss Edith Baker will be the librarian for the year, with Miss Lorna Maynard as assistant librarian. Mrs. Joseph F. Cobb was elected pianist. The superintendent, Rev. Joseph F. Cobb, and assistant superintendent, Mrs. J. F. Cobb, were elected at the annual meeting of the church.

The Good Will circle will meet in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon.

The goodness of our intentions never excuses the badness of our actions.

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. James Day of Rhode Island, visiting Mrs. Josephine Greene of Gallup street, is the mother of a little girl born Friday, the 26th.

The little baby girl born the 27th in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wilde has been ill with the grip, and the mother is very ill at the present time. Mr. Wilde is also ill.

At the meeting of St. Paul's Brotherhood last week there was a large and enthusiastic gathering. The rector, Rev. David Combs, was the speaker, and he gave an interesting and instructive address on Labrador, speaking of the life and customs of the people, among whom he labored for a year as missionary.

Joseph Cournoyer, one of the weavers in the mill, who met with a serious injury last week, sustaining a dislocation and fracture of the right wrist, is still in Backus hospital, and it will be some time before he is able to resume his work.

At the meeting of the Woman's club held a week ago the president, Mrs. Charles F. Heap, was unable to preside, and the vice president, Mrs. Robert Generous, occupied the chair. Mrs. Edward King and Mrs. Benjamin Dawson were the hostesses.

Mrs. Henry Randall is quite ill, having been confined to her bed for over a week. Mrs. Margaret Chapman is taking care of her sister.

Rev. Lewis Hodous of Hartford occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss, who is still confined to his home with a grip cold. Rev. Mr. Hodous is in the department of missions in the Theological seminary at Hartford and gave an able and interesting address on China, having spent 16 years as a missionary in that country.

Mrs. Walter P. Lathrop read one of Whittier's poems, Snowbound, in the evening, which was listened to closely by all present. Clarence W. Jeffers, who was recently elected assistant superintendent of the Sunday school, had charge of the evening service.

The children and young people are in the midst of their midyear examinations in the high school and grammar schools.

Fred Gardner and family motored to Westerly on Sunday, Mrs. Gardner and the children remaining to visit. Sidney Gardner, a pupil at the graded school, was one of the fortunate ones having obtained marks which exempted him from the examinations.

George White, the athletic director at the Community house, is awarding "E" for excellence in swimming. The last awards were given to Lionel Couchon as winner of the 20 yard swim in 11 1-5 seconds; Condar Smith, underwater swim, 42 1-2 feet; Edward Davignon, 70 yards around pool, time 14 seconds; Bob Connolly, 40 yards swim, in 43 seconds.

A strong, fast game of basketball was played Friday evening with the team from Stafford Springs. Although the visiting team won, the score was hotly contested and it was a splendid game to watch.

WESTMINSTER

The epidemic of grip continues in this part of the town. Charles Robbins and family seemed to be gaining but suffered relapses. Nathan Green was seriously ill, and is recovering. Fred Green's family is improving. James Coulter is gaining slowly.

Mrs. John Soderberg was moved from Allen Moody's to her own home last Saturday afternoon. She and little Louisa are still grip victims, gaining very slowly.

Allen Moody and family and Mrs. Emma Nolan, who is spending the winter there, have recovered from their illness.

Joe Manes is on the sick list.

E. P. St. John has given Charles Barstow neighborly help in the absence of Elliott Bingham, who is sick in the home of Byron Bingham.

Mrs. Fred W. Meade is ill at the home of Mr. Meade's aunt, Mrs. Shorter, where Mrs. Jessie A. Meade is recovering from an acute attack of hepatic colic.

At the adjourned annual business meeting of Westminster church, Mrs. Carle E. Davis was re-elected clerk and treasurer, Arthur E. Edmond elected a trustee (C. Barstow and William E. Davis being the other two) and also elected a deacon, in place of his father, the late Edwin A. Edmond. A board of deaconesses was appointed as follows: Mrs. Frank S. Linnell, Mrs. Charles Barstow, Mrs. Carrie E. Davis, Mrs. Agnes Wood, Mrs. Walter E. Marcotte, Miss Anna Olsen and Miss Annie Hagopian.

The report of the clerk showed that six had united with the church by profession of faith, one had been reinstated as a member, one had been received by letter from a sister church, making eight additions in the year. One was dismissed to a sister church and the church lost by death Deacon Edwin A. Edmond, for many years a deacon, faithful and with the good of the church and community always at heart. His earnest voice lifted in prayer for the young people will not soon be forgotten, nor his constant attendance at the morning worship, when both his vision and his hearing had nearly completely failed.

Since the beginning of the present pastorate, July 1, 1915, 19 have been added to the church. The membership then was 28 and now is 39, seven having been removed by death and one by letter, total gain 11. Many families have left town.

It is intended to have the topics and Bible reading in connection with each week's home prayer service printed ahead of the date, so those who wish may make use of them. The topic for Wednesday is God's Supreme Gift, Is. 7: 10-18, and 26; 1-10. For Feb. 7, Christ the Messiah. References, Is. 40: 1-12; 42: 1-9; 50: 1-9; 52: 55; 60: 1-22.

In connection with the morning worship last Sunday a letter in form of a poem, The Little White Church on the Hill, was read. The author is Miss Nellie Colburn. It was intended for the recent annual church meeting and was greatly appreciated by all who heard it.

GREATNESS.

He has achieved the heights—unhelped, alone,
The way was steep, and many a cutting stone
Hurt his brave feet, but ever on he pressed.
Unwavering, and reached his goal—his best.

Nor can he joy in his achievement—no
While there are footworn, toiling ones below
He looks with pitying eyes that understand—
A tender smile; he reaches out his hand.

His strength to their poor feebleness is lent,
So is he great, with noble discontent,
Till others share the good that he has won,
And those who toil in darkness find the sun.

—Bertha Germeaux Woods, in Christia Herald.

AFTER THE SNOWSTORM.

Beside the brook, I pause to look
Upon the wintry scene;
It charms today, as when in May
The trees were wrapt in green

So sadly still the rippling rill
That ran beneath the bridge;
It's buried low beneath the snow
That shrouds you silent ridge.

And now I hear a moaning drear,
A murmur low and sad:—
Why do they sigh? Why do they cry?
Those pines once green and glad.

They're loaded down from stem to crown;
They stoop in vanquished pain.
They're unaware! They're fair more fair
Than when in simple green!

A little shed, a hermitstead,
Upon the hillside stands;
It's hidden so; above, below,
Its eaves are fringed bands.

The sun shines bright; on left, on right,
The banks of crystals gleam;
No costly gem; no diadem,
Can cast a brighter beam.

And far and wide, on every side,
The dazzling stones expand—
O matchless morn, idyllic born
Of snow, New England's friend!
—Clara C. Holmes, in Boston Globe.

Lewis Shuster of Monroe, N. Y., has a campaign hat that blew from a soldier's head in 1918 when a troop train passed through the town. Recently, on close examination, Shuster found a $50 bill and a photograph of a young woman tucked inside the band. He is now looking for the owner, who can have the treasure by proving his identity.

The nitrates of Chile are the largest known to exist, and are one of the greatest sources of that country's prosperity. Their exhaustion would mean disaster to Chile and a great loss to the world. But it has been suggested that Africa might compete with Chile, if not take the place of that country, in this industry. Experts are said to be convinced that nitrate deposits even more extensive than those of South America exist all over the western part of the Sahara. It would cost more to get the product to the coast than it costs in Chile, but it is averred that this extra expense of transportation would only counterbalance the high export duty imposed on Chilean nitrates. — Washington Star.

The fight was slow. Greb fought as typically of his style as he could, swinging without direction and butting his head for which he was constantly cautioned. Loughran's cool and clever defense kept Greb from being entirely himself, kept the challenger from severe punishment, but it also kept him out of the title.

It was not until the tenth round that Greb struck out boldly but he was unable to do much damage. The challenger did not take the lead until the next to the last round and in the 15th far surpassed the champion in all departments, rocking Greb once with a hard right to the jaw.

The Fight in Detail.

Loughran was a defensive puzzle in the first round and in the second he poked several stiff lefts to the champion's face. The challenger added a few more in the third while Greb pranced about swinging without effect.

They exchanged more evenly during short rallies in the fourth. Greb landed two hard right jabs during the quiet fifth but was cautioned to stop butting with his head. Both men parried unsuccessfully in the sixth. Greb remained baffled and Loughran was generally on the defensive in the seventh, but in the eighth, the champion quickened the pace finding the challenger willing to exchange. Greb had the edge of some loose fighting in the ninth. Greb tore out wildly in the tenth. He smashed into Loughran's stomach, hurting the challenger and slowing him up but in the eleventh both took it easier. Greb had the better of hard exchanges in the twelfth, but was again warned to stop butting. Greb, after having the best of the slugging in the thirteenth was amazed when Loughran lashed out with both hands to the body in the fourteenth. Greb soon quieted the challenger, however, and won the fourteenth. Loughran rocked the champion in the last round when he made his best showing.

PERFECT ICE CONDITIONS FEATURE SARANAC EVENTS

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Charles Gorman, of St. John, N. B., won the 220-yard and Harry Kasky, of Chicago, the one mile event on the opening program of the third meet of the Adirondack gold cup skating championship series here today.

Charles Jewtraw, of Lake Placid, fought out the 220-yard event shoulder to shoulder with Gorman throughout the race, but fell as the two neared the finish line and was forced out of position. Paul Forsman, of New York, finished second and Edward Gloster, of Toronto, was third.

Frank Garnett, of St. John, N. B., forced the pace in the one-mile race and won the lap prize, but was passed in the final circuit of the rink when Kasky and William Steinmetz, of Chicago, who finished second, started a fast sprint. Edward Corcoran, of Johnson City, was third.

Clear cold weather with the thermometer holding well down to the zero mark provided perfect ice conditions, but soon drove to shelter a majority of the crowd gathered for the events.

Tomorrow's program comprises the one-half and three-quarter mile races.

The summaries:

220-yard event, won by Charles Gorman, St. John, N. B.; Paul Forsman, New York city, second; Edward Gloster, Toronto, third. Time 30 4-5 seconds.

One-mile event: Won by Harry Kasky, Chicago; William Steinmetz, Chicago, second; Edward Corcoran, Johnson City, third. Time, 2.34 4-5

Point score: Gorman and Kasky 10; Foreman and Steinmetz 20; Gloster and Corcoran 10.

LANDIS CONSIDERS THE CONLON BASEBALL DISPUTE

New York, Jan 30—Judge Landis had a hearing in his commodore suite yesterday over the case of "Jocko" Conlon, former Harvard shortstop, who was signed recently by the Boston Braves. The Rochester Club of the International has put in a claim for the player's services, alleging that he accepted its terms before he signed with the Braves.

President John Conway Toole of the International League and Walter Hapgood, half-owner at Rochester, presented arguments on behalf of that club. They told Landis that they both had been in touch with Conlon a week or more before the Braves annexed him. Conlon, they say, sent Rochester a telegram asking them to call a certain phone number in Boston if they had decided to accept his terms. The club alleges that it called this number, talked with Conlon and agreed on terms. The next day he was announced as the latest member of the Braves.

In rebuttal, George Washington Grant, Boston owner, told Landis yesterday that the Rochester claim is invalid because they have nothing in writing to substantiate it. Baseball law insists that a club must produce a letter, telegram or contract to uphold such a claim, and on that ground Grant asked that the matter be thrown out of court. Rochester, on the other hand, maintained this was an unusual case and asked that the verbal evidence be admitted as proof of their charges.

NO NEED OF REOPENING HERZOG-BENTON CASE

New York, Jan. 30—President John A. Heydler of the National League said yesterday that his organization sees no reason for reopening the dispute between Charley Herzog and Rube Benton, as demanded by Herzog in a Philadelphia interview the other day. Herzog told newspaper men that he will insist that his name be cleared, but President Heydler answered this yesterday by saying that the former Giant infielder has already been cleared officially.

"When the Benton-Herzog controversy was finally ended, Herzog asked me to write him two letters of approval so that he might have these as evidence that he was all right," said Heydler "I wrote those two letters and sent them to Herzog. He got everything that he asked for, and since then he has made this fact public to show that his name was cleared. The public has never believed otherwise and the National League has never made any statement reflecting directly or indirectly on Herzog, nor has it ever attempted to go behind the two letters which I wrote.

"In other words the case is the same as it ever was. We have no quarrel with Herzog, and so far as we are concerned the case is closed. For that matter it closed with the end of the investigation I conducted into the dispute and with the letters I then wrote to Herzog."

It was learned yesterday that Herzog and his attorney, Charles H. Knapp of Baltimore, visited the National League offices several weeks ago but found President Heydler out for the day. Then Mr. Knapp called him by phone at his home and told him that Herzog was indignant over statements made concerning him and was determined to protect his name. Heydler's reply to this, according to reliable information, was that he had made none of the statements and was not interested in what legal action Herzog might contemplate. He advised Herzog's attorney to confine his attention to persons who had actually made statements reflecting on his client.

What the lawyer said or did in reply is not known but it would not be surprising to many baseball men if Herzog has already threatened suit against the league to compel it to make public the evidence in the hearing held by Heydler here in 1920. Herzog's contention is that if Benton is allowed to play in the league that would be by inference below at him. He maintains that the only way in which he can disprove the statements which he alleges were circulated is to force the National League to make public the affidavits, depositions and other papers relating to the hearing in 1920.

Despite denials some time ago from Cincinnati Benton and Ban Johnson who barred the pitcher from the American League, did meet at Garry Herrmann's office and discussed the case face to face. Whether Johnson had to say evidently did not please Herrmann for the local magnate is determined as ever to insist that the National League sanction Benton's return to the majors by way of Cincinnati, which bought him from the St. Paul club of the American Association. He will carry his fight to the National League meeting here on Feb. 13, and the whole matter, from A to Z, will be settled then.

EASTERN WOMEN MAINTAIN THEIR TENNIS SUPREMACY

New York, Jan. 30.—Eastern tennis women maintained their supremacy as the field in the Heights Casino indoor tournament narrowed to eight survivors in the round before the semi-finals today.

Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole, the Boston star, accounted for the defeat of Miss Mayme McDonald, Seattle, Wash., by the score 6-3, 5-7, 10-8. In the third set the Pacific northwest player was three times within a stroke of victory.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, women's national champion, had some difficulty in beating Miss Ceres Banker, of East Orange, N. J. So ably did Miss Baker force her overhanders that she carried the opening game to deuce points twenty times before the champion won. The final score of the match was 6-0, 6-3.

In the other contests Miss Marie Wagner, New York, Mrs. Carl V. Hitchins, Mexico, and Miss Lillian Scharman, New York, scored in straight sets.

MANY CHAMPIONS ATTEND VETERAN ATHLETES' BANQUET

Philadelphia, Jan. 30.—Champion athletes from many branches of sport were guests of honor tonight at the annual banquet of the Veteran Athletes of Philadelphia.

Among them were Princeton's 1922 football eleven, which was awarded the Joseph H. Jolley trophy "emblematic of the eastern football championship," and Georgetown University's 1922 baseball team, eastern collegiate champion, awarded the Thomas Jackson Kitson trophy. Trophies also were awarded the senior eight oared crew of the West Philadelphia Boat club, holder of the world's mile and a quarter record; the University of Pennsylvania two mile relay team, which last year established a new world's record of 8 minutes 49 2-5 seconds, and a number of individuals.

FRENCH FENCER AWARDED 1000 FRANC PRIZE

Paris, Jan. 30.—Lucien Gaudin, a left-handed fencer and for many years champion of France, today was awarded the 1923 one thousand franc prize by the Academy of Sports in recognition of his sportsmanship and high moral value.

Gaudin has been considered by the French as the world's foils champion since he won a sensational bout against Aldo Nadi, the Italian amateur champion, in Paris last year. For this victory the French government decorated Gaudin with the Legion of Honor.

M'GRAW DENIES REPORT ABOUT MOTOR SPEEDWAY

Havana, Jan. 30.—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York National League baseball club, today denied a report current in the United States and cabled here that he is among the New York and Indianapolis men said to be backing a proposed motor speedway at Glen Allen, Virginia.

"There isn't a vestige of truth in it," said McGraw.

YANKS STILL WANT TO OBTAIN EDDIE COLLINS

New York, Jan. 30.—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, part owner of the New Yankees, declared today he expected to renew negotiations with the Chicago White Sox in an effort to obtain Eddie Collins, veteran second baseman, at the spring meeting of the American League, in Philadelphia, February 19.

Colonel Ruppert denied reports that the deal, one of the principal topics of discussion during the December sessions of the major leagues here, had been discarded.

Colonel Ruppert did not indicate whether the Yankees had altered their proposal, which was understood to involve the exchange of Aaron Ward, Bob Meusel and a pitcher for Collins, "Bib" Falk and Ted Blankenship.

NORWICH DROPS OUT OF BAY STATE CIRCUIT

Boston, Jan. 30—The annual roundup of the followers of the turf in New England drew more than 700 horsemen to this city today to attend various meetings under the auspices of the Bay State circuit.

At the meeting of the stewards of the circuit three tracks came into the organization and one dropped out. The new members were Readville, Marshfield and Worcester. Norwich surrendered its date, Combination Park, Medford, accepted Norwich's date and will have two meets this year. Readville's meet will be run as part of the Grand Circuit program. Worcester nominally a member, did not have a meeting last year but will carry on this year.

The dates announced follow: The week of June 11, Combination Park, 12, Woonsocket, R. I., 28, Avon, July 3, Windsor, 5, Springfield, 16, Northampton, 21, Greenfield, 25, Worcester, August 6, Woonsocket, 13, Combination Park, 20, Marshfield, 27, Readville.

At the annual banquet of the circuit tonight W. H. Gocher, secretary of the National Trotting Association was the principal speaker.

YANKS TRADE THREE PLAYERS FOR PENNOCK, BOSTON STAR TWIRLER

New York, Jan. 30.—The New York Yankees today announced completion of a deal with the Boston Red Sox by which the American League champions acquired Herb Pennock, veteran southpaw pitcher, in exchange for three young players—George Murray, pitcher; Norman McMillan, infielder; and Camp Skinner, outfielder. No cash was involved in the deal.

Pennock, one of the most reliable portsiders in the American league last year, was sought by the Yankees when negotiations fell through for Jakie May, crack southpaw of the Vernon, Cal., club of the Pacific Coast League.

Last season, with the last place Boston club, Pennock won ten and lost seventeen games. He began his major league career with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1912, going to Boston in 1915. He was the last survivor on the Red Sox team of the world's champions of 1918.

As a result of their latest deal with the Red Sox, five of the six regular pitchers on the Yankee roster are former Boston stars. Besides Pennock, they are Waite Hoyt, Joe Bush, Carl Mays and Sam Jones. Four other regulars also are ex-Hubmen—Babe Ruth, Wally Schang, Joe Dugan and Everett Scott.

The trio of youngsters traded for Pennock are regarded as unusually promising. Murray, recruited from North Carolina University and farmed to the Rochester Internationals in 1921, was used in a utility role last year. McMillan, obtained from the Charlotte, N. C., club of the South Atlantic Association and also farmed to Rochester in 1921, played in the outfield for a time last year but is expected to be assigned to the regular third base job with the Red Sox by Manager Frank Chance. Skinner was used chiefly as a pinch-hitter last season with the Yankees. He was obtained originally from the Georgia State League and farmed in 1921 to Dallas, in the Texas league.

Vaughan Wins Again.

New York, Jan. 30.—Carl Vaughan, won his second consecutive victory in the national amateur pocket billiard championship today by defeating Humboldt Foss, New York, 125 balls to 94.

Edward F. Reynolds, New York, defeated William J. Harworth, Cleveland, 125 to 91, in the final game of the day. Reynolds required 17 frames; his highest run was 20.

ANDERSON SUSTAINED BY THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

New York, Jan. 30.—"Defiance against the wold, the fish and the devil, which we believed leagued against us in this contest," was uttered today by the board of directors of the Anti-Saloon League of New York state, in a resolution expressing confindence in William H Anderson, state superintendent of the league, whose financial management of th eleague is under investigation by the district attorney.

The board, which held its meeting behind closed doors, praised Mr. Anderson "for the wise and upright and courageous way in which he has conducted and managed the affairs of the Anti-Saloon league in this state.

No mention was made by the board, in its formal statement issued through Mr. Anderson, of the report published yesterday that John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and Jr., had withdrawn their financial support from the organization.

Seeing in the board resolution an inference that the district attorney's office was attacking the prohibition movement and the enforcement of the dry laws, through the investigation, Assistant District Attorney Pecora declared:

"The prohibition issue is in no way involved nor will it become involved. No greater service could be rendered the prohibition cause than this investigation, if it develops that a crime has been committed by anyone connected with the league."

Assistant District Attorney Pecora announced that he would resume the questioning of Mr. Anderson tomorrow and that he expected the books of account, including loose leaf ledgers, of the league would be produced for his examination.

"All I am interested in," he said, "is the entries in these books on the allegations made by O. B. Phillips, the former league financial representative, against Mr. Anderson."

From Miss Freda J. Fagry, a bookkeeper once employed by the league who voluntarily appeared as a witness at the inquiry, Mr. Pecora said he "found out about Anderson's absolute dictatorship over the affairs of the office. I also learned of other matters of which I will make no mention at this time.

DEBT FUNDING REPORT TO BRITISH CABINET

London, Jan. 30.—(By the A. P.)—Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, gave a full report of his debt funding mission in the United States to his colleagues at a cabinet council today. The subject was discussed for an hour and a half, but no decision was reached, and the cabinet adjourned, To meet tomorrow to continue the discussion.

It is considered almost certain that a final decision will be dached this week, first, because if the American terms are to be accepted a speed decision is required in order to give the American congress time to take necessary action, and, second, because the chancellor must prepare for his budget statement next March, and needs to know definitely how much he has to provide for the payment of interest to America.

It is understood that there are practically only two alternatives before the cabinet—acceptance of the American terms, or allowing matters to drift and paying 5 per cent. interest, hoping for some change in conditions in the future. It is believed that the balance of opinion favors acceptance of the American terms, but there is a considerable difference of opinion among the ministers especially on account of the American plan requiring interest to be paid in American currency.

WAR-BATTERED VETERANS IN THE COUE AUDIENCE

Boston, Jan. 30.—Blind men and women, helpless cripples and nerve-battered war veterans were among the thousands who heard Emile Coue, the little druggist of Nancy, France, preach his doctrine of health through conscious auto-suggestion here today.

"Every time there is conflict between the imagination and the will, the wormer wins," asserted M. Coue. "The more we are troubled about doing anything the more we are inclined, despite our determination, to do the opposite. If we are determined to fall asleep the harder it become to do so. The one who is confident he will sleep will do so.

"You can become masters of yourselves, physically and morally. It is our sub-conscious being that shapes our lives. When we learn to lead it we learn to lead our lives."

Mary Garden, of the Chicago Civic Opera company, who earlier in the day had a private consultation foth M. Coue, and who enthusiastically declared that her voice had improved 100 per cent. since she became a disciple of Coue four weeks ago, will preside at a Coue meeting tomorrow morning, she announced. Miss Garden said she intends to take a 15 day treatment in Nancy from M. Coue next spring. She will sail for Europe on February 20.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Reductions in the shipping board payrolls totaling $1,100,000 and involving the discharge of approximately 500 employees throughout the country may be expected before June 30 of this year, Chairman Lasker of the shipping board announced today. He declared the overhead charges of the board's operation will be reduced to a minimum by that date.

When the present shipping board came into office, according to testimony offered by Chairman Lasker to the house committee on appropriations, the annual payroll was $15,561,400, with 8,324 persons employed, and on Dec. 19, 1922, a year and a half later, the payroll was $8,856,496, with approximately 4,000 employed. To date, it was said, the payroll has been further reduced to approximately $8,600,000, and is expected to total about $7,500,000 by June 30.

MILAN RAILWAY STATION DESTROYED BY FIRE

London, Jan. 31.—The Central railway station at Milan was almost entirely destroyed by fire last (Thursday) night, says a despatch from that city to the Times. The fire started from some unknown cause about 11 o'clock, and was still raging long after midnight despite the efforts to check it.

The Central station at Milan was built in 1864 and is used by all the state lines.

Mrs. Walter Stokes Irons, a prominent educator, lecturer and clubwoman, and for ten years instructor in history at the Rhode Island state college, died in Providence.

BRIEF STATE NEWS

New Haven—Considerable damage was done by fire in the meat market at 677 Quinnipiac avenue, near Grand avenue, conducted by Bonaventure and Voncenzo Esposito. The flames were confined to the rear of the store, but the stock in the front was damaged considerably by smoke and water.

Branford—At the court Tony Plepis, charged with breach of the peace and abuse of an officer, was fined $25 and costs. Frank Skanowiski, charged with breach of the peace and drunenness was fined $30 and costs. Joe Popcavich was fined $15 and costs on a charge of breach of the peace.

Ansonia—The Rev. Otto W. Burtner pastor of the First Congregational church, has been presented with a gift of $1,000 by his parishioners. The pastor received the gift through C. F. Tolles and it was made by the parishioners because of the high esteem in which they hold their pastor.

Portland—At a recent meeting of the general committee on the banquet plants for Ormont Post, American Legion, the following committee was appointed: Speaker, Dr. Charles B. Chedel; program, Frank C. Barker; music, William J. O'Donnell; tickets, Carl B. Bengtsong.

Norfolk—Word has been received by relatives of the death at his home in New York city, of Alvin Langdon, a former resident of this place on Wednesday, January 24, after an illness of several weeks.

Ivoryton—Latham S. Watrous, 70 years old, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Tripp of Ivoryton from a complication of diseases. Most of his life was spent in Ivoryton, and for many years he was an employee of the Comstock & Cheney.

Derby—Mrs. Albert H. Yudkin, who was severely injured a few days ago by a runaway motor truck, is slowly convalescing at the Griffin hospital. It is expected that she will be able to return to her home in Caroline street next week.

OBITUARY.

Patrick J. Boyle

Newport, R. I., Jan. 30—Mayor Patrick J. Boyle, chief executive of this city for 17 of the past 28 years, died today. He was ill during the campaign in which he defeated Mayor Jeremiah P. Mahoney's attempt at re-election in a three-cornered fight, got up from a sick bed to read his inaugural address on New Year's day and had been able to give but little time to the office.

Mayor Boyle was first elected in 1895 to fill an unexpired term, his predecessor having died in office. He served 15 one-year terms subsequently, his last election having been for two years.

He was sixty years old and is survived by a widow, who was his second wife, and three children.

LOST $10,000 SUIT AGAINST THE U. S. CREMATION CO.

New York, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Alwine P. Ambert, 50, today lost her $10,000 damage suit against the United States Cremation company for the alleged mixing of the ashes of her first two husbands.

The court directed a verdict, holding she had failed to substantiate her claim that the Cremation company carelessly handled the ashes, which she had placed in a niche there, and which she alleges had been mixed. She almost collapsed in court when she was questioned about her third husband. Weeping bitterly, she declared he had disappeared, taking $6,000 of her money with him.

MAGISTRATE SAYS HALF THE COPS ARE BOOTLEGGERS

New York, Jan. 30.—Asserting that "half the cops are bootleggers themselves and stealing whiskey," Magistrate Corrigan, presiding today in Essex Market court at the hearing of a delicatessen store owner charged with selling liquor, threatened to send to the workhouse any policeman found guilty of beating citizens in making arrests.

TODAY'S EVENTS

And the end of the coldest month, too, according to past weather records.

It is also the date when, by tradition, the man who was fortunate enough to lay in a winter's supply of coal last fall expects to find just half of it gone.

Today is the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Elise Voget Polo, who attained wide fame in Germany and elsewhere as a novelist and singer.

Portugal observes a national holiday today in celebration of the anniversary of the first attempt to establish a republic in that country, in 1891.

Two of the royal visitors now in America, Prince Christopher of Greece and the princess, who was Mrs. W. B. Leeds, celebrate their second wedding anniversary today.

According to rumor, one of the first subjects to come before the session of the Canadian parliament which opens today will be a proposal that the dominion withdraw from the league of nations.

The problem of the shortage of labor confronting the merchant tailoring business throughout the United States will be one of the chief subjects to come before the annual convention of the National Association of Merchant Tailors, which gets under way today in Detroit.

New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and the six New England states are to be represented at an important conference of republican state committee women which is to be opened in Boston today under the auspices of the women's division of the Massachusetts state republican committee.

Valuable Property Sold

Colt & Sholes sold for Mrs. Helen Platt Huntington her three family house on Laurel Hill avenue, to Mr. Barnet Cohen. He is going to make improvements and build a two car garage there, this making the third house this agency has sold Mr. Cohen within a short time. This also makes the fourth house that Colt & Sholes has sold on Laurel Hill avenue inside of a month, showing the public they are alive to the needs of the people.

Breed Theatre

A puzzling murder mystery, the solution of which involves a romantic climax and a picture which holds the audience from the first scene to the last, is "For the Defense," a Paramount picture starring Ethel Clayton, which is the feature at the Breed theatre today and Thursday.

The characterizations are strong and effective. Vernon Steel, leading man, plays the district attorney, Zasu Pitts, is Jennie Dunn, Bertram Grassby again shows versatility as the mysterious Dr. Kasimir, a Hindu hypnotist whose murder almost involves two innocent persons. Others are Maym Kelso, Sylvia Ashton and Mabel Van Buren.

The court room scenes are gripping and the mystery reaches a smashing surprise climax. Miss Clayton is excellent as Anne Woodstock, the heroine. Elmer E. Rice, uathor of "On Trial," wrote the story. Beulah Marie Dix adapted it to the screen, Paul Powell directed, and the photography was by Hal Rosson.

For the second feature William Russell will be seen in "A Self-Made Man" and Movie Chats will complete the bill.

At the Broadway Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The B. F. Keith vaudeville at the Broadway is as follows for the last half of this week.

Reba and Tracy open with an excellent dance revue; Ethel Hopkins presents Moments Musical. The clever musical comedy artists, Bert and Mina Wainwright, appear in The Night Weights, by Paul Gerard Smith. Harry Jans and Harold Whalem call their offering Nutcomicalities. The bill is closed by Mischa & Co. The Brazilian Wonder, only woman in the world who walks on the wire without the aid of pole or umbrella.

Two of Jack Boyle's Boston Blackie stories were used as the basis of Missing Millions, Alice Brady's new Paramount picture, which will be shown at the Broadway theatre Thursday. Missing Millions succeeds in holding the interest and furnishing a few thrills. Mary Dawson, seeking to avenge her father's death and with the help of Blackie, steals the consignment of gold sent to Jim Cantwell, the man responsible for the death of Mary's father. A ship's purser is wrongly accused of the crime, and in order to save him Mary gives up the gold, but not in time to prevent Cantwell's suicide.

Alice Brady is a clever actress. David Powell fits nicely into the part of Blackie, and Frank Losee, George Le Guerre, William B. Mack, and Alice May make up a capable cast.

Crook roles made 'em famous—and now they're doing them again!

Betty Compson sprung from obscurity to fame and stardom by her appearance as the little picpocket Rose in The Miracle Man. Bert Lytell was just a successful stock leading man until he scored a big hit in a crook role in The Lone Wolf, and followed it up with his portrayal in Alias Jimmy Valentine, which has long been rated one of the greatest box-office attractions ever made.

Now for the first time, these two great "crook" players are joined in a great crook play. They, with May McAvoy are featured in Kick In, a new George Fitzmaurice Paramount picture which Ouida Bergere adapted from the Willard Mack stage triumph, and which comes to the Strand theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A comedy and news will finish the program.

ORGAN RECITAL WITH LYRIC TENOR SOLOIST

The Norwich Music association considers itself fortunate in securing Joseph Lautner, of Boston, to assist Frederick W. Lester at his organ recital to be given in the United Congregational church on Monday evening, Feb. 5th.

Mr. Lautner is a lyric tenor and is soloist for the Harvard Glee club, the Gloria Quartet, the Commonwealth Avenue Synagogue, and Temple Israel.

This recital will be an open meeting of the association, and the interested public is cordially invited to attend.

THE RUHR SITUATION.

When France decided to take possession of the Ruhr basin and moved its troops there, it was realized that the situation could be very much softened should the Germans make the best of it, give the French the opportunity to demonstrate that Germany's methods and views were incorrect and offer as little resistance as possible.

There was little reason to believe that such a course was followed. It would not be like the Germans. They did not welcome the invasion and it could hardly be expected that they would do anything that would make it a success. The feeling between the nations has not abated, and the conditions with French troops in charge were not favorable.

Germany has had an opportunity to reflect on what was done by them when they went through Belgium and France, and to realize that they were in a position to invite a repetition of it or to make the effects of the French visit as painless as possible. Reflection, however, is apparently sidetracked. The people in the Ruhr are for the most part not paying any attention to what Germany did, but are being governed by existing conditions. They chafe under the French orders and plans. They are threatening more than passive resistance. Arrests have been necessary and bloodshed has taken place.

One bit of evidence of a possible change of front is furnished by the unanimous decision of the miners' union against a general strike. France has shown a determined policy but it has endeavored to avoid trouble. The situation is one that takes but little to develop serious difficulties and thus far there are indications that the people of the Ruhr with outside backing are not opposed to playing into the hands of the French. What results will depend upon what the Germans require in the way of insistence on the part of the French.

FIGHTING FRAUD.

Small numbers of those who have no other thought than to respect the rights of others and refrain from engaging in harmful practices are obliged to conform to a lot of restrictions and regulations that would not have been found necessary had others manifested the same disposition that they have. It is because others have hogged the road, disregarded the rights of others, swindled and stolen that in all directions there will be found regulatory measures that require extra work and added detail for a small army.

This is well illustrated in Rhode Island where two truckmen have been arrested and fined [illegible] without making a report of the same to the city clerk's office. It doesn't appear that there was anything crooked in this matter, or that the families whose goods were moved had attempted to dodge responsibilities, but it was because the operators of the vans neglected duties imposed upon them by the law that got them into trouble and cost them substantial fines.

Moving van operators are saddled with additional duties because of the very fact that many people have been successful in escaping financial obligations through such assistance as they might unknowingly give. Thirty-by-nights may, or may be linked up with the movers of household goods but when the movers remove their part in the handling of goods they clear their skirts, and it is through them that the authorities rely on the prevention of such successful flights, which otherwise might easily remain a mystery, especially in a large center.

The law thus imposes a burden upon the van operators, and a penalty if they are forgetful or negligent. It is one of those cases where they pay because of the sharp practices of others. The fight for the prevention of fraud is a hard but proper one.

ARMENIANS AND RUSSIA.

It must be a bit humiliating for the nations of Europe that have represented themselves such good friends of the Armenians to realize that it has been necessary for the much mistreated people to accept asylum and the chance to carry on a peaceful existence from soviet Russia.

Armenia was promised something different, but it has failed to get either the territory or the protection it was entitled to. How reluctant the European countries were to see that justice was done those people was indicated when they did their utmost to have this country accept the mandate for Armenia. They were desirous of having justice done provided this country could be prevailed upon to administer it. The unwillingness to assume that responsibility themselves was apparent at that time and it has been so since. The efforts to get a national home for the Armenians in Asiatic Turkey have been listened to, but it is evident that the Armenians are convinced that it will amount to nothing, or they would not have eagerly accepted the offer that comes from the Russians.

The provision of a place for the Armenian refugees in Russia is an outcome that was not looked for. It doesn't mean, however, that they are to be given the land they would occupy, or that they would not be permitted to govern themselves as a nation. In accepting Russia's offer they would be allowed the use of the land but they would be subject to soviet rule, and yet they are apparently so well impressed with that improvement that they are disposed to accept it. Russia has the territory that will accommodate them without crowding others, and the extension of such aid to the Armenians will react to the benefit of Russia.

It is not the solution the Armenians would have preferred. It is not what they ought to get, but they evidently regard most anything as preferable to the continued existence under Turkish rule, while the refugees must have a place to live somewhere. It is the best assurance they have received thus far and yet conditions in Russia are not what might be called inviting.

SERVING PORTO RICO.

Protests which have been made against the governorship of E. Mont Reily by the Porto Ricans are to bear fruit. There has been shown the strongest kind of opposition to him. Exception has been taken to his methods and so acute has become the opposition at times that it has been manifest that he could never do any constructive work in the island as governor. His retirement has thus been looked for.

Who his successor will be has not been announced but there is no doubt but what the qualifications of General Clarence R. Edwards admirably equip him for the position. General Edwards' name has been mentioned in this connection while considering the possibility of a vacancy in the governorship.

General Edwards is a careful and efficient administrator. He has had experience in just such work as devolves upon a governor of Porto Rico. He is equipped for the work and there are the best of reasons for believing that he would not only faithfully serve the islanders but that he would do it in such a way as to be a credit to the government and himself at the same time.

General Edwards has been located at Panama and he is closely in touch with the island possessions of this country through his service at the head of the bureau of insular affairs. That he would command as much confidence from the islanders as well as the people of this country in such a position as General Wood has in the Philippines is a foregone conclusion. It is that kind of service that is desired. The best interests of the islands need to be served with the least possible friction. It has been indicated that Reily's ability to govern has not been suited to the conditions and requirements in Porto Rico.

WORKING TOWARD PEACE.

Time and again have efforts been made to settle the differences between Peru and Chili because of the dispute over the Tacna-Arica districts, now under the control of the latter, but once held by the former. Do what they would they have not been able to adjust matters between themselves. Treaty agreements have not helped and as the result bad feeling and severed diplomatic relations have prevailed. It has been a sore spot that affected the whole continent.

[illegible] reason the acceptance by President Harding of the invitation to act as arbitrator means much to the countries and to all others that have been interested in or troubled as the long standing dispute.

This is of course the direct result of the invitation extended by this government to those countries to send representatives here for a conference, looking to a settlement. Not only did they come to an understanding as to the course that should be pursued, but that has been ratified by the respective governments and now all that remains is to put it into operation.

It is gratifying to know that they have decided to secure a settlement through a presentation of facts, and a decision based thereon, rather than through a further resort to arms. President Harding has manifested a deep interest in the ending of the trouble and the selection of him as arbitrator indicates the confidence that is placed in him in connection with this long standing trouble. More than those directly involved will hope for a successful outcome of a step that should have been taken a long time ago. Just now they appear to be headed toward peace.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

With 42 speeders sent to jail in Cleveland in one day, such a list of violators shows the need of drastic action.

Those who are undertaking to resist the French in the Ruhr are finding that their way is becoming harder and harder.

Within the last few weeks less has been said about the joy that would come from a return of a good old fashioned winter.

The man on the corner says: It is useless to shed tears over the departure of a month. It cannot be January all the time.

The fact that the day for his appearance comes on Friday will not be enough to upset the plans of the courageous groundhog.

Probably the severity of the January weather will have to be blamed for the large importations of the forbidden stuff from Bermuda.

Perhaps you wouldn't like to be the iceman, but it cannot longer be claimed that there's no friendship between him and the weatherman.

It will mean some time before it is wiped out if the British debt is paid in 62 years. But think what a celebration there can be on the last payment.

Moonshine outfits seized in some cities make as large a pile of rubbish as have the false bottom, short measure receptacles seized from time to time by inspectors of weights and measures.

HIS ARTISTIC SOUL

"Why, what's this?" inquired the middle-aged woman as she stepped into the living room and found the young wife weeping hysterically into a cushion on the davenport. "What on earth's the trouble?"

"Oh, Crilla!" the young wife looked up at her husband's oldest sister through tear-filled eyes. "Elton's gone!"

"Gone! Where? What's happened?" again asked the husband's sister, somewhat impatiently.

"It's all my fault," sobbed the young wife. "Elton being an artist, I ought to have remembered about his artistic temperament——"

"Are you sure it isn't just plain temper? Eunice, what's this all about, anyway?"

"It's about a letter I received from Eva Jones begging me to come out to Franklin for the week-end. She's having two of the other girls of our crowd who live out west, and who are her house guests now. She thought it would be so nice to have a reunion of just us four, and I thought it was lovely of her to ask me.

"But you know how Elton dislikes to have me go away even for a few days. He says that when I am gone the inspiration leaves him and he can't paint at all, on account of being so lonesome for me. It's sweet of him to put it that way, but," sighing, "I was wild to accept Eva's——"

"I see," said her listener grimly. "Elton selfishly objected, of course. And that's why you quarreled."

"Don't say 'selfishly,' Crilla! You don't understand Elton. He is so dear and patient. And he doesn't quarrel with me at all. He just looks so sorrowful and pained, and sighs, and then I always give in right away because I don't want to break his heart."

"Humph!" ejaculated the sister, cynically. "Didn't you assume that meek and lowly attitude today?"

"Oh, it was awfully stubborn of me, but I—I just told him that I thought I would go to Eva's, even after he looked his disapproval. But my defiance was too much for his artist's soul, and——"

"By 'artist's soul' you mean that he wants to have his own way all the time. He has been my brother a great deal longer than he has been your husband, so I think I know how to handle him. We'll just call his bluff!"

"Bluff? Oh, Crilla, now I know that you don't understand him at all even if you are his sister! He is not like other people. He lives on a much higher plane. I'm afraid I've driven him from me forever. I only hope he won't do something terrible, like jumping into the river, or something like that."

"Don't worry, he won't! Do you know where he is now?"

"Over at Gilberts'. Mrs. Gilbert is away visiting her mother, and Elton had promised to spend this evening with Mr. Gilbert. So I suppose that's where he is now. But I know he's never coming back! He said," sobbing afresh, "that as long as I didn't love him any more he didn't want to be in my way at all!"

"Did he take his clothes with him? No? Then I'll tell you what we'll do. We'll take his suitcase to him and you tell him that as long as he had decided to leave you you brought some of his clothing to him, as you thought he might need it."

The young wife stared at her. "But what——"

When they reached the Gilbert apartment the young wife rushed up to her husband, but before she had a chance to say anything the husband's sister announced clearly: "Eunice is going to leave you. She's taking this suitcase with some of her clothes. She will send for her other things later."

The young wife looked in amazement at the speaker. The artist husband did not waste any useless words.

"Eunice, you're not!" he exclaimed, excitedly. "Why, I'm coming home right now, and you're going back with me. I'm surprised at you, really! I never thought you'd do a thing like this. Just take your suitcase and——"

"Elton," hurriedly interrupted the young wife. "I'm not leaving you at all! I just brought this suitcase for you, filled with things you might need. It's got your things in it, honestly. Look and see."

The artist husband quickly unbuckled the straps and opened the suitcase. It contained a couple of dainty dresses and a miscellaneous assortment of feminine apparel hastily thrown together, but not one masculine article.

His pained reproachful look of surprise giving way to one of fear and anxiety, the young man gazed earnestly at his wife.

"Eunice, you were going away. I see it all now. Now don't deny it! I don't blame you. But if you'll only come back home I promise you I'll never interfere with your little pleasures again. I'll keep my artistic temperament firmly in check. You write to Eva Jones tonight and tell her you are coming and you stay as long as you want to!"

The young wife was speechless with happiness. Suddenly she looked again at the contents of the suitcase, and then at her husband's oldest sister, but that lady was gazing blandly at a pattern in the wall paper opposite.—Chicago News.

INCOME TAX FACTS

EXEMPTIONS

While the exemptions for married persons are $2,500 for persons whose net income for 1923 was $5,000 or less, and $2,000 for persons whose net income was more than $5,000, there is inserted in the income tax law a qualifying clause in justice to the taxpayer whose net income just exceeds $5,000. The law provides that the reduction of the amount of the exemption from $2,500 to $2,000 shall not operate to increase the tax which would be payable if the exemption were $2,500 by more than the amount of net income in excess of $5,000. For example, Mr. and Mrs. John Jones had a net income for 1922 of $5,010. Without the benefit of the above provision, their tax would be $120.40 ($5,010 less $2,000 equaling $3,010, at 4 per cent. Their actual tax $110.40, $5,010 less $2,500, equaling $2,510 at four per cent plus $10, the amount by which the net income exceeds $5,000.

For the year 1922 there is no change in the normal tax, which is 4 per cent. on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the exemptions and 8 per cent. on the remaining net income. The surtax rates, which apply only to income in excess of $6000 are lowered. For the year 1922 the surtax rates range from 1 per cent. on the amount of net income between $6,000 and $10,000 to 50 per cent. on the amount by which the net income exceeds $200,000. For the taxable year 1921 the surtax rates ranged from 1 per cent. between $5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent. on the amount by which the net income exceeded $1,000,000.

The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in quarterly installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15, 1923.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Seventy-five years old today is Nathan Straus, eminent New York merchant, whose practical philanthropies have made his name well known on both sides of the Atlantic. Mr. Straus is a native of Rhenish Bavaria. He came to the United States in 1854 and settled in Georgia, but soon he moved to New York city. After preparing by study to enter business he soon got a foothold in trade, and, in the course of time, became a partner in some of the largest department stores in Manhattan and Brooklyn. He continued to be active in the management of his business interests until 1914, since when he has devoted himself wholly to philanthropic work, much of which he had initiated years before, notably his provision of milk for the children of the city, and his plans for helping the poor with fuel and food. Always interested in the welfare of his own race, he has given generously to projects in Palestine as well as for the betterment of emigrants to the United States.

Wives of Famous Men

Olivia Davidson, Wife of Booker T. Washington

Responsible almost as much as her famous husband for the advancement of the negro in America, Olivia Davidson, wife of Booker T. Washington, was an ardent though silent worker by the side of the great educator. Olivia Davidson was the second wife of Washington, but he was still a young man when they were married, and most of his work was accomplished after she became his wife.

Miss Davidson was born in Ohio, attended the public school of that state, and was fired with an early ambition to aid her people in an educational way. She was little more than a child when she learned of the crying need for teachers among the negroes, and this crystalized her determination.

Still a very young woman, Olivia began her teaching career in a small Mississippi town, where she had an early chance to show what stuff she was made of. One of her pupils was stricken with smallpox and she alone had the courage to nurse him.

Olivia completed her education in Massachusetts where negroes were infrequent, and although she was so light as to easily pass for a white woman, she refused to take advantage of this fact. Her one ambition was to help her race.

From here she went to Tuskegee, where she met Booker Washington, and proved valuable to him, bringing to the school new ideas of teaching. Their community of interest soon grew to a more intimate feeling, and after he was left a widower they were married. All their married life Mrs. Washington was an inspiration to her husband who wrote of her:

"A rare moral character and a life of unselfishness that I think has seldom been equaled."

A Little Talk on Thrift

Procrastination

Saving money is a matter of determination, not of income.

Many save money out of the most meager incomes and in the face of great odds, many others, with handsome incomes, waste their golden years without putting aside a single penny from one year's end to the next.

It is one of the truths of life that those who cannot learn to save on a small income will not do so on a large one.

In an obscure corner of a prominent newspaper reference was made recently to a New York elevated guard who, out of his modest earnings, had during 2 years saved enough to give him a fixed income of $1,000 a year from his investments.

This is but one instance in thousands upon thousands of cases where substantial sums have been built up from slow, patient savings.

In no phase of life is the spirit of procrastination more harmful than in the matter of thrift.

Waiting for more propritious times before beginning to save, has brought about the ultimate failure of many a well meaning person.

It is with honest intent that many say "when I begin making more money I will begin saving." But this is not the argument of those who really succeed in thrift. Success comes through making the fight, no matter what the obstacles may be.

Do not pigeon hole your good intentions.

The saving of a penny today is of more value than the possibility of saving a dollar at some future time.

Most things in life are gained through determination. And this applies with special emphasis to the matter of saving money.—American Society for Thrift.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c

Stories That Recall Others

Efforts to Span Distance.

Emma, age eight, was saying her evening prayer, preparatory for bed. She was so intent that her voice became almost shrill, and her father gently reprimanded by saying, "Dear the Lord isn't deaf."

"No, papa, but the distance is great," was the quick reply.

Juvenile Sheik Exposes Past.

When in the course of the instruction in English autobiographies were called for, one youngster after enumerating the place and time of his birth, the Sunday school he attended and the sports he liked, unfolded a few more intimate details.

Among these was the following: "When I was in grammar school, I had a girl all the time. In fact, I was a regular sheik."

The teacher marked the paper, it is rumored, with a question mark in red after this paragraph.

GUARDS KIDNAPPED BY BANDITS AT HAMPTON, PA.

Hampton, Va., Jan. 30.—Captain Norman D. Cota and the four enlisted men with him when the party was kidnapped by two men as they left the First National Bank of Hampton this morning with $43,000 payroll for Langley Field, were found this afternoon near Big Bethel, bound hand and foot. The automobile in which the officer and his guards went to the bank to get the payroll was found nearby badly damaged. Captain Cota said the two bandits escaped through the woods with the money.

RE-TRIAL OF W. E. D. STOKES DIVORCE SUIT ORDERED

New York, Jan. 30.—A re-trial of the divorce suit brought by W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy realty operator, against Helen Elwood Stokes, formerly of Denver, and the counter-suit for a separation was ordered today by Supreme Court Justice Bijur.

Mr. Stokes lost his original suit in September, 1921, when his wife was granted a decree of separation and permitted to retain the custody of their children. Since then complicated litigation has followed and Mr. Stokes moved that the divorce suit be restored to the calendar of the court.

Dyspeptics! Take Notice!!

The Word Has Gone Forth That Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Reinstate You At the Banquets.

All you gassy, sour stomachs who fear to eat because from acidity you suffer the pangs of indigestion, let it be known that you find relief from such distress by simply chewing one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals. A host of people have gone back to fried eggs and bacon, sausage, doughnuts, baked beans, pie and cheese, steak and onions, cucumbers, cream with coffee and so on because they discovered that after eating such things, a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet gave the stomach a sweetened alkaline effect and there was no sour, acid, gassy heartburn, belching, pressure and such distresses due to indigestion after eating. It is well to take notice of this and to get a 60 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store. Be armed and prepared for the big dinners and banquets.

ARBUCKLE TO DIRECT A COMEDY FILM CORPORATION

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 30.—Roscoe P. ("Fatty") Arbuckle announced tonight he had signed a contract to direct motion pictures for a comedy film corporation and that he was "done with acting."

"My greatest ambition is to make people laugh and make them happy and I can do it best as a director of comedies," he said in a prepared statement. "This is my chance to make good in the right way and in the profession that I know and love, and in a way that will meet the approval of all. I start work at once and from now on you will hear from me only through the medium of the comedies that I direct."

DISCREDITS VIEW OF NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER

Boston, Jan. 30.—An address delivered last Friday in Columbus, O., by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, in which the 15th and 18th amendments and the elective system in colleges were named as among the present day influences making for lawlessness, was assailed tonight by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of the Methodist Episcopal church, speaking before the Churchmen's union of Greater Boston.

"Dr. Butler's address is a futile utterance," the bishop said. "It is a wail rather than a remedy. Save in a general reference to sound education and true religion, it offers no constructive suggestion."

EFFORT TO SPEED UP SOLDIER LEGISLATION

Washington, Jan. 30.—A round robin was started tonight by republican members of the house favorable to soldier legislation in an effort to speed action at this session of congress on certain measures affecting the welfare of former service men.

After a republican house caucus called to deal with the question had failed to develop a quorum, friends of the legislation organized a conference behind closed doors, in the house chamber, elected officers and proceeded to business. Resolutions were adopted insisting on the necessity of the passage of certain measures.

The number of those who signed the resolution was not announced.

ed to secure a chairman, and were greatly gratified when they called on him Tuesday morning and told him he was the man they wanted to lead the campaign, and that they were unanimous in selecting him for the position.

Mr. Clark is the well known life insurance company, who will be an energetic and enthusiastic leader for workers in the drive, which is to start Feb. 23 and end March 3. Members of his executive committee will be appointed shortly.

Through funds furnished through the New England headquarters at Boston, the local representatives of the Salvation Army will today (Wednesday) be able to take up its option on the Dawson house on Cliff street, which is the building for the accomplishment of which the campaign will be waged.

THINKS COLCHESTER FIRE SET BY CHICKEN THIEF

A fire believed to have been set by a chicken thief Tuesday morning destroyed a wagon shed, two farm wagons, two buggies, a chicken coop and about 40 hens owned by Anthony Mankowsky, living on Taintor Hill, about a mile from the center of Colchester. Mr. Mankowsky figures his loss at about $1,000 and carries but $200 insurance.

Mankowsky is convinced that the fire was caused by a chicken thief who after raiding the coop set fire to it to cover his tracks. No member of his family has visited the coop since 5 o'clock Monday afternoon and none of them use tobacco, thus ending any possibility that the fire may have smouldered for hours before breaking out and spreading to other buildings.

At 3 o'clock Tuesday morning Mankowsky heard a crackling noise and investigated, finding the chicken coop destroyed and the shed blazing. Nothing could be done to save the structure and it was allowed to burn. The house was some distance away and as the wind was blowing away from the house there was little danger of a further spread. The property is situated on an elevation and the fire could be seen for miles around, attracting considerable attention.

NEW ROAD AND BRIDGE CONTRACTS FOR $491,000

The state highway department has awarded road and bridge contracts totalling $491,000 for work which will begin as soon as weather permits.

Among the contracts are two providing for a new bridge just north of Middletown over a small stream where there is now a small bridge and a dangerous curve in the road. This curve will be eliminated when the proposed bridge is opened to traffic. It is planned to complete this new bridge without closing the present road between Hartford and Middletown.

The contracts awarded follow:

Rocky Hill, 17,870 feet of plain concrete, $78,000 without the cement, which the state furnishes.

Bethany and Naugatuck road, 24,880 feet of three-inch macadam over six-inch stone base, $118,000.

Thomaston, on the Waterbury-Torrington road, 14,406 feet concrete, $90,000.

Clinton and Killingworth, $6,652 feet of four-inch macadam, $77,000.

East Haddam, on Town street, 20,533 feet of native stone macadam, $76,000.

Sub structure on new bridge between Middletown and Cromwell, $30,000.

The superstructure on this same bridge for $22,000.

ELLAL SAYS HE WAS TOLD TO POISON HORSE

The father of Benjamin Ellal of Preston, the 16 year boy who confessed Tuesday afternoon that he poisoned the mare at the McClimon Bros. farm last Wednesday night, appeared at Norwich police headquarters late Tuesday night with a demand for the arrest of Jack McGregor, 62, of Preston, who works as a farm hand and has worked at times on the McClimon place.

The elder Ellal claimed that his son had made a further confession to him late Tuesday about the poisoning of the horse by stating that McGregor had showed him where to get the Paris green in a barn on the Peckham place and had told him he would give him $10 for poisoning the horse.

McGregor was a lodger at police headquarters Tuesday night and he was questioned by State Policeman M. R. Sterling and Capt. D. J. Twomey after they had heard what the elder Ellal said.

McGregor denied absolutely that he had had anything to do with the poisoning, saying that he hadn't spoken to young Ellal since last October. He convinced the officers that there was nothing to young Ellal's charge against him.

On Embezzlement Charge.

Joseph Ootopanik of Hartford, who formerly was in business selling steamer tickets in this city was arrested in Hartford Monday for the Norwich police on a charge of embezzlement.

VERDICT OF $7,527 FOR BATES IN SUIT AGAINST NORWICH MAN

After being out an hour and 12 minutes Tuesday afternoon, the jury in the superior court in this city brought in a verdict of $7,527 in favor of Mrs. Mary E. Bates of Preston, executrix, in the suit she had brought against George W. Carroll of this city for damages for the death of her husband, Arthur W. Bates, through an automobile collision. The case was defended by the company in which Mr. Carroll was insured.

Foreman John C. Stevens reported the verdict at 5.10. It was accepted by the court and Judge Allyn L. Brown then adjourned court until the next morning at 10 o'clock.

The highest damages which could be claimed in the suit were $10,000 and in addition to that there was a claim for about $200 damages to the Bates' automobile and over $250 for doctors' and hospital bills. The accident happened October 24, 1920, in Lisbon on the road between Norwich and Jewett City. Mr. Bates died Dec. 28, 1921, but before his death had brought suit for $5,000 damages, which his executrix pressed on a claim for $10,000 damages.

When court opened Tuesday morning Attorneys A. M. Brown and Tiley E. Babcock, counsel for Mrs. Bates, completed their evidence and rested their case after calling to the stand Dr. Paul F. Gadle and Dr. J. W. Callahan, both of whom had attended Mr. Bates, the latter having diagnosed as due to a tumor the pain which Mr. Bates complained of in his left side after the accident. There had been previous testimony that the tumor was the cause of his death.

Attorney A. W. Broder of Hartford, attorney for the insurance company, called Mr. Carroll to the stand as the first witness for the defense. He told of passing the Bates car from the rear at the place and the date named and denied that his car hit the Bates car that Mrs. Bates was driving.

Mr. Carroll denied that he had shaken hands with Frank Halyburton after the accident and acknowledged that he was to blame. He testified that he had two men look at his car after the accident and there was no mark on the hub of his rear right wheel, which would have been the one to hit the hub of the Bates car, according to testimony of plaintiff's witnesses as to how the accident happened. Mr. Carroll also denied that the Bates car was well on the right of the road, but said they were in the middle and wouldn't turn out for him till they got to the fence into which the car crashed.

Sergeant John H. Kane testified that he looked at the Carroll car when Mr. Carroll reported the accident at Norwich police headquarters and he could see no marks on it.

Fred L. Kanuhan and William Cantwell, whom Mr. Carroll called to look at his car on the road after the accident, also testified that they saw no marks on it.

Joseph C. Lavoie, an automobile expert, produced the hub cap of a Stutz car such as Mr. Carroll was driving, and testified that a raised rim on the hub cap producing a depressed center made it impossible for any mark to have shown in the center if the Stutz wheel had struck the hub of Mr. Bates' Ford car. This testimony was aimed at the testimony of Inspector George H. Bradford, a witness for the plaintiff, who had said he found a slight mark in the center of the Stutz hub.

Both sides rested at noon after the recess of an hour. Attorney Babcock made the first argument for the plaintiff. He was followed by Attorney Broder for the defendant and Attorney Brown made the closing argument for the plaintiff.

Judge Brown took 53 minutes in charging the jury, covering the claims upon which there was disagreement and those that were uncontroverted, discussing the law in the case, negligence on the part of the defendant and contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff's testator, reasonable speed rules of the road and automobile laws applying to this case and the method of arriving at damages if that point should be reached in the discussions of the jury.

CHURCH MAKES MISTAKE IN PUTTING MONEY FIRST

The outstanding mistake of the church today is that it puts money first, said Rev. York A. King, speaking to members of various Protestant churches of the town assembled at the Central Baptist church Tuesday evening. God requires of every Christian one-seventh of each week when that Christian shall work for the kingdom, and he requires one-tenth of the income of the Christian but let me tell you that God considers one-seventh of a Christian's time of infinitely more value than one-tenth of his earnings.

God depends on our feet to run for him in the work, needs our hands in the search, and wants our lips for speech, and if by these than we can go out and find the sinners and bring them to the Savior.

God is able to do for us anything we ask for or can think of, abundantly above our highest ideas. You know that God is willing to open the windows of heaven and pour forth His blessing until our very heart and soul shall be filled to overflowing.

Rev. Mr. King then asked if the congregation believed that God is willing to send a permanent, everlasting, religious revival that will be a real work of grace, genuine and widespread. An answer of "Yes," came from the congregation. I also believe that is true, said Rev. Mr. King, and let me tell you that God can save every person in this city who desires to be saved, and He can use every person in this city who is willing to be used in the work of advancing the kingdom of God on earth.

Each and every Christian should remember and say this to himself, "I believe in the Lord Jesus Christ as my personal Saviour and I will do whatever God wants me to do; I will say what He wants me to say, and I will do what He wants me to do."

The church was filled for the evening session, many members from other congregations in the town being present. The members of the various churches occupied assigned sections in the room, churches represented being as follows: First Baptist, Mt. Calvary Baptist, Greeneville Baptist, Preston chapel, Trinity Methodist, First Congregational, Central Baptist and several others.

Rev. Mr. King was pleasantly surprised just as the evening meeting started when friends came to the front of the church and presented him a basket of beautiful flowers, Tuesday being his birthday. The flowers remained at the pulpit throughout the service and are to be sent to Mrs. King at Arlington, Mass., today (Wednesday).

The afternoon meeting Tuesday was for the aged and shut-ins and there was a large attendance at the meeting, private automobiles being used to convey the people to and from the church. Rev. Mr. King gave a most interesting address, following which the women of the church served tea and wafers.

It was announced during the meeting Tuesday evening that this (Wednesday) evening would be for church members only, Thursday evening for everyone, and on Saturday evening Rev. Mr. King is to speak on Radicalism, Its Cause and Cure.

A house committee was also appointed at the meeting. It was announced that the new quarters of the post would be open to members every day after today (Wednesday.)

UNIVERSALIST YOUNG PEOPLE TO CONDUCT CHURCH SERVICE

Young People's Christian Union day will be observed next Sunday at the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist) with a service of special interest at 10.45, as it will be conducted by the members of the Norwich Y. P. C. U. A general invitation for the public to attend has been issued.

CHARGES TRUSTEE HAS FAILED TO ACCOUNT

Before Probate Judge Walter H. Clark in Hartford, there was a hearing Monday on the petition of Mrs. Charlotte M. La Pierre of Norwich for the removal of Fred G. Winslow as trustee of a trust estate created by the late William M. Charter. Mrs. LaPierre is a residuary legatee and claims that Mr. Winslow has failed to file annual accounts and that he is hostile to her and is using his trusteeship to further his own interests." Judge Gardiner Greene and Charles L. Stewart of Norwich appeared for Mrs. LaPierre and Harry W. Reynolds and A. W. Hyde for Mr. Winslow.

The trust estate consists of 300 shares of the stock of the Spring Brook Ice Company, of which Mr. Winslow is now president and treasurer. Counsel for the trustee claimed that Mr. Winslow had filed an account. Counsel for the petitioner had attempted by a subpoena to compel the production in court of books and records of the company and Mr. Hyde said that the paper had not specified what should be brought and that in consequence, nothing had been brought. Points of practice and law arose and some dealt with the proper procedure in the probate court, as a suit had been brought also in the common pleas court.

Mrs. LaPierre was a witness. Dr. W. P. Burnell and Mrs. Burnell of New Britain, were also witnesses. Counsel said that it was expected that the hearing would be completed next Tuesday.

TWO WOMEN OVERCOME BY GAS FROM LEAK

Mrs. James A. Bidwell and Miss Dorothy Lord, eldest daughter of Henry Lord, were found Tuesday morning overcome by gas in their rooms in the double tenement house at 11 and 13 Scotland road. The discovery was made about 8:30 o'clock and both victims of gas poisoning were treated by doctors and they were restored to consciousness. Tuesday night both women were reported as well. Had the gas leak been unnoticed for a longer period it is likely that Mrs. Bidwell and Miss Lord would have been dead from gas poisoning before aid reached them.

The gas and electrical department sent men to investigate the leak and found that a gas pipe main leading from the street to the house had sprung a leak. The gas found its way through a passageway in the rocks near the pipe, filling the cellar of the house gradually, the accident resulting.

RECEIVES WARNINGS AGAINST SOLICITORS WHO ARE FAKES

Warnings against bogus solicitors and fly-by-night concerns have been received by the Norwich Chamber of Commerce from the National Vigilance Committee Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

The warnings are as follows:

The Car-Hal Service, a retail advertising service scheme, operated from a hotel room at 68 West 46th street, New York city, by two men named Carley and Hall, has proved to be a fly-by-night enterprise and the promoters have disappeared, leaving unpaid bills and unfilled contracts.

These men visited many small towns in the east and secured cash payments, from retailers for an illegal circular letter advertising service. The merchants who entered into the contract with them have not received the promised circular letters and the whereabouts of the company is unknown.

Merchants are warned to be on their guard for this proposition and are advised to immediately get in touch with this committee if any trace of them is found.

National Vigilance Committee.

False Representative.

The Hanes Rubber Company, a legitimate and well established tire manufacturing concern of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, reports that during the past few weeks a man operating under the names of H. A. Biddle, W. Lyons and H. A. Conine has falsely represented himself to be an agent of their company and has persuaded dealers in various towns in Pennsylvania and New Jersey to give him partial payments on what were supposed to be dealer contracts with the Hanes company. The checks for these partial payments were made to the Hanes Rubber company but have been endorsed by their name and countersigned by the alleged representative.

All retail automobile and automobile accessory sources are warned about the operations of this man and are asked to get in touch with this committee immediately, or with the Hanes Rubber Company if he attempts to operate in your vicinity.

Smallpox, again appeared on the state report, three cases being reported in Bridgeport. Typhoid fever with 3 reported for the week was a gain of one case over the previous week. Losses were shown in the report on measles, 485 cases as against 493 for the previous week. Diphtheria with 59 cases reported increased 7 from the previous week, whooping cough with 89 showed a gain of 3 cases, scarlet fever with 98 showed a gain of 3 cases. Cases of influenza reported for the week totalled 120 as against 43 for the week previous.

VOTERS MAY REGISTER THEIR PARTY PREFERENCE

The registrars and assistant registrars are preparing to be in session on Friday, Feb. 2 and Friday, Feb. 9, which are the two days set apart when legal voters, men and women, may register for their party preference, if they want to do so. The registrars will be in session in all the districts from noon to 9 p. m. on both days.

Any voters who have already registered in this way do not need to do so again, nor is it obligatory upon any voter to register.

Call For Chimney Fire.

A defective and overheated chimney caused a fire about 11 o'clock Tuesday evening at 21 Thames street, but the damage was slight as the fire department was notified of the fire and were on the job before it could spread to any extent. The house is occupied by Charles Costels and others and is owned by Myr Buceveisky. Clapboards and woodwork near the chimney was burned somewhat by the flames. This is the second fire at 21 Thames street in recent months.

Even the man who pays as he goes may go broke.

ORGANIZED TO "COMBAT HERESY IN THE CHURCH"

New York, Jan. 30.—Two hundred and fifty pastors and laymen of the metropolis tonight, under the leadership of Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, to "combat heresy in the church."

"There is an upspringing of heretical views throughout New York city and elsewhere in this country, and this organization aims to combat this departure from the faith," Dr. Straton, who was elected president of the new organization, announced.

SCALE SIGNED BY THICK VEIN COAL OPERATORS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 30.—The Freeport Thick Vein Coal Operators' association late today signed the scale submitted by the United Mine Workers for the year beginning April 1 next. It will affect about 10,000 miners in pits in the Allegheny valley, with an annual capacity of approximately 8,000,000 tons. The Pittsburgh Coal Producers' association signed a similar scale yesterday.

SALESMAN MISSING WITH $100,000 WORTH OF JEWELRY

New York, Jan. 30.—Appeals for aid in finding George R. Burns, a jewelry salesman, were broadcast tonight by the police, when they learned that he had been missing since December 28, with $100,000 worth of jewelry belonging to half a dozen firms.

He said he was going to Boston when he vanished.

FOUR NEW YORK BANDITS GOT $4,000 WORTH OF SILK

New York, Jan. 30.—Four armed bandits tonight held up two men in charge of a truck containing $4,000 worth of silk, forced the men to drive them to an isolated section, and escaped with their loot in the machine.

The truck and contents were the property of the Bloom Mills.

SIX KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK IN MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, Jan. 30.—Six persons were killed and twenty-two injured in a head-on collision this afternoon in the suburbs of Mexico City between trains on the National railway.

Practically all the members of the soldier escort on board the train were slightly injured.

PARTISAN DISTURBANCE IN RHODE ISLAND SENATE

Providence, R. I., Jan. 30.—The senate of the Rhode Island legislature, in session since January 2, but still unorganized for the transaction of business, was today the scene of one of the most turbulent partisan struggles in the history of the state. The climax of the struggle was the removal from the chamber this afternoon by a deputy sheriff of Senator Sanderson, republican majority leader, on the order of the presiding officer, Lieutenant Governor Felix A. Toupin, democrat. The lieutenant-governor Felix A. Toupin, democrat. The lieutenant-governor defended his action on the ground that the republican majority leader was "unruly."

Senator Sanderson's forced retirement from the room came a few minutes before the senate's adjournment and after less than fifty minutes of wrangling over points of order that only served to confirm that the upper body of the Rhode Island general assembly is paralyzed by a deadlock, almost without parallel in the annals of the state.

Because of Lieutenant Governor Toupin's interpretation of rule 38, made last Saturday, that if one member objects no matter can come before the senate "unless the same has been considered by and reported from a committee thereof," the body is in no position to proceed to matters of legislation, for Mr. Toupin construes his rule to apply to any motion for the appointment of committees. And as long as there are no committees, it will be impossible for any bill, act or resolution to come before the senate, one member objecting.

JURY DISAGREED IN CROMWELL DIVORCE SUIT

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 30.—After ten hours' deliberation the jury in the divorce suit of John Howard Cromwell a direct descendant of Oliver Cromwell, against his wife, Rose Parker Cromwell, failed to agree, and was released by Supreme Court Justice Seeger for formal discharge tomorrow.

Cromwell, a noted yachtsman, charged his wife with misconduct, and named Harry Cohn, motion picture promoter, as one of three co-respondents. Mrs. Cromwell in a counter charge, alleged that Mrs. Genevieve Mulford, the Cromwell housekeeper, was responsible for the suit.

FAKE TELEGRAM USED BY "GENTLEMAN BURGLAR"

New York, Jan. 30.—Using a fake telegram to gain admittance to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Kuhn in the fashionable Park avenue district, a "gentleman burglar" looted the quarters of fur and jewelry valued at $10,000 last Saturday, it became known today when police arrested an elevator operator in connection with the theft.

DOMINICAN SCHOOL IN NEWARK BURNED

Newark, N. J., Jan. 30.—Stantoninus parochial school, founded by the Dominican fathers in 1875, was destroyed by fire tonight. The fire was discovered at 7.45 o'clock while pupils were conducting a rehearsal in the building. No one was injured.

A theory that has neither faith nor trust in its foundation doesn't amount to much.

HOW TO KEEP FIT AT 72

Sprightly Old Man Reveals the Secret

"I am 72 years old, and much more vigorous and active than most men of my age. I know that my excellent condition is due to the fact that I take two or three doses of Wincarnis every day, because I never felt as well before I began taking it. I used to tire very quickly and suffer from wakefulness and had to bundle myself up whenever it was damp or drafty. But since I began taking Wincarnis I have had the energy and endurance of a middle-aged man, sleep soundly and withstand the severest of weather. I have noticed that Wincarnis keeps my appetite keen and that it strengthens my nerves and heart. If my fingers tremble and my heart flutters or I feel symptoms of depression or weakness, a dose of Wincarnis gives me relief within a few minutes."

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Skidding on the icy way, a National Biscuit company motor truck flopped over on lower Dyer street Tuesday afternoon and spilled the driver and another man out without seriously injuring them. After communicating with headquarters in New Haven and receiving instructions as to the handling of the upset vehicle, the driver, with the assistance of the wrecking outfit, had the machine righted. The machine was a two-ton White and its body was smashed in by the crash.

Another accident that fortunately was without as serious consequences as it seemed to promise when it was about to occur was one in which a car owned by Frank A. (Del) Chase of the West Side was smashed by the locomotive of a train at the Franklin street crossing, where serious accidents have occurred in the past.

Mr. Chase, in trying to avoid getting on to the crossing about the time an onrushing train was due to arrive here, stalled his engine and thereupon, according to the report received by the police, with all the alacrity and promptness inspired by the occasion, slid out of the seat and let the car have its own sweet way about progressing toward the track, which it continued to do, only to be tossed aside when it was struck. A smashed wheel and fender were enumerated among the casualties sustained by the car. This appears trivial when compared with Mr. Chase's fortunate escape from harm.

This (Wednesday) evening at the rooms of the Danielson Trust company guarantors of Chautauqua in Danielson are to get together and make their plans for the 1923 period of entertainments. Every particular meeting will be open to whoever may have any enthusiasm for preserving Chautauqua for Danielson should be present. At last every guarantor is expected to be present and all are welcome, whether guarantor or not, with any interest in the success of what has come to be regarded as a fixed feature of high grade summer entertainments in Danielson.

Those at the evening meeting will at all probability fix the dates for next summer's series of entertainments. They will talk over other matters of importance to the future of Chautauqua in Danielson. Real enthusiasts—those who have interest in the depth of winter as well as in the balmy days of summer—are sure to be there. Those who like the entertainments if some group of persons go to the trouble of arranging them may not be present the evening but the real Chautauquans must they should be. It is time then to talk about art and culture for small towns and still another to expend some individual energy to provide it for the public at large.

At the annual meeting of the Westfield cemetery association held at East Ashford Tuesday the following officers were elected: Judge Milton A. Shumway, vice president; Nathan D. Pringle, treasurer, and Messrs. Arthur J. G. Hall, secretary. The board of directors elected at the meeting is made up as follows: Hall, S. Carpenter, A. F. Wood, [illegible] Herbert Pilling.

Financial reports given at the meeting show that both the perpetual care and general funds have shown considerable gains, the Park Street and the cemetery [illegible] at the present time.

The party left New Mexico bound for New York from whence they will sail. Mrs. Hosmer will remain with her husband.

Mr. Jack Allegretto announces the removal of his Shoe Repair Shop to 90 Franklin Street. This was formerly the location of the Goodyear Repairing Shop. The larger space and new machinery bought will give Mr. Allegretto the most up-to-date shop in the city, where the finest repairing of shoes will be done with even greater promptness than before, to the complete satisfaction of his patrons.

He will be open for business on February 5th, and solicits the work of his old customers.

DANIELSON MAN KILLS HIMSELF WITH BULLET

(Special to the Bulletin)

Danielson, January 30—Horace W. Woodward, 68, suicided at his home here Tuesday afternoon, shooting himself in the head with a bullet from a .32 calibre revolver. He lived about an hour, but was unable to speak, remaining in an unconscious condition from the time he fired a bullet innto his brain.

Mr. Woodward was not a well known figure in Danielson. He came here in May of last year with his wife after spending a great many years of his life in the west. Failing health forced his relinquishment of a responsible position and led to his return to the east with Mrs. Woodward. Since coming to Danielson they had made their home with Mrs. Emma T. Kingsbury of Mechanic street, an aunt of Mrs Woodward's.

His death came as a shock to his people here, not that it was unexpected for he had talked, it is understood, at different times, of ending all. He was a man of exceptional capabilities and the fact that his health had failed while his ambition still flamed seemed to prey upon his mind. From his earliest years he had been frail, but with indomitable courage had overcome all and made a success of life.

Tuesday he left the dinner table and retired to his room. There he was found unconscious some time later by Mrs. Woodward, who happened to enter the room, the door of which was closed. Members of the household had not heard the discharge of the revolver, a weapon of lighter calibre than one usually associates with an attempt at suicide by shooting. Dr. F. P. Todd was hastily summoned and upon determining Mr. Woodward's condition immediately summoned Dr. G. M. Burroughs, medical examiner. Mr. Woodward died approximately an hour after the shooting. Dr. Burroughs attributed the causes leading up to the shooting as despondency due to ill health.

For many of the years that Mr. Woodward was in the west he was engaged in responsible positions in Sioux City, Iowa, largely in clerical capacities. For years he was personal secretary of the mayor of that city.

Her mother and Miss Mendell are expected to return here late in February. Mrs. Hosmer is a granddaughter of Wesley Wilson of Maple street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludovic Poitras, who were married last week Tuesday at St. James' church by Rev. John Roux, M. S., left here Tuesday morning en route to Point Lewis, P. Q., where they are to make their home. Before her marriage Mrs. Poitras was Miss M. Anna Poitras. Following her marriage there was a wedding breakfast at the home of Jos Poitras, brother of the bride. Those attending were Damase Poitras, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Damase Poitras, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gendreau, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gendreau, Mr. and Mrs. Silvio Poitras, Henry Poitras, Miss Rose Baldine, Pawtucket, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Bolere, Dayville, Mr. and Mrs. Damase Boulias, Mr. and Mrs. Cesar Boulias, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boulias, Misses Aldea and Imelda Guilmoor.

In the evening a reception was held in honor of the bridal pair at the home of Edmund Gendreau.

Tuesday afternoon at his home on Riverview funeral services were held over the late Tourtellotte, Rev. A. E. Cullen of the Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene officiating. The service was attended by many friends and neighbors. During the services Miss Lena Bond sang Does Jesus Care? and The Golden Key. This morning the body will be taken to Pascoag, R. I., for burial in the family plot. A. F. Wood was the funeral director in charge.

All the old-timers who know much more about the weather than a score of old dames than the average flapper—male or female—can hope to know from their experience, were almost driven to the woods Tuesday morning by the cold record that the parties who are running this particular winter hung up for them to shoot at. It was 16 below zero in Danielson, if you would believe the men who wouldn't exaggerate even to confuse a bootlegger. Getting out of this class, one readily could find men who asserted with every evidence of truth that it was 14 or 15 or 17 below at their homes when they got up, and they did not get up so early as to break any other set of records, either. In fact, this isn't done any more.

At Woodward's store, where a perfectly reliable recording thermometer confounds all of those who would fabricate, the sheet said that the low point was 10 below zero, and that is a record for the winter, excepting, of course, when Luella gave that awful look to Oswald coming home from the dance on a recent evening. But more about that—and the weather—later.

Joseph Poitras has purchased from Attorney Arthur G. Bill the Oliver W. Bowen property on Reynolds street. Mr. Poitras is a resident of Danielson and is engaged as a carpenter.

Also, every day in every way, all handicaps notwithstanding, we are getting nearer and nearer to spring—and the trout fishing season—and everything.

William Baston of Pawtucket was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

Whatever else anyone has to talk about, or is shy of talking about, it is certain that business is good in this town this winter, so good, in fact, that no one talks about it.

Funeral services for Byron L. Wilcox were held Tuesday afternoon at the home of William Rose in Moosup, Rev. Mr. Nightingale conducting the service. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery, Central Village. The bearers were Messrs. Windsor, Hughes, McBrien and Corey. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

The death of Mrs. Alma F. King, formerly a resident of Goodyear, occurred Tuesday at the home of her daughter in Putnam. Mrs. King was 66 years of age. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and brought to his rooms in Danielson.

On Jan. 31, 1923, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Akron, O., will have produced 50,000,000 Goodyear tires. The whistle at Goodyear Cotton Mills, Inc., will be blown at 11:30 a. m. on this date in token of this signal event in tire history.

WHEN KIDNEYS HURT DRINK MORE WATER

If Your Back Aches or Bladder Bothers, Take a Little Salts

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

PUTNAM

Old Man Winter took another bitch at his job Tuesday morning and hung up a new record for the winter, sending the temperature down to depths unusual. One's credulity will be tested by the statement of one observer that he saw a thermometer registering 26 degrees below zero, this being by all odds the most astounding claim relative to the morning's record of cold, but there were many citizens who were willing to testify that they looked at instruments showing 10 below and there were any number of others who set the low record at 14 degrees below the zero mark. So it is safe to assume that it was at least 14 and may have been over 20 degrees below in outlying country hereabouts. This is very unusual weather for southern New England is seldom duplicated.

A surprising thing about the cold wave was the unexpectedness with which it descended upon this territory. It was not heralded in weather forecasts, nor was there any indication of it until the mercury began to drop like a shot Monday night. By midnight the record stood at from 2 to 5 degrees below, at different points in the city, and still was going down. The drop continued throughout the night, with the lowest marks reported registered between 8 and 7 a. m.

After sunrise the mercury made a rapid climb and by 10:30 the temperature was up to 20 degrees in the sun.

The month that ends with today has been exceedingly severe. It has brought upwards of two feet of snow to the territory, with continuous sledding since January 3, and has been consistently cold and rough. The snow fall of the winter to date in this section of New England is placed at 45 inches, or just under four feet, which is also a record for any years within memory. In the hard winter of 1919-20, the bulk of the snow came in February and March, only 26 inches falling in January.

Today, Wednesday, January 31, is the last of the open season for taking pickerel from the lakes or ponds of this state. The season on these fish will remain closed until May 1. Thus far the ice fishing has been greatly reduced because of unfavorable weather conditions—these being as a rule all too severe for the enjoyment of this sport. It is being argued, and has been for several years, that February 1, is too early a date on which to close the season on pickerel. It is possible an effort will be made at this session of the legislature to have the law amended so as to allow fishing through the ice until March 1, as is the rule in this state for vegas.

However, the ban goes on tonight at midnight and game officials will be on the lookout for violators of the law.

It has been necessary during the present week to impress some of Putnam's citizens with the fact that the laws of the state relative to sending children to school are still in force and enforceable. A demonstration of this was given by ordering appearance in the city court of certain parents who have been derelict in their obligation to see that their offspring regularly attend classes. Warnings from the truant officers were not effective in some cases, so appearances in court were ordered. No arrests were made. The delinquent parents were merely told that further backsliding on their part would mean serious treatment of their cases by the court. It is evident that the talk by the court will result in some children being in school who have not been there as regularly as they should.

A period of the year that few people relish will be inaugurated at the high school this (Wednesday) morning when the mid-year examination work will be taken up. The examinations are to continue through Thursday and Friday.

Those who believe in signs are going to watch with interest Friday to see whether or not the backbone of winter is to be indicated as broken by the action of the groundhog or whether humanity is due for another six weeks of freezing. Friday will be Groundhog day. In the church calendar it is known as Candlemas day or St. Blase day. It is on this particular day each year that the groundhog is supposed to come out from his winter quarters to have a look around with a view to forecasting the yeather In this area the woodchuck is supposed to substitute for the groundhog.

It is an old saying that, having ventured out, the groundhog will feel assured that the backbone of winter is broken if he does not see his shadow. But if he does see it, he goes back to hibernate for another six weeks, knowing that at the end of that time he will be full early enough to sniff at the very first of the spring breezes. So be on the watch for Friday's weather. It may, or may not, foretell much of interest to you.

Members of boards of relief in Putnam and other surrounding towns will begin their duties Thursday morning and will hold sessions throughout the greater part of the coming month.

Officers of the Putnam Cemetery association for another year are to be elected on Saturday of this week. A drive to have more homes wired for and lighted by electricity is on in this city.

At Woodstock academy Tuesday a subject for debate formally held was related to the Ku Klux Klan.

And now comes the tale of a woman who has appealed to her pastor to help her be rid of a bootlegger who has been trying to collect a $35 board bill that her husband has accumulated and will not pay.

Legislators from these hereabouts returned to Hartford Tuesday for the week's sessions of the legislature.

President George W. Baker of the Putnam Red Cross chapter has plans for reconducting the annual roll call drive, which was not as successful in December as had been hoped for.

Heavy blocks of stone from one of the old vaults in the First National bank building were being removed on Tuesday as an incident of the general overhauling the building is receiving.

Putnam continues to be very shy of hard coal and numbers of families are getting along exclusively on substitutes.

Lent begins two weeks from today (Wednesday). In the meantime there is a rush on to conduct as many social events as the week days will accomodate in the interim.

Miss Eva Miour spent the week end with friends in Uxbridge, Mass.

IRISH REBELS INTENSIFY CAMPAIGN OF DESTRUCTION

Dublin, Jan. 30.—(By the A. P.)—That the free state government still is confronted with a grave task is shown by the intensified campaign of destruction and incendiarism that is being carried on by the irregular forces. These acts are considered proof of the determination of the republicans to resort to every possible means to prevent the government from functioning and break the country's morale, and holding of elections.

By means known only to themselves, the irregulars continue to amass arms, ammunition and explosives and to manufacture bombs and land mines, the destructive powers of which are alarmingly great. Two houses were mined Monday night and completely demolished within a few minutes.

In the campaign of incendiarism no consideration is being shown occupants of doomed houses. Under threats at the pitol point they are required to turn out of their homes on a moment's notice. Last night Mrs. Corrigan, wife of a state solicitor was given two minutes to evacuate her home. She and her maids had to snatch three children from their beds and, without dressing them, dash out into the cold, wet night. Their departure from the building was followed by the terrific explosion of a land mine which brought down the house in ruins before their eyes.

There seems to be a systematic attack on houses belonging to men prominently associated with Irish newspapers. Many such attacks have been made, but a majority of them has proved unsuccessful.

Sections of the populace of Dublin are becoming apprehensive and are asking whether the government forces are strong enough to protect the lives and property of citizens. Some uneasiness also is apparent because of the admission of William T. Cosgrave to the Dail Eireann that a few government officials had been suspended on suspicion of complicity in the activities of the irregulars.

INCIPIENT FILIBUSTER ON FARM CREDITS BILL

Washington, Jan. 30.—A situation which had some eur marks of an incipient filibuster resulted in the senate today when republican leaders renewed their efforts to xpedite pnding rural credits legislation. Several attempts to reach an agreement as to a time for closing debate having failed, suggestions of night sessions were reiterated by the majority.

Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, a co-author of the bill under consideration, broke into a series of set addresses from the democratic side to protest against the apparent policy of delay. There was grave danger, he said, that unless more progress was made, the senate would be unable to render assistance badly needed by the farmers. Mr. Lenroot's protest followed a speech by Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, criticising reductions which had been made by the budget bureau in estimates of the agricultural department, and an address by Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, regarding the necessity for some new method of adopting constitutional amendments.

ARRESTED FOR BRINGING IN GERMAN WORKMEN

Hartford, January 30.—Julius Mueller, accused of bringing into the United States seeral German workmen on promise of employment in the repair shops of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, in East Hartford, was today arrestedf or alleged violation of the federal contract labor law. He was taken into custody by the Rockille police whom the United States attorney's office had asked to be on the lookout for him. A deputy United States marshal was sent to Rockville this afternoon to bring Mueller to this city for a hearing before the United States commissioner.

It is thec laim of the federal authorities that while in Chemnitz, Germany, last summer, Mueller promised the men employment I nthe railroad shops here and that he paid for the transportation of the men to this country.

BANDIT HELD FOR ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

New Haven, Jan. 30.—Lawrence Mikowski of Meriden was bound over to the superior court today after arraignment in city court on charges of assault with intent to kill, robbery with violence and carrying concealed weapons. His bond was fixed at $7,500, which he did not furnish.

Mikowski is alleged to have attempted a hold-up in a tire store in College street last night, obtaining only a few cents and leaving hurriedly with the proprietor and two other men in pursuit. Patrolman James P. Welch joined in the chase and placed Mikowski under arrest. The prisoner took a revolver from his sleeve and fired at the policeman, it is alleged, but the shot went wild and Welch held his man until another officer helped subdue him.

SHIPWRECKED CREW PICKED UP OFF CAPE HORN

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Jan. 30.—(By the A. P.)—Exhausted from exposure and privation after the loss of their vessel, the shipwrecked crew of the four-masted bark Nal was picked up today off Cape Horn from the small boats in which they had escaped, by the German liner Cap Polonio, according to a wireless message from the steamer.

The Nal, of 1,787 tons gross, was built in 1901 at Aliva and according to the latest shipping registers was owned in Danzig. She sailed from San Antonio, Chile, Dec. 21, for Bahia Blanca. Shipping advices reported her in a damaged condition while at San Antonio.

FORCED BY MASKED PARTY TO PARTICIPATE IN RAID

Atmore, Okla., Jan. 30 (By the A. P.).—Statements said to have been made by Jeff Smith of Healdton that he was forced by members of a masked party to accompany them on a raid to the home of Joe Carroll in Wilson on a night in December, 1921, during which Carroll was slain and two alleged members of the band fatally wounded were related in district court here today at Smith's trial on a charge of murder. The defendant is one of eleven prominent Carter county citizens charged with killing Carroll.

When court recessed tonight the prosecution had called all its witnesses with the exception of possibly one.

WAS KIDNAPPED WHILE WALKING WITH WIFE

Dublin, Jan. 30 (By the A. P.).—Senator John Bagwell was kidnapped this evening while walking with his wife in Sutton, County Dublin. Armed men stopped the couple and ordered the husband to enter a taxicab, in which he was driven away. Mr. Bagwell is general manager of the Great Northern railway.

TIRED, NERVOUS MOTHERS
are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and wears upon the husband and often ruins a child's disposition. This condition of the mother is often due to some weakness which makes her entirely unfit to perform her household duties and bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves. Every woman who finds herself in this condition should remember that statistics prove that 98 out of every 100 women who suffer from female ills are helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and lose no time in giving it a fair trial.

WESTERLY

Very interesting and valuable talks and illustrations were given Tuesday at the town hall on Broad street by the speakers engaged by the extension school arranged by the Southern Rhode Island County Farm Bureau and the New London County Farm Bureau. The meeting opened at 10.30 in the morning with Dr. Hartwell addressing the men in the council chamber and Miss Gladys E. Stratton giving instructions to the ladies in the assembly hall of the town building.

Dr. Hartwell spoke of the soil of Rhode Island and said that it was known as a sour soil. That certain amounts of lime mixed with it is very helpful. Dr. Hartwell asked his audience if there were any questions which they would like to put to him. Several in attendance asked questions, which were promptly and satisfactorily answered.

Miss Stratton gave an interesting demonstration and talk on re-seating old chairs. She told her audience about the different materials to be used, giving prices, and the places where such things could be obtained at the lowest cost. She was assisted in her work by Mrs. Amos Wheeler and Mrs. Elsworth Gray of North Stonington.

At the afternoon session Mr. Simms of Storrs college gave a lecture on Feeding for Milk Production. He told about different results which were obtained by the various farmers of Connecticut who kept a careful record of the feed they used and the amount of milk and butter produced by their cows.

Miss Mildred Annan of the Connecticut Agricultural College gave a talk on rugs, wall paper and draperies. Miss Mabel Eldredge of the Rhode Island State College lectured on pictures, their meaning and use.

Alfonso Giragliarte of Norwich who was arrested Sunday at the local railroad station and later taken before Clerk Flynn of the Third district court was upon his plea of guilty sentenced to pay a fine of $75 and costs amounting to $78.80 in all.

STONINGTON

The Wide World Guild of the First Baptist church will meet Thursday evening with Miss Dorothy Hewitt, on Main street. Sewing will be done to fill a box to ship away.

The Monday Evening Whist club met with Mrs. H. B. Noyes at her home on High street. Cards were enjoyed by the members and candy was served.

At the Women's Relief corps' whist there were twelve tables played on Monday evening. The prizes were awarded as follows: First ladies', Miss Edith Lathrop; first gentlemen's, Miss Alice Powers.

The travel club met Tuesday afternoon at the Free Library building and the members listened to a most interesting paper on "Prague and Czech-Slovawia," by Miss Sally Frankenstein of Westerly.

Friday special services will be held in Calvary church by Rev. W. F. Williams, it being the Feast of the Purification.

Miss Catherine Powers has returned from a visit to Boston.

Tuesday evening the Wequetequock Poultry club held its regular meeting and plans were made for a contest this spring.

MYSTIC

The Mystic people who are located in the town of Groton and who have a vote on the building of a new high school proposed to be located in Poquonnoc were on hand Monday evening at the town meeting. The yearly appropriation which would have been needed to carry on the new high school was estimated at $64,500 for 275 pupils or $68,793 for 425 pupils which is about one-third of the town's income from taxation. An extra trolley carw as provided to carry over the large number of voters from this section. Students will be sent to Stonington and New London or wherever a high school course is provided, as has been done in the past.

Personal Tax Enumerator C. H. Bliven has begun the work of collecting the personal tax of all persons ver 21 years of age residing in the Groton section of Mystic.

There is much interest manifested by the boys' class of the Methodist church school. James W. Jackson, who has charge, met Sunday with the members at the home of Harry B. Mackenzie and the name adopted by the boys wis Reliable Class. The president is Winfred Dick; vice president, Chester Gremley; secretary, Harry Braid; treasrer, Aurthur Gledhill; visiting committee, Winfred Dick, Arthur Johnson, Raymond Pantorci; entertainment committee, Earle Wallace, Albert Neff, Chester Gremley; advisory committee, James Jackson, Harry B. MacKenzie, George Wallace, Arthur Braid. The members voted to meet twice each month.

Tuesday evening a special meeting was held of Charity Chapter, No. 61, O. E. S. Business of importance was discussed and at the close a social hour followed.

There is reported a great deal of sickness in town which is probably due to the rapid changes in the weather. The doctors here are kept busy caring for their patients. Many cases of measles have broken out.

Mrs. Eugene Bogue of Port Rachael, has returned to her home, having been a patient at the Home Memorial hospital.

Max Bender was a caller in New London Tuesday.

Skating on the Mystic river seems to be a most popular sport with the young people. Skating parties were enjoyeds Tuesday. Sliding on the three hills is a most popular sport here once more.

William MacDonald who has been confined to his home with grip is able to be about.

NOANK

The town hall at Poquonnoc Monday night was the scene of heated discussions both for and against the high school project but the majority of tax payers showed in a decided way their feeling on the subject.

The greater part of the people feel it is said, that taxes as they are, are burden enough without adding what cannot be strictly called a necessity. The proposition was voted against with a large majority. Both towns of Mystic and Noank showed a large percentage against it.

Mrs. Thomas Montgomery and Miss Dorothy Darling are spending a few days in Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. N. W. Rathbun was a called in New London Tuesday.

Arthur Woodruff has returned to Fishers Island after visiting his family in the village.

A number of books have been contributed to the Noank Baptist Sunday School library by Miss Katherine Forrest of New York and the Misses Elizabeth and Carolyn Spicer of the village. These books include some of the best standard writers.

GALES FERRY

In the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday morning Rev. W. D. Woodward spoke from Genesis 1: 1-4, the text being In the Beginning God. A special offering at this service and the offering of the Sunday school at its session at noon was given for the board of temperance and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, which is erecting a five-story whitestone building opposite the capitol in Washington, D. C., to provide a national center for the Methodist Episcopal church, to stand as a symbol of Christian Americanism and civic righteousness. Sunday was observed by all Methodist churches for this offering to defray the expense of this building. With the generous gift of a friend, the offering of the Gales Ferry church amounted to $30 for this building.

Rev. Mr. Woodward read an acknowledgment from the board of foreign missions of the M. E. church from New York city the gift of $21 through Rev. Duncan F. Dodd, missionary to China, now on a furlough. He spoke of his work there in the M. E. church here not many weeks ago. His letter stated that the gift would be applied toward land for institutional plant at Chin-Kiang, Central China, this being the offering from this church given Rev. Mr. Dodd at that time.

At the Sunday school session, with Supt. C. E. Coiver in charge, awards were given for regular attendance by the secretary, Miss Alice Satterlee, to Ruth Fable and Myrtice Coman, each a gold pin, for one year; Howard Chase, rolled gold star, one year and ten months, and to Irving Chase, gun metal star, one year and four months.

The Ladies' Aid society will hold its regular meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of its president, Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt, at Woodlawn farm.

The Thursday evening prayer service will be held at the parsonage and the Camp Fire Girls will meet also at the parsonage with their guardian, Miss Ethel Woodward.

J. H. Jennings of the Stoddard district left for New Jersey Saturday evening, where he will spend some time, and will then go to visit in Albany and Troy, N. Y., from thence to Rutland, Vt., and to Pittsfield, Mass. Mr. Jennings will be away some weeks.

Mrs. Robert Townsend of Uncasville spent Friday night with her sister, Mrs. Hurlbutt, at her home in this place.

Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt and her sister, Mrs. Lucy A. Hurlbutt, attended the funeral of their cousin, Mrs. Jane Perkins Avery, wife of Cyrus Avery of Pouquonoc at the Poquonoc Baptist church Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham accompanied them, the trip being made in Mrs. Buckingham's car.

Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt and children, Harold and Ruth, were guests for the week end of Mrs. Hurlbutt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F Bartlett at their home in Uncasville.

The death of Charles F. Bartlett of Uncasville, father of Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt of this place, occurred at his home there on Sunday night.

BILL TO REFORM DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR ACTIVITIES

Washington, Jan. 30.—Reorganization of the diplomatic and consular activities of the United States into one interchangeable foreign service organization as sought by Secretary Hughes, was approved today by the house foreign affairs committee, which reported the Rogers bill providing for consolidation of the two branches.

Complete interchange of personnel, a single revised salary scale, extra allowances to representatives at foreign capitals, thus eliminating the necessity of large private means for diplomatic officers, and extension of the civil service retirement act to the service are among the provisions of the bill.

Increases in salaries would be authorized for many posts, chiefly for secretaries and lower officers, but the compensation of ministers and ambassadors would not be changed. Secretaries would be given salary increases from the present $8,000 to $9,000.

Pointing out the necessity for additional allowances at diplomatic posts, the report of the committee said it was "deplorable that by denial of adequate compensation the United States, the greatest democracy, now restricts the admission to the office of secretary in the diplomatic service to the members of a small circle of society, who are willing to provide from their private fortunes for the support of their positions abroad."

Former Ambassador John W. Davis, who represented the United States at London during the war, was quoted by the committee as having said of his experiences:

"It was eminently a time for conservatism and quietude, but with all that, living as I was modestly counting the expenses of myself and family, it cost me roughly three times my salary every year I was there, between $50,000 and $60,000. I do not believe that anybody could possibly have done it decently with any less expenditure than that."

The committee estimated the added cost of the plan at $370,000 a year.

OPPOSED TO A WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 30.—By a vote of 28 to 5, the Ohio senate today defeated a resolution offered by Burke of Elyria, which asked that President Harding call a world economic conference. Two democrats voted for the measure, and one voted against it. Senators Bender and Burke were the only republicans favoring it.

Immediately following disposal of the Burke resolution, Senator Jenkins of Lawrence county introduced a resolution characterizing President Harding as "the ablest diplomat in all the world today."

The resolution adds that "the Ohio senate believes his conduct of foreign affairs is in full accord with his mandate from the people of the nation."

BANKERS TO OPERATE DICTAPHONE CORPORATION

New York, Jan. 30.—The Dictaphone corporation has been formed by a group of bankers to operate what was formerly the dictaphone department of the Columbia Graphophone Company, the advertising club announced today.

The new corporation will manufacture and sell the instruments, supplies and service throughout the United States and Canada. There are no bonds or debts outstanding against the company.

C. K. Woodbridge, sales manager of the Columbia Dictaphone department, will be president of the new corporation. L. C. Stowell will continue as his assistant and Morgan L. Merce of New Haven, Conn., will be treasurer.

WILL NOT PROHIBIT MEETINGS OF KLANSMEN

New York, Jan. 30—District Attorney Dodd of Kings County, which embraces Brooklyn, where police have been watching meetings of the Ku Klux Klan, today announced that he did not regard meme membership in the hooded order as grounds for arrest, and that he would keep his activities "within legal bounds".

Mr. Dodd's position—somewhat at variance with that of Mayor Hylan, who has ordered the police to "drive the Klan out of New York"—was set forth in a letter to John H. Barker, who wrote complaining against Magistrate Dale's method of dealing with eight alleged Klansmen, arrested on charges of disorderly conduct last week after they had attended a klan meeting in Brooklyn.

"The right of peacable assembly cannot be denied, nor should any attempt be made to prevent the meeting of any organization for a lawful purpose," Mr. Dodd wrote.

AGRICULTURAL FUTURE OF NEW ENGLAND BRIGHT

Boston, Jan. 30—The old conception of the west as a land of golden opportunity for the farmer has gone, President Ralph D. Hetzel, of the New Hampshire college, said in an address today at the annual meeting of the New England Milk Producers' association. There now is a distinct movement back towards the east," he said.

"Western farmers are now coming to New England because they see a bright future for agriculture here, owing to the nearness of markets." Hetzel said. "The old time trend to the west has passed.

"We should speak optimistically of the agricultural future of New England in order to keep the boys and girls on the farm. If we continue to speak in gloomy terms about the decadence of New England agriculture the young people will surely keep on going to the cities or to the west."

PLACED ON PROBATION FOR KILLING HER HUSBAND

Boston, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Nora M. Costello, under indictment for manslaughter as a result of the fatal stabbing of her husband, Arthur H. Costello, a year ago, was placed on probation today after she had changed a plea of not guilty to nolo contendere. It was said in her behalf that both husband and wife had been drinking and that it could not be established whether the potato knife that killed the man was in the hands of his wife, or he fell on it himself.

Shelton—The plant of the Shelton Tack company, which is said to be the oldest tack company in the world, and which has been closed since the death of its manager, John R. Lightfoot, changed hands when J. Monroe Holland of Baltimore, and his brother, Franklin Holland purchased the place.

HOW TO FORGET TROUBLES

TROUBLES knock up your system like Jack Dempsey knocks down his opponent.

Troubles deal blows both in the head and stomach—and they hurt the stomach more than they do the head!

Troubles give the stomach indigestion, slow up the liver—and then follow constipation and biliousness.

The way to get rid of troubles is to invigorate digestion, stimulate liver and bowels and tone up the entire system. The best way to do this—has been for the past 80 years—is to take Beecham's Pills.

Then you will feel so good that "troubles" become merely problems, to be solved readily by the clear, keen brain of health.

VARIOUS NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED BY SENATE

Washington, Jan. 30.—The senate today confirmed the nomination of Robert Woods Bliss of New York, now third assistant secretary of state, to be minister to Sweden, J. Butler Wright, of Wyoming, to be third assistant secretary of state, and Philip Elting, of Kingston, New York, to be collector of customs for the port of New York.

WILLIAM MORRIS WEDS MISS CAROLYNE SHUSTER

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 30.—Miss Carolyne Shuster, 19-year-old daughter of W. Morgan Shuster, president of the Century Company of New York, and William Morris, son of a Glasgow, Kentucky, merchant whose attempted elopement last September was frustrated, were married yesterday in Rockville, Md. This was made known today by the couple, who are registered at a local hotel. They announced their intentions of leaving shortly for Florida, where they will spend several weeks of their honeymoon.

PLUNKETT CAN BEAR BURNING OF HIS HOME

Madison, Wis., Jan. 30—Sir Horace Plunkett when informed of the report from Ireland that his home had been destroyed by Irish rebels remarked: "It is sad, but I can bear it."

"I might have expected something like that," he added, "and further, it is not so bad as if it had been a poor man's one room house that was destroyed. I am pleased to see that evidently no one was killed or injured."

MELLON IS OPPOSED TO THE BURSUM BILL

Washington, Jan. 30. — Secretary Mellon in a letter today to Chairman McCumber of the senate finance committee expressed his opposition to the Bursum bill to establish a billion dollar credit for the German government to buy foodstuffs in the United States. He declared that it was in contravention of the treasury department's policy "that foreign governments desiring to find finance in the United States should appeal to the investing public and not seek government aid."

Hartford—Officers were elected and reports submitted at the annual meeting of the Union Baptist church. The financial report indicated that $8,000-.58 has been raised toward a $10,000 fund which will be used by the construction to erect a new building.

MARKET WAS DISTURBED.

New York, Jan. 30.—Railroad shares were strong during the early part of today's stock market, but the whole list turned heavy at the close in response to extensive profit taking by recent buying and short selling of a number of industrials and specialties. Operations on the short side of the market were influenced by the further weakness of foreign exchange and foreign bonds.

While the recent spurt in railroad shares has increased public participation, the great bulk of the trading is still being done by professional interests, who apparently buy and sell for the turn. Several of the large operators are reported to have adopted a watchful waiting attitude pending more definite developments in the foreign situation.

The quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation, issued after the market closed, came as a surprise to Wall street which had expected that both the common and preferred dividends would be earned with about $1,250,000 to spare. Instead, the corporation earned only 97 cents of the $1.25 dividend on the common stock as compared with 98 cents the previous quarter. The earnings on the common stock for the entire year were equal to $2.85 a share as against $2.24 in 1921.

Wall street's expectation of a surplus over the dividends for the last quarter was based with a steadily rising price tendency. Failure to earn all the dividends is explained, in part, however, by the fact that more than $12,000,000 was set aside during the last quarter against depreciation and sinking fund as against $8,290,000 in the last quarter of 1921.

United States Steel shares were inactive on the exchange, less than 10,000 shares changing hands between 106 1-8 and 105 5-8, the low and closing price representing a net loss of 3-8. Gulf States Steel dropped 1 1-8 and Otis Steel rose 1 1-8, the other shares of that group showing only nominal changes.

Railroad shares started off well with low priced issues in good demand. Chesapeake & Ohio reached a new top at 76 3-8 and then dropped to 74 3-8 when a wave of realizing sales set in towards the close. Other shares which suffered in the reaction included Reading, Baltimore & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Delaware & Hudson, "Soo" and Lehigh Valley, all off a point or more. Chicago & Northwestern and Reading First referred each closed 1 1-4 higher. New Haven touched 22 1-2 and then fell back to 21 3-4 for a net gain of 3-4.

Baldwin and Studebaker dropped 1 and 1 1-4 points, respectively. Atlantic Gulf broke nearly 3 points on reports that the government was going to press its claims for back taxes and other shippings declined in sympathy. Oils were mixed. California Petroleum going to higher ground while the Pan-American and Standard Oil issues fell back. Jones Brothers Tea Jewel Tea Preferred, American Brake Shoe and Steel & Tube preferred were strong. Cosden and United Retail Stores were conspicuously weak.

Demand Sterling showed some recovery but other foreign exchanges were weak. French francs dropping to 6.02 1-4 cents the lowest in two years, and German marks dropping from 0005 to 0021 cents, another new low record.

Call money held at 4 1-2 per cent throughout the day. The time money market was quiet, some short term loans being arranged at 4 1-2 per cent with brokers demanding 4 5-8 for the longer maturities. The Commercial Paper market was steady, the bulk of the prime names commanding 4 1-2 per cent.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Jan. 30.—Further liquidation of foreign bonds, which carried six active issues to new low levels, and a reactionary trend in the general list in sympathy with lower stock prices characterized today's bond market. The volume of sales in the foreign securities was not as large as yesterday, but the net declines ranged from 1 to 4 points.

New low records were established by Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s at 63, Czecho-Slovakian 8s at 75, Belgian 7 1-2s at 93, Belgian 8s at 91, Bordeaux 6s at 69 and Framerican 7 1-2s at 83 1-2. Other weak spots in the foreign list included Rio Janeiro 8s of 1947 off 3, and Queensland 6s, French 7 1-2s and Jurgen 6s each off 1 1-4.

United States government bonds failed to respond to the improved condition of government finances shown by President Harding's report on the budget. Victory 4 3-4s closing unchanged and the other active issues showing losses of .6 to 1½ cents on $100.

Chicago, Great Western 4s closed 1 point higher but New Haven 6s, Chesapeake & Ohio Convertible 5s, St. Paul Refunding 4 1-2s, Chicago & Western Indiana 4s and Hudson & Manhattan income 5s each lost a point. New York Edison 6s, Chile Copper 7s, Bethlehem Steel Refunding 5s and Marine 6s were the weak spots of the public utility and industrial groups.

Total sales (par value) were $13,972,000.

Announcement was made today that the $4,000,000 Yadkin River Power Company 5 per cent first mortgage bonds had been oversubscribed.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—With a decided falling off in the amount of wheat arriving at primary terminals, and with war talk having some bullish effect wheat took a moderate upward swing in price today. Closing quotations were firm, 3-4 to 1 1-4 net higher, May 1.17 1-4 to 1.17 3-8 and July 1.12 1-4 to 1.12 3-8. Corn gained 5-8c to 7-8c and oats 1-4@3-8 to 5-8c. In provisions, the finish was unchanged to 17c up.

Three leading winter wheat markets received today only 197 carloads as against 321 a year ago and for the first time in a long while the total primary receipts were reduced to about the same as at the corresponding date last year. Besides, it was generally expected that the movement of spring wheat would decrease to a material extent in the immediate future. Under such circumstances buying which was fairly active and which was based more or less on gossip about possible widespread European hostilities kept the market mounting throughout the day, except for slight temporary setbacks.

Apparent likelihood that freezing temperatures which were looked for might damage winter wheat unprotected by snow attracted considerable notice as a further bullish influence, notwithstanding that the general forecast said no severe cold was in sight. Export business was represented as being at nearly a standstill, but a good deal of the demand for future deliveries appeared to come from export interests, and it was estimated that actual exports of United States wheat for January would reach 18,000,000 bushels.

Argentine drought news gave strength to corn and oats.

Provisions were firmer in the with hog values, despite selling on the part of packers and cottonseed oil brokers.

REVIEW OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF BOSTON

Boston, Jan. 30.—Textile manufacturers in New England are operating "under trying conditions," says the Monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, made public tonight.

"Manufacturers in this district," the review says, "seem to be fairly well supplied with orders, so that the outlook for the next few months is comparatively good. Certain labor unions in the textile trade are, however, asking for a restoration of the cut in wages which was made late in 1920, generally amounting to 20 per cent. when the industrial depression was becoming severe. This request comes at a time when the cost of living remains near the lowest point reached during the recent business depression, with barely any upturn noticeable.

"Even disregarding the strike threat, the textile industry is operating under trying conditions. The supplies in this country, of both raw cotton and wool are comparatively small and as a consequence the prices of both are relatively high. Inasmuch as the product of both cotton and the woolen and worsted industries is used mainly in the manufacture of everyday necessities of life, there seems to be ample reason for manufacturers to be fearful of the results of further increases in the prices of finished textile goods. Merchants, for example, already report that housewives are loath to pay higher prices for cotton goods, and clothing manufacturers doubt the willingness of consumers to pay higher prices for ready-to-wear garments."

The exceptionally stormy weather during the early part of January so badly hampered railroad transportation that the volume of trade in this district was little if any better than in January, 1922.

"Most merchants reported, however," the review adds, "that during the few days of the month when the weather was clear the volume of trade was good, tending to show that there had not been a change in the underlying tendency toward good business. In fact, carloading of merchandise on the New England railroads, despite poor traffic conditions, are relatively high for this season of the year.

The review says also:

"While it is too early to obtain definite reports to show the trend of manufacturing production in New England since the first of the year, there apparently was no noticeable decline in output other than that caused by natural seasonal dullness or by interferences both to workers and to shipments from the heavy storms. • • • The money markets in New York and Boston have run nearly true to form since the first of the year, and as a consequence money rates are noticeably lower than they were during the early part of December. • • • Loans of member banks in Boston declined steadily, from the early part of November to just before Christmas, but between that time and the middle of January there was such a rapid increase that all the loss of the previous seven weeks was recovered. The trend of demand deposits in these same banks was very similar to that of loans. • • •

"In spite of the stormy weather the last part of December the 25 reporting New England department stores showed a gain of four per cent. in net sales over December, 1921. An encouraging feature of the situation is that retailers are continuing to order for future delivery at a beter rate than they did during the corresponding period in 1921. This higher rate of ordering during the last six months indicates a gradual return of confidence among retail dealers. A tendency now clearly in evidence in some other lines of business. • • •

"Employment in New England during December increased slightly. Average weekly earnings per employe increased from $22.80 in November to $23.12 in December. December earnings were over two dollars a week greater than at the middle of October. The greatest number of increases in wage scales were among manufacturers of paper boxes and, in the foundry and machine shop trades."

Boot and shoe production in New England during December declined seasonally, the review says, but new orders received by firms reporting decreased less than is usually the case and a greater volume of unfilled orders is now on hand than at any time since July, 1920.

The value of building contracts awarded in New England has been nearly as large as during January of last year. December contracts, while 21 per cent. less than during December, 1921, were still over 30 per cent. larger than the previous ten-year average.

Hartford, Jan. 30.—As usual, the "Legislative Special" from Putnam to Hartford was late this morning, being over an hour in arriving at Hartford. On account of other trains being late, the house was called to order at 11.15 instead of 11.

The order of the day, election of county commissioners from Windham and Litchfield counties, set for 11.30 was taken up at 12.15.

The matter was reached when House Leader Buckley moved the adoption of the resolution appointing Urgele La France, commissioner for Windham county.

The debate was opened by Mr. Hyde of Brooklyn in which he gave an account of the financial affairs in Windham county. There had been deficiencies in the management of county affairs owing to acts of the commissioners. If there were but one commissioner, the blame could be placed. He disclaimed any intention of making this a party measure. The election of but one commissioner would tend to a more careful, economical administration of county affairs.

Mr. Buckley, republican, house leader, argued that the question before the house is whether they would proceed with the election or not. As the statutes now stand this is required of the assembly. The question of reducing the number of commissioners was not before the house at this time. That was a matter that would be taken up at the proper time. Mr. La France was then elected. When the resolution John A. Dady of the same county was reached Mr. Faulkner of New Haven moved that it be laid upon the table. This resolution was lost by a large vote.

The resolution appointing J. Sedgwick Tracy and Ashabel W. Mitchell, commissioners for Litchfield county, be passed without opposition. All of the resolutions were immediately transmitted to the senate under a suspension of the rules. The speaker announced the appointment of Representative Kirkpatrick to judiciary committee in place of Representative Cunliffe deceased.

Against Ratifying 18th Amendment

A motion to ratify the 18th amendment which was taken from the table was lost by overwhelming vote. One voice being heard in favor of the resolution. Friday's bills were received from the senate and concurrent action in committee reference was taken. Several bills in which disagreeing action in the committee reference was held were adjusted by the house receding from its previous action, and concurrence was voted.

The resolution requiring all bills carrying appropriations to be in the hands of that committee by April 1 was taken from the table on motion of Mr. Buckley and passed.

Mr. Buckley stated that all committee references had now been made and he urged upon all of the committees to make hearing assignments without any delay. There was no reason why all committee hearings should not have been held by the middle of March.

The report of the appropriations committee which was printed in the journal, was tabled for the calendar.

Business on Calendar

The business on the calendar starred for action was disposed of by transmitting county commissioner slips to the senate and the judicial appointments to the judiciary committee. Among them were:

Urgele LaFrance, County Commissioner for Windham County; John A. Dady, County Commissioner for Windham County; J. Sedgwick Tracy, County Commissioner for Litchfield County; Asahel W. Mitchell, County Commissioner for Litchfield County.

The following were all referred to the judiciary committee:

John T. Barry, Judge, Griswold; Frank E. Robinson, Deputy Judge, Griswold; Guy J. Bushnell, Judge, Enfield; Charles J. Fowler, Deputy Judge, Enfield; Raymond A Johnson, Judge, Manchester; Thomas Ferguson, Deputy Judge and Clerk, Manchester; Oswin H. D. Fowler, Judge, Wallingford; Henry L. Davis, Deputy Judge, Wallingford; William H. Heald, Judge, Stafford Springs; Ernest K. Taft, Deputy Judge, Stafford Springs; Austin D. Barney, Judge, Farmington; Maurice D. Rourke, Deputy Judge, Farmington; Cornelius C. Costello, Judge, Groton; C. Tyler Landphere, Deputy Judge, Groton; Joseph S. Shapiro, Judge, Shelton; Thomas G. Ward, Deputy Judge, Shelton; Frank W. Seymour, Judge, Winchester; George H. Bateman, Deputy Judge, Stratford.

Favorable reports were received from the committee on education concerning the attendance of children in schools, and an act concerning the teaching of citizenship. These bills have been printed.

Favorable reports were received concerning the teaching of foreign language in the public schools and fees in city high schools and both bills passed.

Resolutions upon the death of Representative Cunliffe of East Haven were passed, ordered empossed and sent to his family.

The house adjourned to 11:15 Wednesday.

SENATE.

The desks of Senator Brooks, of the Thirteenth district, and Senator Rudd, of the Thirty-first, in the senate chamber were equipped with individual electric lamps this morning when the senators took their seats. After prayer by Chaplain Campbell Senator Brooks called the attention of his colleagues to the lamps and said that any senator who desired a lamp could have one by expressing a desire for it. The senate chamber had been wired under the direction of the superintendent of the capitol and it was easy to place a lamp at each desk. The lamps, which he and Senator Rudd were using, were satisfactory.

The clerk then began the reading of bills from the house, all of which were introduced last Friday and transmitted to the senate.

Reports of state departments were received from the governor's office and referred to appropriate committees.

The house concurred in most of the senate references to committees of bills introduced in the upper body Friday and reaching the house today. A bill prohibiting discrimination between men and women teachers was referred by the senate to the committee on judiciary. On motion of Mr. Buckley the house referred the bill to the committee on education. The house differed with the senate in reference of the bill concerning seats for employes, the senate reference belong to the judiciary. The house sent it to the committee on labor.

Department of Public Welfare.

A bill creating a department of public welfare was changed from senate reference to the judiciary to house reference to committee on humane institutions. A bill concerning diversion of proceeds from municipal bonds was taken from the judiciary and referred to finance. A public service motor vehicle bill was taken from the committee on roads, bridges and rivers and referred to the judiciary.

On the motion of Senator Ellis Senator MacDonald was appointed on the committee of conference on the bill relating to the registration of motor vehicles. In the house the bill was referred to the committee on the judiciary and in the senate to the committee on roads, bridges and rivers.

Trustees Appointed.

The committee on senate appointments made a favorable report on the appointment of the following as trustees of the Connecticut Schools for Boys at Meriden: Jere D. Eggleston, Ernest S. Fuller, George I. Allen, Charles B. Buckingham, Archibald MacDonald, Bernard M. Donnelly and Morris Saxe. The report was accepted and the appointments made under suspension of rules.

Personal Tax in Columbia.

The committee on engrossed bills reported favorably on the bill validating the act of the town of Columbia in reference to the collection of the personal tax. Senator Brooks, in explaining the report, said that last week the house and senate passed a bill with the intention of validating the act of the town, but the clerk of bills discovered that the bill validated the neglect of the selectman of the town instead of the action of the town, and hence the correction recommended by the committee on engrossed bills. The report was accepted and the bill passed under suspension of rules and transmitted to the house.

Senator Brooks stated that possibly next week it may be advisable to take the resolution for Friday sessions from the table and pass it. The holding of Friday sessions would expedite business.

Senator Rogers called the attention of the senate to the appropriation bill for deficiencies printed in the journal and which calls for appropriations amounting to $575,550. The bill would be taken up Wednesday for consideration.

The senate adjourned at 12.45 to 11.15 a. m. Wednesday.

Notes.

Representative Smith of Groton was present today and was warmly greeted by his many friends.

The New London county caucus will organize Wednesday at the close of the session in room 66.

The republican members of New London county will meet Tuesday next for the selection of county commissioners.

The judiciary committee met in executive session to take action today upon the judicial appointment in Norwich, Groton, Killingly and other eastern Connecticut courts.

LIQUOR CASE CONTINUED IN POLICE COURT

In the city court Tuesday morning a transient paid $5 for intoxication while a Montville man charged with violation of the autolaws in Norwich by State Policeman Sterling had his case continued until May 30th.

Anthony Zigarelli was charged with violating the liquor laws at his store and residence, 29 Roath Street and the matter went over until the next court at the request of Lawyer Perkins Word was received by radio in Boston that Captain J. F. Simpson of the Cunard liner Verantis had died aboard his ship.

45TH ANNIVERSARY OF FIRST COMMERCIAL PHONES

The 45th anniversary of the opening in New Haven on January 28th, 1878, of the first commercial telephone exchange in the world was marked by the installation of the 200,000th telephone in the dependable communications service of The Southern New England Telephone Company.

It is fitting, too, that this 200,000th telephone was especially installed on Sunday to meet a real emergency in a New Haven household in which owning to illness, a telephone was sorely needed.

A total of 200,000 telephones establishes a high record for the number in service in S. N. E. T. territory. But this record did not hold long, because the demand for telephones is heavy and constant.

The new year began with 195,300 Southern New England Company telephones in service. Each day saw the total growing nearer to the 200,000 mark, and reaching that impressive figure Sunday.

There is approximately one telephone for each seven persons in the state and with close to 1,000,000 calls being made every day, an average active from each station, it appears that each six persons who have no telephones of their own are using public pay stations, or a neighbor's telephone.

Telephone development accurately reflects the social progress and business activity of a community and Connecticut, so it appears, is having its full share of trade revival and social advancement.

The January membership letter of the Chamber of Commerce shows the varied line of activities along civic interest that have been followed.

The letter says:

Thames River—The transportation committee and the board of directors are leaving nothing undone that can advance the interests of securing a deeper channel. Due to the fact that Major Peterson's report of his preliminary investigation has not yet reached the board of army engineers, the deepening of the channel cannot be accomplished this year. An earnest effort was made to gain the support of our representatives in Washington towards using every available means to bring this project to a successful issue this year. We have learned that this project will have to take its course in congress. A great deal depends upon the outcome of Major Peterson's report.

Those who heard Secretary S. A. Thompson's address at this month's membership meeting were impressed with the advantages that water transportation can bring to a city. Many instances were cited showing that the commerce and the growth of cities were due solely to the development of river and harbor navigation. Norwich has been indifferent to this matter and has allowed the commerce on the Thames to decrease.

Time and methods change. And so we are confronted today with the fact that a very little number of vessels can navigate the river above Allyn's Point because of the lack of sufficient depth of water to carry modern boats. This means lighterage for our shippers, which of course increases the expense of transportation. This is not a matter that concerns the shippers alone. The agitation for a greater development is by no means a selfish one.

When railroad facilities are congested and embargoes follow which may threaten the very operation of industry, water transportation is the only alternative. The competition of rail and water transportation is a most valuable asset to those cities that enjoy the advantage of both. There is no doubt that when Norwich really awakens to the realization of her valuable traffic facilities and develops them, the day will surely come when her commerce and her population will surpass our most optimistic expectations.

Norwich Free Academy—Since the last issue of our membership letter certain changes have been contemplated by the trustees of the Academy which it is believed will relieve the crowded conditions temporarily. The time has arrived when the housing accommodations of the school must be enlarged or pupils will be rejected for lack of room. Whereupon the state will step in and demand that Norwich must furnish adaquate high school education for the children.

It is understood that the trustees are willing to build an addition to the present school and also increase the number of teachers as a matter of course. At the same time they need to be reasonably assured of a continuance of the present arrangement with the town of Norwich. Increased expenses must be paid for an increased per capita cost. Most likely this will be nearly double the present per capita of $60. The question to be settled is—will the school be enlarged to meet the needs of an increasing number of pupils, at a greatly increased per capita costs, or will the town build and maintain its own high school.

Because of certain justifiable reasons the special town meeting to discuss this subject will be duly filed during the early part of February. According to the law the meeting must be called within ten days after filing the petition.

Postal Conference Convention—On Wednesday, February 21st, in Hartford, Postmaster General Hubert Work has called a conference to discuss postal affairs. We quote—"One of the objects of this conference-convention is to bring into personal contact the department officials, the postoffice officers and the postal workers of the state with the large users of the mails and representatives of the business organizations of the state. The programme will consist of one afternoon session, preceded or followed by a special meeting at which we shall meet the business men, and they are expected to come prepared with any suggestions they may have. The meeting will be reported and they may rest assured that anything they say will receive careful consideration. We want their suggestions, believing that from those experienced in business can best be secured those practical ideas that will enable us to put more business into the post office department."

Evidently the post office department is desirous of doing its utmost to promptly handle the tremendous volume of mail as efficiently as human ingenuity can do so. This conference will provide a fine opportunity to express one's views and present suggestions for increasing the efficiency of this important government department.

Traffic Club—In order to provide a means for the shippers of Norwich to get together to consult and co-operate for their mutual advantage, an effort is being made to form a Traffic Bureau or club. A meeting will soon be called at which a traffic man who is a member of the Providence Chamber of Commerce Traffic club will tell those present the advantages to be gained by meeting regularly and discussing their problems. In these days of delayed shipments and embargoes the coming together of those most actively interested in these matters will be beneficial.

Fire Insurance Rates—A conference was recently held in the chamber's offices which discussed the possibility of reduced fire insurance rates. Attending this meeting were the local board of underwriters, Chief Stanton, and W. F. Lester. It was proposed that inasmuch as the city had increased its fire fighting apparatus, and had comparatively small fire losses locally, that a reduced rate should be forthcoming. It was pointed out that the matter of rate was solely under the jurisdiction of the New England Exchange, which in turn was subservient to the National Board. The rate was determined on the fire losses, not only in Norwich, but through the country. It was further stated that the insurance companies were very much interested in lower rates because such rates indicated lesser fire hazards. It is probable that in the near future this subject will be discussed at one of the monthly meetings of the chamber.

Six of the crew of a ferryboat plying between Hamilton and Somerset, Bermuda, were seriously injured by an explosion in the boiler room.

KIDNEY TROUBLE CAUSES LAMENESS.
"A lameness followed me for some time, and I felt that it was caused from kidney trouble. One bottle of Foley Kidney Pills had the desired effect," writes H. B. Arbuckle, South Barre, Vermont. Backache, rheumatism, dull headache, too frequent or burning urination are symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. Disordered kidneys require prompt treatment. Neglect causes serious complications. Foley Kidney Pills give quick relief. Lee & Osgood Co.

The Ladies Paradis of Voluntown and Rev. Oscar Norman of Moosup, have been engaged assisting at the Forty Hours Devotion at Sacred Heart Church, which closed Tuesday morning.

Miss Mona Leclerc is confined to her home on Providence Street by illness.

At a recent meeting of the St. Louis Society plans were discussed for having a carnival sometime after Lent.

Hazen Langlois of South B street has resigned his position in the weaving department of the Ponemah Company.

The Standing Committee of the Taftville Congregational Church met Tuesday evening, Chairman George J. Mayer presided and routine business was transacted.

NORWICH TOWN

John C. Hinrichs, D. C., of Town street, returned Monday evening from a few days stay in New York city. He was the guest of Robert Treat hotel, Newark, N. J., Sunday afternoon. Dr. Hinrichs was included among a gathering of 600 chiropractors, who assembled by special invitation to hear the address on The National Bill, given by D. J. Palmer, D. C., of Davenport, Iowa. Dr. Hinrichs was a guest at dinner on Sunday of Dr. Rochelle, D. C., of Long Island.

At the rectory of the Sacred Heart church, Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, John Lynch of Norwich Town and Miss Lena Thiel, of Baltic street, were united in marriage by Rev. Charles W. Brennan, rector of the church. The places of honor were filled by Mrs. James Moran and James Lynch, sister and brother of the groom.

The bride, who has always resided in Norwich, is the daughter of Carl and Susan Bradlaw Thiel. The groom is the son of John and Katherine Sullivan Lynch of East Town street. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful wedding gifts from friends of both, they being popular among a large circle.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynch left for a trip to Boston and New York and upon their return are to reside in Mansfield, where a newly furnished home awaits them.

Mr. Lynch attended the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, having specialized in the study of poultry.

While in New York Mr. and Mrs. Lynch will be guests of Mr. Lynch's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William O'Leary, the latter formerly Anna Lynch.

For the repose of the soul of John Pomeroy of West Town street, an anniversary requiem high mass was celebrated Tuesday morning at 7.30 o'clock, at the Sacred Heart church, by the rector, Rev. Charles W. Brennan. Miss Elizabeth A. Malone was organist of the mass. The choir sang well at the offertory. Mrs. Richard Quinn sang The Rosary and at the close of the mass, There's a Beautiful Land on High. There was a large attendance of relatives and family friends.

Mrs. George A. Peck of Otrobando avenue recently entertained the Birthday club at her home, in recognition of her birthday, which date fell on January 17.

The other members are Mrs. Wellington Miner of Vergason avenue, whose birthday month is February; and Mrs. W. A. White of Leffingwell, whose birthday comes in March. Mrs. Peck served a delicious supper of fruit punch, roast chicken with all the fixings, ice cream and cake and fancy wafers. Mr. Miner was included among the guests at supper.

This has been a custom for the past five years for this company of women to meet in each other's homes on these occasions, each year. At present Mr. and Mrs. Peck have as their guest, Stephen Brainard, of Westchester, who is spending some time in Norwich, while attending the term of the present session of the superior court.

Rev. David W. Beach, Jr., of Guilford, state superintendent of evangelism, who gave the address Sunday evening at the meeting of Norwich Christian Endeavor Union, held in the First Congregational chapel, was the guest while in town of George F. Hyde and the Misses Hyde of Washington street.

BENJAMIN ELLAD ARRESTED FOR POISONING HORSE AT McCLIMON'S

Benjamin Ellal, 16, of Preston, who has been under suspicion of poisoning a valuable mare last Wednesday night at the farm of McClimon Bros., on the Preston road, was arrested Tuesday afternoon at his home by county investigator W. E. Jackson and state policeman M. R. Sterling.

The young man made a written confession, according to the officers, and he was taken for a hearing before Justice of the Peace V. P. A. Quinn at the Norwich state hospital late Tuesday afternoon. The case was continued till Saturday under bonds of $500. Grand juror W. B. Mitchell prosecuted the case and attorney Thomas M. Shields appeared for Ellal.

The mare, for which Mr McClimon paid $250 two years ago, was found sick in the stall Thursday morning when Thomas McClimon opened the barn and she died about 11 o'clock that morning. A liberal amount of Paris green was found mixed with the feed in the feed-box and the poison was also scattered along the sides of the stall.

The first clue of point to Ellal was picked up when a box in which the Paris green had been carried was found thrown over a fence into a neighbor's yard. It was wrapped in a piece of newspaper upon which was an address, which could not be read without a microscope, but when the glass had been applied the name of Ellal was deciphered.

State Policeman Sterling was called into the case and went promptly to work by taking the newspaper to a jeweler where the name was made out. He next visited the Ellal place last Saturday where he found the young man and questioned him, but could get no admission from him then. The Ellal place is about a mile from McClimon's.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. Jackson and Mr. Sterling again went to the Ellal place where they found the young man cutting wood. They put him through a lengthy questioning under which he finally weakened and made the written confession.

As to his reason for poisoning the mare he said he did it for a joke as he thought it would be a joke to make the horse sick and he did not intend to kill the animal. He claimed he found the Paris green in the road.

Although Ellal is 16 years old, it is claimed he shows the mentality of a boy of about 10 years.

Last summer McClimon Bros. lost three cows by poisoning when Paris green was spread in the pasture. Ellal denies that he had anything to do with this.

SURRENDERS TO POLICE FOR SHOOTING MAN

On the advice of his attorney, Domonick Mariolo, of New London, who has been in hiding since he fired a shot at Joseph Venditto, in a Shaw street grocery store, a few weeks ago has surrendered himself to the police. Mariolo has been out of town since the happening and arrived on a 4 p. m. train Monday and was turned over to Police Captain Charles A. Finney by Attorney Lubchansky. Due to the absence of Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, who was in Hartford Tuesday, the case was continued until Feb. 3. The accused has not revealed where he has been since the shooting.

Attorney Lubchansky stated Tuesday that recently Mariolo got in touch with some friends he had in New London and stated that he wished to come back. His friends took the matter up with Attorney Lubchansky, who advised that the accused surrender himself. Attorney Lubchansky stated that Mariolo claimed he shot at Venditto in self-defense.

The two men are alleged to have gotten into a quarrel and Venditto is alleged to have thrown a box at Mariolo. Venditto is then alleged to have reached for his backpocket as though to draw a gun and Mariolo, believing that gun was about to be brought into play, pulled his own gun first and fired. Venditto's wound turned out to be trivial.

GUINAN IS IN JAIL TO AWAIT HEARING

John J. Guinan, whose statements to Coroner Desmond concerning his connection with the case against Miss Grace M. McSheffery, self-confessed mother and slayer of the child found in the lot at the corner of Reed and Bliss[illegible] streets, New London was regarded by State Attorney Hull as sufficient to implicate him, was turned over to the city authorities in New London, Tuesday morning on orders from Washington.

State Attorney Hull sent County Investigator William E. Jackson and Officer Babcock to the Submarine Base Tuesday morning, where Guinan was turned over to their custody by the executive officer, Lieut. Commander P. A. Daulton. Guinan was brought to the police station at 11 o'clock and was presented before Judge S. Victor Prince. Judge Prince continued his case until Saturday, and committed him to jail until that time, without bonds.

According to the present plans he will be presented at that time to answer to the charge against him and in all probability he will be bound over to the criminal term of the superior court for trial. It is probable that Grace M. McSheffery who has sought to take the full blame for the crime will be arraigned at the same time for it was stated by the hospital authorities Tuesday that she would be confined to the institution about a week.

GAVE FALSE STATEMENT TO GET HUNTING LICENSE

Armed with a shotgun and a hunting license obtained in the town of Groton, Peter Pettini, resident of Ledyard, was apprehended by Deputies Kamistella and Ross and taken into custody Monday. Pettini was placed under arrest on a grand juror's complaint, brought by Alonzo Main of Ledyard charged with giving false statement to obtain a license to hunt game.

Pettini was presented before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton of Waterford, at the home of Grand Juror Alonzo Main at 1.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The case was prosecuted by County Game Warden Robert B. Chappell and after hearing the evidence Justice Morton imposed a fine of $7 and costs, which made the procedure a costly one for the Ledyard man. He paid and went his way.

Workmen's Compensation

Five workmen's compensation agreements as follows have been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue as follows:

TROLAND PLUMBING BUSINESS 66 YEARS IN FAMILY

The recent removal of John Troland from No. 23 West Main street marks an epoch in a long and continuous business career in our city, existing for sixteen years over the half century in the same name and same family.

This firm for plumbing, tin and sheet metal work was first started in the Colt block, Union street, now known as lower Broadway, in the year 1857 by James and Archibald Troland, the elder, had just returned from Australia, where on the gold diggings he had acquired the needful capital which he put into the firm against his brother Archie's skill and experience. Archie was just fresh from a position in Connecticut Company in New Britain and Hartford, where he had plied the art for some years.

About 1859 the business removed to the old Bethel church building which stood where now is the opening to the Central Vermont station, capital W. W. Colt was the landlord who at that time owned the greater part of Central wharf, and indeed also a large part of the West Side. Our shop was on the first floor of the church, and the audience room above was used alternately as a dancing school and a prayer meeting by the Methodists. Gurdon Cady conducting the former and Elder Bentley the latter. So when it was necessary, as often as it was, for us to work nights, we had a change of entertainment overhead from gay to serious, on one night the fantastic toe tripping to the loud violin of Mr. Cady, and the next the solemn cadences of "Come ye sinners poor and needy" in sacred sweetness long drawn out, by worshipping assemblies. These opportunities were not lost on us, however.

Fire Forced Removal

About the close of the Civil war a fire in the upper part of the church forced our removal to Main street, and, Colt retiring from the firm at this time, James began in the Rockwell building, which then stood where the Porteous and Mitchell stores are, right by the stairway to Water street. A large slim tree of that time stood in front of what was an office building and had been used by Lawyer Rockwell, who was the landlord and head of a well known and respected family of Norwich.

After some years, another fire, which broke out in a saloon on Water street, was suffered, and James then bought the old Lamman house, corner of West Main and Water streets, where the Washington block now stands. While there, James did a large stove and tinroofing business, covering the principal residences and public buildings of the city. When the Bulletin building was erected on the old site on Main str. all the plumbing and sheet metal work was his.

Standing at a point on Union street near the little park and looking southeastward, one can count eight residential roofs laid by him and nearly as many in the opposite direction. These have stood the test of years—many of half a century. The former Free Academy roof was his work and when razed to give place for the present structure, the tin roofing showed little deterioration after fifty years' endurance. The Broadway church and Second Congregational roofs were also of our work, and many other lesser buildings that might be named. When St. Patrick's church was built, Father Mullen gave a blank order that whatever Billy Murphy the contractor should want might be furnished by us. Hence all the templets for cut stone on the front were furnished in zinc from the original drawings, and the box in the corner stone was of copper and of our work.

Fatal Accident to One Partner

It was in covering the big mill at the Falls in the winter of 1872, December 6, that James lost his life by a fall from the roof. The business was then taken up by John, the youngest of the family, and Afchy, and was conducted for five years under the firm name of Troland Brothers.

There was no workmen's compensation law at that time of this fatal accident, but Gardiner Greene—father of the present Judge Greene—who was one of the principal owners of the Falls mills, asked the privilege of paying all the funeral expenses, which, to his credit, he did, and no one sympathized more deeply with the bereaved family than he.

The Troland firm has always had among its patrons the wealthy, and best families of this city, and that their trade was continuously preserved is still regarded with individual pride.

Extensive stove and furnace work was also carried on with great satisfaction to customers. For a long period, and up to the death of Superintendent P. S. M. Andrews, the firm had the contract for all the work of the Norwich and Worcester railroad, the agreed price was 20 cents per hour, except when covering locomotives with Russia iron, which being voted expert work, the price was 40 cents per hour. This railroad work had to be done promptly upon order, and as there was no telephone in those days a messenger was despatched with the order. This work was not all confined to the local shops, but called for attendance at the stations and bridges up the road as far as Webster, Mass. All the cars were roofed with tin.

Did Work on Gunboats

When Mr. J. M. Huntington's shipyards were going, a dozen or more gunboats were built for the government, and all the lead, zinc and sheet iron work on these was done by James and his assistants, also that of the printing press works, rolling mills and foundry.

Besides local work, much was also attended to outside the confines of the city, notably the Whitestone mill roof in Killingly, the Ethan Allen mills, Hanover, and other work in Versailles, Occum and Taftville and the Greeneville bleachery. The former residence of John Mitchell, West Thames street, built 1857-8, has the same tin roof on it today that was laid by Archy and James Troland at that time, which is good testimony to both material and workmanship.

Moved to 23 West Main St.

The firm of Troland Brothers expiring by limitation in the year 1875, the work was continued at the old stand by John Troland until 1885, when, the building being sold to John P. Murphy, now city postmaster, removal was made to 23 West Main street in the month of April and continued there ever since.

The Chelsea Boat club was landlord, with whom the most cordial relation has existed for the period of 34 years.

During all this period many ups and downs have been witnessed, perhaps the only hope that has seemed to have a continuous existence in this line being that of Messrs. J. P. Barstow & Co.—and that only in name, for Mr. Barstow passed many years ago. The firm has always paid one hundred cents on the dollar and is A-1 on the calendar, although passing through more than one national panic, and the many who have passed out of the business would form a long list.

Not Road to Millions

Notwithstanding the plumbing business is reputed to be a bonanza, in all the period of these 64 years, no plumber has retired in the millionaire list, but it must be candidly confessed, that some did end in the poor house. It affords great satisfaction, however, to recall many business favors and friendly recognitions that are to be valued more even than silver and gold.

This brief retrospect recalls many incidents and adventures that might be interesting to relate many contemporary personages who have incidentally had contact with the House in important connections, many patrons who have contributed to its success and passed to their reward, and very many workmen who were helpers in life and went, long since, to their everlasting abode, yet whose places here now would be indeed hard to fill. Machinery, however, in the matter of its every readers their handiwork and skill less needful, but the memory of their artistic merit and useful content never sweetness to the friend, of the writer of this sketch.

MASTERY THROUGH BELIEF WAS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

At the Richmond radiator plant on Tuesday noon there was a large attendance of the employees and their interest in the meeting was marked.

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts delivered one of the strongest addresses of the series of meetings under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. His subject was Mastery Through Belief, and he said in part:

"Every person who is trying to live the right sort of life knows that he possesses some power. He possesses enough successes in life to know that this power is a real treasure, and enough failures to realize how weak are the earthen vessels that hold it. The background of this subject is found in the story of the transfiguration. The Man of Nazareth with a few of His disciples had been up in the mount, where they had seen and felt the glory of God revealed. With that glory still burning in their hearts and gleaming in their faces, they came down to a different atmosphere. Up there it was light; down here light blends with the shadows. Up there it was angels; down here it was demons. Up there it was reception of power; down here it is giving forth that power to those who had never been up in the mount. Down in the valley they found a boy possessed with a demon. They tried to cure him but failed. Jesus effected a complete cure as He always does when given a chance. One of the disciples (and I think it was Peter) asked Jesus why they, the disciples, could not cast out the demon. Jesus said "Because of your unbelief." I have four points to make today: First, Belief to be masterful must be constant and unwavering. Some things become old and useless because outgrown; for instance, I would not easily find in any home in Norwich today a tallow candle, because we now have something far better. I would not think of riding to New York today as our grandfathers did; we have a far better way to travel; these things have gone by; they have worn out, but not so with belief or faith.

"Second, belief to be masterful must be used, and thereby it becomes stronger; the more we give in most cases the more we have; for instance, is it not true that the teacher who for twenty years has taught mathematics has a greater knowledge of mathematics with every passing year of her teaching? Does an athlete grow weak by training? No the very use of his strength develops still more strength, and his muscles become as iron bands; there is a withholding that impoverish, and a scattering abroad that enriches. We must constantly believe in ourselves, in the other fellow, in our city, our family and in our God. Belief to be masterful must be kept free from subtle doubt. Here is John at school trying to do a difficult example. The devil, or whatever you might call it suggests that he cannot do the example, and the boy comes to think that he cannot do it, and he absolutely cannot do it in that frame of mind, for as one thinketh, so is he. We must not doubt half of the battle is fought and won by attacking our hard jobs with the faith that we can do them. Finally, belief to be masterful must not be weakened by self indulgence, but strengthened by rigid self denial. If the body is pampered and the mind coddled there can be no power. Both body, mind and will must be kept strong. Some years ago a few young men met under a haystack, and determined that they would give themselves to service for Christ in benighted lands. Their friends laughed at them, and some ministers belittled their desire, but they said, 'We can if we will, therefore we will because we can' and because of their determination we have the history of achievement in missionary work in foreign lands. Let us constantly maintain that faith that will give us the mastery!"

MILLINGTON AXE USER COMMITTED TO ASYLUM

John Willey, who slashed his brother and sister with an axe at the end of Jan. 16 at the Willey home in Millington, near the Salem line, was committed to Connecticut Hospital for the Insane in the probate court Monday, the decision being that the man is mentally unbalanced.

A notice had been issued requiring Willey to appear for a hearing. He did not appear. It was stated that there will be no criminal prosecution of Willey for the assault, as the brother, Henry, and the sister, Catherine, declined to make complaint. While each had painful wounds they did not prove serious. The attack came almost without warning.

Dr. John H. Mountain and Dr. Thomas P. Walsh, appointed a special commission by Judge Bacon to examine Willey, reported as follows: "Does not seem to appreciate the purpose of examiners. Answers questions in a confusing manner. Hard to obtain or hold his attention. Memory defective."

PROPOSES TO BRING COAL TO NEW LONDON

Waldo E. Clarke, resident engineer at the state pier at New London, has sent telegrams to various fuel administrators throughout the state announcing his ability to procure a cargo of 5,000 tons of soft coal from England.

In order to secure this coal it will be necessary for him to have orders from various coal dealers or from individuals to fill a cargo of [illegible] size. Mr. Clarke's intention in doing this is to bring business to the pier, which is paramount to [illegible] He is not doing this in the capacity of a coal dealer, so to speak, but coal business. He put the proposition up to the New London coal dealers as well as those abroad, and the proposition has not thus far been looked upon with favor by the [illegible] men.

This coal is known as British admiralty coal, and is soft coal to use [illegible] It is mined near Plymouth [illegible]. The cargo, if ordered [illegible] be sent here during early February. The price quoted set down at $9 per ton in New London is $9.50 per ton. Mr. Clarke has not yet received replies to his telegrams to warrant ordering the cargo.

GRANTED DIVORCE ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY

The divorce was granted and she was given the right to change her name to Florence M. Chapman.

Johnson, the complaint stated, has been sentenced in the present term of the criminal superior court on the charge of bigamy and had pleaded guilty to the charge.

The couple was married on Oct 27 1906.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM ARE TO TAKE MORE RIGOROUS MEASURES AGAINST GERMANY

France Will Not Tolerate Passive Hostility Supported and Financed by the German Government—The Occupational Authorities Have Seized the Entire Customs of the Ruhr Valley—Have Shut Off All Shipments of Coal From the Ruhr to Unoccupied Germany—Germany Has Defaulted Payment of 500,000,000 Gold Marks Due on the Reparations Account—Herr Stinness Has Discontinued German Deliveries for the Devastated Areas in France.

(By The Associated Press.)

The Franco-Belgian grip on the Ruhr is tightening. The occupational authorities have seized the entire customs of the Ruhr valley and have shut off all shipments of coal from the Ruhr to unoccupied Germany.

A serious situation has arisen at the mines. Only about half the normal output is being brought to the surface and the supply of cars for the transportation of coal is fast diminishing. Though the output is small, coal is accumulating at the pitheads and the French admit that this may cause a suspension of operations within a few days.

The German railroad men who went on strike are displaying a determined front. They refuse to work, and traffic is tied up.

Essen has been shut off by reason of the severance of telegraph and telephone communication, and the scarcity of food throughout the Ruhr region is becoming acute.

Herr Stinnes has discontinued German deliveries for the devastated areas of France.

Gold marks to the amount of five hundred million due on the reparations account have not been paid by Germany. Therefore, unless Germany makes a satisfactory response to the latest notification of France and Belgium these powers have decided to take still more rigorous measures than have yet been put into effect.

FRENCH HAVE SEIZED ENTIRE RUHR CUSTOMS

Duesseldorf, Jan. 31.—(By the A. P.) The French occupation authorities seized the entire Ruhr customs today, meeting men in charge of the large general merchandise warehouses in Duesseldorf and Duisburg and seizing the stocks of mineral oil, petroleum, benzol, spirits and tobacco, as well as all the customs offices throughout the district.

Four high German customs functionaries in Duisburg and Duesseldorf who objected to the seizures were expelled from the Ruhr. Many of the customs workers elected to continue their duties under the French while others, who refused, were replaced by French customs officers who have been stationed at Duesseldorf for several days.

The personnel of the customs offices in Duisburg refused to work with the French.

The taking over of the customs is the direct result of the most severe economic blow attempted since the outbreak of the Ruhr. M. Loucheur, the French minister of the liberated regions, stated that he did not consider the participation of Germany in the discussions necessary to enforce the measures which were immediately replaced and work proceeded as usual. The Germans declared that more than seventy per cent of their customs staff walked out against the French will not be able to handle collections.

A visit to the Duisburg central customs house disclosed little congestion, customs examination power but a few French are present, the doors open for two hours additional with the French staff and such Germans as volunteer, in order to transact the daily business without undue delay.

The coal production yesterday fell down fifty per cent. of normal for the first time since the occupation. Only a little more than 100,000 tons were brought to the surface, and owing to the shortage of "empties" about 70,000 tons were loaded and cleared from the pitheads.

HOSTILITY FINANCED BY THE GERMAN GOVT

London, Jan. 31.—(By the A. P.)—Apparently basing their statements upon General Degoutte's warning to Germany, some of the English correspondents at Duesseldorf assert that the French almost immediately will send Berlin a notification equivalent in spirit if not in form to an ultimatum, demanding reversal of Wilhelmstrasse's policy regarding the Ruhr. Germany is to be told, the Post's Duesseldorf correspondent says, that France will not tolerate passive hostility supported and financed by the German government; and that if a satisfactory reply is not given drastic measures will be taken exceeding any already in operation. Despatches to the Telegraph say that this notification will probably be forwarded to Germany this evening. The correspondent adds that it is not known what form the threatened measures will take, but says that they are not likely to involve further occupation of territory.

BRITISH ACCEPTANCE IS WITHOUT RESERVATIONS

London, Jan. 31.—(By the A. P.)—The cabinet council today with unexpected promptitude and almost without further debate decided to accept the American terms for refunding the British debt, and so far as known tonight, without reservations of any kind.

No official statement has been issued beyond the bare announcement of acceptance, and if there are any reservations or counter-proposals, they will probably become known only after the ambassador at Washington has communicated the British government's decision to the state department.

The American ambassador, Colonel Harvey, expressing to the Associated Press his gratification that the matter had thus been arranged, said he considered it a fair and just settlement.

ISOLATION OF THE RUHR WILL TAKE PLACE FEB. 1

Paris, Jan. 31.—A despatch to the Havas agency from Duesseldorf denies newspaper reports that the isolation of the Ruhr will take place Feb. 1. The despatch says the allies will choose their own time for such action, not before they take the step they probably will formulate new demands upon the German government.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM TO SEND ULTIMATUM TO BERLIN

Brussels, Jan. 31.—(By the A. P.)—Belgium and France will present to the German government in Berlin tonight an ultimatum demanding for the last time that Germany fulfill the reparations program and execute the treaty of Versailles, it was announced here this afternoon.

STRIKES NOT GENERAL IN THE RHINELAND

Coblenz, Jan. 31.—The strike of the railwaymen and river boatmen throughout the Rhineland is continuing, with only occasional trains moving, and these operated by the French.

The German workers in the water and electric light plants underwent a change of heart at the last moment and did not strike as planned.

WORK OF THE COUNCIL OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Paris, Jan. 31 (By the A. P.)—One of the clouds hanging over Europe was dissipated today when Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary accepted the procedure proposed by the council of the league of nations to settle the boundary dispute between them.

Representatives of both countries told the council at its meeting here today that they would abide by its decision. The council will investigate the situation and render its decision at its next meeting. Domicio Da Gama, Brazilian representative, was charged with preparing the report upon which the league settlement will be based.

The council decided to follow the suggestion of the last league assembly and call an international conference to consider extension of the Washington naval accord to those powers that did not have the opportunity to sign the agreement, in view of the beneficial results in this direction that may be derived from the forthcoming Pan-American conference in Santiago. The council decided to postpone fixing the date for the naval conference until the Santiago meeting has adjourned.

In spite of the intervention of the Earl of Balfour, who deemed that representations for armaments did not form a practical basis upon which to figure proportional limitations the council decided, in pursuance of a resolution adopted by the last assembly, to invite all members of the league to limit their annual expenditures for armaments to the amount appropriated in 1913.

The welfare of the German minorities in Poland is giving the council considerable concern. This question is on the agenda, but is being put off as long as possible in order to give the members opportunity for private consideration in the hope of preparing the way for agreement before it is taken up formally.

DISCUSSED CHANGES IN THE VETERANS' BUREAU

Washington, Jan. 31. — Possible changes in the Veterans' bureau were discussed informally in some administration circles today, but whether these might include the resignation and appointment of a successor to Colonel Charles R. Forbes, director of the bureau, who is now on his way to Europe for a brief rest, was not indicated officially.

Reports that the resignation of Colonel Forbes might be expected upon his return, if not before, were given some weight because of the state of his health and because of opposition to his continuing in charge of the bureau voiced for some time by the American Legion and other veterans' organizations.

Among possible successors to Colonel Forbes mentioned in the event of his resignation is Colonel Thomas W. Miller, the alien property custodian, who is a veteran of the World war.

A considerable reorganization affecting particularly personnel, it is indicated, may be looked for if important changes are made in the higher offices of the bureau.

TWO MEN BURIED ALIVE BENEATH 100 TONS OF COAL

Lynbrook, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Arthur Grunan, of Rockville Centre, the father of six children, and George Peterson, of Lynbrook, today were buried alive beneath 100 tons of coal in the yards of a coal company where they were employed. Both were killed.

Scores of rescuers worked feverishly for several hours before the bodies were recovered. Ambulances and physicians stood by to render aid, but Peterson was dead when his body was found and Grunan died in a few minutes.

The men were at the top of a coal pocket, about 60 feet high, to pry loose a quantity of soft coal that had frozen to the sides of the silo in the form of a dome. Suddenly the coal gave way, and the men were hurled into the pocket.

MINERS' SCALE AGREED IN CENTRAL PENN.

Altoona, Pa., Jan. 31.—The scale committee of the Central Pennsylvania operators and representatives of the United Mine Workers today reached an agreement on wage scales for the year starting April 1, 1923 and ending March 31, 1924. It is the same as that under which the miners have worked since the close of the strike last summer.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

German and Russian Treaty

Berlin, Jan. 31.—(By the A. P.)—Ratifications of the Rapallo treaty between Germany and soviet Russia were exchanged today at the foreign office.

RUPTURE AVERTED IN NEAR EAST CONFERENCE

Lausanne, Jan. 31 (By the A. P.).—The spirit of conciliation shown on all sides today prevented a rupture of the Near Eastern peace conference following formal presentation of the allied draft treaty to the Turks, and the mutual good will manifested by the British, French and Italian delegations sidetracked any danger of a break in the allied front due to yesterday's developments.

Marquis Curzon, the British foreign secretary, changed his plans for leaving Lausanne on Friday and agreed to remain, together with his entire delegation, until Sunday night. Meanwhile efforts will be made by private negotiations to obtain accord on the disputed points in the treaty.

Richard Washburn Child, who as chief American spokesman delivered a striking address at today's meeting of the peace conference, has played an important if not dominating part both in harmonizing the conflicting views of the allies as to the time limit to be given the Turks and in convincing the Ottoman delegates that their national interests demand peace be concluded without delay.

Reasonable prospects of attaining an agreement, probably by submission of several of the matters in conflict to commission, saved the conference from a breakdown, induced the Turks to adopt a more moderate attitude and prevented discord among the allies.

The result is that the Turks probably will not present their counter-projects at a formal session of the conference but will endeavor to iron out the difficulties speedily in private conferences.

INDICATIONS OF RECOVERY IN AGRICULTURAL INDUSTRY

Washington, Jan. 31.—Renewed indications of recovery in the agricultural industry from the months of depression were given in reports made public tonight by the federal reserve board which show that sales of farm implements in December and January revealed a restoration of the buying powers of the farmers. December sales, according to the reports, were more than double those of December, 1921, and the increases were sustained in January.

On the basis of such reports, officials predicted healthy buying throughout the early spring, explaining that if the farmers were able to invest in new machinery they also could purchase other commodities in larger quantities than recently.

The improved financial condition of the agricultural industry as a whole has been demonstrated lately, it was said, by continued heavy repayments of loans made by the war finance corporation, and the reports showed further that the season decline in general wholesale trade in December and early January had been smaller than in several years.

Dividend and interest payments and the disbursement of government funds in paying off Victory notes and war savings certificates in the last few weeks were attended by somewhat easier money conditions generally, according to the board's monthly review.

WHISKEY CONCEALED IN BALES OF CUBAN ROPES

New York, Jan. 31.—Investigation by customs authorities of a marked increase in the importation of Cuban copes has revealed that whiskey is being smuggled into this port concealed in bales.

Four bales opened after they had been unloaded from the steamer Pastores, were found to contain a number of bottles. Other shipments are being investigated.

Samuel Keiles, who called at the customs house to enter the seized shipment, was arrested on a charge of presenting a false invoice and held in $5,000 bail for federal grand jury action.

Keiles was under-stood to have been connected in the grocery business in Stamford, Conn., until he recently became associated with a Brooklyn waste concern.

DEATH OF HENRY CLEWS, WIDELY KNOWN BANKER

New York, Jan. 31.—Henry Clews, widely known banker, died this afternoon at his home on West 51st street after an illness of several months.

The cause of his death, it was announced, was chronic bronchitis. He had been in failing health for several months.

Mr. Clews is survived by a daughter, Elsie, wife of Herbert Parsons, former congressman from New York, and a son, Henry Clews, Jr., an artist and newspaper reading in France. His nephew, James B. Clews, succeeded to the active management of the banking house several years ago on the occasion of Mr. Clews' retirement.

Funeral arrangements will be announced tomorrow.

ONE OF MONTREAL'S BIG DEPT. STORES BANKRUPT

Mintreal, Jan. 31.—Almys, Limited, one of Montreal's largest department stores of which Henry Wolfe, of New York, is president and treasurer, made involuntary assignement today. It had an authorized capital of $500,000 of which $300,000 was understood to have been paid up.

Almys, Limited, was organized in 1915. Mrs. E. S. Almys, vice president of the company, is largely interested in similar businesses in Salem, Mass., and other New England points.

INCREASE IN MARINE WAR RISK INSURANCE

New York, Jan. 31.—Marine war risk insurance, which has been quoted in the New York market at the flat rate of 5 cents a $100, today was increased on voyages to German ports to 25 cents for vessels flying the German flag and 12 1-2 cents for ships of other flags. This increase was announced following advices from London of similar action in that market. No reason for the increase was given by insurance men here.

Passage of Farm Credits Bill Certain

Senate Has Agreed to Vote on the Measure Friday—Last of the Farmer Relief Program.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Passage by the senate Friday of the Lenroot-Anderson farm credits bill, the second and last on the farmer relief program, was regarded as certain today by an agreement for a vote on that day and the overwhelming defeat of a motion for recommital.

The unanimous consent agreement for a final roll call Friday was offered by Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, after conferences with leaders on both sides, but was adopted only after Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, had threatened to hold the senate in session tonight.

After disposing of the credit measure, the senate will take up the war department appropriation bill, with the shipping bill following on the program. Considerable debate on the army budget is predicted with the possibility that opponents of the shipping bill will use it, as it has been charged they have the farm credit legislation, as a buffer against the shipping measure.

The motion to recommit the Lenroot-Anderson bill came as a surprise. It was made by Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, the new member appointed to succeed former Senator Newberry, and proposed to send the measure and all substitutes and amendments to the banking committee. The Michigan senator contended that the senate was without sufficient information to act on farm credits and urged that the bill go over until the next congress, but his motion was defeated, 51 to 3.

In presenting his motion, Senator Couzens made his "maiden" speech. The Capper farm credits bill passed recently by the senate, he declared, was all the credits legislation immediately necessary.

"I submit that this congress is not informed as to the best method of providing credit for the farmer," he said. "By the next congress, we will have the experience under the Capper bill, with its one year's extension of the war finance corporation's powers and also of the liquidation in agriculture. I can see nothing lost by delaying this legislation."

Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, discussed at length his amendment providing for a cooperative bank system and detailed the progress of success of the cooperative movement in this country and abroad. He declared that eventually the "farm bloc, the labor bloc, the soldier bloc and the mother's block," would have a controlling voice in congress.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, in a tilt with the Iowa senator, said all members of congress desired equal treatment and opportunity for all American and asked whether special privileges for the farm bloc was desired. Senator Reed said he hoped the day would never come when there would be a railroad bloc, a farm bloc and other blocs forming a senate "soviet" of class representatives.

In reply, Senator Brookhart said the country had been ruled by the "Wall Street bloc, the railroad bloc and the bankers' bloc" and this condition had caused the farmers to demand fair treatment through their representatives.

BILL TO LIMIT HABIT-FORMING DRUG PRODUCTION

Washington, Jan. 31.—President Harding would be requested to urge a worldwide limitation of narcotic and habit-forming drug production under a resolution introduced today by Chairman Porter of the house foreign affairs committee.

It is the imperative duty of the United States to protect its people from the persistent ravages of habit-forming drugs," the resolution said, "and to effective control can only be had by limiting production."

The resolution did not suggest an international conference but left to the discretion of the president the method of procedure. Under its terms, however, the president would be requested to report to congress within six months the result of his efforts.

Unlawful use in the nited States of opium and its derivatives, including morphine and heroin, and of cocaine and other preparations made from coca leaves, the resolution said, "has wrought irreparable injury to health and morality," and caused "increased and spreading" death.

A special committee appointed by the secretary of the treasury in 1919, to investigate the drug traffic, the resolution said, was of the opinion that at that time there were one million addicts in the United States, ranging in age from 12 to 75 years.

Asserting that present conditions arising from the use of narcotic drugs are due solely to production many times greater than is necessary, the resolution requests the president to urge upon the governments of Great Britain and Persia and Turkey the immediate necessity of limiting growth of the poppy and the production of opium and its derivatives, exclusively to the amount actually required for strictly medical and scientific purposes.

Mr. Potter said the failure of previous efforts to solve the problem could be found in the cost to control the transportation and sale of drugs, instead of going to the root of the question and putting a hard and fast limit on their production. Regardless of the amount of drugs produced, he said, a market was always at hand.

BILL IN HOUSE FOR SALE GOVERNMENT RESERVATIONS

Washington, Jan. 31.—A number of historical forts and other government reservations would be sold by the War department under the terms of a bill ordered reported today by the house military committee. They include:

Connecticut: Lighthouse Point, about five miles from New Haven.

New York: Plumb Beach and Fort Tyler.

Maine: Fort Baldwin, Edgecomb, Knox, Machias, McClary, Popham and St. Georges (Robinson's Point), and North and South Sugar Loaf Islands.

New Hampshire: Sagamore Reservation and Portsmouth gun house at Portsmouth.

Massachusetts: Gloucester gun house, Salisbury Beach and Fort Standish (old).

Rhode Island: Fort Mansfield.

British Accept Debt Funding Suggestions

Some Further Negotiations Are to be Necessary — Washington and London Pleased.

Washington, Jan. 31—(By the A. P.)—Advices announcing the acceptance today by the British cabinet of the American debt funding suggestions were received by official Washington with undisguised satisfaction. The feeling prevailed generally that a step toward breaking the "vicious cycle of world debts" had been taken and that the result would be a substantial improvement in world conditions.

On the basis of press dispatches which were supplemented lated by a brief cable to the state department from Ambassador Harvey in London, members of the American debt funding commission began immediate preparation for presenting the terms of the tentative settlement to congress.

Some further negotiations are expected to be necessary, however, since, according to Mr. Harvey's cable report, the British government agreed to the American suggestions "in principle." To what extent such an agreement may affect the suggestions carried back to London by Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, and his colleagues of the mission, was not known tonight, but it was believed in official circles that the major questions of interest rates and the plan for amortization had been accepted by the British without change.

As a result of Mr. Harvey's cabled message, it was stated officially, plans would be made for a meeting of the American commission late tomorrow if further report promised on details of the agreement was received from Mr. Harvey in time for decoding and transmission to the commission members. If further negotiations are necessary, they will be conducted with Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, acting for his government.

Members of the American commission appeared today to be divided as to the procedure to be followed in submitting the question of ratification to congress. Some of them, including Secretary Mellon, who is the chairman, were represented as urging immediate changes in the law broadening the commission's power so that it could complete the settlement.

It was understood, however, that the president favored action by congress on a resolution by which congress would either to accept or reject the settlement, most of the provisions of which are outside the present foreseeable legislation.

The agreements negotiations called for final payment of the nearly $5,000,000,000 debt in sixty-two years with interest rates of three per cent. for the first ten years and three and one half per cent. thereafter, and an amortization rate of one half of one per cent. of the principal annually. The law prescribes an interest rate of four and one quarter per cent. and payment in twenty-five years, and congressional action of some kind, therefore, would be necessary before the settlement would become mutually agreeable.

Senator Smoot and Representative Burton, members of the American commission, were understood today to have begun the preparation of a bill to give the commission the authority deemed necessary with the expectation of presenting it early next week. Private statements from many democratic leaders, however, indicated that they would oppose changes in the law at this time, but their views seemed to be that they would not now oppose acceptance of the British agreement to pay.

President Harding's views already have been communicated to Senator Smoot and Mr. Burton and to some other members of the commission and any divergence in official views is expected to be taken up and quickly adjusted when the comission meets, unless the British acceptance carries qualifications that cause more difficulty than is anticipated.

Members of the commission tonight emphasized the fact that for getting something done at this session of congress which will terminate March 3. In this connection, the official view appeared to be that in reaching an agreement with this country's principal debtor nation a long step had been taken toward establishing a basis from which to work with the other debtor nations.

Treasury statisticians unofficially computed the total figure at more than ten billion dollars which great britain will have paid at the end of the sixty-two year period, if the rates made public are contained in the final approval by the British cabinet.

FIREDAMP EXPLOSION ENTOMBED 800 MINERS

Berlin, Jan. 31.—(By the A. P.)—Six hundred miners are entombed in the Hendtz mine at Beuthen, Polish Silesia, in consequence of an explosion of firedamp today.

Of the eight hundred men, constituting the morning shift, who went into the mine shortly before the explosion, only two hundred had been rescued up to a late hour today. Of these, eighty were suffering from injuries and taken to hospitals.

The bodies of thirty-five dead had been brought to the surface when the despatch from Beuthen was filed.

TREE IN MEMORY OF QUENTIN ROOSEVELT

Washington, Jan. 31.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt planted a tree today to the memory of his brother Quentin, in the yard of the public school where they were students as boys when their father was president.

It was many years since Colonel Roosevelt had visited the school. He sat in his old seat a moment and told the class how he used to pull the pig tail of the Chinese minister who sat ahead of him.

The tree was planted by the American Tree Association.

EXCITEMENT AT INQUIRY INTO CONDITION OF NEW HAVEN RAILROAD LINES IN CONN.

Secretary Ira N. Ornburn of the Connecticut Federation of Labor Demanded to be Informed Why Four State Policemen Were in Attendance—General Manager Bardo Had Declared That Emery Dust Had Been Sifted Into the Journals of Locomotives in the Cedar Hill Yards—Caused Twenty Locomotives to be Taken Off Trains Between New York and Boston in One Day Because of "Hot Boxes"—Declared Greatest Help New Haven Road Can Have is to be Let Alone.

Hartford, Jan. 31.—Inquiry into the [illegible] condition of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad lines in Connecticut under a resolution in the hands of the legislative committee on railroads opened this afternoon before that committee in the hall of the house of representatives and [illegible] three hours was adjourned over to a later date.

The close of the sitting was accompanied by an incident which had a dramatic touch. Senator De Peyster, the chairman, had dropped his gavel announcing an adjournment when Ira N. Ornburn, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, sprang to his feet and inquired of the committee why state policemen were in attendance. Four officers in full uniform had sat all the afternoon in the rear tier of seats, although not together.

Senator John Brooks of Torrington, who had spoken a few minutes before, rose and said the state police had been used to investigate the coal situation and that these officers were present by order, as they might be needed as witnesses.

Mr. Ornburn told Senator Brooks that he desired an answer from the committee, but, with Senator Tone, democrat, also on his feet to get recognition, Chairman De Peyster again dropped the gavel, announced an adjournment and left the rostrum.

Session Ended Abruptly.

The sudden ending of the session took everyone by surprise and for a moment no one stirred. It was then after 5 o'clock, and nearly all the committee members had left, Chairman De Peyster, House Chairman Dunham, two other committee men, the clerk and Speaker Nickerson [illegible] left.

On the speaker's rostrum were Lieutenant Governor Bingham and Speaker Nickerson, as guests of the committee. Probably never before had the incumbent of either of these offices sat with a railroad committee at a hearing. Mr. Nickerson repeatedly asked questions during the hearing.

The committee did not use subpoena power but invited the railroad to send representatives, and asked the public utilities commission to be present. The railroad was represented by Vice President E. G. Buckland, General Manager C. L. Bardo, Superintendent J. O. Halladay and others.

The hearing opened with a statement by Mr. Buckland, who followed it with the reading of portions of an address he made in Boston last week. Mr. Bardo followed and for half an hour gave a review of conditions on the road for several years up to the shopmen's strike on July 1 last. He spoke particularly of the labor troubles with the shopmen on the system and of the recruiting of a new force of men. It was while on this latter phase of conditions that Mr. Bardo said that there had been many attempts to cripple the rolling stock and to interfere with operations of trains.

Emery Dust in Journals.

He said that on one day twenty locomotives were taken off trains between New York and Boston because of "hot boxes." He said that inspection showed that emery dust had been sifted into the journals, causing these hot boxes, and contributing to interference in operations that day. He went on to cite other instances of alleged sabotage and crippling of rolling stock during the early period of the shopmen's troubles.

Later, when he was being questioned by Chairman De Peyster, Mr. Bardo said that the incident he had spoken of was prior to the arrest of Ernest Schleifer, whose case is still pending in the New Haven city court. After Mr. Bardo had spoken at considerable length of the movement of both freight and passenger traffic, and had told of the efforts of the road to move coal, he was questioned by members of the committee for nearly half an hour. These questions covered a wide range from operations to financial matters.

One of the last questions he was asked by Mr. Dunham was as to the character of the help the legislature could give the road. He replied: "The greatest help the New Haven road can have today is to be let alone."

Outlook Getting Better.

Speaking of the outlook, Mr. Bardo said that operation was getting better and better every day, and later Chairman Higgins of the public utilities commission said that the commission agreed with this statement, for their own inquiry and survey led it to believe that there was daily improvement through increasing efficiency of the men in the shops.

Mr. Bardo denied that there were thousands of cars of coal at the Maybrook gateway. He told Mr. Dunham that there were only 500 cars there and of these 125 were consigned to Connecticut points. Questions were mostly asked by Chairman De Peyster, who read them from sheets of paper, as if they had been handed in to the committee. The chairman several times remarked that the committee had been asked to put these questions.

Mr. Bardo said that the [illegible] road was now in a more favorable condition than it was last July and that the road as a whole was in better shape. He said: "We have all the facilities necessary to carry traffic for several years to come." He told of sending away 100 locomotives to be repaired. He said when they were returned the road would have no trouble in handling traffic except for weather conditions.

Mr. Buckland, replying to Mr. Dunham, said that prior to government control the road never failed to earn its interest. Under normal conditions he saw no reason why the New Haven road should not show a surplus in earnings the coming year.

Chairman Higgins spoke for the [illegible] stating that he was pleased to hear the statements made by Mr. Bardo and Mr. Buckland. He said that the commission was [illegible] offering [illegible] the railroad from the operating standpoint. He believe that it was best to have a direct supervision and in close touch with the men rather than as well as the [illegible] formerly and did not approve of Mr. Bardo in the policy of having few but large divisions.

H. H. Wells, Hartford, and Mr. Bardo why the road did not [illegible] short now into the [illegible] Wells spoke briefly, [illegible] anyone else [illegible] yesterday. Mr. Bardo said that the road was handling coal and coal in preference to all other freight. Mr. Wells then said that the road had had the opportunity to win the friendship of everyone in Hartford if it had brought in coal. He thought it singular that, within the last twenty-four hours 25,000 tons of coal had been brought into this city.

Bardo Questioned.

Senator Pierson asked Mr. Bardo a number of questions about the coal traffic and why the New Haven road put on an embargo against connecting lines. Mr. Bardo explained that connecting roads did not deliver merely [illegible] and that when other roads had [illegible] there were no [illegible] He said that the New Haven had set [illegible] there would have been [illegible] and exists today. Mr. Bardo [illegible] questioned about [illegible] roads by J. S. Stevens of Hartford. J. C. Rhodes, chairman of the system federation, then read a statement dealing with the shopmen's strike. This statement, with the [illegible] Mr. Soule's, was given to the committee.

Several men were on their feet to speak when Chairman De Peyster dropped his gavel. After the hearing, Mr. Ornburn, in an interview, said he asked the question in regard to the policemen because he wanted to find out if the committee thought that the striking shopmen and the labor union men present were "thugs" and that anyone was in danger of being hurt and needed protection.

Senators Brooks said that he replied to Mr. Ornburn because state police officers had been out in railroad yards digging in the snow on cars to find out if they contained coal, what kind of coal, it was and where the cars were headed for. The officers had been ordered to the hearing because it was thought they might be able to give information.

Most of those who were at the hearing when it was adjourned had to take a train for New Haven which was scheduled to leave at 5:50 but departed an hour and a quarter late, and to which was attached the private car of Mr. Bardo.

ELOPERS SURPRISED AT MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT

Baltimore Jan 31.—William Morris, son of a Glasgow, Ky., merchant, and his bride, Carolyn, 18-year-old daughter of W. Morgan Shuster, president of the Century Publishing Company of New York, expressed surprise and disappointment today when they were confronted with the Associated Press despatch from Alexandria, Va., stating they were married there Monday. They had hoped to keep the news of their marriage secret, they said, as Mrs. Morris did not want her father to "know anything about it." He was very angry when she attempted to elope last September," they added.

Previously they had announced they were married at Rockville, Md., but when the [illegible] authorities denied the [illegible] Morris was [illegible] they had [illegible] to the hope that [illegible] Mrs. Morris' parents [illegible] The despatch from Alexandria stated both had [illegible] years.

SHOE WORKERS DEFEAT NEW WORKING AGREEMENT

Haverhill, Mass., Jan. 31.—Defeat by the membership of the Shoe Workers' Protective union of the proposed new work [illegible] agreement effective March 1, was recorded today in the ballots cast by the manufacturers' and Shoe Workers' union last night. The opposition to the terms carried.

Half of the [illegible] members of the Shoe Workers' Protective union have now rejected the proposal. The turn workers, [illegible] and heel makers, sole leather workers and box makers rejected votes as cast earlier in the week.

The clause in the proposed agreement providing for Saturday forenoon work at overtime rates of pay has led to the action of the workers, both sides admit. It is estimated that when the full vote of the unions has been polled the agreement will be sent to a conference committee for revision.

City Sheriff Thomas J. Killourey is found not guilty of the charge [illegible] the local police court on [illegible] morning. Sheriff Kilton [illegible] charged with having assault[illegible] Spector, the Quarry street junk dealer, to which he pleaded not guilty.

The charge of assault was the result of a scene which took place Tuesday afternoon when Sheriff Killourey placed an attachment on an auto truck driven by Spector who alleged that he was roughly handled by Killourey.

Spector said that he had been approached by City Sheriff Killourey in regard to a bill that he owed a man named Goldstein and that later in the afternoon when he drve the truck into the Central Vermont railroad yard Killourey came to him and ordered him to leave the truck as it was under attachment. Spector refused to do this as the truck was the property of his father. He alleged that Killourey then pulled him from the truck and struck him several blows.

Killourey testified that during the day he tried twice to have Spector make a settlement with Goldstein but was unsuccessful so later on he attached the truck. Spector stepped from the truck and demanded to see the writ which was shown, and at the same time he became very abusive in his language so witness grabbed him by the collar and pushed him away. A messenger was then sent to Leonard Brothers garage to secure someone to drive the truck away.

David W Kearn of Newton, Mass., a conductor on the Western Union construction train parked in the local yard, testified that in his opinion Spector was interfering with the officer.

Raymond Angier of the Leonard Brothers garage stated that when he arrived on the scene Spector was on the ground and in a fighting attitude.

Louis Ostrich, who was sent by Sheriff Killourey to Leonard Brothers garage, also testified that he heard Spector call Killourey vile names.

STAFFORD SPRINGS HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Stafford Springs, Jan. 31.—The house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Perkins in West Stafford was destroyed by fire Tuesday. The fire was probably caused by a defective chimney. The building was a bungalow model and was erected on the site of the L. E. Dimmock property about two years ago.

In addition to the loss on the building, a large part of the furniture was burned. The loss, which was about $3,000, is partly covered by insurance.

Lucius McKinney of Thompsonville was in town on business Wednesday.

Mrs. Agnes Cox has been unable to attend to her school duties for the past week on account of illness. Rev. E. A. Legg has been acting as substitute.

Bad Back Since the Grip?

DOES your back ache day after day with a dull, unceasing throb? Are you tired, worn-out, and discouraged — just about ready to "give up?" Then why put up with such needless suffering? Why not look to your kidneys, which are so likely at fault? Chances are a cold, a chill, or a strain has weakened your kidneys. Poisons have accumulated in the system, that well kidneys would have filtered off. It's little wonder, then, you have that constant backache, those headaches, dizzy spells, and sharp, rheumatic twinges. You may have annoying bladder irregularities, too, and feel nervous, "blue" and irritable. Don't wait until serious or chronic kidney disease sets in. Get back your health while you can. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Norwich Folks Found Relief:

MRS. BERNARD NEESON, 54 Union St., says: "My kidneys were weak and didn't act properly. Uric acid in my system caused rheumatic pains in my back and hips. When I bent over I could hardly straighten and it seemed as though my back were ready to go to pieces. At times my kidneys were too free in action. I doctored but the doctor didn't seem to be able to touch my case. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me almost from the start and finally cured me. I haven't been troubled since."

E. S. BENNETT, Carpenter, 465 East Main Street, says: "My back ached a great deal. My work requires me to do considerable bending, stooping and lifting, and this seemed to aggravate the pains and cricks across my back. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and one box quickly relieved the annoying trouble.
(Statement given May 17, 1916).
On February 15, 1921, Mr. Bennett said: "Although I haven't had to use Doan's for a number of years I still believe they are reliable."

MRS. E. MULKIN, 613 N. Main Street, says: "I had dull pains across the small of my back, and I noticed it mostly when I over exerted myself or after being on my feet a great deal. My back felt weak and tired. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me great relief when I used them." (Statement given May 20, 1916).
On February 16, 1921, Mrs. Mulkin said: "I have had no need for a kidney remedy since I used Doan's several years ago. My cure is a lasting one."

WESTERLY

Considerable interest is aroused in town over the appointment of the bird commissioner for Washington county. The position at the present time is being held by James Barlow of Kingstown. A few weeks ago the South County Rod and Gun club placed the name of Farquhar Smith of Westerly in the hands of Governor Flynn requesting his appointment as commissioner of game birds in Washington county. Wednesday among the names of candidates for the senate to act upon the names of James Barlow was presented. Mr. Smith's friends in Westerly are very much wrought up over this action as he has the recommendation of practically all the gun clubs of the state.

Both candidates are republican and each is busy, attempting to influence the republican caucus of the senate as to their recommendation. As this position must have the endorsement of the senate, Mr. Smith's friends are anxiously awaiting the action of Senator Datson of Westerly.

Mrs. Byron Cooke and Mrs. C. T. Spencer of Providence visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Barbour of School street Wednesday.

William Donovan of Cottage court is able to be around town after being confined to his home for a week by illness.

The tabernacle society connected with the Church of the Immaculate Conception and their friends were entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas McWeeney of Elm street. This is a new innovation in entertainment as Mrs. McWeeney opened her house for the benefit of the tabernacle society. The proceeds are to be given to the church fund of the Immaculate Conception church.

Mrs. William Fowler and daughter Mary are visiting Mrs. Richard Fowler of Millbury, Mass.

After eighteen years continuous service as justice of the third judicial district court of Westerly, Judge Oliver H. Williams will on Friday morning hand over the reins of office to Judge-elect Michael J. Turano.

Fred Smith of Wyoming was a business caller in Westerly Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. S. J. Coombs of Courtland street is confined to her home by an attack of grip.

The funeral of Harry Clapp was held Wednesday afternoon from his late home on Rose street. Rev. Samuel H Cathcart, formerly of the Pawcatuck Congregational church officiated at the services. Members of the Franklin lodge of Masons acted as bearers and the Masonic ritual was used at the committal service at River Bend cemetery.

A special meeting of the town council was held Wednesday evening at the council chambers. The purpose of this meeting was to for ma budget which will be presented to the taxpayers at the financial town meeting to be held Feb. 6.

Thomas Perry, chairman of the school committee, asked for an appropriation of $16,500 for town schools. He also asked for a special appropriation of $3,0[illegible]. This is to be used to purchase three building lots on High street at the entrance to the playgrounds. These lots will measure 180x [illegible] feet and are to be purchased from Hannah Crandall.

Charles J. Butler, chairman of the highway committee, asked for an appropriation of $65,000 for town roads, $25,000 of this to be spent on a permanent road from Main street up to School and over to Granite street; $10,000 from Main to Beach street up School street. From High street over to the entrance of Central park he asked for an appropriation of $5,000 to construct a gravel road about 600 feet in length. The other $25,000 is to be used in oiling and maintaining the other streets of the town.

Oliver F. Cranall, overseer of the poor, asked for an appropriation of $6,000. This is an increase of $500 over last year's appropriation. He also asked for a special appropriation of $400 to be used for the Westerly poor.

Charles Lockwood told the council some provision ought to be made for the collection of garbage in the central part of the town. It was voted to bring this appropriation before the financial town meeting.

An appropriation of $14,000 was requested for the police department.

MYSTIC

Wednesday afternoon the members of the W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. James E. F. Brown on High street. Mrs. Gurdon Allyn had charge of the program which was greatly enjoyed by members and their friends.

The game of basketball played between the Mystic Bull Dogs, and the Noank Juniors resulted in a score of 52 to 19 in favor of the Mystic Bull Dogs. The former team was credited with 36 points, 36 for sportsmanship, 10 for reliability and 30 for winning. Noank was given 60 points for sportsmanship and 10 for reliability. Tuesday evening the North End Juniors were to play the Bull Dogs on the gymnasium floor of the Community house, but the game was postponed until Thursday. Friday evening the All Stars will play the North End team.

The Stonington Lodge, No. 26, I. O. O. F., held a business meeting and social in Odd Fellows' hall, whist was indulged in and a social with refreshments followed.

The members of the Community chorus met this week for their second rehearsal and already a large number from the village have joined. Mr. Geer, the director has predicted that a fine musical program will be enjoyed as the members show excellent talent. Any one interested in choral singing may join.

The Rod and Gun club have elected its officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, J. A. Schoonover; vice president, E. A. Moran; secretary, Orrin H. Sanford; fish committee, R. S. Ketchum; game committee, Everett Barber; trap shooting, George Emmons; rifle and revolver practice, Fred G. Bamou. At the annual meeting which was held Monday evening at the Community house there were discussions on the work of raising pheasants and on fish and game protection and the new proposed fishermen's license bill. It was brought out that over 25,000 brook trout have been distributed and 200 pheasants liberated.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Vaudeville at the Broadway Today

The B. F. Keith vaudeville listed at the Broadway theatre for the last half of this week starting today is as follows:

Reba & Tracy will offer a dance offering; following them Ethel Hopkins the prima donna of the Cheer Up Co. at the New York Hippodrome last season offers Moments Musicale. The clever musical comedy stars, The Walnwrights offer a bright comedy called The Right Weights. Harry Jans and Harold Whalen offer a comedy riot called Nutcomicalities. The closing act features Miacahus & Co. "The Brazilian Wonder," the only woman in the world who walks on the wire without the aid of pole or umbrella.

The spectacle of two sets of high class crooks striving for the same prize—a shipment of gold in the strong room of a ship put sea—is presented in "Missing Millions," a new Paramount picturing starring Alice Brady which will be the feature at the Broadway theatre today, Friday and Saturday. Miss Brady as Mary Dawson, and David Powell as Boston Blackie attempt to steal the old as a matter of vengeance on Jim Cantwell (Frank Losee), a treacherous Wall Street broker, who "railroaded" Mary's father to Sing Sing prison. The plan of this pair is exciting enough in itself, but when two international thieves come on the scene and try for the gold at the same time, the action becomes thrilling indeed. There is shown also a daring robbery of a famous diamond at a fashionable party, and the spectacle of an innocent man sent to imprisonment and death. The cast is particularly strong.

That large, expensive sets do not always contain the best opportunities for drama is being exemplified at the Paramount studio where a study tenement interior and a flight of stairs there in forms the focal point for a series of rapid and intensely dramatic scenes in "Kick In," George Fitzmaurice's new Paramount picture featuring Betty Compson, Bert Lytell and May McAvoy, which comes to the Strand theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

The cramped, cheap tenement only cost a few hundred dollars to construct, but in it are packed some of the best scenes of an unusually capable group of screen players, including Betty Compson, Bert Lytell, May McAvoy, Gareth Hughes and Walter Long. There are the efforts of the three crooks, Lytell, Hughes and Miss McAvoy to "go straight;" there are attempts of the law, represented by Walter Long, to thwart this intention; there is the pathos of pathetic little Myrle weeping over the plight of "Bennie" who stole once more to save her and there is a dramatic scene in which Betty Compson, as the district attorney's daughter, fights by the side of the crook she has learned to love and trust.

A comedy and news are the other subjects.

A Niagara of Tea

It is interesting, as showing the surprising success and steady growth that the Salada Tea company has experienced during the past year, to quote from the figures of their statistician, which show that the increases alone for 1922 over 1921 amounted to 1,745,229 pounds. The total increase since 1918, he says, amounts to approximately 7,000,000 pounds.

Putting it in real statistical fashion, he gives several illustrations. For instance, he says: "All the water that flowers over Niagara Falls during the time that it takes to slowly count 120 (two minutes) would be necessary to infuse the amount of 'Salada' Tea consumed during 1922." According to the statistics from the hydro electric commission, the amount of water passing over Niagara Falls every minute is 13,000,000 cubic feet.

Another statistical illustration gave as an estimate that "If all the packets of "Salada" Tea sold during 1922 were placed end to end, in one long line, they would span the Atlantic Ocean, reaching from New York to Liverpool, a distance of 3,058 miles.

Continuing this thought, it is estimated that "If the packets of "Salada" Tea in the increase only in the sales during 1923 were placed end to end, they would reach for three hundred and forty miles."

Breed Theatre

For the Defense, a new Paramount picture which will be the feature attraction at the Breed theatre today is undoubtedly Ethel Clayton's crowning achievement as a Paramount star. Miss Clayton portrays a highly emotional and dramatic role with gripping realism and unrivalled finesse.

Anne Woodstock is the fiancee of a district attorney, played by Vernon Steel, and a patient of Dr. Kasin, sr, a Hindu physician and hypnotist, portrayed by Bertram Grassby. Hearing of her engagement, the Hindu, who has become madly infatuated with Anne, sends for her on a pretext, and subjects her to his hypnotic power. Next day he is found murdered in his offices while Anne remembers nothing of what happened. Jennie Dunn, a girl with a petty criminal record whom Anne has befriended, is accused of the crime. The solution of the mystery and the romantic climax are fascinatingly worked out. Players in the cast are ZaSu Pitts, playing Jennie, Mayme Kelso, Sylvia Ashton and Mabel Van Buren.

For the second feature William Russell will be seen in A Self Made Man, a romance of a disinherited son of Wall Street and Movie Chats will complete the bill.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Connecticut Light and Power Bonds

The Connecticut Light & Power Co. makes an announcement from Waterbury of much importance to the intensively industrial parts of Connecticut where that company produces and distributes all but a small amount of the electric and steam power for the manufacturing, public utility and and domestic needs of Waterbury, and New Britain, Meriden and other communities, in all twenty cities and towns, comprising a population of over 300,000, in what are known as the Housatonic Valley and Naugatuck Valley districts.

At a meeting of the preferred and common stockholders approval has been given to issuing $4,500,000, 7 per cent first preferred stock and $2,500,000 8 per cent. convertible preferred, both cumulative.

The principal purpose of these present issues is for carrying on the construction program of the company. The most important unit of new construction is a steam electric generating station at Devon, which is located at tidewater at the mouth of the Housatonic revire near Bridgeport. This new plant is already under construction and as now planned will have an initial installation capacity of 100,000 horse power which more than doubles the company's present plant capacity.

The program includes also 75 miles of high tension steel towar transmission lines, as well as the necessary sub-stations to connect then ew power station with the company's distribution stations. This location is of great advantage with reference to fuel deliveries and will lend itself to expansion to meet the requirements of the company's steadily increasing business.

The number of customers, both for power and ordinary electric supply, is constantly increasing and throughout these districts new and improved processes are being steadily installed cailing for more diversified and greater uses of electrical power. It is estimated that the Connecticut Light & Power company's sales in four years will have almost trebled as compared with the present annual sales of about 125,000,000 kilowatt hours. The industries of these districts are very diversified and the products in many instances are for most common household as well as trade uses.

The company owns and operates two hydro-electric properties with an aggregate capacity of 34,600 horse power, 86 miles of high tension transmission lines and various sub-stations. The two producing stations embody most up-to-date developments in machinery, dam engineering, transmission, etc. These plants are on the Housatonic river and the company's developments of reservoirs and control of undeveloped areas assure present and future requirements, and show great foresight on the part of the management.

The new 7 per cent. preferred stock in to be distributed by a syndicate headed by Estabrook & Co., of Boston and New York.

Auto Suggestion as an Aid to Health

Many times during the last few weeks or since the advent of the little Chemist from Nancy, this question has been asked: "What is the mysterious power, if any, possessed by Coue, that he can cure people of their ills where every other known method has failed?" Coue himself answers the question by saying, "I never cured a patient, the patient cures himself," and the questioner, who has usually pondered over the matter, turns away more puzzled than ever, particularly if he is one who has witnessed a seemingly miraculous recovery in one of the clinics. Coue also says, "It is not the person who acts but the method, and my disciples obtain the same results as myself. Things which seem miraculous to you have a perfectly natural cause. If they seem extraordinary it is due to the fact that the cause has escaped you and when that is understood, nothing could be more natural."

Autosuggestion is just as simple in principle, and just as understandable as the wireless telephone. Only a few months ago the radio of today was thought an impossibility and the craziest notion ever, but today any boy who is mechanically inclined and knows how to use a jacknife, a pair of pliers and a soldering iron can make his own receiving set and it is not considered a very great accomplishment either. Why? Because the law is understood and is so simple that a child can comprehend it.

HEYDLER OPPOSED TO PROPOSAL OF LICENSING BASEBALL PLAYERS

Boston, Jan. 31.—President John A. Heydler, of the National League, differs with President B. B. Johnson, of the American League on the question of baseball players.

Joseph A. Collier, who has introduced a bill in the legislature which will be given a hearing tomorrow, providing for state licenses for professional ball players, received a letter from the National League head today characterizing the proposal as impracticable. "Such a law would be considered another abridgement of personal liberty," Heydler wrote. Johnson favored the plan in a letter last week.

President Heydler's letter said:

"Your proposition to license all persons who take part in a ball game from which revenue is derived, to my mind, would prove impracticable and unpopular. Amateur and semi-professional players by thousands, both in and out of your own state, would become subject to this restriction, and such a law would be hard to enforce if for no other reason than that it would be considered another abridgement of personal liberty.

"The licensing of professional ball players by the boxing commission was proposed in the state of New York. I opposed this at the time, and am against it now, because I feel, you would make a grave mistake to place control of the national game in the hands of a state boxing board or in the hands of any other politically operated authority. I say this as a lover of the game, and not as an executive.

"No two sports are more widely apart in all essentials of conduct and sportsmanship than are baseball and boxing. They could not stand together, but they surely would fall together.

"There is no power you can confer on a state board that is not now exercised by a league president. In order that a player may become eligible to play in our games, I must first approve his contract, possibly I may make a mistake and indorse an undesirable. That player, however, must still pass Judge Landis, and whatever his decision, there is no appeal therefrom. Most assuredly you would not say that a board appointed to run boxing matches and boxers is going to give us a higher character of players?

"The player of today, after all, is not of the class that opposes discipline. Quite the contrary. Suspensions for bad behavior on the field are becoming less each year. In the national League last season we assessed only $325 in player fines, against ten times that amount in the "old days."

"Consider that these are red-blooded young athletes under high tension, whose work is affected by partisan cheers or jeers, and who are in constant conflict with steel-spiked adversaries. Despite all this, the decorum maintained on the ball field will compare favorably with that of any sport where the natural provocations are not one-half as great.

"In the matter of providing ways and means to suppress the baseball pools or any other form of gambling on our games, I would gladly co-operate with you. I cannot, however, indorse, or in my official capacity aid in having ball legalized in Massachusetts. That is purely a question for public determination, as it has been in all the other states where Sunday ball is now played.

"Speaking as one citizen, and not as a baseball man, I feel that Sunday baseball hereabouts has become an institution. The games are well conducted, and the people who enjoy them are mostly those who cannot afford the loss of time during workdays, and these include an usually large percentage of the ladies."

Replying to the points raised in President Heydler's letter, Mr. Collier said that he agreed that the best way to improve baseball is from the inside.

"If the club owners would appoint three disinterested persons with absolute power to confirm or reect trades and sales among the different clubs, this would prevent collusion between certain owners, and show good faith toward the fans.

"I think they should also standardize players' salaries, one rate for regulars, and a low rate for rookies. Also provide special prizes and honors for those who excell each year. This would help to do away with the efforts of players to be traded to certain cities, as they could shine in one city as well as another.

"If these suggestions were adopted, we would not need state control, and the gate receipts would probably be doubled."

VETERAN TENNIS STARS ENTER SEMI-FINALS

New York, Jan. 31.—Three veterans and a new tennis star today earned semi-final brackets in the annual indoor invitation singles tournament at the Heights Casino in Brooklyn.

Miss Leslie Bancroft, of Boston, and Miss Marie Wagner, of New York, No. 2 and No. 3, on the national women's ranking list, will meet in the first semi-final match tomorrow. Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national titleholder, will oppose Miss Lillian Scharman of New York, the newcomer, in the other semi-final contest, postponed until Friday at the request of Mrs. Mallory, who is suffering from a cold.

Miss Scharman's victory today over Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole, veteran Boston player, after two spectacular sets, 7-5, 6-4, was the outstanding upset of the tournament.

Miss Bancroft and Miss Wagner scored decisive victories, the former eliminating Miss Corona Winn, of Mountain Lakes, N. J., 6-0, 6-2, while Miss Wagner disposed of Mrs. Carl V. Hitchins, Mexican champion, 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Mallory was prevailed upon to continue despite a desire to default because of her cold and defeated Mrs. Deforest Candee, of Hempstead, N. Y., 6-2, 6-4.

Three pairs also reached the semi-final round of the doubles today, in which Miss Mayme McDonald, the Seattle girl, who has created the sensation of the tournament, again met defeat, this time paired with Mrs. G. A. Adams of Brooklyn. They were beaten by Mrs. S. F. Weaver and Mrs. De Forest Candee, of Hempstead, N. Y., 6-3, 7-5.

The Boston team, Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole and Miss Leslie Bancroft, won a spirited victory over Mrs. Samuel H. Waring and Mrs. Albert Humphries, 6-3, 6-3. The Metropolitan doubles champions, Miss Scharman and Miss Ceres Baker, defeated Mrs. Barger Wallach and Mrs. Benjamin F. Briggs, 6-4, 6-4.

THORPE WOULD LIKE TO PLAY WITH DALLAS

An interesting bit of news comes from Dallas, Texas, regarding Big Jim Thorpe, former Olympic champion, who played in the outfield for the Hartford Eastern League club past of last season, finishing the summer with Worcester.

Thorpe, in a talk with a sports editor there, informed the world that he'd like to land a berth with the Dallas Giants for next year. The big Indian swore that he had mended his ways, and that in the future he would be as peaceful and meek as a little lamb.

Thorpe gave as reasons for wanting to get in that neck of the woods the fact that he owns some property in Oklahoma, the neighboring state, and that the Texas league is the nearest to his home. He also claims kinship, as cousin, to Chief Wano, the Indian coming here from Little Rock, and says he'd like to be on the same club.

Last year, Ike and Walter tried to land Thorpe when he was a free agent, but the Big Chief wired that the Giants couldn't meet his terms—without waiting for an offer. Now he's asking for an offer, and it's doubtful that he'll get one.

Thorpe claims to be a free agent, and says that he'll sign for a reasonable sum. In fact, he declared that he would sign a contract calling for nothing unless he hit .350 or above, provided he would be given a good salary if he did club that mark. Nothing more has been learned from the parties concerned and while some people would like to see the slugging Indian in a Dallas uniform—it doesn't seem probable.

Thorpe's behavior since he left the Hartford team last summer has been exemplary, according to all reports. He had a fine season with the All-Indian football eleven and is said to be in great physical condition now.

A letter written to him by a former Indian athletic associate, now in the Catholic priesthood, is said to have turned Big Jim into the straight and narrow and kept him there.

Right. Thorpe is a great minor league ball player. He gave proof of that last summer. His arm is gone, but his great hitting ability and speed on the paths overcome that deficiency.

With all his erratic performances last summer, the big Indian turned in a batting average of .344, ranking next to Bowman of New Haven, who led the Eastern league hitters for 1922. Included in Thorpe's record were nine circuit clouts.

There had been some question as to whether Thorpe is a free agent, but it is understood that he is.

Hartford sold him to Worcester and the Worcester club, it is said, has no desire to retain him as his salary is prohibitive and it is felt that he would be generally better off in another league.

He was easily the highest priced player in the league last summer.

KASKY HAS GOOD LEAD IN ICE EVENTS

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Harry Kasky, of Chicago, had things virtually his own way in the Adirondack gold cup skating championship races on Pontiac rink here today, winning both the one-half mile and three-quarter mile events. Kasky, with 90 points, now has a substantial lead in the meet, his nearest competitor being Charles Gorman, of St. John, N. B., who has a total of 60 Kasky and Gorman, who finished second, fought every inch of the finals in the half-mile event after Charles Jewtraw of Lake Placid, who previously had given both a battle, fell in the semi-finals and was carried from the track with a badly cut knee. Edward Corcoran, of Johnson City, fell at the same time, but was uninjured. Frank Garnett, of St. John, N. B., and William Murphy, of New York city, were tied for third place in the half mile race.

The events tomorrow, the final day, will be the 440-yard and three mile races.

Summaries:

One-half mile race: Won by Harry Kasky, Chicago; Charles Gorman, St. John, N. B., second; Frank Garnett, St. John, N. B., and William Murphy, New York city, tied for third. Time 1:13 4-5.

Three-quarter mile race: Won by Kasky; Richard Donovan, Johnson City, second; Gorman, third. Time 3:14 1-5.

Point scores: Kasky, 90; Gorman, 60; Paul Forsman, New York, William Steinmetz, Chicago and Donovan, 20 each; Edward Gloster, Toronto, and Edward Corcoran, Johnson City, 10 each; and Garrett and Murphy, 5 each.

DUNDEE ANXIOUS TO RETIRE FROM RING

When the current annum of 1923 draws to its inevitable close it is quite likely that it also will bring forth the official announcement of Johnny Dundee's retirement from active participation in the strenuous and more or less manly art of assault and battery.

Jumping John is getting along in years, and he has been in the racket for quite a spell. Yes, quite a spell. Something like 13 years. He is beginning to show the wear and tear of his many hard-fought battles. He is still good enough to lick far more scrappers than can lick him, it is true, but he wants to quit while the quitting is good. Dundee has been seriously considering the whole proposition for some little time, and, in fact, was on the verge of retiring last year, but decided to wait until the end of the present annum.

Before he does quit, however, Dundee wants a shot at Benny Leonard's lightweight title in a decision bout in New York. John and Ben have tangled on eight occasions—four before Leonard copped the title and four since—but they were all no-decision affairs. Dundee wants a "legitimate" crack at Leonard's crown before he hangs up his gloves.

At present, Dundee is tuning up for his scrap with Elino Forbes in Madison Square Garden on Friday night. Forbes is a tough kid and a hard puncher, but the wily old John ought to have no trouble with him.

NO NUMBER SIX ON ST. NICK'S TEAMS

In looking over the numerals which the members of the St. Nicholas club hockey sextet wear on the backs of their jerseys, one fails to find a No. 6. According to Captain Jack Bierwirth, former Yale star, none of the St. Nick players will wear the number in respect for the late Hobey Baker, former Princeton University and St. Nicholas hockey star, who lost his life in an airplane accident in France. "Number 6 used to be Baker's number," the St. Nicholas captain said, "and we feel that although he is no longer with us as a playing member he is always with us in spirit. The boys therefore, decided to reserve this number as a symbol of the esteem in which we always held this great player. Undoubtedly he did more to make our team popular, and for that matter hockey, also, than any other man I know of." Baker was one of the best known players that the game has ever had and, as a drawing card, he will probably never have an equal.

RUSSELL LOSES TO MORLEY AT HOLYOKE

Mike Morley of Hartford was declared the winner over Ted Russell of Norwich, Conn., at the end of 10 rounds of milling which displeased every one present at the American Legion show in Holyoke, Tuesday night. The slowness of the middleweights and the number of punches they missed brought continual hoots from the small crowd which sat in to see the programme.

Russell, a French boy, native son of Holyoke, was a more finished boxer than the "pride of Frog Hollow," but he had little chance to bring his boxing skill into service as the rugged Morley was close to him all the time, rushing from one clinch into another.

Morley slashed away with both hands and kept the French lad busy stepping away, covering up and blocking.—Hartford Courant.

"BABE" ADAMS TO SIGN PIRATE CONTEST FOR 1923

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 31.—"Babe" Adams, veteran pitcher of the Pittsburgh National League baseball team notified the Pirate management tonight that he would sign a contract to play with Pittsburgh during the coming season.

Several days ago it was reported that Adams had signed a four-year contract to pitch for an independent team in Missouri, but owners of the Pittsburgh club gave the matter little attention until a letter from the veteran told of an offer from the western team. Manager Bill McKechnie was ordered by President Barner Dreyfuss of the Pirates to board a train at once and "go have a talk with Adams." McKechnie and Dreyfuss exchanged a number of telegrams on the subject and tonight the glad tidings came from the west that Adams would appear in a Pitsburg uniform the 1923 season.

MRS. FOX WINS FROM MRS. CAMPBELL AT BELLAIRE

Bellaire Heights, Fla., Jan. 31.—Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, of Huntington Valley, today defeated Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Belmont Springs, by a score of 2 to 1 in the annual January tournament for women. Mrs. Hurd was a favorite and her defeat came as a surprise. Mrs. Fox now enters the finish round with Miss Glenna Collet, national women's champion.

SHOEMAKER WINS SIXTH GAME OF BILLIARD SERIES

New York, Jan. 31—Continuing his undefeated record in the national amateur pocket billiards championship, J. Howard Shoemaker, New York, won the sixth game of the series tonight, defeating W. J. Harworth, Cleveland, 425 to 73.

Shoemaker finished in fifteen frames without a scratch on his string, making a high run of 24.

White to Meet Kansas.

New York, Jan. 31.—Charley White of Chicago, and Rocky Kansas, of Buffalo, lightweights, today were matched for a 1-round bout at Madison Square Garden, February 9.

FOUR WORLD'S RECORDS SHATTERED AT MILLROSE TRACK AND FIELD MEET

New York, Jan. 31—Four world's and one American indoor track and field records were broken tonight by athletes participating in the annual games of the Millrose Athletic club at Madison Square Garden.

Joie Ray of the Illinois A. C., Chicago, ran one of the most remarkable races of his long career in lowering the mark he established last year for the mile and a half. His time tonight was 6 minutes 8) and 4-5 seconds. The previous mark was 6:42 3-5.

Another world's record breaker was Jimmy Connolly, of Georgetown University, who won the special event—two thirds of a mile in two minutes, 43 3-5 seconds. Mike Devaney, of the Millrose A. C., who finished third tonight established the broken record of last year at 2:46 3-5.

Two men shared in shattering the world's indoor record for the running high jump, Leroy T. Brown, of Dartmouth, and Richmond W. Landon of the New York Athletic club, cleared the bar at six feet five and one fourth inches and then failed in attempts to break the world's outdoor record.

Women, recently admitted to general athletic meets, broke the fourth world's record, established by women, when the Valcour club girl team won the 440-yard relay in 52 3-5 seconds. The previous mark was 55 1-5 seconds.

Renewing his battle of sprints with Bob McAllister, New York's "flying cop", Loren Murchison, the St. Louisian, who is competing unattached, established a new American record for the 60-yard dash at six and two tenths seconds, one tenth of a second less than the mark set in 1882 by L. E. Meyers and since duplicated by seventeen runners.

The Boston Athletic association won a triangular one-mile relay race in 3:27 4-5 from the Newark A. C., and University of Pennsylvania and Boston College defeated Syracuse in a two mile intercollegiate relay, time 8:12 4-5.

Lafayette defeated Rutgers, time 3:26; Princeton defeated University of Virginia, time 3:30 4-5; Millrose A. C. defeated Meddow Brook club, Philadelphia, time 3:40 3-5; Syracuse defeated Massachusetts Institute of Technology, time 3:29 4-5.

In a triangular one mile relay, Colby defeated Fordham and New York universities, time 3:38.

HARVARD AND YALE TRACK COMMITTEES TO MEET

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 31—Committees representing Harvard and Yale will meet here Saturday to discuss details and decide upon dates for the international intercollegiate track meet to be held in England this year, it was announced tonight. It was stated that President Lowell gave his sanction to the proposed meet before leaving for Europe recently.

Those will represent Harvard at the conference are Fred W. Moore, graduate manager; William J. Bingham, former head track coach, who arranged preliminary details when in England recently and William A. Barron, chairman of the graduate advisory track committee.

RICKARD EXPECTS TO MAKE ANNOUNCEMENT TODAY

New York, Jan. 31—Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, said tonight that he expects to announce definitely tomorrow when his plans are for staging championship bouts between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, and those of his challengers who have been mentioned in recent discussion of proposed fights.

The option for which Rickard paid $1,000 to Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, to restrain the champion from coming to an agreement with any other promoter for six days, expires tomorrow midnight, the promoter said, and if he is to sign a contract with Kearns at all, he believes it will be done tomorrow, at least in a preliminary way.

Rickard declined to comment on the announcement that the New Jersey boxing commission would not permit a Dempsey-Willard contest in that state. It is understood, however, that Rickard planned such a bout for June 30 either at Boyle's thirty acres, in Jersey City, N. J., or the new Yankee stadium here.

Willard already is barred from fighting in this state by chairman William Muldoon of the commission, who claims the Kansan is above the legal maximum age limit of 38 years. Willard asserts he is only 37.

MEHLHORN TURNS IN LOW CARD AT CORPUS CHRISTI

Corpus Christi, Texas, Jan. 31.—(By The A. P.)—Bill Mehlhorn, Shreveport, La., professional, led on the first 36 holes in the Corpus Christi open championship today with a score of 144. Jim Barnes of New York, former open champion of the United States, was runner-up with a score of 145.

Johnny Farrell of New York, turned in the third best score of the day with a 146, while Freddy McLeod, of Washington, D. C., followed with 149. A stiff breeze contributed to high scores.

The scores turned in by the four leaders in the four rounds of nine holes each today, follows:

Bill Mehlhorn 32-41-36-35—144.
J. Barnes, 36-36-38-35—145.
Johnny Farrell 34-39-37-36—146.
Freddy McLeod 37-37-37-38—149.

Melhorn and Farrell were paired in today's matches and most of the gallary followed these two.

ENGLAND REFUSES TO ADMIT BATTLING SIKI

London, Jan. 31—The home office has refused permission for Battling Siki, Senegalese pugilist, to land in England. Several promoters have been endeavoring recently to arrange bouts for Siki in this country.

Norwich Horsemen Late.

In speaking of the Bay State Circuit meeting at Boston on Tuesday the Hartford Courant has following to say regarding the Norwich delegation:

Albert J. Bailey, Elmer R. Pierson and Gilbert S. Raymond, the three Norwich representatives did not arrive until after the stewards had transacted their business. Bailey was especially bitter because his track had not been allowed to remain in the circuit with earlier dates. He was in favor of breaking up the wheel and reapportioning the meeting, figuring that tracks that have had the choice weeks for years should take different dates for a change.

Reynolds Beats Foss.

New York, Jan. 31.—By the score of 125 to 40 Edward F. Reynolds, New York, easily defeated Humbolt Foss, New York, in the fifth match of the national amateur pocket billiards tournament today. The winner required 13 frames; his highest run was 52.

Harvard Hockeyists' Win

Boston, Jan. 31—Harvard Hockey team defeated Milwaukee here tonight, 3 to 1. Captain George Owen was the individual star for the Crimson. Bogardus scored Milwaukee's single goal.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Gus Gardella will be with the Pittsfield Hillies again this year, the gabby boy of the Eastern League having signed his contract.

Maurice Brocco and Oscar Egg, famous bike racers will be teamed in six day races starting in Chicago on February 10.

Joseph LaRocque, Jr., center of Harvard hockey team, will be out of the game for the rest of the season because of a recent attack of grip.

Joe Sewell, Cleveland American League shortstop, has been appointed baseball coach at the University of Alabama.

Charles Connelly, who played in the Connecticut league fifteen years ago, but who still appears ripe for baseball, will wear an Albany uniform this year.

Although Charles C. Peabody will not defend his title in the Canadian squash racquets championship which starts Friday in Quebec, Boston will be well represented.

Kenneth Williams, who led the American League in home runs last season, in a letter received at Browns' headquarters, asserted he is "anxious to get back in harness."

Jimmy O'Connell, who was bought for $75,000 recently by the Giants from the San Francisco Pacific Coast League, has formally accepted the transfer and has signed and mailed the contract to McGraw.

Edward Cotter, third baseman, and Walter Mazotas, first string catcher on last year's Hartford high school nine, will be lost to the team this season, as both men will be graduated from the school today in the mid-year graduations.

Bill Rodgers, Albany manager, is now located in Cincinnati and has certain players in mind whom he feels would put his team in the race this year. The Senators are especially looking for a new outfielder who can hit a couple of new fingers.

Jimmy Kelly will display his wares at the Collar City A. C., in Troy, N. Y., Monday evening where he is slated to exchange blows with Billy Carney in a 12 round contest. Carney is taking the place of Young Walter Laurette.

Lou Bogash, Bridgeport's real fighting champion and holder of the Pioneer Club championship belt, has booked to meet Jackie Clarke of Allington, Pa., next Tuesday night at Worcester in a ten round affair. Lou will also fight Andy Palmer at the Rink Sporting club, New York, February 24.

WOMAN FOUND WITH HANDS AND FEET FROZEN

New York, Jan. 31.—Mrs. Katherine M. Duy, 30, who was found in Prospect park, Brooklyn, early today with hands and feet frozen, was not expected to live, it was reported tonight by hospital attaches to whom she admitted her identity when appraised of the gravity of her condition.

When found, Mrs. Duy said she was Catherine Dunn, a stenographer, and that she had been drugged while mooring with two men. Later she confessed she left her home Tuesday night after a quarrel with her husband, went to a nearby saloon for a drink, and there met company.

A man gave her a drink and they walked to the opposite side of the park, she said. There they met three of his companions. Mrs. Duy stated remembered nothing up to the time she was found lying in the snow by workmen. She called herself Catherine Dunn, she told hospital attendants, so her husband would not learn what had befallen her.

PENSION BILL BACK IN THE SENATE, MODIFIED

Washington, Jan. 31.—The bureau pension bill as modified after the recent veto of President Harding was reported favorably today by the senate pension committee, after elimination of some of the provisions objected to by the president.

The committee retined the provision of the original bill increasing the pension of Civil and Mexican war veterans from $60 to $72 a month, but modified it by limiting such increases to veterans of 78 years or over. Widows of Civil and Mexican war veterans 68 years old or more would have their pensions increased to $50 under the bill. The oroginal bill gave the increase to widows of all ages.

The revised bill according to an estimate from the interior department, would cost $78,000,000 during the first year of its operation.

HAD BULLET IN MUSCLES BENEATH HER HEART

New York, Jan. 31.—A pistol bullet that lodged in the muscles beneath the heart of Mrs. Elinore Marker of Brooklyn, and remained there for 17 hours without her being aware of it, was removed today in St. Peter's hospital.

Mrs. Marker, who lets furnished rooms, told the police that, becoming alarmed over the frequency of holdups and robberies, she unpacked a revolver she had brought with her from California two years ago and was cleaning the weapon yesterday morning when it was accidentally discharged.

She said the only thing she noticed after that was a severe headache until she removed her clothing late last night and found it stained with blood.

NOBEL PRIZE AWARDED MISS ELSA BRANDSTROM

Stockholm, Jan. 31.—For the first time in history the Nobel Peace Prize will go to a woman, if the official recommendation for the 1923 award is accepted. Miss Elsa Brandstrom, a Swedish Red Cross worker, is the nominee for the prize of 40,000 given each year by the Nobel institute to the person selected by the Norwegian parliament.

Miss Brandstrom is widely known as the "Angel of Siberia" because of her extensive personal relief work among the war prisoners of Russia and Siberia from 1914 to 1920. She is also known for her writings in favor of peace. She is at present on her way to the United States, where she will lecture on her work.

GLIDER TROPHY HAS BEEN AWARDED RICKENBACKER

Chicago, Jan. 31.—A trophy to be awarded annually to the winner of a glider contest has been offered by Captain Eddie V. Rickenbacker, American flying ace of World war fame, as a stimulant to experiments with gliders, he announced today.

The trophy, costing $5,000, is open to contestants throughout the world, but the contest is to be held in America under rules similar to those governing the Pulitzer airplane trophy, and each entrant is required to use a glider of his own construction or design.

LEW DOCKSTADER NOT IN SERIOUS CONDITION

New Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 31.—An X-ray examination today showed that Lew Dockstader, veteran minstrel, sustained no broken bones or spinal injury when he fell on an icy pavement Monday night. His discharge from the hospital within a few days was indicated.

Of course the difference between speculating and gambling is that if it's gambling you lose.

BALANCING THE BUDGET.

Good reason has President Harding for being elated over the showing that has thus far been made in keeping down the expenditures for the fiscal year and making it possible for him to express confidence in the balancing of the federal budget for the first time since 1916. This will mean that the expenditures of the government, if all goes as is now indicated, can be met out of the revenue.

At the beginning of the year there were hopes that this might be done, but the indicated deficit at that time was $698,000,000. This called for the exercise of rigid economy, close adherence to the budget programme and the elimination of needless expenditures. That that has been cut down to the point where it is now clear then the deficit will not be more $52,000,000 is of course highly gratifying, but with the several months between now and June 30 the opportunity of wiping out this possible deficit seems good.

While there have been concerted efforts to keep expenditures down, there has also been an improvement in revenue producing conditions. Greater confidence has been shown in industrial and business circles and as the result greater revenue has come in, and it is also being made clear that the operation of the tariff law is having its good effects.

Good business in the administration of national affairs, quite the same as in the handling of private activities, calls for cuting the garment according to the cloth. When the president attributed the commendable results so far obtained to cooperative functioning there is plenty of proof to support it. Expenditures haven't been running wild regardless of income. The budget under the direction of president is getting the results long desired.

IN THE RUHR.

It can be appreciated that there are many who do not like the idea of the French bayonets in the Ruhr valley. They don't like it because it brings back the remembrances of war and opens up the excellent possibilities of repetitions to a certain degree. They don't like it because they are seriously desirous of peace and are against all forms of militarism.

And yet it is to be realized that the French are not in the Ruhr just for the sake of shedding blood. They are not there because they have a military machine that needs action. They are not there for the purpose of conquest and with the desire to dominate Europe or the World.

They are there because Germany forced them. They are there because Germany has failed to live up to its promises, wilfully in some instances and because it has not convinced those to whom the promises were made that it has sincerely put forth every effort to carry them out.

Senator Reed, in the upper house of congress, the other day laid emphasis upon the fact that it is impossible to forget the bloody path that Germany made through Belgium and France. It is too soon to overlook the destruction that was caused and to give more sympathy than is due to the whining that comes from that nation which failed in its ambition and which has ever since been endeavoring to crawl out from under the obligations that it heaped upon itself. If by its efforts Germany had created a favorable impression in its efforts to meet its obligations the situation would have been different.

France isn't actuated by a spirit of vengeance entirely. It was disposed to show leniency up to a certain point. It considers Germany insincere and proposes to hold the Ruhr only till it receives its payments. Germany can shorten the time or improve the conditions under which the French troops stay if it so elects. It can likewise make them much worse.

TREATING ALL ALIKE.

Those who hoped to make political capital out of it raised a great hue and cry last year because the internal revenue bureau ruled that it was impossible to exempt from the income tax the contributions which had been made to the Woodrow Wilson foundation.

It was easy to create the impression that discrimination was being resorted to when exemptions were being denied in this instance but were permitted in connection with movements of a like character concerning other former presidents. There was a difference, however, and it existed in the fact that in the other cases the movements had been incorporated, but the foundation fund had not been. The way out of it was to take out incorporation papers.

There may have been some who were not convinced by the explanation, and if such were the case they how have the chance to alter their opinions as the result of the announcement by the head of the internal revenue bureau that gifts to the Wilson foundation since December 16 of last year are subject to income tax exemption because at that time the fund was incorporated and put on the same basis before the revenue bureau that the others were.

It was simply a case of treating all alike. It could not be expected that what would apply to one would not apply to another under the same conditions. No greater mistake could have been made than to have failed to exempt the foundation for political reasons. Any such attempt would have been quickly revealed. No one could expect to be covered up.

The criticisms at the time of the previous ruling were entirely unjustified in the light of the facts, all of which has been once more established by the officials of the foundation bringing about its incorporation in keeping with the course clearly designated at that time, and the ruling which places it in the same class with the others.

DEBT FUNDING PROGRESS.

Greater progress than was expected has apparently been made in the debt negotiations between this country and Great Britain, if we are to judge by the decision announced from London that the British cabinet approves the plan in principle. Thus even though the statement by Chancellor Baldwin of the British exchequer when explaining the plan to the British cabinet may have been considered indiscreet from this distance, it apparently carried conviction with his hearers.

The British cabinet approval comes at a time when the possibilities of getting the matter adjusted at this session of congress had not been considered good because of the brief time before adjournment. The plan is not the one that would be expected to get early action from congress, except that it is desired to dispose of it, since the interest rate and the time of payment differ from the expressed view of congress when the American commission was created.

However, with a change of view expressed by those who had approved the higher rate and shorter time, and the early action by the British, the benefit of getting such a matter settled at this time instead of permitting it to lay for a year or two may bring about confirmation at this session, provided the necessary details can be completed within the next four and a half weeks.

Speed isn't absolutely necessary, but it is preferable to have this matter adjusted than to prolong it, and thereby indirectly affect whatever negotiations are undertaken with other debtor nations. Early acceptance by the British of the American plan doesn't indicate that we have been other than reasonable.

RESCUES AT SEA.

Those who go down to the sea in ships are called upon to face not only the terrors of the mighty ocean, but if they happen to be officials or members of the crew of vessels they are in line to render whatever lifesaving service that may be necessary. It is of course a case of the Golden Rule and heroism at sea is by no means infrequent. More rare, indeed, is it that the plight of shipwrecked men is disregarded.

In these days the chances of rescue are far better than ever before. Wireless communication eliminates what would have been helpless or hopeless situations some years ago.

What peril men will risk for the sake of saving fellowmen is well illustrated by the rescue of a crew of five from a sinking schooner in mid-ocean by an officer and crew of the Empress of Scotland. With their assistance required if they were to be saved, the boat load of rescuers maneuvered their small craft in a high sea with the daring and skill required at such times. How great the danger was is shown by the crushing of the small boat as it returned to the liner, but at a front when all were eventually rescued.

It is one of the experiences which those who follow the sea for a living are prepared for. There is no telling when they might need just such a service for themselves. Facing the ravages of the sea in the large ships that go to the assistance of others is deserving of all praise, but even greater is due those who take greater risks to serve their fellowmen. It is only fitting that such should get full recognition for their heroic service.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Probably you have noticed that all the slippery places are not posted or sanded.

The man on the corner says: Good morning, February. Hope you're kindly disposed.

A few more springlike January rains and reports can be expected about seeing the first robin.

The peak of the coal shortage may have been passed but there's a considerable load to be handled yet.

There is no chance that the French will take crushed rock, dyed black, in place of coal in the Ruhr.

It is all right for the statement to be made by radio that kissing is extra hazardous, but it will of course have to be proved.

Almanac days—the last Friday and Saturday in January—promise a snug, cool month for February, but with plenty of sunshine.

Even though Thrift week is over that doesn't give the householder any freedom from sifting the ashes unless he is burning soft coal.

Just about the time France gets other things straightened out in the Ruhr the coal miners will demand an increase in wages and less hours.

Idle as the talk was about the resignation of Secretary Hughes, the country will welcome the prompt declaration that there is nothing to it.

Even though Minnesota forces the 15,000 people of a town in that state to move so iron can be mined, it is better than they do at Scranton, Pa., where they permit the mining of coal and those who live over a weak spot must take the consequences.

Even if the appropriation for the widening and deepening of the Thames river channel from this city to Allyn's Point cannot be secured now it is a worthy object and the effort has been started none too soon. It must not be forgotten just because a short cut was impossible.

The extremely marcelled daughter waited until her father had just taken an especially lengthy bite of doughnut and then sprang her idea.

"Don't you think," she began, "That it would be perfectly lovely if this family really did something this winter like other people? If we go to California, say about February, for six weeks and—"

"You're still asleep," said her father, swallowing the bite of doughnut in haste to head her off. "Wake up! it's morning and if you listen maybe you can hear the English sparrows sing! Please pass the butter!"

"You've been reading the society column," accused her younger brother, reaching for the sugar and watching the clock. "I'll bet you're planning to ask them to put your picture in the paper as the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo P. Everwait, who with her parents and fascinating and popular young brother, Alonzo, Jr. has just left to spend the remainder of the winter among the sunny orange groves and pineapple trees!".

"I never saw anything like the way you act when I try to do things!" the extremely marcelled daughter stormed. "I could get a vacation at the office just as well as not and I am sure mother needs the rest and father ought to conserve his strength and Mr. Shrimply spoke so casually about his sisters' going to California this winter as usual and maybe he would run out and join them—just as though it were merely a trolley trip."

"I might have known that dude Shrimply was at the bottom of it," said her father, reaching for another doughnut and beginning to doll up the newspaper. "He'll never amount to a row of pins if he jumps his job whenever he wants to and goes tripping like that! He—"

"Mr. Shrimply comes from a perfectly wonderful family," said the marcelled daughter coldly. "The kind of family that goes to California or Florida in the winter as a matter of course, and I stopped myself just in time from saying my goodness how I wished I could go, because I'd never been there! I just had to act as though I knew all about it and it is time I went and this is the worst family to do anything with—"

"Let Shrimp take you there on a wedding trip," said her younger brother pleasantly. "Can I have another cuppa coffee, mother?"

"I'd have you know," said his sister furiously, "that Mr. Shrimply and I are merely friends and there is absolutely nothing sentimental about it and I don't think any more about him than about a dozen others. We could go as well as not. I have planned it all out. If we give up that awful Rutabaga Farm next summer, which I hate like poison, that will almost pay our way out there."

"And how do you think we'd get back?" inquired her father, pushing back his chair. "I know California air is wonderful, but we couldn't live on it for six weeks, either!"

"Oh, something would turn up!" the marcelled daughter told him enthusiastically. "I have $75 saved myself. Of course, we'd have some real nice place, because it's so dowdy not to have a doorman when anybody calls, and at Mr. Shrimply's folks' place on Long island I know they keep a butler because he mentioned him one day incidently. I think it is perfectly horrid for everybody to pull and haul and act this way! It would be perfectly simple——"

"It is," said her father at the front door, one arm in his overcoat. "It's as plain to me as a, b, c that if you want to keep track of Shrimply you had better go it here instead of 2,000 miles away—its less expensive. Ask him to dinner and get your mother to make one of her deep apple pies with cream! He'll forget all about wanting to go to California this winter or ever!"

"Oh, you are perfectly horrid!" wailed the marcelled daughter, getting up herself. "As though Mr. Shrimply had anything to do with my wanting a trip to California! I just thought it would do the family good. What night shall I ask him for, mother?"—Exchange.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Get the Right Form.

Income-tax returns, sworn to before a notary public or other person authorized to administer an oath, must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives or has his principal place of business on or before midnight of March 15, 1923. Forms 1040A for filing returns of individual income of $5,000 or less and Forms 1040 for filing returns of income in excess of $5,000 have been sent by collectors to persons who filed similar returns for the year 1921. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to file a return and pay the tax on time. Forms may be obtained from the offices of collectors of internal revenue and deputy collectors.

Revenue officers will be sent into every county in the United States to aid taxpayers in making out their returns. The advisory service heretofore offered city residents will be continued. This service, including the administration of the oath, is without cost to the taxpayer.

Taxpayers, before seeking such assistance, however, are advised to read carefully the instructions on the forms. Many questions, which on the face may appear perplexing, can be solved by study of the instructions. Especially, in justice to themselves, taxpayers are advised to note the instructions with regard to credits for personal exemptions and dependents and deductions. In justice to the government they should note carefully the instructions with regard to income from "salaries, wages, commissions, etc. business or profession, interest on bank deposits, income from partnerships, fiduciaries, etc., income from rents and royalties and other income."

The taxpayer who, when the form is received will devote to it an hour's study, will go a long way in assuring himself that he is making a correct return.

Wives of Famous Men

Mary Warnard, Wife of Roger Williams.

Historians give but a meager account of Mary Warnard, wife of Roger Williams, first settler of Providence, except to tell us that her sense of duty far outstripped her sense of humor, and that her piety was much greater than her pity. Hard, narrow, brave, righteous, Mary Williams stood for all that is characteristic of the early settlers of this country.

"It was difficult to love her," writes one commentator," "but she merited a deep respect." What a volume is written in those few words! Consequently we find it easy to understand that Mary was not Roger William's first love. Nor have we any proof that he loved her at all. It was a very short time after he had been rejected by a fair Puritan maiden that he married the austere Mary.

She did, however, prove a good wife in the sterner sense of the word, being possessed of all the qualities of domesticity and fortitude so necessary to those newcomers in the wilderness. She had a decided mind, set ideas on religion, and she was not easily turned from her purpose. As firm as her husband in her beliefs, she refused to observe certain rites that he thought necessary. If they conflicted with her own faith. And he, as dogmatic as the Puritans who banished him from Salem, barred her from participation in the religious services of his home.

In spite of this, however, she was loyal and steadfast in her wifely duties. They suffered many hardships and great poverty, and while she may have grumbled at her lot, she was never known to fail her husband.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dr. Grant and the Truth.

Mr. Editor: It is interesting to note the discussion concerning Dr. Percy Stickney Grant of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension and the prescribed teachings of the P. E. church. The very fact that all clergymen cannot agree on the doctrine of whether Jesus Christ was the Son of God or if He was God or whether or not He possessed divine power, proves conclusively that "they are looking through a glass darkly." Without doubt there are clergymen in the Episcopal church who do not believe many statements of Scripture and in the prayer book; but accept it all in blind faith. As a one time member of that communion, that was my situation. Revelation has cleared up my religious doubts and my eyes of blind faith have been opened to the truth. We hear clergymen taking the following texts for their sermons: "Was Jesus Christ the Son of God?" "What of the Divinity of Christ?" "Do We Believe That Christ Walked on the Water With a Physical Body?" Another familiar topic for sermons is "Our Crucified Christ." Again in the resurrection and ascension it is believed by the majority of the members of the church that Jesus Christ ascended into heaven with the physical body, although Scripture tells us that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of heaven. As a searcher after the truth for 35 years, let me offer the light as I have received it through revelation on these statements under discussion.

1—Was Jesus Christ the Son of God? Yes and no. Christ was the Son of God while Jesus was the Son of Mary. Christ was the sustaining Spirit of Jesus.

2—The Divinity of Christ? Christ was the only begotten Son of the Eternal Father Most High of the Second Dispensation, but not for all time. He was not incarnated in Jesus, but was attached to His left side for reasons that cannot be revealed at this time.

3—Did He walk on the water with His physical body? No. It was the Spirit of Jesus that floated on the water and Peter and the others with Him having clairvoyant eyes saw the Spirit walking. The Spirit of Peter went to meet his Master, but being lower in Spirit sank down and would have been lost had not Jesus raised him.

4—Our Crucified Christ." The truth is Christ was never crucified. He withdrew one hour before the crucifixion and ascended. Jesus was crucified.

5—Did He walk the earth with the physical body after the resurrection? No. On the third day the Spirit Body of Jesus in which was the Spirit Man Jesus arose from the dead, met Mary Magdalene early in the morning and appeared unto the apostles in the upper room. The Spirit body showed the same nail prints in the hands and the gash in the side that was manifested on the physical body. The physical body was taken from the tomb and hidden and it lies in that same place today.

The clergy are prone to preach of God's love for the sinner.

God does not love the sinner. If Jesus is meant by them as God, He was not God. If Christ is meant as the God who loves the sinner, then He was the Begotten Son of God, but did not have the full power of God the Eternal Father. Neither will the Christ come again in full glory, but a New Christ will come in full glory and walk the earth as an immortal of flesh and bone, but no blood.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do every thing that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAIECHECK, 944 28th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Hon. George H. Murray, who has retired from the premiership of Nova Scotia, leaves behind him a remarkable record of public service. He had held the premiership continuously since 1896, being six times returned to the office, a record that is without a parrallel in the history of any of the Canadian provinces. One of the outstanding acts of his government was the establishment of a system of technical education throughout the province, Nova Scotia thus becoming the first province in Canada to enter upon a technical education policy. The expansion of the coal and steel industry was a notable material development in Nova Scotia during the existence of the Murray government. The legislation primarily responsible for the beginnings of the industry was enacted shortly before Mr. Murray's accession to office, but administration under the legislation, and the necessary amendment from time to time of the laws relating to the industry was almost entirely his work.

Stories That Recall Others

Corks from Strawberries.

Lilla, age three, was sitting on the kitchen table with a granite bowl between her tiny legs, stains on her dress and several strawberries in her small hands. Her mother sat beside the table on a chair, pulling the stems from the berries.

An aunt of Lilla's came into the kitchen and asked the usual, "Why, what are you doing, baby?"

"I'm helping mamma pull the corks out of the strawberries, auntie," Lilla answered.

Two Pounds of Flesh.

The extent to which foreign mothers, recently come to this country, trust the public school teachers is illustrated by a story from a school not a thousand miles away.

A district visitor in the neighborhood was approached by a foreign mother who was perplexed over a note that her son, Stevie, had brought home from school. The note said that the boy had been weighed and that although his normal weight should be 43 pounds the scales registered only 41. The visitor suggested fat making foods such as milk, bacon, butter, chocolate, etc. The mother shook her head. "I skinny, his papa skinny, Stevie skinnw, too," she said, indicating that slenderness was a family trait. Still, she felt that Stevie must have those extra two pounds to be a good American citizen. Suddenly her face lighted. "I go to the teacher and ask her," she exclaimed. "She will know where to get the two pounds."

By Mr. Manning of Stonington: Authorizing the town of Stonington to issue bonds.

By Mr. Fenton of Windham: Concerning water bonds of the city of Willimantic and an act concerning school bonds of the town of Windham.

Before the fish and game committee a hearing on Mr. Brockway's bill for a closed season on shad in the Connecticut river and its tributaries will be held.

HAVE FAITH TO DARE. BIG THINGS FOR GOD

Have faith to dare something bigger than usual in His name, to tackle a big thing with holy boldness, said Rev. York A. King to the congregation in the evangelistic services at the Central Baptist church Wednesday night. Do you know how many people in this city are absolutely lost, how many have no connection whatever with any religious organization? Why, we couldn't sleep tonight if we knew.

The evangelist made his talk at the meeting directly to Christians upon their responsibility to bring men and women to faith in God, and related wonderful instances of the way the power of God would move upon men's hearts and prepare them for the reception of the message of salvation.

At the close of his talk Rev. Mr. King asked if there were 30 in meeting who would challenge God for 60 conversions by Easter Sunday. Thirty-six in the congregation responded to the speaker's appeal, expressing their intention to work for the conversion of souls.

The musical part of the service was conducted by Rev. G. C. Cooper and the meeting closed with prayer by Rev. R. Daniel Trick.

A special invitation was extended to non-Christians to attend the Thursday evening meeting.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Harding and son Frank of Salem turnpike were visitors in Norwich on Tuesday.

OBITUARY.

Frederick Samuel Young.

After an illness of about one week Frederick Samuel Young died Wednesday at his home at 30 Connell street. He was born in Preston, Nov. 5, 1871, the son of Frank A. and Elizabeth Patton Young. When a boy his parents moved to Norwich and he attended local public schools and later finished a course in the Norwich Business School. For 35 years he was with the L. A. Gallup company. Mr. eYoung was a member of St. James Lodge, No. 23, F. & A. M., of Norwich and of the Universalist church.

On April 18, 1893, he was united in marriage to Jennie Culver of Norwich, the ceremony being performed by Rev. William Palmer, pastor of the Universalist church. He is survived by his wife, one son, Richard W. Young of Worcester, Mass., a granddaughter, Dorothy Young of Worcester, and two sisters, Mrs. Edgar H. Allen of Norwich and Miss Lyvia I. Young of New York.

Mr. Young was chief bookkeeper for the late Capt. Lorea A. Gallup in his wholesale grocery business on Water street and has continued with the L. A. Gallup Co., since then, being secretary and assistant treasurer. He was of exemplary character, conscientious and faithful in his business relations, and had a host of friends in this city who will learn of his death with deep regret.

Theodore J. Richards.

Theodore J. Richards, aged 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Richards of Waterford, died Tuesday morning in the Mitchell ward of the Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital at New London, following a brief illness of meningitis. Mr. Richards is survived by his parents, two sisters, the Misses Margaret and Ellen, and a brother, John, all of Waterford.

Mrs. George Rogers.

Mrs. Addie A. Rogers, wife of Capt. George Rogers, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. S. Valentine, 3906 Dalton avenue, Los Angeles, Cal., on January 19. Mrs. Rogers, who was 74 years of age, died of a complication of diseases after a long illness. Capt. Rogers is a former resident of Norwich and brother of Mrs. Lucy A. Sparks of Fairmount street. He moved to Los Angeles from Brooklyn about two years ago. Mrs. Rogers leaves two other daughters, Mrs. W. L. Jacobs of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Frank Zeibach of Los Angeles.

Alexander Santo.

After an illness of several years Alexander Santo, aged 70 years, died Wednesday in this city. For many years he was a resident of Baltic and later moved to this city. He is survived by his wife and several children.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Irving W. Stark.

Funeral services for Mrs. Irving W. Stark were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home, 364 Washington street. Rev. Charles K. Tracy, pastor of the Congregational church of Collinsville, Conn., and a nephew of the deceased conducted the service during which Mrs. Frederick N. Taylor of Lebanon, sang Face to Face.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and the flowers were many and beautiful.

The body was placed in the receiving vault at Maplewood cemetery where a committal service was read. The bearers were Arthur L. Beale, Charles J. Twist, John H. Sherman, Harry L. Sherman, Elisha Waterman and Harry E. Prentice.

Mrs. Margaret Smith.

Relatives and friends attended the funeral services of Mrs. Margaret Smith last Saturday at the Central Baptist church. Rev. D. A. Pitt conducted the services and paid a fitting tribute to the life of the deceased. Many floral pieces spoke of the esteems in which Mrs. Smith was held. A nephew, Avery Holmes, and the following friends, Thomas Wormsley, Alexander Carrington, William Spivery acted as hearers. Burial was in the family lot at Yantic cemetery where Rev. Dr. Pitt conducted a committal service

WEDDING

May—Bailey

Floyd Walter May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd May of 19 Oak street, and Miss Frances J. Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bailey of Springfield, N. Y., were united in marriage Tuesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock at the home of Rev. Davis A. Pitt, D. D., pastod of the Central Baptist church. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. John McConnell, brother-in-law and sister of the bride. The groom has been employed for some time as a hospital attendant and his bride is a nurse. The couple left on a honeymoon trip to New York state where Mr. May has employment in a New York hospital.

Gardner—Williams

William D. Gardner and Miss Alice Williams, both of Uncasville, were united in marriage Wednesday evening at Uncasville by Rev. Charles Smith. The couple were unattended. The groom is employed as a tool maker in Uncasville, and the couple will make their home in that town.

COMFORT CIRCLE MEETING FOLLOWED BY ENTERTAINMENT

Comfort Circle, King's Daughters met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Adams of West Main street, Mrs. Stanton Brown, leader, presiding. Routine business was transacted following which a cafeteria luncheon was served. The proceeds from the luncheon came to $7.65. Sixteen members of the circle were present and eight visitors.

The meeting continued into the evening when a delightful entertainment was provided, and Miss Florence Brown delighted her audience with a group of solos and selections on the piano

MAKING THEIR PLANS FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY

The observance of the feast of St. Patrick this year by the Ancient Order of Hibernians in the United States and Canada will be, as for the past few years, confined to public meetings, concerts, etc., except in a few of the larger cities that have the customary street parades and demonstrations. The local divisions and Ladies' auxiliary have selected committees to arrange for a public meeting in the state armory Friday evening, March 16th, and expect to present a very interesting program on that occasion.

ALLYN'S POINT POSTOFFICE IS NOW DISCONTINUED

Effective today, the Allyn's Point postoffice, for many years conducted by Mrs. Norman, is to be discontinued and its former patrons will be served by R. F. D. carriers from Giles Ferry and the Norwich office. R. F. D. route 6 from the Norwich office is extended to the Wallace Norcross residence and will serve sight additional patrons. The extension is about one mile, for which the carrier receives an additional compensation.

VOTE TO RAISE $50,000 FOR NEXT TWO YEARS FOR WINDHAM COUNTY

Hartford, Jan. 31.—The meeting of the members from Windham county was held after the adjournment of the house. It was called to order by Senator Childs, chairman. The report of the county commissioners and treasurer was distributed by Commissioner Edgar H. Corttis of Thompson, showing receipts and expenditures as given herewith. He explained the different items and gave estimates of what would have to be provided for the next two years. The county home is overcrowded, there being 130 inmates there now. School accommodations will have to be increased. The commissioners intend with the approval of the county to provide four new school rooms and improve the hygienic conditions. There are at present but two baths and five toilets in the buildings. They estimated that for a new building, alterations and improvements $25,000 would be needed. It was voted to make the appropriation $26,000.

To pay off present indebtedness and take care of other county expenses would require a tax to raise $50,000.

It was voted that the appropriation to the Farmers association be $4,000 for the next five years.

A motion to make the amount to be raised by county tax $50,000 was amended to $55,000, but the amendment was lost and the original motion of $50,000 was then passed, this to cover the expense of the county for the next two years.

On motion by Representative Darble of Killingly the commissioners were authorized to borrow such sums as were needed for the county expenses and to sign notes for the same. Everett D. Brown of Plainfield, and M. G. Williams of Brooklyn were nominated for membership on the state board of agriculture. On balloting Mr. Brown received 20 and Mr. Williams two votes. Mr. Brown was declared elected.

Luther M. Keith of Putnam and Raymond Baker of Woodstock were elected county auditors.

H. S. Peckham of the Farmers association extended thanks for the appropriation made for them.

The caucus then adjourned to some time in March.

An abstract of the county accounts for the years ending Sept. 30, 1921 and 1922 is given herewith:

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL FOR LATE MAJ. HETRICK

Major Harold Storrs Hetrick, U. S. A., formerly of this city, who died in New Orleans, Jan. 5, 1920, from the effects of a bullet wound in his head, is one of the four Connecticut men awarded distinguished service medals and crosses under the extension of the law regarding their award. Four Connecticut men have been honored and 17 Bay State men, two citizens of Maine and one each from Vermont, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

The Connecticut soldiers picked out for distinction under the extension of the law are: Maj. Emmett Addis of Hartford, D. S. M.; Maj. Harold S. Hetrick, regular army, D. S. M.; Maj. William F. Verdi of New Haven, D. S. C.; Lt. Col. Earl D. Church of Hartford, D. S. M.

Major Hetrick was shot by an unknown man who forced his way one night into the major's home in New Orleans. The major, who was the son of the late Rev. Andrew J. Hetrick, graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in 1897, from Yale in 1901, and stood at the head of his class at West Point when he graduated there in 1905. He had a brilliant career in the engineering branch of the army, having served in Cuba, Manila, along the Mexican border and with the A. E. F., in France.

WILLIMANTIC ODD FELLOWS CONDUCT LADIES' NIGHT

Willimantic, Jan. 31.—About 250 couples attended the ladies' night of Obwebetuck lodge, No. 15, I. O. O. F., given by the Odd Fellows in the town hall tonight. Members of the Violet Rebekah lodge attended.

A first class entertainment was staged by the members of the White Entertainment bureau of Boston, assisted by Mildred McCarron of the Providence Opera Company and also Scott and Byard of Boston, all of whom were excellent artists in their respective lines. The announcements were made by Fred Williams and Charles Beebe of the local lodge. Mrs. Charles Beebe was accompanist to a number rendered by a musician and magician. The great features of the evening were the dancing by Miss McCarron, the Scott and Byard act and selections by an Italian accordion artist. A number of selections by members of the 6, 8, 12 and 8, which were also enjoyed. Refreshments consisting of cookies and ice cream were served during the intermission.

HAD AUTOMOBILE STOLEN FROM F. O. MOSES

A. Feurstein, one of those arrested in recent automobile theft cases in Bridgeport, was bound over to the superior court there Wednesday in bonds of 1,500 on charges of receiving an automobile which was stolen from Frank O. Moses of Groton.

Birthday Party For Laelia Pollock.

A birthday party was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Pollock of West Main street, in honor of her daughter, Laelia Pollock. Games were played during the evening, following which refreshments were served. Those present included the Misses Selma Madaline Sohn, Margaret McVeigh, Sylvia Sampson, Muriel Chalmers, Sarah Radish, Miriam Radish, Myrtle Pollock, Laelia Pollock, Clara Silverman; and Masters Melvin Tannenbaum and Meyer Fenyshup.

You can learn a good deal about human nature by watching how it behaves in the underworld.

PAULINE FREDERICK IN CALIFORNIA LAWSUIT

Pauline Frederick, the motion picture actress, who recently lost her suit in this city to break the will of her father, the late Richard O. Libby, is in a lawsuit at Los Angeles, Cal.

Trial of a suit against her for $35,000 brought by George Edwin Joseph, New York attorney and of her cross suit for 046,647 against Joseph, was on the calendar to ope nthere Wednesday.

Miss Frederick, now in Boston asserts that of the $46,647 she seeks from Joseph, $31,800 is due for professional services not detailed; $10,000 represents a sum she turned over to him to invest in Liberty bonds for her and $,847 is for an amount he collected for her but had not paid over.

FOR TEACHING CITIZENSHIP IN ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

The teaching of citizenship in all elementary schools, public and private, above the fourth grade, is called for in a bill that has been presented in the legislature and given approval by the senate committee on education.

The following is the bill:

Section 852 of the general statutes is amended to read as follows: The duties of citizenship, including the knowledge of the form of national, state and local government, shall be taught in all elementary schools, both public and private, as a regular branch of study to pupils above the fourth grade. The provisions of this section shall apply to classes in ungraded schools corresponding to the grades designated herein. Normal schools and teachers' training schools shall give instruction in said subjects and concerning methods of teaching the same. The state board of education shall prepare and distribute to every school an outline of questions and suggestions relating to said subjects, and said outline may be used in said schools.

PRUDENTIAL CONFERENCE WILL BE BROADCASTED

Superintendent E. O. Rodier of the local office of the Prudential Insurance company will be one of those to attend the company's business conference in New York, Feb. 5, 6, 7 and 8, which will be attended by 6800 representatives from the United States, Canada and Hawaii. He will be located at the Hotel McAlpin.

Arrangements have been made with "WJZ", the Westinghouse station, to broadcast by radio thme program of Wednesday evening, Feb. 7, at 8 o'clock. The speakers will be the Hon. Calvin Coolidge, vice president of the United States; the Hon. George S. Silzer, governor of the state of New Jersey; Mr. Richard V. Lindsury, general council of the company; Doctor Andrew F. West, dean of the Graduate School of Princeton, New Jersey.

On Telephone Public Relations Board

For Ten Years Telephone Service

Awarding to the Telephone Bulletin Miss Louise C. Fitzpatrick of this city received a 10 years service pin and button. Hazel G. Perry of New London received the same recognition for five year of service.

FEBRUARY, SAYS CHIEF, IS WORST FIRE MONTH

January, said Chief Howard L. Stanton, Wednesday night, has passed and there were 20 calls sent in to the department, a normal amount of calls for that month. The losses by fire during the month were slight, the greatest loss being to the stock carried by the American Confectionary company, in the fire of January 18th.

The worst month of the year is now ahead of us, he continued. February to Norwich has always been the worst month in the year and history of Norwich fires will show that some of the largest fires in the history of the department occurred during that month.

It was in February, 1900, that the big Hopkins & Allen fire took place with a great money loss. February, 1904, saw the otter block fire at Thames square, when the men fought for nearly 24 hours to subdue the raging fire in the coal yard and block, nature adding to the handicap under which the men fought, the temperature being 15 degrees below zero that night. Another big fire was the Shannon building fire in February, 1909, when again the freezing cold made the fight hard for the men. February, 1914, brought the Marguerite building fire, and the Austin block and Swedish church fires, that month being the worst month experienced by the department in Chief Stanton's many years at its head. Another February blaze was the Schwartz Brothers fire in 1913.

Last year February was not so bad but early in March came the fires, the largest of which was the "Pants Factory" fire on Thames street, 25 alarms being sent in during that month.

Go back over the records of fifty years and always will February be found as the "black" month on the Norwich fire records. February brings with it bitter cold, difficult firefighting conditions, and it is entirely up to the people of the city to say whether or not February 1923 shall be another "black" month, or that it can be set down as one of the first good February records.

I realize, said Chief Stanton, that conditions this year are bad. People are burning all types of substitutes for anthracite coal, and the fire hazards are increased by their doing so. The chimney has become one of the foremost causes of fires in Norwich, but other things today, not figured on 25 years ago, cause not a few fires. Automobiles, electric flatirons, defective wiring, and many others have come to take the place of the danger from kerosene.

Another big danger is the match, and this peril cannot be too strictly watched. Many people believe that the word, safety match, means that there is no danger of fire from that type of match. When safety matches were first manufactured the thought of fire prevention was not in the minds of the manufacturers. The word "safety" was used to explain that there was no danger of poisoning from the match, thus allaying fears that children might become ill by finding matches and putting them into their mouths.

Go back to the latter 70's and fire reports show that the average annual records of fires would be about 20 while now with the hundreds of opportunities for fires the fire records for Norwic haverage nearer 200 for the year.

We are here to fight any fire that comes our way, said Chief Stanton, but none of us want to see any loss of life, and every fire brings that fear. In 1920 which was a bad month, snow lying deep on the ground, I asked the citizens to be careful and they responded wonderfully and during that February there were but six fires, the smallest number in February in the years that I have been chief. Now I ask that the people again be careful, realizing that conditions are every worse this year, and let's make February even better and safer for all than in 1920.

A glance back over the figures of February fires for 12 years shows the statement of Chief Stanton to be correct. The records are as follows:

1911	13
1912	13
1913	14
1914	*25
1915	21
1916	12
1917	15
1918	18
1919	19
1920	6
1921	11
1922	11
1923	7

*—Worst month in history of department.

INSTITUTE HELD FOR TRINITY CHURCH SCHOOL

A large number of the teachers and members of the church school of the Trinity Episcopal church met Wednesday evening at the Community house and heard two speakers in talks on church school questions. It was the first institute of its kind ever held in this part of the diocese and was a decided success. The institute was in charge of Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown who was ably assisted by Percival W. Chapman, secretary of the church school. The speakers of the evening were Rev. James S. Neill who spoke on "How to Teach a Lesson;" and Rev. John Rosebaugh, whose subject was, "Christian Nature." Both preachers are members of the department of religious education of the diocese in Hartford and were well versed in the respective subjects.

Preceding the institute there was community singing ld by Rev. T. H. S. Ockford of Poquetanuck, and Mrs. Reuben P. Potter and James J. Moore sang selections.

At 6 o'clock a reception was held at the community house, the committee in charge comprising Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Percival W. Chapman, Rev. J. Eldred Brown, and Walter E. Gilbert. At 6.30 o'clock about 75 members of the church school enjoyed a delightful supper which was served by the women of the Parish Aid society. The menu consisted of cold boiled ham, escalloped potatoes, cabbage salad, peas, rolls, coffee, assorted cakes and ic ecream. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers.

The committee in charge of the supper was as follows: Mrs. Frederick N. Clark, chairman; Mrs. E. A. Jahn, Mrs. Alexander Williams, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. W. H. Harder, Miss E. B. Dolbeare, Mrs. William Fitch, Mrs. S. H. Reed, Mrs. James J. Moore, Miss Alice Bennett, Mrs. Walter Brinkman, Mrs. Leslie Brewer, Mrs. L. A. Wolfe, and Mrs. Charles Slough. The supper was served by several of the young women of the school.

SEIZED LIQUOR HELD; OWNER PAYS IN COURT

In the city court Wednesday morning the continued case of the state vs. A. Zigarelli was called up. The charge was violation of the prohibition laws at his store and residence, 20 Roath street, and the case was adjusted by the accused paying $50 to Clerk Bailey. The large quantity of liquor and the equipment seized is being held by the state.

ROTARIANS CONSIDER HELP TO CRIPPLED CHILDREN

With only one member absent the Norwich Rotary club held its monthly business session at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday noon. Much business of importance was transacted and many reports were given by the chairmen of various committees. It was voted that the anual ladies' night of the club be held on Wednesday evening, April 4th. The matter of giving a public entertainment or bazaar for the benefit of the Boys' Work fund was referred to the directors for action. It was also voted that the new standard form of constitution and by-laws recommended at the international convention at San Francisco last year be adopted by the local organization.

In reporting for the boys' work committee Chairman Harry M. Clark asked Dr. Agnew to tell of a number of needy cases of crippled children in this city. Dr. Agnew told of several cases where children are crippled had no means of being given proper treatment because of the financial straits of the family, and urged that aid be given these children. On motion it was decided to leave the matter of providing for the treatment of the child with the directors.

Chairman Charles A. Saxton of the programme committee announced that the first meeting in February would be in charge of Grosvenor Ely, the second meeting in charge of E. Howard Baker, Jr.; Joseph C. Werth, Lucius Briggs, Louis Porteous and Charles R. Butts; the third meeting in charge of Herbert M. Leroy and the educational committee. At this last meeting it is planned to have the meeting devoted to Citizenship. It was suggested that a prize be offered to high school boys for the best essay on the subject and that the winner of the contest read his essay at the meeting.

Arthur M. Brown, chairman of the public affairs committee, brought to the attention of the meeting the bill introduced in the legislature to make the road from Norwich to Salem and through to the Connecticut river a state road. The club voted in favor of the proposed bill. He also referred to the meeting to be held here soon at which officials of the New Haven road would be present. Mr. Brown also gave a short talk on Credit As Applied to Rotary Membership in which he said that the practical application of the Golden Rule in business and the prompt payment of all obligations were things to be seriously considered and practiced by everyone.

E. Larue Bliven was named as Norwich chairman for the spring conclave to be held in New Haven and Herbert M. Leroy was named as chairman for the International convention to be held at St. Louis. F. Russell Smith, chairman of the publicity committee, spoke about "Anniversary Week" and called attention to the radio address that would be given by International President Havens on the evening of Feb. 23.

During the luncheon J. C. Worth was song leader and in opening the program of music called on George W. Carroll and Arthur M. Brown for a duet which was rendered in striking harmony. Henry J. LaFontaine rendered two very delightful numbers. The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Citizens in the Brooklyn Center fire district, created some time ago primarily to bring about an equitable method of assessing a street lighting tax, have a meeting called for next Monday to consider purchasing a piece of fire-fighting apparatus for the district, which at the present time is entirely without fire fighting facilities other than such a bucket brigade as may be hastily formed in times of emergency.

The proposal to be presented to Monday's meeting as set forth in the notice warning it is that the district authorize the purchase of a chemical engine. It is understood that this piece of apparatus includes two 40-gallon chemical tanks and ample hose. The tanks are mounted on a two-wheel "jumper" such as formerly was in use in the Danielson department, the entire rig to be hand-drawn by members of many fire companies that may be formed. In operation one of the chemical tanks is discharging its contents against a fire while the other may be getting the water pressure necessary to maintain a constant flow of water on the blaze.

The type of apparatus proposed for the Brooklyn Center fire district was approved by the United States government during the war and many pieces of it ordered. This apparatus, although the government's disposal of its war supplies is being made available for communities suitable for their use. The apparatus offered never has been used and is now insofar as service it is capable of rendering is concerned.

It is felt by the Brooklyn men who favor purchasing the apparatus that some sort of protection against fire is needed in the district. While the Brooklyn village proper [illegible] valuable residences and other properties. If the district does [illegible] pay for [illegible] insurance will have to be paid on [illegible] as well as on the property [illegible] a period of days.

Does Danielson want Sunday baseball? [illegible] question is to be put up to the voters and court of burgesses for decision Wednesday evening. The burgesses [illegible] the matter [illegible] petitions signed by [illegible] voters have been presented [illegible] Sunday evenings. The petitioners, it was [illegible] a percentage of business men. Another petition in which the borough officials will be requested to deny permission for such Sunday games was understood on Wednesday to be in circulation and its presentation [illegible] opposing petition was made by [illegible] of ministers, farmers and others who do not believe that Sunday is a proper time for ball games, especially professional baseball where a money consideration is involved.

Borough officials have given no [illegible] ing of what action they may take. As is the invariable rule, the public is divided in its opinion about the matter. Those who favor allowing Sunday games assert that there is no moral difference between allowing a basketball game on a Sunday evening [illegible] there is a baseball game, as permitted by a law of the state, on a Sunday afternoon during the playing season. They point, too, to the fact that theaters are permitted to give Sunday picture performances, but the theater people counter this argument with the assertion that presentation of the silent drama does not present such likelihood of cheering or other vocal enthusiasm as does basketball. Many of the fans who follow basketball want Sunday night games. Others are indifferent.

Those who are protesting against the granting of permission to play the Sunday games are equally and irrevocably against the proposition. They regard it as a proposal to desecrate Sunday at the least to the extent of not properly observing the day.

Frankly the desire to play Sunday night basketball is [illegible] by the prospect of larger attendance and consequently [illegible] revenue at the box office. The people of the borough will await the official decision on the matter with [illegible] interest. From a sporting standpoint [illegible] is chiefly of interest to promoters and patrons of the games.

Wednesday morning duplicated the record of the early hours of Tuesday with another in below zero readings. Somehow the average citizen was not impressed that Wednesday was not as cold as Tuesday, but Mr. Woodward's recording thermometer refused this. At Sheriff Charles E. Avery's place in Dayville Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock the reading was 10 below zero, while at the same hour Tuesday the mark set by the instrument was 8 below. In the residence of the farming territory and other outlying country districts reported temperatures ranging from 10 to 20 degrees below Wednesday morning.

The extreme weather has brought [illegible] work for the plumbers. The [illegible] coming of the cold wave [illegible] many to take unusual precautions against freeze-ups and as a result frozen pipes were reported from many homes. The low temperatures of the past two mornings did not interfere materially with the usual routine of the average person.

Mrs. Alma King, 66, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Spatcher, High street, Putnam, and whose body was brought to the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy here, was for many years a resident of Goodyear. She was the widow of George King, who has been dead a number of years.

Friends of W. Irving Bullard in Danielson will have their first opportunity to greet him here today since very early last fall, just prior to his leaving for Rio Janeiro, where he was grievously injured some weeks latr, in an accident that let him down a mountainside when a cable snapped on an aerial railway on which he was riding. Mr. Bullard sustained a fractured leg and other serious injuries. He is getting about on crutches now, but is not so badly handicapped as to restrict him from many activities. During the past few days he has been prominent in assisting the Y. M. C. A drive for funds in Boston.

Mr. Bullard plans to come down from Boston to Putnam by train today and thence by automobile to Danielson, where various business matters await his attention.

About one hundred residents of various parts of the town of Killingly and of other communities made up the funeral congregation gathered at the undertaking rooms of A. F. Wood at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to attend services for Nehemiah Wood, veteran school master who died in South Killingly and who was respected and admired by all who knew him. Rev. Walter B. Williams of the Westfield Congregational church conducted the service. The body was placed in the receiving tomb at Westfield cemetery. Pallbearers were A. E. Hall, Eben Phillips, Charles H. Rounds and Charles Young, Jr.

Today (Thursday) following services at his home in Uncasville the body of Charles F. Bartlett will be brought to East Killingly and entombed in Bartlett cemetery. Mr. Bartlett was of a family long identified with the affairs of East Killingly.

After hard and prolonged effort the National Biscuit company truck that skidded, shot across the trolley tracks and rolled over against the monument on Town Farm street, Tuesday afternoon was righted, hauled out onto the state highway and taken to a local garage. The big machine was damaged up but no one who does not appear to be extensively injured.

Manufacturing companies in different parts of the town of Killingly have received liberal shipments of soft coal during the past few days. Several cars recently have been unloaded for the Attawaugan company at their siding near Attawaugan crossing throughout the winter the mills at least have had enough soft coal to meet their needs so have not been handicapped as to operating through a fuel shortage.

Killingly's board of relief will hold their first session of the season today and other sessions until near the end of the month.

Danielson parties who had work done by a roofing concern last summer are engaged in a controversy with the out of the state company that did their work. The local people are alleging that they were overcharged and have not paid the claims against them.

Following funeral services at his home here the body of Horace W. Woodward, who committed suicide Tuesday by shooting it to be taken to Forest Hills Mass., for cremation.

Friends here have received cards from Mrs. C. E. Wheatley telling of her safe arrival at St. Cloud, Fla., where she is to remain until spring.

At St. James' church on Friday there are to be special services in observance of Candlemas day.

Heavy reserves of cord wood will be piled up in this territory in the next few months in anticipation of the heavy demand looked for during the next fall and winter when coal prices are to be high so forecasts state.

Howard A. Bingham of Lawrence, Mass., is [illegible] with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

Motor vehicle operators here have receive dforms on which to make renewal applications for their licenses. Operators' licenses expire on February 28.

A meeting was held last Friday evening in the chapel of the Congregational church to hear and act on the report of a special committee which was appointed at the annual meeting of the church. The committee reported in favor of the establishment of a community church.

The meeting passed a resolution to the effect that the members "believe that the establishment of a community church in Brooklyn would more adequately express our common desire and purpose in the [illegible] of Christ's kingdom and we do consider that any one denominational church can function in such a manner as to render the highest service and that we therefore [illegible] as per asking for the signatures of those sympathetic with the plan of a community church, and, that we close our church and cease our activities when a community church is organized, and, that we express our willingness to worship, in any building the community church when organized may select."

Rev. John R. Pratt notified the church of his intention to resign as soon as a community church was organized in order to give the new organization an opportunity to choose its own pastor.

There are now some eight hundred community churches in the United States and many communities unable to support several active churches are organizing in this way. In a community church the people of all denominational faiths find a church home. The requirements for membership in no wise conflict with doctrinal beliefs.

A community church in what Brooklyn has needed for some time. It is hoped that the present plan will meet with favor.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Rheuma—The One Safe and Quick-Acting Remedy for Rheumatism, Gout and Sciatica. Money Back If It Doesn't Satisfy.

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of [illegible] and remedies of the torturing pain, caused the swollen joints; cleaned away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and be of use to themselves and their families.

That tool, Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, arthritis, gout and chronic neuralgia.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few hours after beginning the treatment that the poisonous uric acid is leaving your system through the natural channels. You will feel better in a day; you will know you are going to be helped in less than a week.

Don't think because Rheuma is not expensive that it won't bring you back to health. There is no guess work about it. That's why Lee & Osgood Co. and good druggists everywhere sell it with guarantee of money back if it does not give quick and blessed relief almost at once.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfils almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

PUTNAM

Deeds transferring property of the Nightingale-Morse mills in this city to The Adams Manufacturing company of North Scituate, R. I., have just been passed and filed for recording, completing a deal that is of potentially vast interest to Putnam in an industrial way.

The transfer includes two mills that have been idle for something more than a year, 40 tenements and other property, including land.

Eventually this deal will bring to Putnam a new industrial concern, but one long established and well known to the trade. The Adams company manufactures crinoline, buckram, material for covering shade grown tobacco and other such products.

Textile publications recently carried stories to the effect that the Adams concern is to build a weave shed on its newly acquired property here during the present year.

The company is continuing in business in the Rhode Island location from which it will be forced to move through operations connected with the building up of a tremendous reservoir, covering scores of square miles of territory, to supply water for the city of Providence. The covering [illegible] of operations will [illegible] many changes such as that to occur for the Adams company.

Wednesday morning the funeral of Mrs. Addie (Lavigne) Lamothe was held from her home with funeral services at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Mrs. Lamothe was 42 years of age and a native of Canada. Her death occurred at the hospital. She is survived by her husband.

The assessors have completed their work of compiling the grand list, the total being $6,676,482. Exempt property tax amount to $3,594,500 and soldiers' property exempt $36,712, making the net grand list $3,824,970, which is slightly less than last year.

Recapitulation

The grand recapitulation showed that there were in town, 1,207 dwelling houses with a total assessed value of $1,648,811; 583 barns, sheds, etc., with a valuation of $114,465; 1,884 house and building lots with a value of $621,886; 171 buildings used for stores, shops, etc., with an assessed valuation of $595,949; thirtynine buildings used for mills, with a valuation of $1,459,820; 11,973.512 acres of land, the total valuation of which was $195,185. Other items under this head showed that there were 261 horses, valued at $15,885. There are 853 automobiles, one for about every tenth inhabitant, the whole having an assessed value of $365,175. Other large totals included [illegible] of $626,881, cables, wires, etc., $100,000, and furniture, etc., $85,000. Other small totals make the grand total $3,924,970.

A nifty contribution signed "M. M. W." that appeared Tuesday morning in Heywood Broun's column in one of New York's big daily papers attracted the attention of a number of Putnam citizens who are satisfied in their own minds that the writer is Malcolm M. Willey, engaged in graduate work the past three years at Columbia university and for a period a member of classes before which Professor Broun lectured.

M. W. M. suggested in Tuesday's contribution that Prof. Broun, now a dramatic critic, view a play some evening from the second balcony, of some one of the big town's theatres to get the different viewpoint of the gallery gods, especially as to stage settings, lighting effects, etc., as "M. M. W." asserts he often does.

Prof. Broun apparently found much of interest in the contribution, for he printed it, and that honor is accorded to only a very small percentage of communications burdening his mail.

Mr. Willey's home is in this city. He is a graduate of Putnam High school and Clark college and comes of a family long engaged in newspaper publishing. Incidentally, he happens to be a very clever writer.

Mrs. Ellen A. Whitmore, whose funeral was held Tuesday, was for many years a member of the Congregational church of this city, teaching among other church activities, in the Sunday school. For years she was secretary of the Windham County home and active visitor for Putnam. She was president of the W. C. T. U. when it was first organized in Putnam and did valuable work toward the establishment of the Day Kinball hospital, which she served for years as a member of the house committee. She also had done valuable work in the interest of the Children's Aid society of Hartford and was a member for years of the state board of charities.

While a resident of Willimantic she became a member of the W. C. T. U., The King's Daughters and other organizations. Funeral Governor Bilkeley appointed her a member of the Board of Woman Managers of the Chicago World's fair in 1892, and she attended as a member of the Connecticut delegation.

Miss Beatrice Chase, Miss Ruth Cohen, Miss Rhea De Coudres, Miss Christine Murray, Joseph Boye, Fosdick Harrison, Michael Maher and Chandler Morse have been selected from 44 competing pupils of Killingly High school to stand final tests to determine which two shall represent the school in a speaking contest to be held at a later date.

Mrs. Alma King, 66, formerly of Goodyear, died here at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Spatcher, of High street. Mrs. King was the widow of George King. The body was removed to Danielson.

William J. Jarvais, deputy of the commissioner of domestic animals, is again engaged with his regular work after being assigned to special duty as a special deputy sheriff, during the past month.

The industrial exhibit at the state armory in Hartford was largely attended. The section occupied by the Connecticut trade and vocational education showed representative types of work done at the various trades, home economic, and agricultural schools throughout the state.

Putnam was represented by participation in the cotton manufacturing [illegible] architectural drafting, and home economics exhibits. Carlton S. Blossom, instructor of textiles in the trade school was in charge of the cotton manufacturing exhibit assisted by James Rose and Wilford Daigle, textile students. A No. 20 Universal Winder taken from the school equipment was set up in the booth and operated throughout the week. This machine in operation stimulated interest, attracted attention, and inquiry into the various phases of cotton manufacturing, materials used and methods employed.

As a means of illustrating and answering these questions a complete showing of the various processes in cotton manufacturing from the raw cotton bolls to the finished cloth in a variety of patterns was shown.

Types of academic study as related to these processes were also shown as part of the students' experience in acquiring knowledge of the textile trade at the school.

The architectural drafting exhibit was included in the drafting booth which was in charge of the Torrington school. Herbert Erickson, Sarah Woodstock, being delegated as demonstrator of the instruction given in that work.

During their stay in Hartford the boys were quartered at the Y. M. C. A. and returned to their homes on Sunday evening.

Miss Thomas Pease and Miss Edna Peterson conducted, materially to the home economics' exhibit showings from a number of schools in the state. This division was under the supervision of Miss Ella J. Rose, state supervisor of home economics.

NORTH STONINGTON

The officers of the local grange for 1923 were installed at the regular meeting of the grange Friday evening. They are as follows: Master Irving E. Maine; overseer, Harry B. Lewis; lecturer, John B. Perry; steward, Frank W. White; assistant steward, Dudley W. Stewart; chaplain, Rev. O. D. Fisher; treasurer, Charles C. Gray; secretary, Clarence A. Davis; gatekeeper, Clark A. Coop; Ceres, Ruby Swain; Flora, Sarah Gray; Pomona, Carolyn Stedman; lady assistant steward, Lulu G. Thompson.

It was expected that the worthy master of Pomona grange would conduct the installation but as he failed to arrive a past master of the local grange, Calvin L. Thompson, was chosen to act in his place. He was assisted by Mrs. Thompson. After the exercises, sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the women's committee, Mrs. Edgar W. Chapman, chairman.

The Woman's union of the Congregational church held a sewing meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. John D. Avery.

The mortality rate in Massachusetts in 1922 was slightly in excess of the 1921 rate, but lower than the 1920 rate.

COURT SHORTAGES FOR TWO YEARS ARE VOTED AT HOUSE SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, Jan. 31.—The house was called at 11.15 by Speaker Nickerson, prayer being offered by Chaplain Coolidge.

Several bills came back to the house from the senate on disagreeing action in committee assignments. In most of these the house receeded from its former action on concurrence with the senate judiciary committee.

Favorable reports on judicial appointments were read. The rules were suspended and the following were among those favorably acted upon:

Wm. A. Wilcox, judge of town court of Stonington; Wm. Fenner, judge of the town court of Killingly; Charles S. Francis, deputy judge of the town court of Killingly.

A communication from the governor announced the transfer of the Fort Hale property in New Haven to the state of Connecticut. It was voted that the communication be received and that the message and other matter concerning it be referred to the committee on state park and reservations and printed in the journal.

Deficiency Appropriations

The report of the appropriations committee on institutions and department deficiencies for the two years ending June 30, 1923, as printed in the journal was taken from the calendar. As reported by the committee, New London county called sheriff's attendance $6,000; Common Pleas Court, criminal side, $1,000; for Windham county, sheriff's attendance and other expenses, $3,000; board of children in county homes, $3,000. The total of the court expenses in the state was $10,000.

The total of all deficiencies is $575,550.

The bill was explained by Mr. Keith, chairman of the committee. The bill as reported was passed and under suspension of the rules was immediately transmitted to the senate.

All of the judicial appointments on the calendar were referred to judiciary committee and included the following:

An act making appropriations to supply deficiencies in appropriations for the two years ending June 30, 1923, favorable report of the committee on appropriations. J. Moss Ives, judge, Danbury; Samuel A. Davis, deputy judge, Danbury; Thomas F. Welch, judge, Southington; James McPartland, deputy judge, Southington; Geo. H. Jackson, judge, New Milford; Edwin A. Smith, judge, West Haven; William L. Larash, deputy judge, West Haven; Frank H. Foss, judge, Willimantic; Curtis Dean, deputy judge, Willimantic; William B. Boardman, judge, Bridgeport, to fill a vacancy; William B. Boardman, judge, Bridgeport, for the term of two years, ending July 1, 1925; Arthur M. Comley, deputy judge, Bridgeport, to fill a vacancy; Arthur M. Comley, deputy judge, Bridgeport, for the term of two years, ending July 1, 1925; Frederic A. Bartlett, judge, Bridgeport, to fill a vacancy.

The committee on contested elections on the Enfield cases reported in favor of the sitting members and giving Amos D. Bent and Henry I. Bridge, the contestants, permission to withdraw.

Adjournment was made at 12.15 till 11.15 Thursday.

SENATE.

The committee on the judiciary made favorable reports on the following resolutions for the appointment of local judges: William J. Larkin and John F. McGrath, Waterbury; Arthur F. Libby and Henry H. Pettis, Norwich; Bernard E. Higgins and Thomas W. Bryant, Torrington; Samuel Young and James E. Brinkerhoff, Stamford. Tabled for calendar.

Senator Bakewell of the Eighth explained the bill concerning the attendance of children between fourteen and sixteen years at school.

Senator French of the Thirty-second district offered an amendment that the decision should be left to the local school authorities.

On the motion of Senator Bakewell the bill was temporarily tabled.

On the motion of Senator Ells the senate, under suspension of the rules, concurred with the house in indefinitely postponing the resolution ratifying the federal prohibition amendments.

Under suspension of rules the senate concurred with the house in passing a joint resolution that all bills and resolutions carrying with them appropriations shall be referred to the committee on appropriations before April 1.

The committee on insurance has appointed Chairman Doty and House Chairman Meach a sub-committee to look into the matter of allowing the East and West Fire Insurance company, which was heard Tuesday afternoon to incorporate without a limit to the maximum amount of its capital stock. The Travelers Fire Insurance company, whose application for a charter was also heard Tuesday afternoon, has asked for a similar right.

Senator Bakewell called the bill relating to the attendance of school children at school from the table. He accepted the amendment of Senator French by which the authority to determine whether a child should be required to attend school after its sixteenth year was vested in the town school authorities instead of the state board of education. The bill as amended by the amendment of Senator French was then passed by an unanimous vote.

Senator Park of the Twentieth district was appointed on the committee on conference on the bill consolidating the town and borough of Greenwich, the house having referred the matter to the committee on the judiciary and in the senate to the committee on cities and boroughs.

The senate adjourned to Thursday at 11.30.

Explained Teaching Citizenship.

The bill requiring all private elementary schools to teach citizenship was explained by Senator Bakewell, chairman of the legislative committee on education, in the senate today.

Senator Brooks was afraid that the bill would lead to religious and political controversy and it should be more fully considered. He did not think there were any private schools which were worth anything that did not teach citizenship. He asked Senator Bakewell for a further explanation of the bill.

Senator Bakewell said that probably most of the good private schools in the state taught citizenship. He could see no possible source of religious controversy in the bill. The senator was raising a mare's nest. The state board of education was empowered to prepare a form of questions for the private elementary schools, but the schools were not obliged to adopt the form but could devise their own system of teaching citizenship.

Senator Brooks asked the reason for the legislation. Someone was going to be penalized. They should not pass the buck to the parents of the children.

"I cannot see where religion can be mixed up in the question whether Americanization for citizenship shall be taught in public and private schools," said Senator Brooks. He asked if the bill made the teaching of citizenship in high schools compulsory.

Senator Bakewell replied that the bill referred only to elementary schools and that it did not make the teaching of citizenship in high schools compulsory.

Brooks Tries to Amend.

Senator Brooks offered an amendment eliminating the words "public and private."

Senator Pierson asked if the bill applied to county home elementary schools.

Senator Bakewell replied that it did. The senator added that the words objected to by Senator Brooks made the bill more specific.

In reply to Senator McGrath, Senator Bakewell said no one appeared at the committee hearing in opposition to the bill.

Notes.

Governor Templeton announced this afternoon that he planned to appoint former Comptroller Harvey P. Bissell as state fuel administrator to succeed Thomas W. Russell whose resignation of the office became effective today. The governor said he would not formally designate Mr. Bissell for the post until he knew just what form the fuel emergency bill, probably to be passed by the general assembly this week, would take. Governor Templeton wanted to know, before naming the new administrator, how much money, if any, would be made available for expenses of the fuel administration. The governor's statement regarding Mr. Bissell was considered an indication that he planned to appoint one administrator rather than a commission of three.

On suggestion of the committee on appropriations which had been considering the bill providing for the completion of disconnected sections of state highways the bill was referred to the committee on roads, bridges and rivers.

DUTIES ON IMPORTS WILL EXCEED $480,000,000 THIS YEAR

Washington, Jan. 31—(By the A. P.)—Customs officials estimated tonight that duties collected on imports will exceed $480,000,000 in the current fiscal year ending June 30, which would establish a new record for government revenue from that source.

The estimate attracted much attention in official circles, since the new tariff law will affect the collections for nine months of the period. The first three months collections were made under the tariff act of 1913, but receipts in October, November and December, under the higher schedules of the new law, revealed an upward tendency with indications pointing toward a progressive increase in collections in January.

Receipts for twenty-nine days of January, already received by the treasury, totalled $45,309,000, and it was officially predicted that the month's total would exceed $46,000,000. This amount is greater than was collected in any month in 1922, except September, when importers made a vigorous effort to get shipments into the United States before the higher duties of the new law became effective.

The estimate of $480,000,000 in tariff receipts for the 12 months ending June 30, was based largely on the average maintained since the new law went into effect in September. Almost $300,000,000 already has been received, it was said, so the estimate contemplates collections averaging close to $40,000,000 a month for the next five months. The average of the last three months seems to indicate according to officials, that the necessary averages will be maintained.

CROWD SAW BANDIT BEAT WOMAN UNCONSCIOUS

New York, Jan. 31—Broadway, in the vicinity of the seventies, was thrown into a turmoil today by the screams from a crowd of women who stood terrified looking helplessly through the windows of Miss Hattie Frederick's millinery shop while she was being beaten unconscious by a negro bandit. Howard Bowman, a negro, later was arrested, charged with assault and robbery.

Miss Frederick, who had five teeth knocked out, told the police she was alone in her shop when the negro entered and demanded work. When she refused she said he grabbed her pocketbook and started to beat her when she tried to stop him. Her screams attracted the crowd and the negro ran as the police arrived.

Patrolman Galligan chased the robber into a side street and then opened fire with his revolver. The negro, according to the police, darted into a hallway, where he was found hiding under the stairs.

ANDERSON FINANCIAL HEARING POSTPONED

New York, Jan. 31—The inquiry by the district attorney's office into the financial affairs of William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the anti-saloon league of New York, was adjourned this afternoon until Friday, at the request of Anderson's counsel. Acting district attorney Pecora announced, however, he would continue tomorrow his examination of the league's books and ledgers.

In requesting adjournment, Anderson and his counsel, J Arthur Leve, said they wished to appear tomorrow at Albany before Judge Stanley at a hearing on an order sought by Colonel Ransom Gillette, attorney for the national association against prohibitions, which asks to have the league's contributions for political purposes made public.

Anderson and Miss Mary Hill, formerly employed as a bookkeeper for the league and now assistant treasurer of the organization, were questioned by Mr. Pecora for nearly three hours. Miss Hall was asked to explain entries in the books of the league, which the two had brought with them, Mr. Pecora said.

LANGLEY FIELD BANDITS TO BE COURTMARTIALED

Newport News, Va., Jan. 31—Corporals John S. Wood and James Harvey of the fifty-eighth service squadron at Langley field, will be tried by court-martial on charges of stealing the post's payroll of $43,000 yesterday after kidnapping Captain Norman D. Cota, chief finance officer, his assistant and two guards in front of a bank at Hampton, it was announced tonight.

Wood and Harvey, who were identified by the captain and his four companions, as the men who held up the pay party, are alleged to have told a board of inquiry appointed by the post commandant today that "life was not worth living the way things were going with us, and we decided to get some money and have one real fling or get killed in the attempt."

All except $2,789 of the $43,000 had been recovered tonight, and the accused corporals are said to have expressed the opinion that the money was lost while they were dodging the posses.

AN ULTIMATUM TO BE SENT TO LITHUANIA

Paris, Jan. 31—(By the A. P.)—A strong note, equivalent to an ultimatum, was approved by the council of ambassadors today and will be sent to Lithuania demanding that within a fixed time all the Lithuanian troops and irregulars be withdrawn from the Baltic district of Memel, the former German territory now under allied protection, recently invaded.

The note also will demand that the present insurgent government be dissolved and that inter-allied authority be re-established over the Memel area.

The details of the allied note have not been made public, but it is understood it threatens forcible action if Lithuania does not comply with the demands. It is known that both France and England would dislike to embark in any new military ventures, however small, but the situation at Memel has been considered extremely serious.

NO TRUTH IN YOUTH'S STORY ABOUT DRUGS

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 31—Charges of George Roth, 18 year old Lane Technical High school student, who shot himself early today, that drugs were being peddled to students at the high school were declared to be without foundation tonight by government investigators attached to the federal anti-narcotic squad.

Young Roth, who shot himself at an elevated railroad station, left a note to his parents asserting that he had fired the shot because he had become a victim of drugs.

Tonight, according to hospital internes, he admitted that his story was untrue. Doctors said they found no trace of drugs after examining him.

HOUSE HAS PASSED THE RADIO CONTROL BILL

Washington, Jan. 31—The federal radio control bill, vesting broad powers in the department of commerce for regulation and supervision of all phases of wireless telegraph and telegraph and telephone communication, was passed today by the house.

The bill is intended to bring order out of the chaos in the air as the result of thousands of stations competing on similar wave lengths. Licenses would be required from all the transmitting operators, except government employes, and the secretary of commerce would assign wave lengths to various stations and supervise, where necessary, their sending periods.

A section of the bill dealing with possible monopolies of the wireless business of the nation, vests in the secretary the power to refuse or revoke licenses where a monopoly is threatened.

Army, navy and all other government stations, although exempt from the licensing provisions, would be required to conform to the rules when handling commercial or other non-governmental business. The assigning of wave lengths for the governmental plants would be in the hands of the president.

The bill provides for an advisory committee consisting of men appointed by various department heads, radio experts and amateurs, to keep abreast of development and needs of the wireless industry.

Amateur receiving stations would not be affected by the bill and amateur transmitters would have a special series of wave lengths set aside for them.

Although designed to deal with all branches of th eradio art, the necessity for legislation is said to have been brought about by the rapid growth of broadcasting, which has caused indescribable confusion in the air.

EDSEL FORD INSPECTED HOG ISLAND SHIPYARDS

Washington, Jan. 31—Shipping board officials revealed tonight that Edsel Ford, son of the Detroit automobile manufacturer, had inspected the shipyards at Hog Island, Penn., which have been offered for sale by the government and had shown interest as a prospective purchaser of part of the 950 acre project. Mr. Ford was said to have indicated interest in a 60 acre tract.

The shipping board recently sent out letters of inquiry to business and industrial interests asking for proposals from those who might be interested in the Hog Island yards. One of these, it was said, was sent to Mr. Ford who arrived at Hog Island soon afterwards and personally inspected the property.

The land and permanent improvements made by the government during the war cost about $15,000,000. The property today, in the opinion of shipping board officials, has increased in value and they said they expected to receive more than the ground and improvements originally cost. It was made clear, in this connection, that the $15,000,000 figure did not include the cost of the ship ways and other expensive construction work which the government laid down on a most extensive scale during the war.

Warren Peckham returned last week from the Day Kimball hospital, where he has been a patient since Thanksgiving day. He had a severe case of appendicitis.

Annette May is spending a week with her cousins, Beatrice and Sarah Healey, during the absence of Mrs. Healey, who is visiting her daughter Maud in Bridgeport.

A social was held last Thursday evening by members of Dr. Pike's class of ladies. The attendance was 90. A fine supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Dodge, Mrs. H. D. Baker and Mrs. George Wetherell. The program was given by ladies from Dudley church and consisted of recitations, readings, piano solo and a short farce.

W. E. Hammond died last week Thursday in Gansvoort, N. Y., where he had gone to spend the winter. His death was caused by acute Bright's disease. He had suffered from a heart affection for several months past. Mr. Hammond was born in West Woodstock 75 years ago and for more than 40 years had been a resident of this village. He was the son of Deacon Ezra Hammond, who lived to the age of 101 years and 1 month. His wife, who was Miss Harriett Sessions, survives him. There are also two nieces, Mrs. Gertrude Miller of Springfield, Mass., and Mrs. George Phillips of this place, and three cousins, Milton Hammond, Mrs. Marshall Frost and Mrs. Prentice Morse. The funeral was held in Gansvoort and burial will take place in the spring in the Sessions lot in Union. Mr. Hammond was a member of the Congregational church here.

Mrs. George Neely returned Monday from the Day Kimball hospital, where she went for treatment.

Fiery, Itchy Eczema Healed Right Up By Applying Sulphur

Any breaking of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, Jan. 31.—The reactionary tendency of prices in today's stock market, which reflected speculative disappointment over the quarterly report of the U. S. Steel Corporation, was abruptly halted by the announcement of the British cabinet's acceptance of the American debt refunding commission's terms. This announcement generally regarded as one of the most constructive developments that the market has witnessed in recent weeks, brought about rallies in the stock, bond and foreign exchange markets.

Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank, characterised it as "the most encouraging news that the business world has received in a long time," adding that "the importance of the decision in its constructive value can hardly be overestimated." Similar opinions were expressed by other international bankers.

In the stock market, a number of issues rallied 1 to 2 points but trading slackened perceptibly when call money was marked up from 4 1-2 to 5 per cent. Prices, however, held steady until just before the close when a further break in Fisher Body to 156 1-2, off 13 1-2 points from last night's close, and heavy selling of Chandler Motors, which broke 3 points, caused further unsettlement in the general list. Failure of the debt announcement to bring about a greater response undoubtedly influenced the resumption of bear pressure and realizing sales.

Early selling pressure against the steel shares carried U. S. Steel common down to 104, the lowest price this year. It closed at 104 1-2, where it was off 1 1-8 on the day.

Failure of the steel corporation to make a better showing in the last quarter was ascribed by some market observers as due to the large sum charged off for depreciation and the fact that a number of subsidiary companies had been at work on low prices business contracted for in the early spring and summer. Contrary to some independents, it was pointed out that the steel corporation did not accept premiums for early deliveries but filled orders in the order of their ecipt. Republic Steel dropped 1 1-8 points and Crucible and Sloss Sheeffld, 1 each, but the other shares in that group showed only fractional changes. equipments also were heavy. Baldwin, American and Lima Locomotives yielding 1 to 1 1-2 points.

California Petroleum was active on overnight announcement that the common had been placed on a $7 dividend basis. The stock touched 78 5-8 but reacted later to 77 1-2, where it was up 3-4 on the day. Pacific Oil and Standard Oil of California also had brief periods of strength but each closed fractionally lower. More foreign selling of Royal Dutch carried it down to 42 1-2 but it recovered to 43 1-4 where it was off 2 1-2 on the day. U. S. Rubber dropped 1 1-8 cents on quotations of crude rubber at 34 cents a pound as compared with 37 last week. Selling of Chandler and some of the other motors was in sympathy with the weakness of Durant Motors, on the curb, which broke 14 points. Maintenance of the $10 dividend on Studebaker was what Wall Street expected, the stock closing at 114 1-4, last night's final figure. Fisher Body rallied at the close to 160.

Most of the rails turned heavy with the industrials but losses were generally limited to fractions. Brooklyn Union Gas was one of the few strong spots.

Foreign exchanges recovered sharply on the debt news. Demand sterling opened at $4.64 1-4, dropped to $4.63 5-8 and rallied to $4.65 3-16. French francs sold as low as 5.77, or only 7 points above their extreme low of November 1920, and then jumped to 5.97. German marks sold as low as .0020 cents and then rallied to .0026.

The time money market was quiet, a few short term loans being arranged at 4 1-2 and the longer maturities at 4 3-4. Commercial Paper held steady with the bulk of the prime commanding 4 1-2 per cent.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Jan 31.—The sharp recovery of foreign bonds on the announcement that the British cabinet had accepted America's debt funding terms was the feature of today's more active bond market.

French 7 1-2s and 8s recovered 2 1-4 and 1 3-4 points, respectively, while Seine 7s were pushed up 3 1-8 points. Czecho-Slovakian 8s, 3, and Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s, 2 3-8. Other active French and Belgian issues gained 1 to 1 1-2 points. Swiss municipal bonds were heavy, Berne 8s and Zurich 8s each yielding about a point.

Mixed changes prevailed in the general list, virtually all of the active railroad mortgages, except New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s, which improved 1 point, losing ground. Losses of a point or so were established by New Haven 6s, "Katy" Adjustment 5s, International & Great Northern Adjustment 6 certificates and St. Paul Refunding 4 1-2s, profit taking being largely responsible.

Despite the heaviness of steel stocks, Lackawanna Steel 5s of 1950 and Bethlehem Steel Refunding 8s each gained at least a point. Montana power 5s also were moderately strong but Remington Arms 6s and Chile Copper 7s were relatively backward.

U. S. government securities were reactionary. The new 4 1-4s advanced 2 cents on $100 but the other active issues showed losses of 2 to 14 cents.

Total sales (par value) were $11,082,600.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 31.—Expected large shipments to Europe from Argentina and other competing countries had a good deal to do today with bringing about a setback here in the price of wheat. Closing quotations were unsettled 1-4 cent to 1-2c net lower with May 1.16 7-8 to 1.17 and July 1.11 7-8 to 1.12. Corn finished unchanged to 1-4 cent higher, oats at 1-4c decline to 1-8c@1-4c advance and provisions exactly the same as yesterday's close.

Lower quotations at Liverpool gave particular emphasis to reports of prospective heavy world shipments of wheat and to assertions that Argentina especially was offering wheat much cheaper than the grain was being tendered from the United States. Besides the decline at Livepool was directly in the face of a material advance here yesterday. With no signs apparent of an important export business developing in this country and with rains visiting most of the domestic winter crop belt, commission houses were free sellers at times, and the market fell to the lowest level of the day before.

Something of a recovery which took place in wheat values during the last half of the day appeared to be due chiefly to closing out-spreads —buying here against sales at Winnipeg. British acceptance of the tentative terms of the United States regarding payment of war debts by Great Britain was also a factor inspiring a little more confidence on the bull side of the market. In addition, shippers here said that milling inquiry for wheat was better. Upturns in price, however, failed to hold well at the finish.

Scantiness of receipts here and continued need of rain in Argentina gave strength to the corn market. Oats followed corn. Slackening of export demand offset in the provision market the effect of higher quotations on hogs.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster WITHOUT the blister. You just apply it with the fingers. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu." 35c and 65c, jars and tubes.

BUSINESS: The Connecticut Light and Power Company supplies electric light and power to a population of about 300,000 in an important industrial section of Connecticut, including the cities of Waterbury, New Britain, Meriden and Wallingford, and the Naugatuck Valley District. The management of the Company is progressive and has demonstrated its ability to keep step with the growning demands of territory.

PROPERTY: The Company owns and operates two hydro-electric properties with an aggregate capacity of 34,600 h. p., 86 miles of high tension transmission lines and various important substations. In addition the Company operates on a 999 year lease a steam electric generating station at Waterbury of 33,000 h. p. capacity and 34 miles of transmission lines. A new tide water steam electric generating station is being constructed at Devon, Connecticut, which as now planned will have an initial installation of three units having an aggregate capacity of 100,000 h. p., thus more than doubling the company's present plant capacity. The construction program includes also about 75 miles of high tension steel tower transmission lines as well as the necessary substations to connect the new Devon power station with the Company's distribution systems. The Company has already contracted for the sale and delivery of a large amount of the power which will be available upon the completion of the Devon Station.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The present issue of $4,500,000 7% Preferred Stock and $2,500,000 Second Preferred Stock is for the purpose of retiring floating indebtedness and carrying on construction program of the Company. The Second Preferred Stock will be paid for in cash at par, thus providing substantial additional equity behind the present Preferred Stock.

EARNINGS: Net earnings available for dividends during the 12 months period ended October 31, 1922, amounted to over 3 times the dividend requirements on the Preferred Stock outstanding during that period, and over 1½ times the dividend requirements on the total $8,500,000 Preferred Stock including this issue, without consideration of the increased earnings which will result from the new plant, for the partial cost of which this Preferred Stock is now being issued.

ASSETS: Total net assets after deducting all liabilities and reserves as of October 31, 1922, after giving effect to the present financing amounted to $226.51 per share of Preferred Stock.

PROTECTIVE FEATURES: The Preferred Stock is protected by carefully drawn provisions safeguarding the interest of the Preferred Stockholders in the event of further issue of Preferred Stock or the creation of other classes of stock or indebtedness having priority over this issue. For a summary of these provisions we refer to letter of the Vice President of the Company.

LEGALITY: All legal matters in connection with this issue will be approved by Messrs. Ropes, Gray, Boyden, & Perkins, of Boston.

We offer this stock when, as and if issued and received by us, about Feb. 15, 1923, ex March 1st dividend.

MONTVILLE

The entertainment given by the Uncasville Methodist Sunday school on Thursday evening at Schoolhouse hall was a great success, being exceptionally well rendered and clearing a profit of over $40. Much credit is due Miss Myrtlene Gessner, under whose direction the affair was arranged. The entertainment opened with a selection by the orchestra, which was composed of home talent, with Herbert Perry (leader), violin; Charlotte Brooks, violin; Mr. Brooks, violin; Wallace Potter and Mr. Rockafellow, cornets; Mr. Dunn, banjo; Mr. Brooks, piano. This was followed by a playlet with 12 girls and two boys, entitled Miss Mary's Garden, the little girls wearing white caps to represent flowers in the garden, making a pretty sight. Then followed a piano solo by little Burton Hall of Norwich, a nephew of Mrs. A. W. Avery of Hill Top, rendered in such a remarkable manner as to cause encore after encore. He is an unusually talented boy, playing the most difficult music. The next was a pantomime and song, Sweet and Low, song by Miss Mary Burlake, pantomime by Elizabeth Kellogg. Song by primary boys; solo, Miss Arzelia Newton; recitation; A Frog, Lewellyn Potter; selection, orchestra; a finely rendered reading by Miss Henrietta Gridley; solo, Mrs. Robert Townsend; piano solo, Burton Hall; a very interesting pantomime entitled Girls of the West, by Myrtlene Gessner, Miss Manning, Charlotte Brooks, Lester Dart, Austin Kellogg and Lawrence Jerome. The music by the orchestra was exceptionally fine, and the children and all who helped in the entertainment deserve great credit.

At the Union Baptist church Sunday evening Rev. Charles Albertus, evangelist, from New York city, gave a very interesting address on the topic from Prison to Pulpit, telling his experience of how he went to state prison for ten years when a young man, through being a companion of a young man three years older, who obtained money under false pretenses. Mr. Albertus was converted in the prison through hearing a band of children singing. Rev. Mr. Albertus was accompanied at the church by a lady, Rev. Howe, a daughter of a Yale college professor, who also gave an address testifying that she knew that Rev. Albertus not only professed religion but lived it as well, as he had been with them since leaving the prison in 1919.

Mrs. Mahalia Rudd Ritchie and Peter Seymour, both of Palmertown, were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage in Uncasville by Rev. Mr. Borden of Quaker Hill on Dec. 24th, Rev. Charles Smith and Mr. Seymour, son of the bridegroom, acting as witnesses.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Union Baptist church, which was postponed last week on account of the all-day missionary meeting held at the Central Baptist church, Norwich, will be held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Chapel.

Those who attended the missionary meeting on Friday at the Central Baptist church from the Union Baptist church were Rev. and Mrs. John H. Stearns, Mrs. Fred Chapel, Mrs. Ray Woodmansee, Mrs. C. B. Burgess, Mrs. Edward Everett, Mrs. James Everett, Mrs. Thomas Church and Mrs. F. J. Hope.

Among those who attended the McKinley banquet at Waterbury Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Sullivan, Dan D. Home, George H. Bradford, Harry Auwood, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Dart and Fred Perkins. The party made the trip by auto, going by way of New Haven, and returning on Sunday by way of Middletown and Southington, and stopping at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Sullivan, where a dinner was enjoyed.

Mrs. Reuben Bolles and Mrs. Burke Hewitt will entertain the Ladies' Aid of the Uncasville Methodist church on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Bolles.

YANTIC

W. W. Bentley has resumed cutting ice on his pond on the Fitchville road. His icehouse was two-thirds full when he stopped cutting last month.

A great deal of wood is being delivered to the villagers this year. They have bought much more wood this year than coal on account of the shortage and poor deliveries. Most of the wood is fine grade birch, oak and hickory.

The well babies conference which was held in Parish hall Friday afternoon by the public health nursing department of the United Workers, and conducted by Miss Katherine Mackenzie, assisted by Miss Murphy, was very well attended considering the stormy weather and icy walking.

Over a dozen mothers ventured out with their babies and were well repaid for the effort, as in many instances the suggestions for care and proper feeding just at this particular time was most welcome.

The next meeting will be held Friday, Feb. 9, and the measuring and weighing of children as well as good health suggestions will be continued.

The dance held Thursday evening in Fire Engine hall was well attended. The music was furnished by the Philharmonic orchestra.

Miss Mary Curry has returned to South Norwalk after spending the past week at her home here.

PLAINFIELD

Miss Sarah Spalding has been suffering from a cold

Reports are coming in that large flocks of quail are appearing along the country roads, showing that they have been able to survive the severe winter thus far, due, no doubt, to the fact that many are feeding them at regular stations. Last week Arthur H. Mathewson saw in one day three large flocks along the roads.

The neighborhood meetings being held each week are well attended and much enjoyed. The one last week was held at the home of John Inglis and was led by Miss Adelaide Prentiss; Miss Helen Gallup pianist. The meeting this week was at the home of Roy Barstow and was led by Fred Lyon; Mr. Barstow, pianist.

The Center of Vision, a landscape, is on either side, and figures are seen walking on two tracks—one track of imperfect construction and the other a perfect track. The figures are ingeniously constructed and the whole thing is very attractive.

William Watson, the local R. F. D. carrier, got the fox that has been puzzling local hunters all winter. While local hunters have been sending to Maine and Kentucky for the best dogs obtainable, William just borrowed a pup, home bred, from Amos Phillips, and after work took a stroll. In just one hour he covered nearly five miles and returned with the much sought fox.

SUES FOR $3,000 DAMAGES FOR SLANDER IN BEING CALLED THIEF

A slander suit for $3,000 damages was on trial in the superior court here Wednesday afternoon between Michael J. Murphy of New London against Henry J. Howard of the same city on the charge that Howard said of Murphy: "He stole lumber of those premises. He is a thief."

The men are next door neighbors, living on Jefferson avenue near dwellings erected by the Housing corporation, from whose premises Howard testified that he saw Murphy take lumber which was put into the cellar of the Murphy house late in the ... of Jan. 15, 1919.

Murphy was first put on the stand by his attorney, G. Curtis Morgan. The ... testified that Howard spoke ... complained of in the presence of Edward W. Daniels, who was ... of the Housing corporation.

... examination by Attorney C. ... counsel for the defendant ... told of an incident when ... two families got into a ... and he went out to stop them ... after his wife had tried. He said that ... was feeding Mrs. Murphy by ... and that he punched Howard ... three times in the face.

... W. Daniels, of New London ... siding witness for the ... testifying to the fact that he ... the slanderous words spoken.

... plaintiff rested. Attorney ... the defendant on the stand. ... witness corroborated ... testimony of the plaintiff ... in some cases in exact ... language. The declaration ... amended to tell nothing ... and the whole truth in the course of his testimony he reached a point where he said he could talk ... and to sit still, but when he ... leap from the witness chair ... what he said he saw Murphy ... with the lumber. Judge ... called him back and advised ... to leave out the "diplomatic" ... and testified that just as he ... start down to supper about ... the afternoon of Jan. 15, ... he heard a noise outside the house and when he and his wife looked out through the pantry window they saw Murphy carrying lumber from the housing company property into Murphy's yard, where he threw it down and later moved it into the cellar of the Murphy house.

Howard said he reported this to the watchman at the housing property and that four days later Mr. Daniels came to the Howard house to investigate. Howard said he went outside his house to talk to Daniels, from where he shouted to Howard, "You damn pup, I will fix you for that this time." He denied that he ever called Murphy a thief.

Mrs. Howard corroborated her husband's statement about seeing Murphy carrying the lumber. She said she saw Murphy go four or five times over the wall after lumber. She caught the words "miserable homely pup" spoken in Murphy's voice and addressed to her husband.

W. H. Mossbroker of New London was introduced as a character witness for Howard, but Judge Brown sustained Attorney Morgan's objection to testimony along this line.

In rebuttal testimony Murphy denied that he called Howard a pup and denied that he ever took any lumber from the housing corporation property.

What he did say to Howard, he testified was, "I've stood this long enough. You've dragged me down to the dirt and I'm going to stop it."

Attorney Morgan began his argument for the plaintiff at 4:25 o'clock. The case will be concluded when court comes in this (Thursday) morning at 10 o'clock.

Another slander action, ... the complaint, which ... pressed is that in July, 1918, Howard said of Murphy in the hearing of Michael and Nellie Devine: "He is a thief. He stole my potatoes."

BILL TO PROVIDE FOR LONGER SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

The following bill concerning the school attendance of children between 14 and 16 has been presented in the legislature and has been reported upon by the senate committee on education that it ought to pass:

Section 837 of the general statutes is amended to read as follows: Whenever the school visitors, town school committee or board of education of any town or district shall by vote decide or whenever the state board of education shall determine that a child over fourteen and under sixteen years of age has not sufficient to warrant his leaving school to be employed and shall so notify the parent or guardian of said child in writing, the parent or guardian of said child shall cause him to attend school regularly during the days and hours that the public school in the district in which said parent or guardian resides is in session, and until the parent or guardian of said child has obtained from said board of school visitors, town school committee or board of education, or from the state board of education, if the notice shall have been given by the said state board of education, a lawful certificate stating that the education of said child is satisfactory to said visitors, town school committee or board of education, or to said state board of education, as the case may be; provided said parent or guardian shall not be required to cause his child to attend school after the child is sixteen years of age or if its mental or physical condition is such as to render its instruction inexpedient or impracticable, as may be determined by the state board of education. Each week's failure on the part of a person to comply with the provisions of this section shall be a distinct offense, punishable by a fine not exceeding five dollars and the provisions of section 838 shall be applicable to all proceedings under this section.

WANTS ONE STATE ATTORNEY TO COVER TWO COUNTIES

A bill providing for but one state attorney for New London and Middlesex counties has been introduced in the house of representatives by Representative Brainard of Branford. The bill would make the salary of the state attorney of these two counties $6,000. The salary of the state attorney for New London county at present is $3,300 and that of the state attorney for Middlesex county is $1,700. The bill also prohibits the state attorneys and their assistants from engaging in civil practice while holding office.

Prosecuting attorneys and judges in the superior or common plea court would be forbidden by statute to confer or consult with each other in a criminal case before the presentation of the case in open court, unless in the presence of the accused or his attorney, under the provisions of another bill introduced by Representative Brainard. On written complaint against a prosecuting officer charging him with violation of this act, the governor would be required to hold a hearing and if he found the man guilty he could remove him. Judges violating the act would be liable to impeachment proceedings.

Still another bill introduced by Representative Brainard regarding state's attorneys provides that they be appointed for two years from July 1 by the governor instead of by the judges of the superior court as is now the procedure.

The first bill by Representative Brainard provides for a change in the jurisdiction of state attorneys, reducing the number of state attorneys from nine to six. The Waterbury district would be combined with Litchfield county, and Tolland and Windham and New London and Middlesex counties could be grouped together. The bill also would prohibit state attorneys and their assistants engaging in civil practice while holding office as state attorney and would accordingly increase their salaries to the following figures: Hartford county, $7,500; New Haven county, $10,000; Fairfield county, $6,000; Litchfield county and the district of Waterbury, $5,000; Windham and Tolland counties, $4,000; Middlesex and New London counties, $5,000. The assistant state attorneys' salaries are proposed as follows: Hartford county, $2,500; New Haven county, $2,000; Fairfield county, $2,000; Litchfield county and Waterbury, $1,000; Windham and Tolland counties, $1,000, and Middlesex and New London counties $1,000.

COULD NOT AGREE ON HAND SIGNALS FOR DRIVERS

Automobile drivers' hand signals will still mean one thing in Portland, Me., and another in Baltimore, Md., despite an effort of some of the New England and middle Atlantic state motor vehicle commissioners and their deputies to have adopted a uniform code of motions at a conference of the officials, Saturday, in Newark, N. J., attended by Commissioner R. B. Stoeckel of this state.

Commissioners and their deputies from several states failed to agree upon a standardization of the customary signals at the Newark session, and the project has been dropped for the present at least.

Another thing upon which the commissioners and their deputies failed to agree was the eligibility of deaf and dumb persons to operate motor cars. Connecticut and Massachusetts held out for individual treatment of the applications, while the New Jersey and Pennsylvania commissioners felt differently. New Jersey, for instance, prohibiting driving of cars by deaf men, while Pennsylvania is very strict about applications from persons so afflicted.

Two net results of the meeting of the new motor vehicle administrators' conference, as the association is known, were resolutions favoring standardization of weights and measurements of automobile truck loads and the issuance of approved standardized lists of headlight devices for the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland, which are represented in the body. Commissioner Frank A. Goodwin of Massachusetts, Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of Connecticut and Commissioner Bert Lord of New York state comprise a committee which hopes to bring about this uniformity.

This committee will publish a list, complying with the latest approved specifications, for use by the commissioners of all of the states in the conference district. Use of this list, it is said, will not prevent some states having individual regulations which might amplify the action of the others.

To have adopted the hand signals proposed as uniform at the meeting would have meant that Massachusetts automobile drivers would have to use new motions to make known their intentions to other automobilists.

Connecticut and Massachusetts have flexible rules about the examination of deaf drivers, holding that if deaf people are unusually sharp in their other senses they may be allowed to have licenses, while the New Jersey state authorities are unalterably opposed to such exceptions.

Matters relative to uniform examination of drivers, applications for deaf and dumb persons were tabled by the session.

One of the most constructive schemes yet advanced by a member of the conference is that of Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of Hartford that "conference" registrations be issued to vacationists, good for 30-day periods in any of the New England and middle Atlantic states.

Some effort had been made in the conference towards the adoption of the new Massachusetts tail light regulations by all of the states, but it was generally felt that the acquiescence of the manufacturers with the law in Massachusetts will have an immediate effect upon the other states.

Effort was made a short time ago to have the age limits for applicants for drivers' licenses, but opinion varied and it was dropped.

PROPOSES NO DRASTIC AUTO LAW CHANGES

Robbins B. Stoeckel, state commissioner of motor vehicles, attended a special luncheon meeting of the board of governors of the Automobile club of New Haven at the Union League this week and talked interestingly for nearly an hour concerning the legislative programme as it affects the motorists of the state.

Mr. Stoeckel stated that so far as his office is concerned no drastic changes in the general motor vehicle laws are contemplated. He said that a few amendments had been presented, but these are intended to clarify certain sections of the law and that an effort will be made to repeal certain provisions which have been found useless or worse.

The commissioner spoke in a general way of legislation which is intended to remove certain inequalities in the registration fees of different classes of motor cars by way of treating fairly those who, it seems to the commissioner, now pay an unequal rate for the limited use they make of their motor equipment. He said that about $4,000,000 is being raised annually in the motor department and of this about $3,500,000 is applied to the improvement and maintenance of the state highways.

PAST EXALTED RULERS WILL INITIATE CLASS

Norwich Elks will gather tonight (Thursday) at the home on Main street for one of the special nights of the lodge year. The first meeting in the month of February has been set aside by the grand lodge to be known as Past Exalted Rulers' night and is officially celebrated in every lodge room throughout the country. The past exalted rulers of the various lodges are given charge of the lodge on that night and conduct the ritualistic ceremonies.

There is always a large gathering on that night as the "old timers" always feel that they can handle the initiation in a much more impressive manner than their successors and they always endeavor to just make the most of their one night.

Tonight the services of Norwich lodge will be conducted by the following past exalted rulers: James J. Casey, Thomas R. Craney, James McCormick, James Purdon, John Carney and Lawrence E. Millea.

There is a large class of candidates to be initiated and following the ceremonies there will be a social session at which a lunch will be served.

POSTAL CLERKS TO HOLD NEW LONDON CONVENTION

Final arrangements for the convention of the Connecticut State Federation of Postal Clerks, scheduled to be held in New London February 22, will be concluded this week when a meeting of Local No. 646, National Federation of Postal Clerks, Secretary Joseph N. Cranker of the New London local, in co-operation with the committee appointed to arrange local details has been working on the project for some time past and most of the preliminary details have already been taken care of. Secretary Cranker anticipates that upwards of 60 delegates will be present for the convention, coming from all sections of the state. The New London postal men will be hosts of the visiting delegates and nothing will be left undone to make their visit a memorable one.

HUSBAND IS REPRESENTATIVE, WIFE PROBATE JUDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Archibald Rogers of Salem, New London county, are believed to be the first married couple in Connecticut to be elected to public offices on the same ticket, Mrs. Rogers was sworn in as judge of probate for the district of Salem, January 9, 1923, having been elected to that office last November on the republican ticket with her husband. He was elected representative to the general assembly.

Representative Rogers was born in New London, July 28, 1872. The family moved to Salem when he was 2 years old. There he received his early education at the Ramson district school, now known as the Pond district school on the Hartford turnpike. Later he studied at a private school conducted by the Rev. Warren N. Walden in Plainfield. Following his marriage to Miss Susie (Bailey) Tiffany of Salem, in 1876, he moved to a farm in Montville. The following year he returned to Salem and conducted his father-in-law's farm for three years. He purchased this farm in 1880, but sold it ten years later, buying in its place the Chadwick farm of 150 acres in the central school district. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers make their home there now.

Representative Rogers has been elected to every office in the town of Salem except town clerk and treasurer. He was judge of probate for five years and seven months, holding the office until he reached the age limit, and was compelled to decline renomination.

Mrs. Rogers is a native of Salem, the daughter of the late Charles and Susan Bailey Tiffany. She was clerk of the probate court from November, 1916, to January, 1923. Since her appointment as judge, she has made her husband her successor and together they were sworn in to their respective offices by William C. Fox, notary public, of New London.

Marriage is a lottery and that's why the law interferes in so many cases.

POETRY

AND SO FINDS PEACE.

Much time I am alone, much time in pain.
Then I know illness as a dim, gray ghost,
Elusive, fearful, trailing a dark host
Of monstrous thoughts that beat upon my brain.
And I do battle for I must keep sane.
So I array each happiness I've met,
Of flowers and books, of work, of friends.
—and yet,
My mind is tired and the dark thoughts gain.

And then I turn to you tried friends and dear—
Poems I love, songs which are part of me.
I sing you till my spirit knows release,
Shakes free of every dark and lurking fear.
Grown strong with the sing strong with the sea
Glad that the growing lives and so finds peace.

ORGANIZED LABOR OF GERMANY HAS SENT AN APPEAL TO THE AMERICAN CONGRESS

Message Declares That "American Honor Asserted at This Time Can Save Europe and the World From Inevitable Disaster"—In the Appeal Official and Diplomatic Germany Was Ignored—Workmen in the Ruhr District Have Appealed to the French for Assistance—Only Three Trains Daily Are Reaching the Rhineland From Paris—Cologne Railwaymen Are to Resume Work This Morning.

(By the Associated Press)

The German federations of labor unions call the attention of the American congress to "the condition of servitude" imposed by the Ruhr occupation and the Versailles treaty, and declare that "American honor asserted at this time can save Europe and the world from inevitable disaster."

The pinch of the Franco-Belgian occupation is being severely felt by the German inhabitants of the Ruhr district. Some of the workmen have already appealed to the French for assistance, to keep the plants operating and themselves in food.

At the same time the economic mission in the Ruhr is facing almost insurmountable difficulties in the production of coal and its transportation to France and Belgium.

The exportation of coal and coke to unoccupied Germany is forbidden, and an embargo on other commodities, such as steel, iron and other manufactured articles is threatened.

The railroad tie-up is as complete as ever, but the French are getting adequate supplies for the army. Only three trains daily reach the Rhineland from Paris.

COLOGNE RAILWAY MEN TO RESUME WORK TODAY

Cologne, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.)—An understanding has been reached between the Cologne railway directorate and the interallied railway sub commission that from 6 o'clock tomorrow morning the German railwaymen will resume work throughout the area administered by the Cologne directorate.

L. OF N. COUNCIL VOTES DOWN GERMAN PROTEST

Paris, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.)—The council of the league of nations today in secret session held as temporarily necessary the retirement of French troops and gendarmerie in the Sarre valley. Germany recently protested to the league of nations against the occupation of the troops and gendarmerie there.

APPEAL OF SIX GERMAN INDUSTRIALISTS DISMISSED

Mayence, Feb. 1 (via Berlin).—The court of appeals of the general staff of the French army has dismissed the appeal of the six Ruhr industrialists, including Fritz Thyssen, who recently were convicted by a tribunal of disobeying the orders of the occupation officials and fined.

TALY NOT INVOLVED IN OCCUPATION OF THE RUHR

Rome, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.)—Premier Mussolini at a cabinet council today repeated that Italy was taking no part in the Franco-Belgian political and military measures in the Ruhr, and pledging to prevent possible similar invasion of Hungarian territory, said these gave him opportunity to affirm that Italy did not intend to take any course which might extend the conflict and constitute a breach of existing treaties.

The premier announced that the Baden government had concluded an agreement with Poland regarding coal, and also a commercial treaty with Switzerland.

The cabinet officially approved conventions for three telegraphic cables between Italy and South America, Italy and North America by way of the Azores and Italy and Greece. The two former conventions have been approved by Spain.

ORGANIZED GERMAN LABOR APPEALS TO WASHINGTON

Berlin, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.)—Organized German labor, speaking for more than half the population of the German republic, views the American congress as the logical tribunal to which to address an appeal, declaring that "American honor asserted at this time can save Europe and the world from inevitable disaster."

This is the keynote of a message which was forwarded to Washington this afternoon, covering the signatures of the chairmen of the executive boards of the General Federation of Trade Unions, the Federation of Christian Labor Unions, The League of Clerical Employes and the Independent Federation of Liberal Trade Unions, which embrace a registered membership of twelve million male and female workers.

Labor's action is the direct outcome of apprehensions with which the situation growing out of the occupation of the Ruhr is viewed by the federation leaders, regardless of their political affiliations, and the telegraphic appeal to both houses of congress is a briefly and informally worded message recalling the German workmen's willingness to submit to complete disarmament and their prompt readiness to adopt a democratic constitution in return for the American promise that right and justice should prevail in the post-war adjustments.

The labor leaders assert that their action was undertaken independent of any influence from official sources, which, it was stated, would first learn of the appeal to the American congress in case it was reported back from Washington. Neither has the German press been apprised of the unique presentire.

"We decided to go straight to the official representatives of the American people with our appeal, and preferred to dispense with official or diplomatic intervention," Paul Grassman, vice chairman of the general federation's executive board, informed the Associated Press.

"The message was drafted this morning at a joint session of the executive heads of the four federations, and it represents the feeling of alarm with which labor already is contemplating the situation after three weeks of the Ruhr occupancy. There is something more than the order and organization it is only because the dozen cool-headed men in charge of organized labor's ranks have prevented the workers in all lines from becoming dangerously restive."

The message sent to the American congress by German labor is as follows:

"To the United States Senate and House of Representatives:

"The undersigned federations of labor unions, representing twelve million members, who with their families constitute more than half of Germany's population, again affirm that because of America's positive promise that right and justice shall prevail they substituted democracy, for autocracy, submitted to complete disarmament and gave an unqualified expression of their desire to work for peace and international reconciliation.

"The German loves the pursuit of peaceful professions, but he is equally opposed to being made a slave indefinitely or to having the coming generations of his fellow citizens committed to a system of economic bondage. The Ruhr occupation and the Versailles treaty, however, make such a condition of servitude inevitable. They permanently destroy German and European economics and threaten unemployment for millions of German workers.

"An impartial, but authoritative, survey of the situation will readily establish this fact and will in addition be able to confirm that in the midst of peace, men and women—young and old—are forcibly being exiled from their homes and deported merely because they have refused to become traitors to their country.

"We have been reduced to a ration which is chronically hungry, our infants are wrapped in paper instead of swaddling clothes, while our women and children are succumbing to physical misery.

"This appeal is not an attempt to induce the United States to take an attitude in favor of one or the other of the opposing parties; it is an appeal to the traditional American honor and appreciation of fair play. America, we are sure, did not enter the war for the purpose of annihilating the German people.

"American honor asserted at this time can save Europe and the world from inevitable disaster."

RUN ON ALL BANKS IN THE RHINELAND

Coblenz, Feb. 1.—The panic in paper exchanges has completely disrupted the commercial life of the Rhineland. The runs on the banks which occurred yesterday were not renewed today, when the mark advanced from 40,000 to the dollar to 25,000, but the banks are suffering from a shortage of currency and their directors are scouring the country for bank notes, going into even the unoccupied sections. The Rhineland high commission has so far sought in vain for a solution of these conditions.

RAILWAY STRIKE IS GROWING MORE SERIOUS

Mayence, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.).—The railway strike situation in this district is generally growing more serious, with much damage to rolling stock.

The roundhouse here was burned today, destroying a number of locomotives, and several other engines were ditched.

TO PERMIT TRAFFIC IN FOOD SUPPLIES

Berlin, Feb. 1.—General Degoutte, allied commander-in-chief in the occupied zone, confirmed to Dr. Gruetzner, president of the Rhenish province, the order prohibiting the despatch of coal and coke from the Ruhr to the rest of Germany from today, according to despatches received here, but added that traffic in all other goods would be permitted and that no interference with the food supplies was intended.

AMERICANS ARE MAKING PURCHASES IN COBLENZ

Coblenz, Feb. 1.—Many of the Americans here, as well as the Germans, are engaged in a new spending orgy as a result of the low prices of merchandise, although a number of the stores have been closed. Husbands are joining their wives in buying everything possible for further use.

Grand pianos are selling for $160, shotguns cost only $7, bicycles $10, phonographs $4 and shoes $1 a pair. Automobiles cost only a few hundred.

The amount of German currency received in exchange for American money sometimes makes bulky packages, and one major in the American detachment here was seen to take off his belt to tie up a mass of small bills received in a bank in exchange for $10.

FORMER "DRY" AGENT CHARGED WITH THEFT

Auburn, Me., Feb. 1.—John F. Wood, Jr., until January 17 a prohibition agent under the direction of Seth May, federal prohibition director for Maine, was arrested here today charged with the theft of four one-gallon cans of alcohol. The cans had been stored in the strong room in the basement of the Auburn post office.

An audience that occupied every available seat in the theatre heard the Wagnerian festival company, a group of German opera stars in Baltimore, in their first appearance before American public.

The little settlement of Gay Head, Mass., mourns the death of its most famous citizen, Edwin Defreere Vanderhoop, who was a whaler, a school teacher, a legislator and minister to Haiti.

Administration of the veterans' bureau, for months a subject of bitter controversy, is undergoing an investigation which is expected by some well informed officials in Washington to result in important readjustments.

Figures gathered by the Waterbury chamber of commerce show 13,134 persons employed by seven of the large manufacturing concerns of the city as compared with 12,675 working for the same concerns December 1, 1922.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who has been suffering a slight attack of bronchial trouble at Ormand Beach, Fla., for two days was reported as so much improved that he planned to play golf again today.

Mrs. Mary Rantz Schwab, who thirty years ago visualized America as "the promised land" upon her arrival here from Russia as an immigrant, was sworn in as the first woman to serve in the city attorney's office in San Francisco.

A young man was arrested in New Haven last night on the charge of being the "hugger" who has terrorized young women throughout the city for the past six weeks, during which time almost fifty complaints have been made to the police.

Government purchase of $10,000,000 worth of nitrate and its re-sale to farmers at cost for use in connection with the 1924 crop would be authorized by a bill ordered favorably reported by the house agricultural committee.

Gustave Weber, insurance broker, has been convicted by a jury in general sessions in New York of grand larceny in the first degree, growing out of a lengthy investigation by the district attorney's office of wholesale frauds in automobile insurance.

The city of New Haven was made defendant in a suit filed Wednesday in behalf of the New Haven Teachers' league, to recover salary increases granted in a schedule drawn up in 1919 but denied this year by the board of finance on the grounds that it was not legal.

Allies Have Denied The Russian Request

Will Not Reopen Question Regarding the Straits—Allies Are Determined Upon Demilitarization of the Straits Zones.

Lausanne, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.).—Although such action had been expected, bolshevik Russia's refusal today to sign the Near East peace treaty, setting forth conditions for the opening of the straits of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus and the demilitarization of the straits zones, caused depression in Near East conference circles. M. Tchitcherin, the leading Russian delegate, urged that the whole question with regard to the straits be reopened.

By doing this, the bolshevik foreign minister declared, the allies would repair their fault of seeking to impose upon Russia a treaty which Russia had not had suitable opportunity to discuss. His request was refused by the allies.

The Turks also seized the opportunity to raise objections. Ismet Pasha, their chief representative, complained that the straits convention left Constantinople practically defenseless, since the entire straits region would be demilitarized. He said the extraordinary Turkish forces in Thrace and Constantinople should be limited to 20,000 men. Turkey also wanted the right to establish a garrison at Gallipoli. Ismet warned the conference that Turkish acceptance was connected with acceptance of the general peace treaty.

The Russian delegation tonight distributed the texts of the two addresses made by M. Tchitcherin before the conference today. They show that the Moscow leader charged that the straits convention was "the fruit of clandestine negotiations," but that Russia was ready in the interest of conciliation to make important concessions.

The original project, M. Tchitcherin said, was that the total of all the foreign warships permitted to pass the straits should be equal to that of the strongest fleet in the black sea. Russia deemed that dangerous, because any fleet on the lack sea could be artificially strengthened, and if foreign fleets united with it then the equilibrium of the Black sea would be overthrown. What Russia wanted was that the total foreign tonnage should be restricted to one-fifth the total tonnage of the Black sea states, including Turkey.

When the Russian request to reopen the discussion was refused, M. Tchitcherin charged that the allies had imposed their views on Turkey by an ultimatum and the menace of war. And as for Russia, he added, the allies simply had asked her to sign a blank check, because Russia did not even know the purport of some clauses of the compact which affected her commerce.

Continuing, M. Tchitcherin declared that the convention jeopardized vital interests of Russia, rendered impossible the establishment of a stable peace in the Near East and would impose on Russia and other countries supplementary naval armament which would create an obstacle to the establishment of international peace.

"The Russian delegation," said the bolshevik foreign minister, "places on record its unchangeable opposition both to the treaty and also to the policy of domination and violence of which this project is an expression."

FRENCH NOTES WERE FOR OPEN DOOR AND PEACE

Paris, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.).—The French official explanation of its recent notes to Mustapha Kemal Pasha and to the allies on Near East peace is that France wants to keep the door open for the re-establishment of peace in the Near East, and that this was the sense of the notes to both the Turks and the allies.

To the Turks it was made clear that it was to the interest of Turkey to sign peace on the terms proposed at Lausanne, which Premier Poincare pointed out were extremely moderate. At the same time the premier thought it opportune to make known to the allies that France could no tabandon the right to negotiate direct with Turkey in case the Lausanne conference failed.

The interpretation in London that M. Poincare's action was an encouragement to the Turks to hold out is declared to be erroneous, as nothing in the note to Kemal Pasha gave the right to suppose that France had in mind any subsequent negotiations.

TROUBLE OVER AMERICAN LEGION MAILING LIST

Washington, Feb. 1.—The controversy as to whether friends of William G. McAdoo had obtained a copy of the American Legion mailing list was renewed in the house today, Representative Goodykoontz, republican, West Virginia, declaring he had been unable to get a denial from Legion officers.

Mr. Goodykoontz called attention to reports that a speech by Mr. McAdoo on the bonus and traffic issues had been sent to every member of the legion, and declared that if the mailing list had been furnished by Mr. McAdoo's friends, it was "a bad piece of business," inasmuch as the legion was chartered as a non-political organization.

STRIKE ENDS IN 15 HAVERHILL FACTORIES

Haverhill, Mass., Feb. 1.—The strike in the 15 factories of the Haverhill Toplift Manufacturers' association was called off today when the manufacturers signed an agreement with their employes for 18 months. The employes, numbering 150, will receive the same wages as formerly, the sorters $25 and the cutters $28 a week. The employes had been on strike since January 1, when their old agreements expired and the manufacturers refused to renew except for a six months' period.

NEW MOVE TO HEAD OFF SMUGGLING OF LIQUOR

Washington, Feb. 1.—The treasury made a new move today to head off liquor smuggling. Acting under provisions of the tariff act, Secretary Mellon ordered all port officers hereafter to deny clearance papers to ships entering American ports "in alleged distress" until the masters of such vessels file bonds guaranteeing the production of a certificate of the foreign landing of the liquor cargo.

Three Deaths in the Springfield Explosion

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 1.—Explosion of gas in the purifying plant of the Springfield Gas Light company, wrecking one section of that structure, spread damage widely through the business section today. Three persons were killed and fifty were injured.

Buildings within a radius of two miles were rocked, windows were shattered on all sides, and the city proper tonight presented the appearance of a place bombarded, with some of its finest structures in partial ruin.

Explanation of the explosion was lacking. Officially, the Gas Light company said the cause was undetermined. Arthur S. Hall, works manager and superintendent, said he could account for it only on the theory that a slow leak of gas had caused an accumulation under the roof, and that this gas pocket became ignited in some way, and blew up.

He asserted that the machinery, which constituted most of the plant, was virtually intact and that the damage practically was limited to roof and walls.

All workmen insisted they saw no fire or light before the blast, and Hall said he was seeking an explanation of the ignition in the electrical apparatus.

Estimates of the loss tonight ran from $300,000 to $1,000,000, with indications that it would be nearer the former figure. Fire Chief William Daggett would make no estimate of the damage, nor explanation of the cause, saying both were entirely conjectural as yet.

For the most part, the brunt of the blow fell on business buildings and business interests. But in one section of the riverfront district in which the explosion occurred, a residential district, of tenements and flats, houses were made uninhibitable. Shattered windows, roofs that leaked in the rain of tonight, and in some cases walls that collapsed with the concussion, caused half a hundred families to vacate their homes. Over their abandoned household belongings members of the state constabulary and police kept guard, while four companies of national guardsmen were held under arms in readiness for any emergency.

The dead are:

Henry W. Egnor, a bystander, killed by falling walls; Stanley M. Travinski, a passerby, also struck down by debris; Frank A. Coleman, an employe of the gas works, who was in the building.

The injured were struck down over a wide area. In office buildings, city hall, the courthouse, banks and other places within a radius of two miles persons were hurt, those near the scene by wreckage from the explosion itself, those farther distant by crashing glass, fallen ceilings or dislodged objects. Several automobiles that were in the vicinity when the explosion came were under a bombardment that made occupants unconscious and left the cars partly buried in wreckage.

The city's famous civic group of buildings, the tall Tower of the Campanile flanked by the City hall and the Auditorium, which are about quarter of a mile east of the scene of the explosion, were shaken almost windowless. Memorial hall, more to the south, did not have a whole pane of glass left. The Springfield Institution for Savings, a showy structure, was wrecked when the glass roof caved in. The courthouse was shaken but less severely damaged.

The gas company's offices, the Springfield Electric Light company's building and other places in the vicinity had to shut up shop for the day.

Springfield's attempt to do business as usual after the explosion, which rocked it from the river to the furthest edge, was only partly successful. Ambulances took injured away from buildings in most parts of the city to every available hospital and to the Navaset club, which although near the explosion escaped damage and was converted into a hospital. Either because places of business were wrecked or employes were panicky, or both, employers in many instances found it advisable to call off business for the day.

The purifying structure is about 120 feet long, half as wide, and divided into two sections. That to the east was three ordinary stories high, that to the west about half a story lower. The explosion occurred in the eastern section, forming the southwest corner of State and Water streets.

The section that was the scene of the explosion was badly wrecked. Men who were working in the gangion of pipes and mains came out shaken up, bruised or cut slightly, but with no serious hurts. Coleman who was there was the only employe known to have been killed.

The attention of foremen had been called some time before the explosion to the fact that all was not right with the purifying machinery. The gas produced by the works across the way was conducted through mains to the purifiers, a series of twelve iron oxide filter boxes, the function of which is to eliminate the sulphur and other impurities from the gas before it is metered and fed to the storage tanks in another section of the city.

The plant has as its western limit the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, which lie between it and the Connecticut river. This line, the main route to Hartford, Conn., was blocked for an hour, wreckage of room and walls piling high across the roadbed. By use of switching engines and wrecking crews, the tracks were cleared and traffic restored.

Fire that followed the explosion, or caused it, brought a threat of new peril to the city as it fed on the combustible fumes let loose from the broken mains. But the gas was shut off at once and the flames were brought under control before they spread beyond the purifier.

POPE PERTURBED OVER INTERNATIONAL SITUATION

Rome, Feb. 1.—Pope Pius in a letter to Cardinal Pompili, vicar of Rome, expresses anxiety over the present international situation, which he believes threatens "fresh sorrow, pain and anxiety for humanity."

He requests Cardinal Pompili to urge the faithful to "beseech God to save humanity from fresh tribulations and lead the peoples and governments back to feelings of fraternity and equity."

HAVE AGREED ON PROGRAM FOR FUNDING BRITISH DEBT

American Commission and British Ambassador Geddes Are in Accord—Details Are to be Worked Out Before Submission Saturday to President Harding—Measure Will be Ready for Transmission to Congress Early Next Week—Obstacles Are Looming Up to Its Acceptance in Both Senate and House—Representative Fish Would Entangle Debt Settlement With Soldiers' Bonus—Debt Question Was Bitterly Debated for Two Hours in the Senate Yesterday.

Washington, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.).—The American debt funding commission reached a tentative agreement late today with Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, acting for his government, on the program for funding Great Britain's war-time debt to the United States. Only the mechanics of working details of the program, accepted "in principle" yesterday by the British cabinet, remained to be disposed of tonight, and official spokesmen for the American commission emphasized that disposition of those details undoubtedly would be completed at a meeting of the commission with the British ambassador tomorrow.

The hope was expressed that final action would be taken and the commission's recommendations submitted to the president Saturday, so that he in turn would be ready early next week to transmit them to congress for the action which would convert the tentative settlement into an accomplished fact and mark the first adjustment of any of the World war international debts.

CHILD LABOR GREATEST IN COTTON MANUFACTURE

Boston, Feb. 1.—The cities having the greatest percentage of child labor are also the cities which have the greatest amount of cotton manufacture and they are all located in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, Atherton Brownell of New York, a member of the national child labor committee, declared today in an address before the concluding session of the conference here of republican women of New England and other eastern states.

Urging a federal constitutional amendment which would give congress the necessary power to pass a general child labor law uniform throughout the country, Mr. Brownell said that there is at present a state of competition which is unfair to certain states.

"The city having the undesirable distinction of being the worst in the country with regard to the employment of childre nis Woonsocket, R. I., closely followed by Fall River, Mass.," he said. "Then comes Pawtucket, R. I., and then New Bedford and Lawrence, Mass. All of these cities range more than 17 per cent in child labor. Compare these with the large cities which have no such manufactures and you will find them ranging from 7.2 per cent in Chicago down to less than 3 per cent. in Cleveland. Boston shows 6.4 per cent."

IRISH FREE STATE WILL NOT SURRENDER HOSTAGES

Dublin, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.)—A proclamation issued today by Liam Lynch, republican chief of staff, refusing to surrender hostages under Minister of Defence Mulcahy's threat of punitive measures, throws some doubt upon the reported release by the republicans of Senator John Bagwell, general manager of the Great Northern Railway, who was kidnapped Tuesday night. (A Dublin despatch today said it was officially confirmed that Senator Bagwell had been freed.)

Mr. Lynch's proclamation, after pointing out that 53 officers and men of the republican forces have already been executed by the Free State, says the army is determined that it will no longer suffer its members thus to be dealt with and allow the international usages of war to be violated with impunity.

"Whereas," it concludes, "the army command of the said junta (the Free State government) have issued a proclamation announcing punitive measures against other prisoners in their power if the hostages we have been compelled to take are not set at liberty. We give notices that we shall not give up our hostages, and, if the threatened action is taken, we shall hold every member of the said junta and its so-called parliament—the senate and the other house—and all their executives responsible, and shall certainly visit them with the punishment they deserve."

TEN DEATHS IN STREET CAR RIOTS IN MEXICO CITY

Mexico City, Feb. 1.—(By the A. P.)—At least ten persons were killed and more than fifty wounded in a clash between federal soldiers and striking street car workers in front of the labor headquarters here today.

The trouble was precipitated when the "red" faction of strikers, who have refused to accede to the agreement reached last Sunday, fired on cars operated by the "yellow" faction, which made the agreement with the tramways company.

The soldiers guarding the cars returned fire and a pitched battle ensued in the street. All the downtown stores were closed and traffic stopped.

PLOT TO ASSASSINATE POINCARE AND DAUDET

Paris, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.)—Andre Lefevre, former minister of war, today told of a plot to assassinate Premier Poincare and Leon Daudet, the royalist leader. He said the plot had been hatched by a "foreign organization." He gave the information to the magistrate who is investigating the recent assassination of Marius Plateau, a reporter of L'Action Francaise, by Mlle. Berthon, an anarchist, but refused to tell the source of it.

STEAMSHIP BESSIE DOLLAR ADRIFT IN THE PACIFIC

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 1.—The steamship Bessie Dollar which became disabled in the Pacific ocean Tuesday 3,030 miles west of San Francisco, was drifting helpless without a rudder and battered by heavy seas, according to a wireless message received today by the Merchants Exchange here.

The steamship Pomona, which was reported steaming to its aid, apparently had not been sighted.

PROMOTIONS TO FILL VACANCIES IN THE ARMY

Washington, Feb. 1.—Selections of two major generals and four brigadier generals to fill vacancies in the ranks which will occur due to retirements within the next few months were announced today by Secretary Weeks. They included:

To be major generals: Brigadier General Hanson E. Ely, now commanding the general service schools at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., to succeed General Adelbert Cronkhite, who retires Feb. 1; Brigadier General Walter H. Gordon, commanding the infantry school, Fort Benning, Ga., to succeed Major General Henry T. Allen, who retires April 15.

General Cronkhite's last assignment was to duty with the Maryland National guard, while General Allen is still in Germany closing up the affairs of the American army of occupation which he commanded. On his return to the United States he will be assigned to the office of the chief of staff for the remainder of his active service, employing the time in completing his report on the conclusion of the American occupation on the Rhine.

To be brigadier generals: Colonel Malvern-Hill Barnum, commanding disciplinary barracks, Fort Leavenworth, to succeed General Ely, promoted; Colonel George Leroy Irwin, inspector general's office, war department, to succeed Brigadier General John B. McDonald; Colonel Ira E. Haynes, commanding coast defenses San Francisco, to succeed General Gordon, promoted; Colonel John T. Knight, now at the quartermaster depot, San Francisco, to be assistant quartermaster general, to succeed Brigadier General George F. Downey to be retired.

NO MISCONDUCT BY N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE MEMBERS

New York, Feb. 1.—President E. H. Cromwell of the New York Stock Exchange in a letter to District Attorney Joab H. Banton today denied that any member of the exchange was involved in misconduct in the case of the North American Oil Company whose stock was stricken from the exchange's list January 16, 1923.

The letter was in reply to one from the district attorney requesting evidence taken in the case by the exchange.

"Whatever misconduct there may have been in these transactions was the misconduct of a party or parties in no way connected with the stock exchange," President Cromwell said in his letter.

AMERICAN WOODEN STEAMER BURNED TO WATER LINE

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 1.—The American wooden steamer Buttonwood which burned to the water line today, while anchored in Chesapeake bay, was beached tonight south of Thimble Cut by the coast guard cutter Manning, assisted by the navy tug Owl. The crew, forced to take to five small boats, was picked up by the tug Henrico and landed at Sewell's Point. The Buttonwood cleared from Norfolk Wednesday for Fall River, Mass., with a cargo of coal.

JEWISH STUDENTS INJURED IN RIOTING IN BUCHAREST

Bucharest, Feb. 1 (Jewish Telegraph Agency)—A large number of Jewish students were injured in anti-semetic rioting which broke out last night in front of the royal palace, following a students' demonstration. In consequence of this trouble the authorities have closed the university until February 8. Many Jewish shops have been closed by their owners in fear of possible attacks.

INJURED IN COLLISION AT NEW ROCHELLE

New Rochelle, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Three persons were injured and fifteen girl students of the College of New Rochelle, narrowly escaped death today when a New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad mail train crashed into a stationary local passenger train at the station here.

All of the injured and the students were in the rear car of the motionless train. The injured, all of whom live here, were taken to a hospital.

STATEMENT IN DEFENSE OF THE COTTON EXCHANGE

New York, Feb. 1.—George M. Shutt, president of the New York Cotton exchange, characterized as "unworthy of the gentleman who voiced it" the statement today of Senator Heflin that cotton prices were being held down until all stocks should be out of the hands of the producers.

"I believe," said Mr. Shutt, "that the cotton market has done remarkably well this season, considering the conditions prevailing abroad."

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
41 Church Street Telephone 1965

The fact that conditions in the large yards of the New Haven system in Willimantic are of the best and that there is no freight congestion, even though the storms of the past two months have tended to make transferring and spotting of cars considerably difficult, was brought out by the investigation conducted by the state police in hunting up loaded coal cars overdue at points of destination.

Under the direction of Yardmaster Edward McSweeney the work has been carried out with speed and precision. Three switching crews are carrying on the work, two in the day time, working from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and the night crew works from 10.30 p. m. until 6.30 a. m.

The freight traffic has been unusually heavy this winter, with a large increase in house freight. Four divisions of the New Haven system have terminals in Willimantic. They are Hartford, Midland, Providence and Air Line divisions. The switching crews work, in part, is is to make up and distribute freight for special and local freights.

Today (Friday) according to the order of the calendar, is the day on which the well known ground hog is due to come forth from his lair and look for his shadow and if he sees it he will return to his sleep to be safe from forty more days of cold weather. It is the general opinion however, that the ground hog will not come forth at all on account of the two or three feet of snow which are blocking up the entrance to his lair.

On the church calendar the day is known as Candlemas Day or St. Blaze day and on this day services are held for the blessings of throats.

Articles of agreement were filed this week with the secretary of state at Hartford by the Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers of Willimantic with a capital of $50,000. The incorporators are: Thomas W. Moore of Central Village; John Z. Labelle of Ballouville; Albert E. Anthony of Mansfield; Newton Searles of Pomfret Center; Roy Goodrich of Canterbury; A. H. Benton of Andover and Harold L. Storrs of Willimantic.

The organization is the outcome of a gathering of fifty leading poultry raisers in New London, Tolland and Windham counties, held in this city Thursday, January 18. They discussed the best method of "Co-operative Marketing of Eggs." A great deal of information was given on the matter at the meeting by Professor Paul Mehl, market specialist at the Connecticut Agricultural college. Previously there had been no organized system of marketing either dressed fowl or eggs. A committee on rules and grades was appointed and another committee on organization with power, consisting of A. H. Benton of Andover, Thomas W. Moore of Central Village, Newton Searles of Pomfret Center, A. E. Anthony of Mansfield and John Z. Labelle of Ballouville, was appointed and reports much progress in the work. They are soon to call another meeting to complete the organization.

A central distribution place is to be selected in eastern Connecticut from where the eggs can be shipped to markets, thus eliminating the individual work of the members. The output of the members is placed at 3,750,000 eggs annually from 25,000 hens.

The funeral services for S. Chauncey Hooker were held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock at the late home, 290 Prospect street. Rev. Walter F. Borchert officiated. The remains were placed in the receiving vault of the Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were Frank Alpaugh, Frank Curtiss, John Curtiss, and Robert E. Mitchell. There were many floral tributes. The arrangements were in charge of the Jay M. Shepard estate.

Mrs. Louisa J. Rosebrooks, who died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Louise S. Faulkner, 481 Maple avenue, Hartford, was born in Union Vt., Dec. 25, 1839, the daughter of Jeremiah and Margaret (Fisk) Chase. When a young girl her family moved to Dickinson, N. Y., where she received her education and later taught school for a number of years in towns of northern New York and Dickinson. The deceased went to Storrs in 1864, where she was the matron at the home of Augustus Storrs and continued in that capacity for a number of years.

She married George L. Rosebrooks on January 1, 1872. Later Mr. Rosebrooks went to [illegible] to take charge of the Augustus Storrs [illegible] most complete and [illegible] in the state and which later became known as the Storrs Agricultural college, and which became known as Connecticut Agricultural college in 1900. Mr. and Mrs. Rosebrooks moved to South Coventry in March, 1898, and took charge of the summer farm and home of Henry F. Dimock. In October, 1917, Mr. and Mrs. Rosebrooks came to this city and made their home at No. 1483 Main street, where they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on January 1, 1922. The deceased is survived by her husband, three sons, two daughters, eleven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral of Adelbert E. Walden was held Thursday afternoon at three o'clock in the Windham Center church. Rev. Arthur W. Clifford officiated. Burial followed in Scotland. The bearers were Arthur Harvey, Arthur Keeney, John Potter and Eden Cook. The Jay M. Shepard estate was in charge of the funeral.

H. Clinton Lathrop of Windham received a telegram informing him of the death of Mrs. Anna Gray Smith at Jamestown, N. Y., Wednesday. Burial will be in the Windham Center cemetery. The deceased was a cousin of H. Clinton and James G. Lathrop of Windham and a daughter of the late Dr. Henry Gray, a native of Windham. The deceased was of the sixth generation of the Gray family which is now extinct on the male side. Mr. Smith was born in Bloomfield, Conn., and was a frequent visitor here.

The Chamber of Commerce rooms will be the scene of a vitally interesting debate next Tuesday evening. The question of country-wide interest which will be discussed is "Resolved, That the 18th Amendment is of Financial and Social Benefit to This Country."

Emil L. G. Hoenthal of Machester will take the affirmative and John J. Splain of New Haven will defend the negative. Mr. Hoenthal is a well known temperance worker and is not only endowed with a pleasant expression of manner but is very forceful in his statements from start to finish.

Mr. Splain is one of Connecticut's most able orators and debators. He is president of the All-American National Council, with headquarters in the Munsey building, Washington, D. C. He is actively connected with Americanization and labor movements and has made a careful study of the effects of prohibition in this country and believes that the 18th amendment is un-American. The speakers will be given thirty minutes each for debating and ten minutes for rebuttal. The supper will be served at 6.445 o'clock.

Michael E. Sullivan, special collector of taxes for the town of Windham has started the work of collecting personal taxes on the list of 1922. Many were on hand Thursday morning. The first man to pay the tax was Patrick D. Donohue of No. 227 Jackson street and the first woman, Mrs. Catherine Sullivan of No. 29 Ash avenue. The tax is payable during the month of February and according to the list about 6,000 men and women between the ages of 21 and 60 are liable.

State Policeman Fred T. Caron of the Stafford Springs barracks was at the local town building Thursday to meet with applicants for motor vehicle drivers' licenses. Half a dozen calls, the largest in a number of weeks, were made during the day.

Archibald W. Buchanan of Mansfield Center, agent for the state board of education, was at the common council chamber in the town building, Thursday forenoon meeting with children between the ages of 14 and 16 years, seeking employment certificates. Four called during the day.

The postponed meeting of the Ministers' Union of Willimmantic and vicinity will be held at the local Methodist church February 12, Rev. A. Avery Gates, chairman of the programme committee, announces the following programme: Address by Wallace I. Woodin of the State Sunday School acsociation, on The Revelation of the Church and School; address by Rev. Morris Alling of Hartford, on the Legislation of Federation; address by Rev. Walter F. Borchert, retiring from the union to accept a pastorate in Edgewood, R. I.; address by Rev. F. F. Foshay, being received into the Union.

The finance committee of the state legislature held hearing Thursday afternoon in Hartford on bills introduced by Representative Frank P. Fenton concerning water bonds of the city of Willimantic and an act concerning schools bonds of the town of Windham.

According to the morbidity report of the state deperament of health for the week ending January 27, the following contagious diseases were reported in Willimantic: Diptheria 1, whooping cough 3, and scarlet fever 1.

A special convocation of Trinity chapter, No. 9, R. A. M., was held on Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock and the R. A. M. degree was worked on a number of candidates. A delightful collation was served after the work.

In Monday morning's edition there appeared an item of a runaway which occurred in this city Sunday afternoon. The owner of the horse was named as John McCarthy of Scotland and this proved to be an error, although the horse was owned by a Scotland family.

Mrs. Nelson French, who resides with her daughter in Springfield, Mass., is a guest of her son, Albert W. French and family of Lewiston avenue.

William H. Pollard, father of Carlton S. and Herbert D. Pollard has closed his house at Mansfield City and is spending the winter with Herbert D. Pollard and family of Walnut street.

A card from Mrs. George M. Harrington and daughter, Mrs. Burton Bartlet, states that they have left Dayona Beach, Fla., and gone to Miami.

Mrs. Edwin Buck and three daughters of Westford, are spending a week with her father, George Buck and sister, Mrs. Helen Erwin, of Chestnut street.

Allen Eaton of Mansfield and Keeney Lathrop of Windham are both spending a week at their respective homes. They are students of Brown university.

Alderman George W. Hickey who has been ill for the past week is able to be out again.

The Knights of Columbus carnival opened Thursday evening at the state armory and was preceded by street parade. Marshal Joseph F. Gadreau was chairman of the parade committee from San Jose Council, No. 14.

The parade lined up at 7:30 o'clock on Lincoln Square and the line of march was as follows: up Main, up Bridge, up Mountain and down Pleasant street into the armory.

The following was the parade's formation:

Platoon of police, Chief Daniel J. Killourey.

Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, Captain Joseph Morrison.

The B. P. O. E. band, Charles N. C. Wheeler, director.

Garde Sacred Heart, Captain Arthur Vertefeuille.

Members of San Jose Council, No. 14.

St. Joseph's Boy Scout's Band.

Representatives of L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique.

Mayor Charles A. Gates and city officials in automobiles.

Previous to the parade the Boy Scout's Band rendered a half hour concert at Lincoln Square. Upon the arrival at the armory Mayor Gates delivered an official opening address to the carnival.

Arrangements have been made for several acts of high-class vaudeville which will be presented each hour, in addition to cabaret entertainers, and several sensational comedy acrobats, by the entertainment sub-committee of which Mr. Gaudreau is also chairman.

A local well known orchestra furnished the dance music. Mrs. Margaret Squires and a corps of assistants from Court Veronica, Catholic Daughters of America, are in charge of the tea room and garden.

Gilbert P. Flynn is in charge of the dancing arrangements and P. D. Donohue decorated the hall in appropriate colors.

WEAK AND RUN-DOWN
Caught Cold After Cold Until She Took WINCARNIS
"I was very much run-down and feeling real miserable. I caught one cold after another. I was very nervous and irritable. Every little thing set my nerves on edge. My appetite was poor and I wasted down to almost nothing. I was pale and looked simply bloodless.
I decided to try Wincarnis and it certainly benefited me. I never took anything in my life I got so much good from. It is certainly very strengthening.
I shall always be glad to praise the merits of Wincarnis and if anyone wishes to write me personally I will be glad to answer all questions regarding what it has done for me."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Lariat, spurs, chaps and saddle they're all coming to the Breed Theatre today and tomorrow.

And the star that will use them is Tom Mix from William Fox's famous fold! For action, aim and accuracy "Just Tony" based on Max Brand's novel, "Alcatraz" will surpass much of his past work, and that's saying a saddle-bag full.

This new vehicle for the stalwart stimulating star will prove entertainment of the highest order. For many years it has been Mix's most arduous endeavor to feature his sprightly steed "Tony" in a filmplay, and Mr. Fox has finally consented. So Tom went about his performance in front of a camera with an enthusiasm born of an inspiration for love of the animal which has accompanied him through much of his life and most of his hazardous episodes on the Western plateau.

Aside from its stirring incidents and absorbing detail, the story contains an unusual scenic background that adds charm to the narrative.

Ruth Roland will also be seen in "The Timber Queen" and the Pathe News and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill. Continuous show Saturday from 1:30 to 10:15.

More About Auto-Suggestion

With auto-suggestion, the law is easily understood. "It is as simple as the gospel," says Coue, "but it is an instrument that you have to learn how to use just as you would any other instrument." A gun in the hands of an unskilled person produces wretched results, but the same gun in more experienced hands produces better results. Auto suggestion is not a cure-all. There are many conditions that are cured by its use and perhaps very few conditions that cannot be helped but the person contemplating using it should learn to do so by one capable of teaching it.

The most spectacular cures effected at the clinics have been on those afflicted with nervous conditions, cripples unable to walk unsupported many times able to run around the room after a single treatment; stammerers cured by one treatment, asthma relieved almost instantly and when persistently used auto suggestion has proved most effective in cases of sweetting, some forms of paralysis, dyspepsia and neurosthenia in all its manifestations. Unmanagable children, those backward in school, and others who seem to have lost all interest in life have responded marvelously to autosuggestion. Very few are the present day afflictions that do not yield in some measure to its influence when properly used. Dr. Emma Dunham in the Shannon Building has recently attended these lectures—see her advertisement

The Vaudeville at the Broadway Theatre

Reba and Tracey opened with a novelty dancing offering.

Miranda, the Brazilian, were artists amazed all with her seemly impossible wire offering.

The terrible injustice of a ruthless Wall Street broker in "railroading" to prison and death the man who had saved his money and his life, is responsible for the stirring chapters of breathless intrigue, exciting adventure and vengeance in "Missing Millions", the new Paramount picture starring Alice Brady which was presented with great success at the Broadway Theatre yesterday. It is the story of a crook seeking vengeance for the betrayal of an innocent man to imprisonment and death. Particularly thrilling is the fight between two sets of thieves in the strong room of a ocean liner. David Powell has the interesting role of Boston Blackie and Frank Lonee is seen as the Wall Street broker. Miss Brady's interpretation of an exacting role was most artistic.

George Fitzmaurice's production of "Kick In" a Paramount picture which scored a decisive hit at the Strand theatre last night, contains a group of famous film folk, in addition to a corking good story, one that has all the elements that go to make a successful motion picture. Betty Compson, Bert Lytell and May McAvoy are featured while Gareth Hughes, Kathleen Clifford, Maym Kelso and Walter Long render efficient support in the capital screen version of Willard Mack's famous stage play. The players mentioned have combined to bring to the screen a photoplay that bids fair to linger in the public eye for a long time to come.

In New York one may in a few minutes walk from the fashionable district to the slums where crooks and the beggars make their homes. Between these two classes of society there is but a narrow line, yet the man from the slums often finds himself confronted with almost insurmountable obstacles when he attempts to approach his more fortunate neighbor. "Kick In" portrays these two classes as they really are and people who like to know the truth about all phases o flife will find this amazing picture well worth seeing.

A comedy and news completed a fine program.

BLANKET PROPOSITION MADE FOR TWO BOUTS DURING COMING SUMMER

New York, Feb. 1.—A series of unexpected developments today brought the heavyweight boxing situation back in to the limelight, after a lapse of several days, but failed materially to increase prospects of a title bout for Champion Jack Dempsey.

The net result of these developments, which included withdrawal of Tex Rickard from the field of bidders for a championship contest and a new offer from Tom O'Rourke, Polo Grounds matchmaker, for two fights this summer, was to diminish for the present at least, chances of a return match for Jess Willard, former heavyweight king.

Rickard ascribed his refusal to bid to lack of public support for any particular title match, but an indiction that he had not abandoned altogether his plans for a Willard-Dempsey contest was seen in announcement that Willard would soon undertake a country-wide exhibition tour to demonstrate his fitness for another crack at the title.

Willard's tour will start at Portland, Me., February 19, and take him through the east, middle west and south during the next two or three months. He may accept matches during its progress with one or two heavyweight contenders to convince the public of his right to a return championship contest.

Rickard, it was made known, has refused to consider staging a contest between Dempsey and Harry Wills, New Orleans negro, because of the possible adverse effects of a mixed championship match and it was declared that his action today was the result of them, coupled with the facts that both New York and New Jersey boxing commissions had frowned upon a Willard-Dempsey project until the former titleholder proves he is in top-notch condition.

Louis Messano chairman of the New Jersey commission, today denied reports that he is definitely opposed to a Dempsey-Willard match in his state. The commissioner, he added would not take any attitude until an application for a Dempsey-Willard bout had been presented to it.

William Muldoon, chairman of the New York commission also explained that while Willard technically was barred from fighting here because he is over the age limit now fixed at 38, this might not act as a barrier if he satisfactorily that he was in condition to oppose Dempsey.

O'Rourke goes for two fights, meanwhile, is the only bid which Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, has under consideration. The Polo Grounds matchmaker submitted terms for matches with Joe Beckett, English heavyweight, and Harry Wills, to take place at the Giants' ball park on July 4 and Labor Day. It was understood he guaranteed the champion $500,000. Beckett's appearance, he said, would be contingent upon the outcome of his match with Georges Carpentier, scheduled in May.

Kearns expressed some dissatisfaction with details of the offer but informed O'Rourke he would make no definite decision before Monday.

Harry Frazee, Boston Red Sox owner, who had sought to match Dempsey and Wills, withdrew his offer it was announced, because of dissatisfaction with demands made by the champion's manager.

EXPECT IDEAL CONDITIONS FOR BINGHAMTON MEET

Binghamton, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Zero weather prevailing throughout the week is expected to make conditions ideal for the national ice skating championships transferred last week from Chicago to Endicott and scheduled for Sunday and Monday, February 4 and 5.

It has been announced definitely, that William Steinmetz, international champion, Roy McWhirter, national champion, Charles Jewtraw, New York state champion and Joe Moore, Canadian champion, will participate.

In addition to the champions, nearly every skater who competed in the Adirondack gold cup championship races at Johnson City recently will return for the national races. The list will include: Julian Steinmetz, brother of the champion; Harry Kasky, Chicago, who won the meet at Saranac Lake in the Adirondack gold cup series; Eddie and Bobbie Reed, Chicago; Tony Hollander, Milwaukee; and Russell Wheeler, Montreal, former international champion.

Among the women skaters will be: Miss Gladys Robinson, Elsie Muller, Rose Johnson, Hattie Doose and Hilda Rucket, champion fancy skater.

WANDERERS BEAT SOLDIER TEAM IN CLOSE GAME

The Baltic Wanderers defeated the fast Fort Wright quintet at the Baltic gym Wednesday evening in a fast game by a score of 29 to 22. The soldiers started off well and at the end of the first half were leading 12 to 10. By fast pass work in the last half the Wanderers scored 19 points while the soldiers made ten. In the preliminary game the Bantams defeated the Lebanon team 41 to 37. The lineup:

Wanderers.		Fort Wright.
Ridgeway	R. F.	Allen
Simineau	L. F.	Richardson
Charon	C.	McCombe
Robertaille	L. G.	Sousa
Swanson	R. G.	Reynolds

Field goals—Charon 6, Simineau 5, Ridgeway 1, Swanson 1, Richardson 5, McCombe 3, Allen 1.

Foul goals—Simineau 2, Ridgeway 1, Allen 4.

WILLARD SEEMS PEEVED AT THE CHAMPION

While both were at Madison Square Garden today—Willard in conference with Tex Rickard and Dempsey in the first gymnasium workout he has had since coming to New York—the former titleholder was invited to watch his conqueror in action.

"I haven't seen Dempsey since the day he knocked me out," Willard declared, "and I don't want to now. The next time we shake hands, it has got to be in the ring."

"JIM" BARNES WINS CORPUS CHRISTIE OPEN

James Farrell of New York, was second with 295 and William Mehlhorn, Shreveport, La., third.

William Creavy, of Kansas City, Mo., took fourth place. Barnes entered the day's play one stroke behind Mehlhorn, who, led the field yesterday with 144. The two were paired. Mehlhorn, who was off his game of the day before made a 76 on the morning round. Barnes playing a strong game, turned in a 71, took a four stroke lead and increased the lead two more strokes in the afternoon. Mehlhorn was forced into third place by Farrell, who made a 73 this morning. Mehlhorn however, with 296, nosed out Creavy by one stroke. Creavy's 69 on the last round, broke the course record. Fred McLeod, of Washington, D. C., fourth man in the first day's play, dropped to sixth place with a 304. H. S. Long, of Chicago 303 was fifth.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL BOYS TO HAVE ATHLETIC MEET

The first of a series of grammar school athletic meets will be held in the YMCA gymnasium this afternoon when the Mount Pleasant lads meet for their preliminary elimination meet. Following today's meet Mount Pleasant will select its best athletes, which during the latter part of February will enter the final meet in which Greeneville, Broadway and Mount Pleasant schools will tussle for this season's athletic supremacy. These meets have been conducted during the past three years in cooperation with the grammar schools and YMCA and this year's contest should be the best one yet. The events will be as follows: standing broad jump; basketball throw, potato race, hurdle relay race, and basketball relay.

VAUGHAN WINS FROM SHOEMAKER IN MATCH

New York, Feb. 1.—Carl A. Vaughan of Chicago, created a sensation in the national amateur pocket billiards championship tournament tonight by defeating J. Howard Shoemaker, of New York, present and nine-times national champion, 125 to 94, in the ninth of the series of matches.

Vaughan had previously lost the eighth match to Edward F. Reynolds, of New York, in a spectacular game, 125 to 86, in which the winner made a high run of 31. His best string was 15. The game went 15 frames.

In the seventh game, W. J. Harworth of Cleveland defeated Humboldt Foss, of New York, 125 to 84 in 17 frames. Harworth's longest run was 12 and that of his opponent 11.

GIANTS DENY BENTLEY IS A HOLD-OUT

New York, Feb. 1.—Jack Bentley, southpaw pitching star and home run hitter purchased for $75,000 by the New York Giants from Baltimore, today accepted salary terms with the world's champions for 1923. This announcement was made by the Giants in denying reports that Bentley was a hold-out. His signed contract is expected in a few days.

The signed contracts of four other players reached the Giants today. They were Centerfielder Jimmy O'Connell, another $75,000 star, acquired from San Francisco; Bill Cunningham, who alternated in centerfield with Casey Stengel last year; Fred Johnson, pitcher, obtained from San Antonio; and Travis Jackson, shortstop, acquired from Little Rock, Ark.

Combat Train Wins

The undefeated indoor baseball team of the Combat Train added another victory to its string on Thursday evening when the game played with the Jail Hill team resulted in a 17 to 16 victory for the soldiers. The batteries were Capt. Burdick and Sgt. Morrell for the Combat Train and Shea and Gillis for the Jail Hills. The Combat Train challenges any team in the state.

Miss Collett Has Good Card

Belleair Heights, Fla., Feb. 1.—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., national woman's golf champion, played the best round of golf today since her arrival a week ago, but she lost to Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of Huntingdon Valley in an exhibition match. Mrs. Fox had a card of 79, while Miss Collett was 80 with one hole approximated.

Boston Sextet Wins

Boston, February 1—Boston hockey club wrested a 5 to 4 victory from the Victorias tonight after a seeming defeat when a tying goal was scored with but a decond to play in a U. S. A. H. A. game. In the first of two five minute overtime periods the hockey club clinched the game with another goal.

Nuggets to Play Battery

On next Monday evening at the armory the Battery B indoor baseball team will again engage the Nuggets in an endeavor to decide the city championship. The Nuggets now lead the Battery by one victory in the seven game series.

Central Rovers Defeat Wauregan.

In the town hall, Central Village, Tuesday evening, Jan. 30, the Central Rovers defeated the St. John's of Wauregan in a very fast game by the score of 31 to 16. After three minutes of play the St. Johns took the lead by scoring on a free try and shortly after with a field goal. The Central boys then took the lead by scoring three field baskets in quick succession and were never headed again during the game. Mayhew led his team in scoring, getting baskets from all corners of the hall. The entire Central team played a brilliant passing game with Mayhew, Joe Eaton, and Lewis doing most of the work while Bennett and Bill Eaton, Central's guards, proved a stumbling block in the path of Wauregan's forwards. Gazerett and Desert played the best for Wauregan.

MANY TENNIS REGULATIONS TO BE CONSIDERED SOON

New York, Feb 1.—Consideration of questions of international importance will occupy the United States Lawn Tennis Association at its annual meeting here next Saturday.

The new regulations for Davis cup play and a new international playing code, will be discussed, while consideration will be given to the question of joining the International Tennis Federation.

From a national viewpoint, proposed changes in playing code and tournament regulations will be of equal importance. Among the subjects to be considered will be the reduction of the entry list for the national singles championship to 64 players, instead of approximately 128, as in recent seasons.

Resolutions will be offered to revive the national interscholastic championships; to change the eligibility age limit for the boys' and junior championships and the eligibility age limit for the veterans' tournament.

Resolutions involving affiliation of the U. S. L. T. A. with the American Olympic association and the National amateur Athletic Federation also will be offered.

Dwight F. Davis, of St. Louis, donor of the international team trophy bearing his name, is slated for election as president to succeed Julian S. Myric, of New York. Other officers selected by the nominating committee are: Vice President, George W. Wightman, Boston; secretary, Paul B. Williams, of Utica, N. Y.; treasurer, Louis B. Dailey, East Orange, N. J.

Slow motion pictures showing in action William M. Johnston, of San Francisco, former national singles champion and Gerald L. Patterson, captain of the 1922 Australian Davis cup team, will be shown at the annual banquet.

UPSET IN DOUBLES OF INVITATION TOURNEY

New York, Feb. 1.—The semi-finals in the invitation tennis doubles produced an upset today, when Miss Leslie Bancroft and Mrs. B. E. Cole, of the Longwood Cricket club, Boston, were defeated by the Metropolitan winners. Miss Lillian Scharman and Miss Ceres Baker, 6-4, 6-6, 6-2. The volleying of Miss Baker and the fine overhanders of Miss Scharman accounted for the victory.

Miss Marie Wagner, of New York, and Mrs. Carl V. Hitchins, Mexican champion, won the other place in the final round, defeating Mrs. S. F. Weaves and Mrs. DeForest Candee, of New York and Hempstead, 6-0, 6-0.

Miss Bancroft won easily in the first of the semi-final singles matches, defeating Miss Wagner, 6-1, 6-1. Winning strokes were fast drives into deep court and an occasional volley into the corners.

The semi-final round of the doubles. Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. Candee won their place in the open bracket by defeating Mrs. Rawson M. Wood and Mrs. David C. Mills, York and Orange, N. J., 6-4, 8-6.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national titleholder, will be opposed tomorrow by Miss Scharman in the semi-final singles. The match being postponed from yesterday because Mrs. Mallory was suffering from a cold.

KASKY WINS SECOND SERIES IN ADIRONDACK GOLD CUP SKATING

Saranac Lake, Feb. 1.—Harry Kasky, Chicago, won the third meet of the Adirondack gold cup skating championship series today when he flashed over the tape first on both the 440-yard and three-mile events. Kasky's victories today brought his point total to 150, nearly twice that of his nearest competitor. Charles Gorman, St. John, N. B., who scored 80, Richard Donovan, Johnson City, took third place in the point score with 40.

Gorman led the field in the 440-yard event, sprinting in the bell lap of the finals to such an advantage that he apparently had the race safe. He failed to count on Kasky's sprinting ability, however, and the Chicago skater took first place by several inches. Bobby Hearn, Brooklyn, placed third. The winner's time was thirty-eight an two-fifths seconds.

Falling now under the track heavy in the three mile race, William Steinmetz, Chicago, led the pack near the finish, but fell and failed to place Kasky skated well back until he heard the bell for the final lap then began his sprint and finished with a safe margin of several feet. Donovan finished second and Edward Reed, Chicago, third. The winner's time was eight minutes, fifty-five and three-fifths seconds. Robert Reed, of Chicago won the lap prize.

Charles Jewtraw, Lake Placid, who was carried from the track yesterday with a badly cut knee, did not race today. Jewtraw failed to make a point in the meet here, but still is leading for the Adriondack gold cup by virtue of victories in earlier meets, his season's total being 330. Gorman is second with 150 and Kasky and Donovan were tied for third with 150 each.

The skaters were leaving Saranac Lake tonight for Montreal, where a number of them will compete Saturday and Sunday in the Canadian championship races transferred from Chicago to Endicott for February 4 and 5. The fourth and final meet for the season in the Adirondack gold cup championships will be held at Lake Placid, February 8, 9 and 10.

The summaries:

Three mile race: Won by Kasky; Richard Donovan, Johnson City, second; Reed, Chicago, third. Time 8:55 3-5.

Meet point scores: Kasky, 150; Gorman, 80; Donovan, 50; Paul Forsman, New York, and William Steinmetz, Chicago, 20 each; Edward Gloster, Toronto, Bobby Hearn, Brooklyn, Edward Corcoran, Johnson City, and Edward Reed, Chicago, 10 each; and Frank Garnett, St. John, N. B., and William Murphy, New York, 5 each.

Adirondack gold cup skating championship series, point scores: Jewtraw, 330; Gorman, 150; Kasky and Donovan, 150 each; Corcoran, 70; Valentine Bialis, Lake Placid, 60; Forsman, 30; and Gloster and Steinmetz, 20 each.

Rifle Club News.

At the armory Wednesday night the Norwich Rifle club put in some hard practice for their coming matches. Three of these matches will be shot during the week of February 5th, the first match is with the Telephone Society Rifle club of New Haven, the second is with the Twelfth Regiment team of New York, while the third is with the West Bend Rifle club of West Bend, Iowa.

This club is the champion club of the west and won the all-around championship of the United States in 1922. It will be interesting to see what the local club will do against this crack organization.

The club has received another challenge for an outdoor match with the Little Falls Rifle club of Little Falls, Minnesota.

A Challenge

The YMCA Emps would like to hear from some team in this vicinity for a match basketball game for Saturday night, as a preliminary game to the Y Senior-Willimantic game. Teams may answer by calling the Y Physical Director, phone 1983.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Anyway, Battling Siki is following in the footsteps of all great fighters by going into the movies.

Kid Lee, a colored lightweight of Denver, and who is said to be a clever boxer, will try his hand at the game in the East.

Senor Jose Lopez, the wealthy Cuban horseman, is the trainer as well as the owner of a large string of runners.

It is said that Manager John McGraw intends to stand pat on the 1922 Giants, believing that the world's champions can repeat next season.

A few days after he had lost a decision to Willie Doyle, Johnny Dundee came back strong and trimmed "Topper" Martin handily.

The Eastern international dogsled derby in Quebec next month will comprise a series of three 50 mile heats, one heat to be run off each day.

Comparatively few star ball players have made good as big league umpires. "Big Ed" Walsh is the latest to try the job and fail.

Dartmouth's gridders are going to "live high," as the Green's annual football banquet will take place at the Outing Club cabin atop of Moose Mountain.

Since the New York boxing commission has turned down Tom Gibbons and Jess Willard, the only heavy with a chance to meet Jack Dempsey in Gotham appears to be Harry Wills.

The New Haven club of the Eastern League has announced the purchase of Frank Gofs, catcher and outfielder, from the Hanover, Va., club of the Blue Ridge league.

Willie Doyle, the fast New York lightweight, is hot on the trail of Benny Leonard with the hopes of inducing the titleholder to meet him in a bout for the championship.

Billy Seely, 18 years old, amateur boxer, died recently after he lapsed into unconsciousness in the fourth round of a preliminary match with H. F. Fetzer, a youth of the same age.

The St. Louis Cardinals have arranged to play a series of games with the Braves during the training season the Mitchell outfit evidently feeling that they do not meet the Bostonians often enough during the regular season.

The signing of Jocko Conlon, the diminutive Harvard star, by the Braves has inspired hope among Boston fans that the little fellow will turn out to be a second "Rabbit" Maranville.

It was announced recently by the Hartford baseball club that Pitcher Ralph Head goes to the Philadelphia Nationals for a trial and will report with Brick Kane at the Phillies spring camp at Gainesburg, Fla.

Ty Cobb has just raided the Metropolitan preserve jar for a rookie catcher who will be tried out this spring at Detroit's Augusta, Ga., training camp. The young man answers to the name of Jack Kennedy, and was signed by Scout Charlie Moran.

According to a scout with a rival club—but one who does not wish to be quoted—the Yankees have picked up the finest outfield prospect since the arrival of Speaker in young Henedricks, who came recently in part payment for Catcher Al Devormer.

Harry D., fine chestnut colored selling plater, by winning his seventh straight race and his 12 victory in 16 starts this season at Tia Juana recently set what racing officials declared was a world record for horses of his class.

Spencer Harris, outfielder, and Gus Ketcham, righthand pitcher, have been released to the Shreveport, Texas league baseball club by the Philadelphia Americans on optional agreement. Harris was with the Bay City, Mich., team last year, and Ketcham in the Texas-Oklahoma league.

"Pat" Collins, one of the few Kansas City boys playing in the "big show," is not so sure he will be among the St. Louis Brownies to answer present down at the club's training camp at Mobile, the latter part of next month.

John "Blondy" Romig, who won the national indoor two-mile championship at Buffalo last year in the fast time of 9 minutes 21 1-5 seconds, also the national intercollegiate cross country title when a member of the famous Penn State team in 1921, has retired.

Charles W. Paddock world's champion sprinter, is in the best condition of his career and he will have a better chance this season to break records than ever before, according to Coach Dean Cromwell, of the University of Southern California, who is in charge of Paddock's training.

FACTS ABOUT PRODUCTION OF COAL IN THE RUHR

Cologne, Feb. 1 (By the A. P.).—Speaking in his official capacity as a member of the French economic mission in the Ruhr, M. Frantze, a technical engineer and right hand man of Inspector General Coste, today practically admitted that the entire work of the mission is dependent upon the return to the Ruhr of the coal syndicate magnates and their acceptance of the mission's terms of co-operation.

"The mission," he said, "will bide its own time until the measures taken by the allied governments to force the Ruhr magnates to return to the offices of the coal syndicate at Essen and there declare that they are ready to submit to the decisions of the Interallied commission of control and co-operate with us."

The monthly output of the mines in the Ruhr is normally 8,000,000 tons, M. Frantzen said, of which, after supplying local needs, 4,800,000 tons of coal are available for export, in addition to 2,000,000 tons of coke.

"The amount of fuel to be delivered to the allies by Germany was fixed at 1,000,000 tons of coal and 550,000 tons of coke monthly," added M. Frantzen. "Twenty and 30 per cent., respectively, was the amount to be available for export, or one coal car out of five and one coke car out of three. Germany is perfectly able to carry out this reparation scheme without excessive restriction upon her."

Coal production in the Ruhr is continuing to decrease rapidly. Yesterday is fell belo wa quarter of the normal output, and it appears only a question of days when the mines will be forced into complete idleness owing to congestion at the pitheads due to the shortage of empty cars, which have practically disappeared.

Four trains of coal left for France yesterday, three from Treves and one from Mayence, as well as eleven barges averaging 1,000 tons each which cleared Ludwigshafen for Strasbourg, but coal deliveries since the beginning of the Ruhr occupation have fallen much below the amounts France received while the working agreement with the Germans was in force.

Reports from the frontiers of the occupied territory are to the effect that the isolation of the district is complete, but the Germans claim to have succeeded in moving three trains of coal into unoccupied Germany since last midnight, when the isolation order is supposed to have gone into effect.

FRENCH CHAMBER SUBMITS TO POINCARE'S DEMANDS

Paris, Feb. 1.—(By the A. P.)—Premier Poincare's demand for a postponement of interpellations in the chamber of deputies on foreign affairs, which were set for tomorrow, was granted by the chamber this evening by a vote of 485 to 81 after long and noisy outbursts and adverse criticisms of the premier's action by the leaders of the left party.

M. Poincare requested the adjournment of the interpellation to a later day so that the government "can carry out in calmness its specific action on the reparations question."

M. Herriot, on behalf of the radical socialist party, said the nation's fate was at stake and therefore his party would support the premier, but that it refused to accept responsibility for France's action in the Ruhr.

"According to our view, peace will not be established, reparations and security will not be assured, except by a policy based on an international loan, the maintenance of alliances and friendships and arbitration," said M. Herriot.

M. Aubriot, for the independent socialists, and M. Painleve, speaking for the republican socialists, adhered to M. Herriot's declaration, while M. Berthon, on behalf of the communists, said to the premier:

"Already you are obliged to recognize in your official newspaper organs that the Ruhr operation is not what you expected. We now enter the second phase, which may be bloody."

CLAIMS FATHER SOLD HER IN MARRIAGE FOR $300

New York, Feb. 1.—A story of how she was sold in marriage by her father for $300 was told in the Bronx county court today by Mrs. Stella Vituill, 20. Her father, Joseph Toscano, was convicted of beating her with an iron bar, because her husband would not meet later installments after making an initial payment of $100.

TO PREVENT EVASION OF FEDERAL TAXATION

Washington, Feb 1.— Without a record vote, the house passed today the first of a series of amendment to the existing tax law designed to close up what Secretary Mellon has described as avenues availebd bzy the wealthy to escape federal taxation.

Under the terms of the amendment gains made through the exchange of stocks, bonds and other investment securities of a similar kind would be made subject to taxation .The treasury secretary wrote congress that many brokerage houses in New York had made it a practice to effect such exchanges for customers at the end of the taxable years and Representative Green, republican, Iowa, in charge of the bill, estimated that through this means the government had been losing fro m$20,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year.

A committee amendment presented by Chairman Fordney, of the ways and means committee, and adopted, 5? to 29, would provide that no tax could be imposed in the case of exchange of lond unless a profit were realized in cash. This amendment met with strong opposition on the floor. Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking democrat on the committee, charged that after the committee had acted in his absence on the original bill as approved by the treasury, Mr. Fordney had "trunked back to Washington" from Michigan "upset" the work of the majority and got his amendment approved.

Mr. Fordney, in reply, declared that his amendment was designed to remove any ambiguity in the proposed change of the law and had been approved by Secretary Mellon and other treasury officers.

REV. PERCY S. GRANT WILL NOT BE TRIED FOR HERESY

New York, Feb. 1.—Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant will not be tried for heresy because of recent sermons before his pastorate in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, it was informed in a letter tonight from Bishop William T. Manning.

The bishop, who had requested Rev. Dr. Grant to "recant or resign" because of his professed doubt of the deity of Christ, said he would let the matter rest for the present, because the pastor, replying to the request had not made clear whether he really doubted Christ's deity or not.

"You are no brought to trial because your letter in response to mine is vague and ambiguous, instead of clear and explicit," the bishop wrote.

"You have, by your utterances caused grave doubt in the mind of the church at large as to your belief in the deity of our Lord Jesus Christ. You have been given an opportunity to remove this doubt, but you have not done so. You have made your reply to me in words that fail to make clear your belief in this essential truth."

Of the threatened heresy trial Bishop Manning said:

"Even though the faith of the church may virtually be denied and doubt cast upon her most essential belief, a court ought to be convened only when this denial is in terms that are clear and free from ambiguity."

SPEEDING DEBT ACTION.

By the calling together of the American commission for the purpose of considering the steps that will need to be taken to get action by congress, it is evident that nothing is going to be allowed to stand in the way of ratification by the present congress if such a thing is possible.

A different attitude has been manifested toward the question of refunding the debt since the limitations were placed upon the commission. There was more or less talk about the cancellation of the war debts. It was an idea that did not set well and when congress told the commission that it was not expected that it would negotiate an agreement that would go outside of certain restrictions, that matter was unquestionably in mind. And yet inasmuch as congress has the opportunity to pass upon whatever the commission does this appear to have been an unwise move. It did not give the commission a chance to act in keeping with the facts.

The British acceptance is not in accord with the congressional expression. It isn't an acceptance of as favorable terms as were desired in London. It is apparently a recognition of the fact that the terms are the best that could be expected under the conditions, and it is for the interest of all concerned that the matter should be cleared up instead of left unsettled.

The British have made it possible to hasten the matter. Unfortunately Chancellor Baldwin's statement hasn't served to make certain ones in congress take an unbiased view of the matter, and yet that can well be overlooked in view of the British action that followed it.

None too much time is permitted for the needed congressional action even after the commission's report is ready. It is therefore well that all steps are being taken on the part of the funding commission to hasten the matter to a decision before March 4. Probably the best possible arrangement has been decided upon and that being the case the quicker it can be disposed of the better.

FRADDULENT PARDON.

The verdict of not guilty brought in by a jury in Boston in the case charging Jesse Murphy with the murder of two men in that city several years ago raises interesting considerations. Murphy doesn't get his freedom because he is being held for having broken jail in Massachusetts on another occasion, but whether Pennsylvania will claim him for having obtained his pardon in that state by fraud remains to be seen.

Two men had been convicted of the Boston murders when Murphy, in prison in Pennsylvania, confessed that he was the guilty party. This seems to throw a monkey wrench into the legal machinery, but Murphy made a written confession, and as the result of it he was pardoned in that state, with several years of his sentence unserved, that he might be brought to Boston for trial on the murder charge.

The trial has taken place and Murphy repudiated his confession. With that denied the jury found him not guilty. Through a clever game in which he took some chances possibly he would have gotten his freedom but for the unfinished sentence which he is now serving in Massachusetts.

When the governor of Pennsylvania pardoned Murphy it was rather an unusual procedure, and in view of the way in which that state has been imposed upon it is not surprising that there is talk of having the pardon revoked because of the fraudulent manner in which it was obtained. When Murphy insists in court that he did not commit the murders he confessed to the deceit practiced in getting out of prison. Possibly Pennsylvania may be unable or unwilling to take further action in the matter, but it is safe to say that the developments in this case have not made it easy for any others who may attempt such a scheme in the future in that state. There are instances where less attention would be paid to it than where hardened criminals are concerned.

AN UNWISE AMENDMENT.

When an amendment was tacked onto the army appropriation bill providing that no officer would receive retirement pay if he was employed by a company that was doing business with the government it may have been the purpose of the one who fathered it to have it apply in certain conditions which he believes ought not to exist but he failed to contemplate the much larger number of cases which it would affect and where it ought not to be applied.

The amendment came in for greater attention and raised a howl of protest because it was apparently aimed at Major General Harbord, who had upon retirement become connected with a concern that might have some business with the government. It would affect many more, of course, but the injustice of such a provision is not difficult to understand.

The senate committee on military affairs has shown its disapproval of the amendment by removing it from the bill as received from the house. This indicates a serious effort to have this amendment eliminated through later action by the house.

Attention has been called in this connection to the fact that there has existed for a quarter of a century or more a law which prevents retired naval officers from selling naval supplies or war material to the United States, but in the effort to amend the army bill the provision includes practically the sale of any supply or service to the government by a company that employs a retired army officer. It is not surprising that the senate committee is unwilling to endorse such a proposition and it is not believed that the senate will. The senate committee appears to be paving the way for its complete removal when it gets to the conference stage, if the house insists later upon its retention.

The more light that is shed upon the way in which the amendment would operate the greater is becoming the opposition and more widespread the recognition of the injustice.

MOTOR DRIVEN RAILROAD CARS

Word to the effect that the New Haven road has or is about to receive a new type of car for operation under its own power over present rails gives added interest to the hope that has been maintained that the time would come when some of the service which it has been obliged to curtail would be restored. Where it was found impossible to meet expenses through the operation of trains, due to lack of sufficient patronage, the feeling has existed that cars with accommodations for 60, running singly and with a gasoline engine would solve the problem.

All experiments in this direction have not been abandoned, according to the report which refers to a new car being ready to leave the shops, attractively fitted out, capable of making a speed of 45 miles an hour and with much heavier brakes and so constructed as to be operated from either end. Such cars would be lighter than a railroad coach of the present time, yet it would be of sufficient weight to keep it on the rails and on certain short runs it would give accommodation to those who need such service and yet who may not be numerous enough to warrant the running of a regular train.

Development along this line has been earnestly looked for. Cheaper equipment and cheaper operation all contributed to that expense reduction which economic conditions call for. The opportunity of meeting the requirements of the traveling public through such a service is in keeping with what the electric roads are finding possible through the operation of the one man cars.

FIGHTING THE DOPESTERS.

Regardless of all that has been done in the way of new legislation for the restriction of the sale of narcotics the results desired have not been obtained. The Harrison drug act was well enough so far as it went but it didn't go far enough. In the past year new legislation has been enacted for the purpose of stopping up the leaks and now it remains to be seen how effective that is going to be.

Under that legislation the federal board for the control of narcotics has begun its action this year by announcing that no more applications to import narcotics will be granted until it has been determined how much of the drugs in the country and how much it is advisable to admit during the year.

The idea is to prevent the flooding of the country through legitimate channels and then have it set into the hands of those concerned with illegal traffic in the dope.

The idea of the board in finding out how much of the stuff should be imported in order to meet the legitimate requirements is an excellent one. That makes it possible to shut off any excess and to devote its attention to the dope that is being brought into the country without proper authority.

Closing up the legitimate channels to what is actually required does not block the smuggler. It does, however, draw the line between the legitimate and illegitimate in such a way that the authorized narcotic imports will be restricted. Whatever can be done to permit of the concentration of greater efforts on the blocking of the great trade in dope will result to the benefit of the entire nation. It is going to require determined and prolonged effort, but it is needed if a worse demoralization of humanity is going to be prevented.

For plenty of reasons a referendum would call for the breaking of the backbone of winter.

SEASONABLE YARN

The man of the house shook himself when he came into his warmly lighted home at dinner time.

"Going to snow," he said resignedly. "You can feel it in the air."

"Pshaw—that's too bad!" said his wife. "I have to go clear out to Evanston tomorrow for that luncheon, and it's so horrid getting anywhere when it's snowing!"

"It always makes my rheumatism worse," said the grandmother of the house. "Its so damp!"

"It's certainly a nuisance," agreed the man of the house. "A ton of it to shovel off the front walk and you can't get it all off the steps—and miles of path to the ash can in the back yard! Fast as you get it on, down it comes again!"

"And it looks so dirty," mourned his wife. "I just hate snow! I think these poems they are always printing and reciting about the beauties of snow are the most ridiculous things! Everybody going around with red noses and purple faces and getting their feet wet! Ruining the feathers on your hat and spotting your gloves."

"And when the snow finally did melt completely last spring," she continued, "the back yard was a sight—covered with a solid black carpet of the soot that the snow had held!"

"Uh, huh," agreed the man of the house. "It tracks the dirt in all over the new oriental hall runner, too!"

The morning saw his prophecy fulfilled—snow, bushels of it, swamped the front porch and obliterated the steps. Faint depressions showed where the walk was bordered. The curbing was hidden. The drivers cursed their slithering horses or held them up by main force and wondered what to do next. It had snowed with a vengeance. The man of the house, overshoed and furnace-gloved, appeared at the door armed with a snow shovel. He scowled in the brilliant sunlight and kicked at the fluffy stuff. Viciously he attacked the walk.

"Aw," protested a shrill and excited voice beside him, "whachu doing that for—shoveling it all off!"

"Huh?" said the man of the house, startled. Straightening up, he met the indignant blue gaze of a red-cheeked boy. Other red-cheeked small boys, also indignant, backed him up. Somehow their combined gaze convicted him of some heinous crime. He stammered.

"Why—why, it's got to be shoveled off!" he said. "So people can get through! Nobody wants to walk through a foot of snow and get all wet!"

"Aw, but," said the first boy, "it spoils it for our sleds. This block is great! And our snowshoes! Billy's brought his snowshoes and he's going to let all of us try 'em, and everything! I never had a chance to try snowshoes before!"

"Neither did I!" came the explosive chorus. "Please, mister, don't shovel it off!"

"It—it looks so pretty," ventured a shy little boy on the outskirts of the crowd. They surveyed the man of the house with anxious solemnity. He coughed and looked at the sky. It was the bluest sky, now that he stared at it, he had seen in many a day. He looked down. Still untouched by the soot to come, the snow billowed and flowed over the city street, hiding fire plugs and water mains and dead bushes, rounding even the outlines of the houses.

He had a dim memory, somewhere in the depths of his brain, of acres and acres of brilliant snow like that back in the winters of his boyhood days down on the farm. Why, after a big storm over hill and dale the magic snow carpet had risen and fallen in a glittering beauty which even now made him gasp a little, just thinking about it. The frosty tang of those marvelous winters was on his lips and cheeks for the instant. How many miles had he coasted over the crust on the old bobsled!

"I guess I've got to be getting down-town," he said hastily, gathering up his shovel. "It's later than I thought—I can just as well shovel this stuff tonight when I come home Go ahead, boys!"

"Robert!" called his wife as he dashed upstairs. "Those wretched boys are coasting down the steps of the Parkinsons' shut-up house! Coasting! They'll scrape off all the paint!"

"Aw," said the man of the house as he got ready to catch his train. "They won't hurt the steps! Parkinson's rich enough to go to California—he can paint the steps over!"

She looked out of the window after he had hurriedly left. "My goodness!" she cried. "And he never cleaned off our walks or anything! I don't for the life of me see what that man was thinking about!"—Chicago News.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Heads of Families.

In order that they may take full advantage of the exemptions provided for under the revenues act of 1921, taxpayers are reminded that a single person, if he or she is the head of a family, is allowed the same exemption as a married person—$2,500 if the net income for 1922 was $5,000 or less, and $2,000 if the net income exceeded $5,000.

A head of a family is a person who supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals closely related to him by blood, marriage, or adoption and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependents is based upon some moral or legal obligation. Such relative need not be under 18 years of age, nor mentally nor physically defective, but must be without income sufficient to support him or her.

Following are concrete examples of the exemptions and credits allowed a head of a family. A son supports in one household an aged mother and two sisters, both under 18 years of age. The son's net income for 1922 was $4,000. He is allowed an exemption of $2,500 as the head of a family whose net income was less than $5,000, plus a $400 credit for each dependent, a total of $3,700. His taxable income is $300, on which the tax of 4 per cent. is $12.

A widower with one child under 18 years of age had a net income for 1922 of $3,000. He is entitled to an exemption of $2,500 as head of a family plus the $400 credit for a dependent.

In the absence of continuous residence with persons whom he supports, whether a person is head of a family within the meaning of the statute depends upon the character of the separation.

If a parent is away on business or a child or other dependent is away at school, the common home being maintained the exemption applies. But when needlessly and continuously both parties live apart, the status of a head of a family does not exist, irrespective of support being given.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Charles Lathrop Pack, who organized the American Tree Association, whose objective will be to plant a million trees in 1923, is a former president of the American Forestry Association, and has been prominently identified with numerous other national organizations. Resident now at Lakewood, N. J., he made his fortune and built up his reputation while living in Cleveland. Few men of wealth in America have so intelligently followed the theoretical and practical development of forestry and other natural resources, and he has had official duties in connection with those and numerous other enterprises looking to the welfare of the present and future generations. During the war he served as president of the National Food Emergency Garden Commissioner of the United States. In 1918 he was unden president of the World's Corn Exhibit, in succession to John Hays Hammond.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reply to L. B. R. and F. J. W.

Mr. Editor: Concerning the letter in this morning's paper, the writer who says he has studied the Revelation for 25 years, seems not to have gained much knowledge by the studies. It is a waste of time to answer such letters, as far as the writers of them are concerned, and it is only on account of other seekers after the truth, who know little of God's word, that I am writing this. Any who read and believe God's word, and can deliberately turn it upside down or inside out to make it fit "their views," and gets such a mess of pottage as this writer has out of it shows peculiar reasoning. And who does not give the Great Author of the Universe, who made all things through or by Our Lord (who was His first Creation) the credit of being able to perform all the things His word tells us He did perform? Then they must have a peculiar idea of His great power and wisdom. Even a child it seems to me, who knows anything at all of God's word, can tell how its true teaching and meaning is denied in this morning's letter by L. B. R. And Dr. Grant is another who is looking for worldly honor and notoriety. The Bible to a true Christian is a divine revelation, reasonable and trustworthy. It answers all questions. God is his own interpreter. It reveals a systematic plan full of justice, wisdom and love. Can one wonder the world is in such confusion today, when God's word is utterly ignored, even when it is so plainly to be seen that we are living in the very day that proclaims the presence of our Redeemer, who was dead and is alive again forevermore (Rev. 1:18)? "Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God." (2 Jno. 9). "Mark them which cause divisions and offenses contrary to the doctrine." (Rom. 16:17.) I wish some of these wise (?) men would give us a reason for the coming of the Saviour if they deny the Genesis account of the beginning of man, his fall, and the only reasonable and just cause for a Redeemer or (Ransom)? Some time ago F. J. W. could not see how a true Christian could deny spiritism being taught more or less in the Scripture, or something to that effect. I do not think a true Christian or student of God's word will deny that it is a very prominent thing in the Scripture. And also that the Scripture advises us to let it alone. "We do emphatically deny that the Scripture teaches that it is our dear dead ones, as those not blinded by satan can easily see if they will take as much pains to study the Word, as they do for other worldly things. Please read some of the texts below, and remember that the Bible also states that satan is the God of this evil world (at present) and he is trying to hold on as long as he can. Also that the dear old book says "he is the prince of powers of the air." There you have it, the powers of the air are the fallen angels who kept not their first estate and they with their head, satan, are certainly cutting up shines. The texts follow: Gen. 2:17, Rom. 6:23, Rom. 1:18, Gen. 3:19, Eccl. 3:19 and 20, Eccl. 12:7, Psa. 146:4, Eccl. 9:5-10, and more reality of spirits. Ex. 22:18. Lev. 19:31. 20:6-27. Den. 18:10-12. 2 Kings 21:26, 23:24, 1 Cor. 10:13-14. Isa. 8:19, 19:3, 29:4. Acts 16:16-18. 1 Cor. 10:20, Gal. 5:20, Rev. 21:.

Norwich Town, Feb. 1, 1923.

Canterbury-Scotland Road.

Mr. Editor: In these days when every city and town is asking the state to build a new road in its vicinity, we want to say a word about completing the state road between Plainfield and Willimantic.

The nearest way between these towns, Plainfield and Willimantic, runs almost directly west through Canterbury, Scotland and Windham. The alternate routes run through Wauregan, Brooklyn, Hampton, etc., or through Taftville and Norwich. And either of these routes is at least twice as far as by the western route. Consequently, no one would think of going to Willimantic by the longer route if the shorter route were fit to travel.

Some time ago the following rhyme was procured:

"Traveler, pause, consider well,
The road beyond is rough as ——."
And every one who has ever been over this road says this is the one the writer had in mind.

If one should start for Willimantic by this shorter route he would pass over a good road as far as Canterbury Plains; then he would have about four miles of road of every known kind of badness. His would and places so narrow that the bushes would scrape his car on both sides, and would find mud, rocks and rutty places that would try his patience and put his car to the limit. Then just beyond the Scotland line he would come upon a good macadam road running into Willimantic.

If only these few miles were made good, it would be of immense service to this whole section. It would be difficult to find a place where a few miles of improved road would help so many people, and the citizens of this part of the state think that if hundreds of thousands of dollars can be spent on boulevards where good roads already exist some thought should be given to this part of the state where a comparatively small expenditure would do so much good.

Wives of Famous Men

Eugenie, Wife of Louis Napoleon.

What romances are conjured up by the name of Eugenie, Empress of France! There is little doubt that this beautiful royal lady of the Third Empire was as famous, if not more so, than her husband, the ill-starred Louis Napoleon. Eugenie is dead but a short time, less than two years, and the stories of her grandeur and downfall are still told wherever the romance of real life is believed in.

Eugenie was the toast of Europe during her proud, mad reign. Daughter of a Spaniard of high birth, the Count De Montijo, her maternity was a matter of speculation. A bewildering array of stories have floated through society regarding the birth of this beautiful girl, sought after by men of wealth and culture almost from her childhood. But it made little difference—her beauty and charm were so potent that she attracted all who came in her path.

The marriage of Louis and Eugenie, like most marriages of state, gave no consideration to the happiness of the two principals. However, it was a love affair from the beginning. When Eugenie learned that she was to marry the Frenchman (he was not then emperor) she wrote to Queen Isabella of Spain pledging her loyalty and promising to do all she could to strengthen the bond between the two nations. Following the overthrow of the empire she lived for many years in England.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

CHACO CANYON RUINS.

Living trees and cut timbers may become the mute calendars of much of the undated pre-Columbian history of North America, as the result of a new means of time determination to be first applied to the study of the Chaco Canyon ruins, explored by the National Geographical Society.

Of the accomplished people who built the remarkable communal dwellings in northwestern New Mexico, developed a relatively high civilization and left traces of marvelous engineering feats and exquisite art objects, it has been said regretfully they had no calendars such as the elaborate time-keeping devices of the Mayas of Central America.

It seems they had, but did not know it. Recent study of tree growth shows that trees not only register the passing years by their rings; but the contour, thickness, and conformation of these rings indicate climatic changes from year to year. Moreover these changes are cyclic.

"Oh, that they could tell their story!" many a nature lover has exclaimed as he gazed at some tree patriarch which had outlived many generations of human beings. All along the trees could tell their story; but mankind is just learning to read it.

Dr. A. E. Douglas of the University of Arizona and the Carnegie Institution has developed a method which science now recognizes as a trustworthy process of reading tree records of time and climate. Despite the remarkable accomplishments of the National Geographic Society's expeditions to Pueblo Bonito (Beautiful Village) of Chaco Canyon, the leader, Neil M. Judd, admits that no evidence has been found to give a satisfactory answer to the question most often asked, "How old is the ruin?"

Was it 800, or 1,200 A. D., or even longer ago that, looking down from sheer canyon cliffs the Wandering Jew might have seen children at play on the roofs of the giant Pueblo Bonito apartment house (to mention only one) and their elders at work on their garden plots of squash, corn and beans? Or fashioning some of the beautiful pottery or tiny ornaments which resemble carrings of 1922? Or worshiping with elaborate ritual in the cloistered kivas?

Of course there are no thousand-year-old trees among the pines and junipers of New Mexico or Arizona. The oldest ones yet found are from 400 to 500 years old. The question then arises: How bridge the gap between these trees and the span of years represented by the timbers used in the roof supports of Bonito's excellent masonry?

Therein lies the romance of the forthcoming expeditions for which the National Geographic Society has just made a grant of $2,500 a year for three years. The quest has all the mystery of a detective story, the intrigue of a Baconian cipher, yet its working out will furnish valuable fact as well as mental enjoyment.

Briefly, the method of study contemplates getting cross sections of the oldest living trees, then obtaining from other Pueblos, of more recent supposed date, timbers which overlap the newly-cut trees in time period, then working ever backward with older and older specimens until those are found which correspond, in their cyclic indications, to those of the Chaco Canyon Pueblos.

Walpi and Oraibi, in Arizona, and Zuni and Acoma, in New Mexico, the last mentioned being the oldest continuously occupied pueblo in the southwest, will be visited in an effort to patch together tree sections which will carry the forest almanac back to dating distance of the far more elaborate Chaco Canyon ruins.

A second line of study will concern itself with a study of buried stumps near Flagstaff, Arizona, and other stumps farther west in recently washed-out valleys. These, too, may furnish records of seasonal changes which will help in fitting together tree diagrams of time.

The National Geographic Society's grant of $2,500 annually for three years to carry on this special phase of study is in addition to the exploration tending further to disclose the life, manners, customs, and remnants of the handiwork of the early American apartment house builders.

Stories That Recall Others

A New Accessory.

Hiram, aged four, with his mother on the way to his aunt's for dinner, was picked up by his grandfather in the new automobile of the latter. In the rear compartment of the auto was a heater, something new to Hiram. On his arrival at his aunt's Hiram exclaimed:

"Oh, auntie' grandpa has a new automobile with a furnace in it"

Mary Helped Out.

They had been married six months when their first big quarrel occurred. It was followed by a period of silence on her part: She didn't speak, but sent him messages of what to buy for the house through Mary, her faithful cook.

This continued for one week. He had decided to let her pout it out when she began to talk again. He said to her, "I knew you would see how cruel you were, dear, and that you'd do the right thing."

"I did not," she retorted, hotly, "I saw how cruel Mary was going to be. She gave me notice she wouldn't stay in a silent house any longer, and that it was up to me to talk to you or get a new cook. I chose the lesser evil."

Winds.

A curious instance of the effect of the shape of the ground upon the wind blowing over it was noted by a Frenchman experimenting with kites in France. When a north wind floated the kite the latter kept its balance easily, but when the wind came from the south or southeast the kite pitched and bobbed in a very irregularly manner. The explanation was furnished by the character of the surface over which the wind had passed. Coming from the north, it had a plain country to blow over but coming from the south and southeast it passed over broken hills, which set up irregular puffs and undulations.—Washington Star.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe and nobody can tell. Brush it through hair.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair; taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

EVANGELIST KING SPEAKS ON THE NEW BIRTH

The subject of the talk given by Rev. York A. King, evangelist, speaking Thursday evening at the Central Baptist church was taken from John 3. 3rd, 5th and 7th verses, the subject being, "Ye Must Be Born Again."

The name Nicodemus appears three times in these verses, said Rev. Mr. King, once as an inquirer, again as a witness, and lastly as an inquirer. The words, "By night," used in the verses have a significant meaning for it is always in times of darkness and sorrow that people feel their way to God. Nicodemus learned that in Jerusalem there was a company who kept calm under most trying circumstances and he went to them to find their secret of peace. It is the same with us who have happiness, success, music, books, and friends. There is always that serpent that with his cruel teeth works into our life, and we find a time when we desire to get rid of it.

How can a person of 20, 30 or 40 years be born again? It must be by the re-creation of the soul. People born in other lands become citizens of our country, the change taking place in their souls. It is the same with silver coins. We place them in a crucible and add an acid. Certain elements are thrown off, others taken on. Finally all the silver is in the bottom of the crucible, but it has the same value. It is the same with the spirit, things are thrown off and new things added, and God takes those things we love and makes them more precious than ever.

God has given every man an instrument with which he can receive messages. It was through this instrument, the soul, that Martin Luther and John Wesley received messages from God and went out to do their wonderful work for the kingdom.

In the afternoon there were meetings for parents and teachers during which Rev. Mr. King and Rev. G. Cooper conducted a most interesting meeting. Prior to the evening meeting about fifty members of the Sunday school enjoyed a supper at the church, Rev. Mr. King giving an interesting talk.

This (Friday) evening is to be Family Night, and every family is welcome. Bring out every member of your family, said Rev. Mr. King. If you've got a family bring them and we welcome, we want families. If you haven't a family come anyway.

JURY DISAGREES ON SLANDER SUIT VERDICT

After having the case under consideration from noon Thursday to 3.45 in the afternoon, with a recess of an hour for dinner, the jury failed to reach a verdict in the superior court here Thursday in the suit for $2,000 damages for slander brought by Michael J. Murphy of New London against Harry J. Howard of the same city.

Judge Allen L. Brown discharged the jury from the case after they had made two reports through Foreman Charles S. Briggs that they could not reach a verdict.

After their discharge it was reported in the court room that they stood 5 to 1.

The jury returned the first time at 1.05 with their report of no verdict. Judge Brown read them extracts from a supreme court decision on the duty of a jury to try to reach a verdict and the obligation of the minority either way to give proper respect to the opinion of the majority in a conscientious effort to arrive at a verdict.

He sent them back to the jury room, where they stayed until 3.40 when they brought back their second report and were discharged.

WEDDINGS

Barber—Brogno

Peter A. Barber and Miss Anna Teresa Brogno were united in marriage Thursday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Memorial church by Rev. William A. Keefe. The bridesmaid was Miss Anna Abrussio of Worcester, a cousin of the groom, and the best man was James Pedace of this city. Henry LaFontaine presided at the organ and several solos were rendered during the service.

The bride was gowned in white canton crepe, with veil in crown shape trimmed with pearl beads. Her bouquet was white roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of peach color with hat to match and carried a bouquet of mixed roses.

There was a reception at the home of the bride 172 North Main street many guests being present. Many gifts were received by the bride, and she received a string of pearls as a gift from the groom. After a wedding tour the couple will reside in their newly furnished home on Main street, East Side.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benadette Brogno and for the past two years has been employed at the Community Bake Shoppe. The groom is a veteran of the World war and is in the grocery business in this city.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Virginia Hyde Plummer.

Word has been received by relatives in Norwich of the death of Mrs. Virginia Hyde Plummer on Dec. 25th last at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ferguson, of Durham, N. C. Mrs. Plummer was the daughter of the late James H. and Eunice Hyde of Franklin and spent her girlhood days in Norwich. For over 40 years she has resided in the south. A brother, Burrill Hyde, died in this city 17 years ago. She leaves, besides her daughter, one sister, Mrs. Cyrus Marsh, of Richmond, Va.

C. Leslie Baldwin.

The death of C. Leslie Baldwin of Franklin occurred Wednesday afternoon at his home there, following a year and a half of illness with heart and kidney trouble.

He was born in Norwich, the son of Charles J. and Marion L. Baldwin, and spent a large part of his early life here. He was a graduate of the Mt. Pleasant street school and for a year and a half was a faithful employe in Woodworth & Smalley's drug store, but was obliged to give this up owing to all health. Fifteen years ago he bought a farm in Franklin, where he remained the rest of his active life, except for two years when he was employed by his father. He was a member of the Congregational church of Franklin and of the Carpenters' union of this city.

Mr. Baldwin was married thirteen years ago on the 23rd day of last June to Alice Main of Franklin. He is survived by his wife, his parents and two children, Alice and Susie May Baldwin.

He was a devoted husband and considerat father because of his cordial good will and generous nature had a host of friends who will regret to learn of his death. His solicitous regard for his family will be a cherished memory among those who deeply mourn his loss.

Mrs. Michael O'Neill.

Mrs. Sarah O'Neill, widow of Michael O'Neill, of 32 Perry street, New London, died Thursday morning at a private hospital in that city, following an operation for gall stones, which took place about a week ago. Mrs. O'Neill had been ill for six weeks prior to her removal to the hospital where the operation was performed.

She had made her home in New London about six years, coming from Brooklyn, Conn. Mr. O'Neill, who was a watchman at the Babcock printing press plant, died a year ago last September. The only relative surviving is a daughter, Mrs. William J. McPartland, of 32 Perry street, New London.

Mrs. O'Neill was a member of St. Joseph's church, and of the Catholic Women's club.

FUNERALS.

John Eaton.

Funeral services for John Laton were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the funeral parlors of Cummings & Ring, a large number of relatives and friends attending. The service was conducted by Rev. Frederick C. Williams, rector of St. Andrew's church. There were many beautiful flowers.

The body was placed in the receiving vault at Maplewood cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Williams conducted a committal service. The bearers were William Shaw, George, Harold and William Shaw, Jr.

Mr. Eaton died Jan. 29th at his home, 59 Twelfth street, after a short illness. He was born in Salisbury, Mass., 62 years ago, but the greater part of his life had been spent in Norwich. For years Mr. Laton had been interested in teaming and trucking and had worked for various trucking concerns in the city. In the days of the horse-drawn cars Mr. Eaton was foreman of the Greeneville barn and followed that business until horse-drawn cars were done away with in Norwich to make room for the more modern trolleys.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Ada Shaw, and two children, John and Frederick Eaton, both of this city.

Herman A. Gager

Funeral services for Herman A. Gager were held from his late home in Franklin Thursday afternoon relatives and friends from many places attending. The service was conducted by Rev. William J. Tate of Yantic, who paid tribute to the life of the departed. Mrs. William Tate and Mrs. Armstrong sang two numbers during the service, Beautiful Isle and Somewhere and Sometime We'll Understand.

Burial was in the Pautipaug cemetery, near Baltic, where Rev. Mr. Tate read a committal service. The bearers were Frank I. Date, Lloyd Ayer, Clifford Robinson and James H. Hyde. Arrangements were by C. A. Gager.

Mrs. Joseph Duquette.

Funeral services for Rosalie Duquette, wife of Joseph Duquette, were held Thursday at the Immaculate Conception church, Baltic, Rev. Father O'Brien officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service from Lowell, Mass., Willimantic and Norwich. The bearers were Peter Godaire, Louis Godaire, Arthur Arpin, Joseph Arpin, Emile Casavant and Wilfred Gagonue.

Mrs. Duquette was a member of the St. Ann society and is survived by her husband and the following children: Celia, Addard and Joseph Duquette, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Gauthier, of Norwich.

Many a man who follows the band wouldn't have the nerve to face the music.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES ON TRIAL FOUR YEARS AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

The last hour in the superior court here Thursday afternoon was used in opening the trial of the suit of Mrs. Grace A. Fillmore of 9 Walnut street against Francis Ryan of Colchester for $1,000 for damage done to Mrs. Fillmore's automobile in the early evening of Aug. 30, 1918 by an automobile driven by Ryan.

The accident happened at Yantic nearly in front of the driveway at the home of A. J. Bailey, and it is alleged that the Ryan car ran into the other, breaking both front wheels of the Fillmore car, bending an axle, crushing the radiator, and doing other damages so that she was deprived of the use of the car for two months and had to spend a considerable sum to have it repaired.

The defendant makes a general denial.

Continue Trial Friday

When Judge Allyn L. Brown adjourned court at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, he instructed the jurymen that they were to return Friday morning at 10 o'clock for a continuation of the trial.

First Witness for Plaintiff.

George D. Fillmore, husband of the plaintiff, was the first witness called by Attorney Pettis. He testified to the ownership of a 1916 Studebaker touring car by his wife and that it was in good running order at the time of the accident. In the car at the time of the accident, besides the witness were his wife, his son Lyle and Mr. and Mrs. John Irish, all of this city.

At the time of the accident the car was returning towards Norwich on the road from Yantic and was driven by Lyle Fillmore. The son was not a licensed operator, but the witness was and had his operator's license with him, the witness said.

The car license and the operator's license were laid in as exhibits.

Mr. Fillmore said he was on the front seat with his son, the other persons being in the rear seat. The accident happened north of the residence of A. J. Bailey at about 7.30 to 7.45 in the evening. The time for lighting lights that night was 7.45 and neither car had lights burning.

Earlier in the evening on Broadway the witness said that he saw the Ryan car, which was zigzagging in the street near St. Patrick's church. It was almost impossible to pass it then. The man in the rear seat had his arm out to the right, but the Fillmore car passed the Ryan car at Park church.

At the time of the accident the witness said he saw the Ryan car first at a distance of 100 feet and it was approaching in a zigzag way and was on Ryan's extreme left of the road, the Fillmore car being on its extreme right. As the Ryan car reached the Fillmore machine, the driver of the latter car steered it to the left, the witness said, as there would have been a head-on collision unless he had done so. The Ryan car struck the Fillmore car in front, one front wheel hitting the radiator and the other just back of the front wheel of the Fillmore car. The Fillmore car was carried over to the left towards the trolley track and came to a rest there. The repairs to the Fillmore car cost about $200, and the car was under repairs from Nov. 1 to Jan. 1. Before Nov. 1 the witness said he had been trying to make an adjustment. At the time of the accident Mr. Ryan said, "Come up into the lane and we'll settle it," but Wm. Ryan said, "No, let it rest." Later Francis and Wm. Ryan came to the Fillmore house to talk about settlement.

The witness said Francis Ryan was not sober at the time of the accident. Before the accident the driver of the Fillmore car had put on his brakes. Mrs. Irish was thrown out of the car, going over the right shoulder of the witness.

On cross examination by Attorney Shields Mr. Fillmore said he noticed, when they were going up Broadway, that the Ryan car was behind them as far as Harland's corner. He denied that at the time of the accident he couldn't find the car registration under the seat to show to Constable Myer Blumenthal, but he could not be sure of this, he said. He testified that Blumenthal asked for his driver's license and he showed that to the constable.

He denied that the wheels of the Fillmore car were on the trolley tracks at any time, or that any one told him that it was a lucky thing that the Ryan car hit the Fillmore car, because it would have gone off the embankment if it hadn't been hit. The car was bought for $800, he said in November, 1916, and was not new at that time.

JUDGE ALBERTO RORABACK DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Judge Alberto T. Roraback, who retired from the bench of the supreme court of errors upon reaching the age limit of 70 three years ago, and who for many years was a superior court judge, died of cancer at 8.40 Thursday morning at his home in North Canaan after an illness of about one year.

Judge Roraback was born on Aug. 23, in East Sheffield, Mass., 73 years ago. He attended the public schools in his native town, South Berkshire institute in New Marlboro, and a seminary in New York. He taught school in Sheffield and in North Canaan for a short time and then took up the study of law in the office of Judge Donald Warner at Salisbury in 1870. He was admitted to the bar in 1872 and began to practice law in Canaan.

He was appointed judge of the superior court of common pleas for Litchfield county, serving from 1889 to 1893. During this period no decision of his was reversed by the supreme court.

While a member of the general assembly from North Canaan, from 1895 to 1897, he was chairman of the judiciary committee. He had the distinction of having been the first republican elected to the general assembly from the town.

Governor L. A. Cooke appointed him judge of the court of common pleas for Litchfield county on March 19, 1897, to serve for four years, but a vacancy on the superior court bench resulted in his advancement two years later.

Governor Lounsbury reappointed Mr. Roraback to serve in the superior court for eight years. In 1907 Governor Rollin S. Woodruff also reappointed him as superior court judge, but a few months later made him a justice of the supreme court for eight years starting Sept. 9, 1908. In 1910 Governor Holcomb allowed him to continue on the supreme court bench for eight more years from Sept. 9, 1916. But on Aug. 23, 1918, when Judge Roraback became 70 years old, he was forced to retire from the bench because he had reached the age limited by the constitution.

Judge Roraback married Minnie E. Hunt, a daughter of Edward P. Hunt, a North Canaan iron manufacturer, on Feb. 20, 1873. He leaves, besides his wife, two sons, Rev. A. E. Roraback of Brooklyn, N. Y., and J. Clinton Roraback, a lawyer in Canaan, and one daughter, Mrs. Grace Stearns, wife of Rev. John H. Stearns, pastor of the Union Baptist church at Montville. He was a brother of J. Henry Roraback of North Canaan, chairman of the republican state central committee.

STEAMER WORTH LOST ONE PROPELLOR IN HARBOR

The boat was backing out through the heavy ice with a full load of freight when the propellor was lost and the boat had to work back to the dock again, where the freight was unloaded and sent on its way by rail.

Wednesday two of the most powerful tugs from the Scott company at New London made an attempt to get here, but they found the ice in the river that they could get no farther than Cow Point below Montville.

It is expected that the steamer Cape Cod will come here Saturday from New York and tow the disabled boat down the river for repairs.

RESCUED DEER FROM DROWNING IN RIVER

George Lambert of this city rescued a deer from a hole in the ice in the river along the Baltic road Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The animal had broken through at some distance from shore, and was about exhausted in its struggles to get out of the hole.

Mr. Lambert had a rope tied around his waist and held on shore while he ventured out on the ice and was able to haul the deer out without breaking through himself. The deer was so weak and numb with the cold and the struggles that it had been making that it submitted to being handled with scarcely any resistance.

After the animal had been hauled out it was left to recover its strength and take to the woods again.

Occasionally a man climbs so high that he roots above everybody else—then he begins to get lonesome.

HEARING IS HELD ON CLOSE SEASON FOR SHAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, Feb. 1.—At the capitol today the finance committee gave a hearing on the bills concerning water bonds for the city of Willimantic and school bonds of the town of Windham.

The hearing on the bill introduced by Mr. Brockway of Lyme, by request, was heard in the house chamber by the fish and game committee.

The hearing was opened by Senator Ashe asking those in favor of the bill to speak first. The bill as presented reads as follows: "No person shall fish for, take or kill any shad in the Connecticut river or its tributaries, prior to May 1, 1928. Every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be fined not less than ten dollars or more than one hundred dollars."

In the absence of President Wolcott of the fish and game commission, Supt. Tiltcomb outlined the conditions as they now exist and was of the mind that drastic action must be taken if the industry is to be preserved.

H. E. Bennett of Lyme and Representative Chapman of Saybrook thought the motion should be thoroughly investigated and hoped that an appropriation might be made for that purpose.

He thought that it would be a hardship upon the fishermen to deprive them of the privilege of fishing. In his opinion the decrease in shad was not caused so much by excessive fishing but was almost entirely due to the pollution of the river.

E. F. Belden of Rocky Hill thought the decrease was caused by pollution from gas houses and not by sewage discharge.

A large amount of acids were emptied every day into the river and fish would not thrive under those conditions.

Mr. Banning of Lyme asked to have a letter read that he had received from H. N. Edwards of East Hampton. It spoke of the large number of small shad that are seen each year during July and August, and thought they were killed by pollution. Mr. Belden further stated that it was his belief that the object sought could be accomplished by the provisions of the bill. The pollution was the cause and must be removed.

Mr. Wheeler of Stratford asked if the state could provide any legislation that would improve conditions. Capt. Banning thought the state should provide fishways. Superintendent Titcomb said that fishways had not been successful in other places.

In answer to question by Chairman Ashe, Mr. Banning said he thought the open season should be flexible. He thought the season should be from April 15 to June 1.

Superintendent Titcomb thought the matter might be left to the discretion of the commission.

At this point there was a lively tilt between Captain Banning and Mr. Titcomb. Capt. Banning said that the more Mr. Titcomb talked the more he showed ignorance of the matter.

On the suggestion of Mr. Wheeler a vote of those present showed for the shorter season. Mr. Wheeler asked if in the opinion of the fishermen, restricting the fishing to certain days in the week would improve conditions.

It was stated that this method in New York had been a failure. A. C. Smith said that fishermen were in favor of an earlier season. It was a fact that during the summer a large number of dead shad are seen floating down the river, and asked if the condition of the river had killed mature shad, what must it have done to the young fish. Other kinds of dead fish are seen upon the river. Anyone going upon the river at night will find the surface covered with a coating of oil and everyone knows that fish will not live where there is oil. Commissioner Walcott said that it was very evident that it was the opinion of all present that pollution was the main cause of the decrease of the industry.

The meeting was largely attended by fishermen bordering on the Connecticut river. It was unanimously voted that they would gladly co-operate with the fish and game commission in any effort they might make to improve conditions.

The committee on finance had before it the bills concerning the issuance of bonds by the town of Stonington. The town was represented by Joseph A. Vargos, selectman, E. B. Hinckley, town treasurer, John Fribance, clerk of the selectmen, and Representative Charles F. Champlin.

The town of Stonington had asked for sinking fund bonds, but it was evident that the committee was not in favor of them in this form but would favor them if issued in a serial form.

No action was taken by the committee on the Willimantic and Windham bond issues, as Representative Fenton asked that the hearing be deferred to a later date.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR EXHIBIT IN BROADWAY STORE

In connection with the celebration of Christian Endeavor Week in Norwich, the Norwich Christian Endeavor Union has placed in the windows of the Cranston store on Broadway an attractive display of the way in which Christian Endeavor has spread throughout the world. The display includes a church, in front of which is a monogram of the Christian Endavor from which run ribbons tied to dolls dressed to represent the people of many countries in the world. The display is explained by the poster, "Christian Endeavor draws all the World to Christ and to His Church."

The history of the Norwich Christian Endeavor Union goes back to October 12, 1888, when at the First Congregational chapel in Norwich Town, ten societies met and became charter members of the union. The original societies of the union were from the following churches: First Congregational, Second Congregational, Greeneville Baptist, Taftville Congregational, Preston City Congregational, Hanover, Franklin, Griswold, Jewett City, and Glasgo Congregational churches.

Most of the charter societies still remain in the union. Two societies dropped out for a few years but have again started and joined the union. At the meeting of the union held last Sunday evening at the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, seven of the charter societies reported, showing an enrollment of 226.

The union continued to grow until today there are 20 societies besides the intermediates and juniors, and more will probably join during this year and bring the membership to considerably over 500.

Two years ago the constitution was changed to take in all organized Young People's societies, which have similar aims and purposes. In the membership of the union today are Christian Endeavor societies of Congregational, Baptist and Methodist churches; B. Y. P. U. members fro mBaptist churches, Young People's Union of Universalist churches.

Among those who have held offices of president or vice president of the union in its existence are Rev. Charles A. Northrop, Aaron W. Dickey, Ebenezer Allen, Frederick B. Cary, Henry D. Johnson, Rev. Mr. Potter of Jewett City, Miss Alice Bishop, William G. Park, George F. Hyde and William McNicol.

The present officers are: President, Orrin S. Maples, Fitchville; vice president, Earl Palmer, Jewett City; secretary, Gertrude Laid, Hanover; treasurer, Eugenie Dean, Norwich.

The societies as a union through the various committees have done effective work in the different communities, but it has existed for the purpose of being a help and inspiration to the societies which comprise it, and through them to the churches of which they are a part.

The spirit of unity is felt when even the societies get together, and it is hoped that by handing together, the union will continue to be as in the past a power for Christ and the church in Norwich and vicinity.

SETTLE SUIT AGAINST CITY FOR HOLLAND DEATH

A settlement for the approximate sum of $5,000 was made Thursday in the suit of John A. Holland, administrator, against the city of Norwich for the death of his son, John F. Holland, who was killed by an electric shock from a wire in the cellar of his home, 420 Asylum street, on Nov. 6, 1921.

The sum agreed upon in settlement will be paid by the company which had insured the city gas and electric department.

The suit was one of those assigned for trial in the superior court this week, but the attorneys and principals reached a settlement before the case came to trial. The suit was for $10,000 on a claim of negligent installation of electric light wires from the city plant.

Ninth Birthday Party

Mrs. Richard F. Pendleton of 96 Franklin Street, entertained Thursday afternoon, twenty little friends, in honor of her daughter Marion's ninth birthday. Games and music were enjoyed by the little folks. The dining room was very prettily decorated in red and the center piece of the table was a birthday cake with nine candles. Ice cream, cake, cookies, wafers and candy were served. Mrs. Edward Brodeur assisted Mrs. Pendleton in serving. The little hostess received many pretty gifts.

CATHOLIC WOMEN WILL SEW FOR THE POOR

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Catholic Woman's club was held on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in St. Mary's T. A. B. hall, about 40 being present. Mrs. James J. Lonergan, the newly elected president, presided. Reports of the various committees showed the splendid work that is being done by the club.

Sewing for the poor is to begin next Thursday afternoon in one of the rooms in St. Patrick's school, which is equipped with three sewing machines. The chairman of the committee, Mrs. T. F. Burns, hopes for a large attendance. A report from the chairman of the whist which was held with the Rosary society for the benefit of the poor was most encouraging. The committees are working to make a most successful affair. The small social affairs for the club were voted on and committees are to be appointed by the chair.

At the close of the meeting tea was served by Mrs. George P. [illegible] chairman, Mrs. Frances [illegible] Mrs. John J. O'Rourke and Mrs. Farrell. A social time followed.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The carcass of a big doe, weighing between 175 and 200 pounds hung in a restaurant here Thursday evening. The doe was shot during Thursday by Game Warden F. E. Kies that the animal might be put out of the misery of resting about with a broken right hind leg. Warden Kies shot the deer while it was making its way through country near the trolley bridge a distance west of the Valley school house near East Killingly. He had been informed of the animal's plight and had made search of it. A well directed shot from Mr. Kies revolver brought down the deer and Bertrand Lindner, who assisted Mr. Kies promptly severed a knife that it might bleed clean and the meat preserved as the state's game commissioner directs.

It is asserted that the deer sustaining the injury that led to its death was attacked by dogs, but this is not definitely established. Mr. Kies, County Game Warden for the district of Putnam of the interior, Mr. Letters will come here and dispose of the carcass will be dealt with instructions received.

PUTNAM

The splendid success achieved in the brief period of a year by one of Putnam's financial organization is revealed in the annual report of the L. A. W. Acceptance corporation, which began to function in January in 1922. The report shows the current assets of the corporation to be $140,770.24, while the liabilities as the date of the report are but 48,161.34, these figures shown after a checkup by representatives of a firm of certified public accountants. The corporation started its business with assets of $27,000, so the tremendous growth of the business is indicated by the figures in the first annual report.

At a meeting of the stockholders held here Wednesday the following were elected directors for the ensuing year: Louis A. Wolf, Putnam, L. M. Carpenter, Jewett City; Simon Kaminsky, Putnam; George Greenberger, Norwich; Sidney Symon, Norwich; James A. Shea, Jewett City; Philip Godfere, North Grosvenordale; Maurice Friedman, Norwich; John F. Carpenter, Putnam.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected: President, L. A. Wolf; first vice-president, John F. Carpenter; second vice-president, George Greenberger; treasurer, L. M. Carpenter; assistant treasurer, Simon Kaminsky; secretary, Maurice Friedman; assistant secretary, Mrs. Lilla Gauthier.

The L. A. W. Corporation is engaged chiefly in financing purchasers of automobiles. The field is a prolific one in yielding profitable business and at the same time is a boon for scores of people who find it convenient to use the services of the corporation when financing the purchase of an automobile. Its local field of operations covers eastern Connecticut, but it attracts business from points more distant.

The stockholders of the corporation are delighted over the fact that the dividends paid during the past year were at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum—$12 on every hundred invested.

There was resignation mingled with regret Thursday when taxpayers read of the fact that property holders in Putnam will share with others of this class throughout the country in paying a $50,000 county tax during this year and 1924 Windham county members of the legislature voted for the levy at a meeting held Wednesday at the state capitol in Hartford. There was no alternative, as the country has a deficit that must be met and faces the necessity of making extensive improvements at the county home in the Sawyer district of this town. These improvements to provide adequate accomodation for the 130 children now there and the larger number the home may have at any time include provision for the erection for new school rooms. The improvements at the home will cost, according to an estimate of a competent builder, approximately $25,000.

The greater part of the burden of paying the $50,000 tax will fall upon the towns of Windham, Putnam, Killingly and Plainfield. These towns have the largest grand lists and consequently will pay a larger share of the tax than the other country towns, none of which will escape an equitable share of this tax assessment.

Shrinkage of county revenues during the past three years may chiefly be charged against the loss of license money on the one hand and the jail revenues largely growing out of the liquor dealers poured money into the county treasury for the privilege of doing business. This business landed many men who could not control their appetites in the county jail, which was a profit earning institution up to the time that prohibition operated against large commitments of prisoners—for the prisoners were made to work and earned thousands of dollars for the county while serving their sentences.

As against a surplus that at times ran as high as $4,000 in the years before prohibition, the county jail now turning in deficit reports running up, as in the current county report, to $10,890.95 in one year. On this basis the loss at the jail in a two-year period such as is contemplated in the new $50,000 county tax would crowd $22,000, or nearly half the total amount to be assessed.

So long as the jail is maintained, and enough people continue to get into trouble to make this appear, necessary, the county will likely have to stand a heavy yearly loss, for the overhead is largely as heavy at the jail when but a score of prisoners are there as it would be with 75 to 100 serving sentences, as was frequently the case in the past.

Some have advocated an arrangement that would close the jail and provide for housing the county's prisoners in some other county jail, paying of course, for the privilege, under adequate statutory arrangements.

At no time since hard coal replaced wood as fuel in homes in Putnam—and that is many, many years ago—has there been such a dearth of the black diamonds as the city is now experiencing. Soft coal, coke, screenings and wood—including green wood that in some casts has been cut more than two weeks—are being used as substitutes. There is practically no prospect of real relief, it is said, though shipments of coal may be expected from time to time. These shipments will not be sufficient to relieve the coal famine. All that can be hoped for is an easing off from the present grave scarcity. The winter, which has seven weeks to go, will continue to be a period making up the worst coal shortage season in the city's history.

Many who have been forced to use soft coal and praised its heat giving qualities for a time are faltering in their enthusiasm. Many who are still inexperienced and unsuccessful in using it find their heater fires out, their homes cold and piping systems frozen up upon getting up in the morning. These householders are saying "never again!" Other wails of complaint from those who are forced to use green wood with all the difficulties attached thereto.

Operating with reverse action on what a famous American said a few years since. What this country does not need is another coal strike next spring, and you can leave this proposition with anyone you know.

No information is forthcoming as to the cause of delay in removing the St. Onge block, which was purchased by Luther M. Keith a few weeks ago. Published notices of the sale of this block by the Putnam Savings bank, which is to use the site on which it stands for a new banking home, contained a provision that the building should be removed by February 1, or the structure or such parts of it as remained standing would revert to the bank. There isn't any indication that the band intends to enforce this provision, and all appears to be harmonious. That is why the public is curious over the delayed action.

Following a custom now established as an annual event, Webster members of Putnam lodge of Elks have a charity ball in the interest of the local lodge scheduled to be held in Webster during the early part of this month.

Supt. Ralph C. Jenkins has recommended to the town school committee the reestablishment in September, 1923, of the kindergarten in the Israel Putnam school and a sub-primary class in the Smith Street school; also the consolidation of all eighth grades in the town, in September, 1923, at the high school, where the city eighth grade pupils now study.

Game Warden Charles Letters was notified Thursday afternoon by Deputy Warden Frederick E. Kies of Danielson that he (Kies) had shot and killed a deer near East Killingly after being notified that the animal was hobbling about with a broken leg. Warden Letters will go to Danielson today to take up the matter.

Additional brick layers were at work Thursday building the north wall to the First National bank building. This is a 16-inch wall and will have a stucco finish when complete.

A day with warmth enough to start water running down the car tracks and in the gutters was Thursday, advance sample of February weather. It was a welcome change from the Arctic cold of the first of the week.

E. L. Davis is not ill at Tampa, Fla., where he is spending the winter, as has been reported, but is in good health. He was only slightly indisposed for a time with a cold.

Ralph E. Thurston is now in active charge of the territory served from Danielson by the Eastern Connecticut Power company and is continuing to make his headquarters here, where he also is in charge as superintendent.

Despite the intense and consistently cold weather there is comparatively little frost in the ground—from 6 to 8 inches it is said. This is held to be due that the earth has been heavily blanketed with snow during the greater part of the real cold weather period.

At St. Mary's church this (Friday) morning there will be special services in observance of Candlemas day—the feast of the Purification. Candles will be blest for church nad home uses during the coming year.

The Apparent Injustices of the Law will be discussed Sunday at a meeting of hte Men's class at the Congregational church.

Market Conditions.

The demand for fruits and vegetables was centered around potatoes bbl. apples and celery. The demand is good for the better grade of potatoes, apples and celery, but slow on the poorer grades. Onions showed little change and the trade ruled quiet, that is, on the cheaper grade of onions, which now comprises most of the supply on the market places. Dressed lambs were in light receipt and quotations on them held steady. The demand and supply just at present are about equal. Western eggs are in fair demand. Fresh native eggs met a fair demand and quotations were well sustained. Butter quotations hold firm.

TELLS RHEUMATICS TO BEGIN ON SALTS

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity — acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

WESTERLY

A very interesting and instructive lecture was given Thursday morning at the Extension School session held in the council chambers at the town hall on Broad street. J. A. Simms of the Connecticut Agricultural college was the principal speaker. His subject was "The Feeding and Management of Young Stock." In the afternoon Mr. Simms spoke on the diseases common to dairy animals. He told his audience of the different diseases prevalent among cattle, of their symptoms and methods of preventing disease and caring for the cattle.

Mr. Simms used a chart and described the different remedies and the quantities which should be applied for the different ailments of cattle. The only wonder has been during the session for the men, that the attendance has been so small. With first hand information gladly given it is unfortunate that more of the farmers in the near-by towns and villages have not availed themselves of the oppertunity of hearing from these experts.

The women's classes have been much more largely attended and a lot of valuable information has been given to them by the women speakers. At Thursday afternoon's session for the women which is being conducted in the assembly hall in the town building, Mrs. Benjamin Walpole of Chepiwanoxet gave an interesting lecture upon the practical equipment in the home.

The funeral services for Harry H. Clapp, who died Monday afternoon after a brief illness with pneumonia, were held Thursday afternoon from his late home on Vose street. Rev. Samuel M. Cathcart, formerly pastor of the Pawcatuck Congregational church officiated at the services. The bearers were members of the Franklin lodge of Masons. The ritual of the Masonic order was read at the committal services at River Bend cemeter.

Mr. Clapp was for many years a resident of Westerly and for a number of years was foreman at the quarries of the New England Granite company at their Westerly branch.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Harry and Edward, and one daughter.

The Junior class of the Westerly High school are to give their prom at the High School hall February 21st.

Frank H. Brucker and John T. Fitzgerald have been granted a pension by the U. S. government. Brucker is to receive $18 per month and Fitzgerald $12 per month. They were both members of B Co., Third Conn. Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American war.

A carload of hard coal arrived in Westerly Thursday assigned to a local coal dealer. To relieve the shortage and to speed up delivery the coal is being delivered from the car to the customers. Some of the dealers are delivering Economy Coal, a product of Rhode Island mines. While not entirely up to the standard of first quality hard coal, still it is being used.

The prize winners in the whist and bridge party which was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Thomas McWeeney on Elm street were as follows: At straight whist: Nicholas Craddock and Mrs. Mary Frechette, first prizes and Joseph Delaney and Miss Charlotte Mainati second prizes. At the bridge the first prize went to Dr. J. M. O'Connell and Miss Mary McNelly, the second prizes were awarded to Edward Murphy and Mrs. J. M. O'Connell.

NUMBER FOUR

loom for the measure designed to ratify the settlement, whatever its form. The soldier bonus advocates have begun to discuss tacking a bonus amendment to the debt settlement bill or resolution, and, it was said, have gone so far as to count noses in the house to determine whether they could override the speaker if he should rule that such an amendment was out of order. Representative Fish, republican, New York, has made known that he intends to offer such an amendment, and was said to be prepared to wage a fight on the floor of the house if necessary.

In the senate, Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, voiced the belief that the debt funding settlement legislation would have much sailing in congress, despite that it would be "some time" before congress would agree to the arrangement. In the course of a debate that became general, he described the settlement plan as a subsidy to Great Britain and demanded that the British government be made to pay as much as this government is obligated to pay on its own securities.

TWO HOUR DEBATE ON BRITISH DEBT IN SENATE

Washington, Feb. 1.—Indications of the hot fight expected in congress on the question of ratification of the British debt settlement developed today during nearly two hours of bitter debate on the debt question in the senate.

The discussion was started by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, who denounced the settlement as agreed to yesterday by the British cabinet as a violation of the provisions of the debt funding act and declared the terms of the settlement amounted to the grant by the United States of a "bonus or subsidy" to the British government. He contended that the American debt funding commission had no authority to make any such proposition and added that it would be "some time before congress agrees to any such proposition."

The speech of the Tennessee senator brought on a discussion of the debt question in which nearly half of the score of senators on the floor participated, with Senator Glass, Virginia, former secretary of the treasury, taking the lead in replying to Senator McKellar. The stand taken by Senator McKellar was supported by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama.

A tense scene, in which Senator Heflin was held by Vice President Coolidge to have violated the senate rules and reflected upon Senator Wadsworth, finally resulted after an hour's clashing between Senator Heflin and Senators Wadsworth and Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin. A statement by Senator Heflin, in criticizing the British debt arrangement, that he represented the American people and not "the bond sharks and big financiers of Wall street," was held by the vice president to be a reflection upon Senator Wadsworth, although Senator Heflin, supported by Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, denied any infraction of the rules.

The row lasted until nearly 7 o'clock and finally the proceedings, including the vice president's ruling, were vacated and an appeal from the ruling against Mr. Heflin went over until tomorrow.

Senator McKellar in beginning the debate said that, assuming that the principal of the British debt was not reduced during the 62 years covered by the agreement between the two commissions, the reduction in the interest rate below the rate paid by the United States government on the money it borrowed to make the British loan would be equivalent to "a tax" on the American people of $58,750,000 a year for the first ten years and $141,000,000 a year for the remainder of the period.

Taking decided exception to Senator McKellar's views, Senator Glass accused the Tennessee senator with "filling the record with pro-German stuff," having reference to quotations made by Senator McKellar from an historical work as to British treatment of American commerce and mails during the early days of the European war. The Virginia senator added that Senator McKellar was presenting pro-German views, which the Tennessee senator denied, and giving voice to ideas "antagonistic and unfriendly to our major ally in the recent war."

After Senator McKellar had proceeded at some length, Senator Glass broke in with an inquiry as to the reason "for this savage attack on Great Britain." Senator McKellar replied that he was attacking Great Britain "because one of her emissaries (Stanley Baldwin, head of the British debt mission) has made an attack upon the United States and upon this body."

Senator McKellar referred to the soldier bonus and said: "The bonus wouldn't cost nearly as much as if this proposed subsidy to Great Britain goes through. I would infinitely prefer to vote for a bonus to our soldiers than to give this subsidy to Great Britain."

"This subsidy to Great Britain," retorted Senator Glass, "is a figment of the imagination of the Senator from Tennessee. We have come to the conclusion that the senator thinks that because the American debt commission has proposed a settlement different from that provided in the act passed by congress, it is expedient to twist the lion's tail."

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn

Thousands who have piles have not do the same for you.
learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription is HEM-ROID, a tablet medicine taken internally, that is now sold by druggists generally. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands of people, and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

THE FARMERS' CALLING IS A HIGH CALLING

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

In 1848—35 years ago—Theodore De Vinne set up a print-shop in New York city on a somewhat unusual foundation. His ambition was to do the best work which the then limitations of "the art preservative" made possible. Not how much work but how good work he could do was his problem; not how cheaply could he do it, but how finely and perfectly. It was not quantity nor even high profit which he aimed for, but quality—the most flawless product of the highest craftsmanship.

As time went on the De Vinne press measurably approximated its founder's ambition. It became known as one of the best two or three printing establishments in the world, its product became a standard by comparison with which other typography was judged. Its artistry of design and perfection of workmanship as output lent claim to kinship with the wonderful Aldines and Elzevirs of an earlier day, when printing was still an art and not a trade.

Now the De Vinne press has shut its doors, closed its shop, gone out of business. After 75 years of adherence to its standard of quality regardless of quantity, it has been forced to suspend because it cannot any longer hold to that ideal.

Here are the two reasons its president gives for its decay, in his own words:

"Labor unions are absolutely destructive of fine work. Under their rule the worker becomes a mere machine. We are no longer able to get the type of men suited to our needs. It takes years to develop craftsmen such as our work requires."

"There is no longer a great demand for fine printing. Production and quantity are the watchwords today. Business men are educated to buy altogether on price lines. The one thing that people want to pay for today is quality. The demand for fine printing has decreased, especially since the war."

Most I ask anybody's pardon for believing that in these temperate, unimpassioned, practical words of a practical printer is found a most scathing indictment of the whole kit and caboodle of "modern industrialism," so-called?

Please don't think I'm wandering too far from my rural field when I talk a little about it, this morning. The path we take will lead us home to the farm, again, if I am not mistaken in its trend.

Do you remember that quatrain of Emerson's?

"In the elder days of art
Builders wrought with patient care
Every seen and unseen part,
For the gods see everywhere."

In these later days builders gloat over every unseen part because it affords them opportunity to skimp material or adulterate quality without fear of discovery until too late. They do not believe in any "Thou God seest me," nor have they apparent fear of any human exposure if it is delayed till the statute of limitations begins to run.

The same is practically true of nearly every trade and calling which includes itself under that bombastic name of "modern industrialism."

Quality is no longer even a theoretical desideratum. "Quantity production" is the slogan under which the self-styled "industrial" army marches. The motto is not "Good work" but "Quick work and more of it." The attempt is not to do things as they should be done, but in the speediest and slickest way which will make most immediately profitable, in today's acceptance, not tomorrow's appraisal, which is sought. The end desired is not the glory of good work, well done, but just more profits for capital and higher wages for labor.

Then the vicious and disastrous weeding circle begins. Labor jacks up its wage demands. Thereupon capital is compelled to jack up to an equal degree its demands or lose its profits. This means higher prices, and labor promptly finds in them ample motive for demanding another increase. So the spiralling circle revolves—to what consummation of disaster no prophet is able to foresee. Forever going round and round, feeding its own fall, yet constantly, day by day and in every way, hearing some unspelled catastrophe.

And this is what one man calls "the growth of intelligence," and another hails as the "chariot of progress." Men who, like their antetypes of Jerusalem, can forecast the prospects of the weather but cannot discern the signs of the times!

Today, in the biggest automobile shop in the world it is said there isn't a workman who could build a complete car. No one is any longer apprenticed and trained to such accomplishment. Instead, each workman is planted at a certain fixed point. There he stands all day doing over and over again just one detached and simple operation. As the pieces which are later to compose a car pass him on a slowly but inexorably moving belt, he seizes, we'll say, a half-inch nut and screws it on to a half-inch bolt. He doesn't know, isn't asked to know, isn't taught, doesn't care anything whatever about that nut, beyond the fact that he must stick it on its bolt and give it a certain number of turns before the bolt has been carried past him to the next man, who similarly puts another half-inch nut on another half-inch bolt.

There they stand and ten thousand like them, day after day, week after week, month after month, year after year—building automobiles? No, far from it—just screwing on half-inch nuts. It is dreary, unrelieved, deadening, drudgery which makes its doer over into an automaton, and might just as well be done by a machine as by a man. That is the way in which quantity production, "industrial efficiency" and low prices are secured.

What happens to the workman? Apparently he doesn't care, so long as he gets his minimum wage of $5 a day. The ardor of conception and planning, the zeal of craftsmanship, the satisfaction of accomplishment, the delight in doing one's best and worthiest and finding it well done at the end—all these are withdrawn from him. The very faculties which differentiate him from other animals are deadened. He might as well be a machine as a thing of logs and cams and rattling gears. He has a mind, a will, a sense of reason a power of judgment a soul, let us hope. But all the modern sum asks of him, his whole life long, is the use of three muscles in two fingers and a thumb, to pick up and screw down a half-inch nut.

Is that—and $5 a day—the true summum bonum of human life? Is that the goal at which the sweeping centuries have arrived? Is that the ultimate flowering of the age? Is that the consummate fruit of "modern industrialism?" Is that what it makes of A Man?

"No more? A monster, then a dream,
A discord. Dragons of the prime
That tear each other in the slime,
Were mellow music, matched with him!"

In truth the "dragons of the prime" showed no completer lack of the character which has come to be called "human" than the bolshevist butchers of Russia, or the massacre-mad mob of Herrin, Illinois. Both are perfectly natural and logical developments of the same damnifying trend in industry which compels the De Vinne press to close down, because there is no more demand for quality work, and no more workmen attainable to do it, even if there were a demand. Capital seems to care only for large and ever larger profits; organized labor seems to care for nothing but high and ever higher wages. And both, when balked, turn into "nameless tigers hungering for blood."

Frankenstein's monster was only a dream of a novelist's imagination. But what is this boasted "modern industrialism" turning real men into, if not soulless machines, equally monstrous and appalling?

Today the only vocation which seems to afford any sanctuary of escape, any "city of Refuge" and stronghold for defense against this foreboding assault of the forces of reaction is that of farming. However callous and cruel Nature may seem at times, she is nevertheless wiser than all the Henry Fords of "big business," and, in the end, kinder. The farmer MUST do honest work, true work, good work, usually for his own sake rather than for wages. If he doesn't, the scrap-heap for him. Not will that same Nature ever permit him to become a one-job man, either mentally or physically. He must know the signs of the weather? Yes, and of the market, too. He must be a practical biologist, even though he sneer his nastiest at the name. He must know something of the technical side of a score of sciences, and act upon his balancing of these complex knowledges. This, too, no matter how much he may scorn "book-larnin'", nor how much he may despise its professors. He can't escape from Old School-ma'am Nature, because she is omnipresently ready for him in any hiding-place he may hunt out. And she always carries her switches with her, as well as her "Rewards of Merit for a Good Boy."

That's one phase of the World situation which seems to me to deserve rather more attention than it is getting. The farmer may have, ought to have, all the machines which will help him to do his work better. But, by the very nature of that work, he cannot turn himself into a machine or be turned into one. An automatic machine might very well do all the work of the Detroit nut-handlers, but it can't tell the difference between onions and pussley in the same row, nor between a Jersey butter-cow and a Holstein milker. Nor can any machine decide whether to plant ten acres of potatoes or only two, or whether the chances are better for an early or a late crop. The farmer has got to use his hands and his legs and his dorsal muscles and his tingling nerves. He's also got to use his gumption—which is something that never resided in a machine and can never be put into one.

Indeed, the very conditions and fundamentals of his calling require of the farmer, if he is to succeed, a rather complete and constant use of all his physical powers and all his mental faculties. Nor can I imagine how he can fail of some spiritual enlargement, living all his life as he does under the very eaves of God's great Temple of All-Out-Doors. To insure results he must be a fairly all-'round man, of more or less versatility. He must of course know how to put a half-inch nut on its bolt. He must also know whether a five-years process of ditching, liming, fallowing, etc., will make a worth-while potato-patch out of the South Swamp and, if so, he must also know how to do the ditching, liming, fallowing, etc., and how to raise, harvest and profitably market the potatoes, when obtained. He must be able to put a nut on a bolt? Yes, and how to make the bolt and the nut, too, on emergency; and to know why the bolt is, and why the nut is, and why they go together, and what make-shift substitute will temporarily serve, if they both fail him.

This is one of the reasons why the farms of this country are so precious to it just now. It is because on them can be preserved and cultivated, as in almost no other occupation, the fully rounded and complete entity which is called Manhood.

Not that I am so conceited as to claim this possession for all farmers. With the great apostle to the Gentiles every farmer can truthfully say: Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended, but * * * I press forward toward the mark for the prize of the high calling.

For this calling of ours is a high calling. Its opportunities for material wealth are not irresistibly attractive. But its opportunities for service are unlimited. And it remains the one main-stay and sheet-anchor with which to hold the world off the rocks and reefs which threaten to wreck it.

To change the figure, it is still the great God-endowed university, in which the generations may be and are taught, not only to screw down half-inch nuts, but to know and do a great many more important and worth-while things. It is the big training-camp in which may be drilled a steadfast soldiery which shall result and overwhelm future assaults of civilization-scuttlers.

It is, in truth, the world's present Best Bet. We who belong to it may properly take pride in our inclusion.

We may, even more profitably, take serious thought concerning our responsibilities.

For from him to whom opportunity for great service is given shall great service be required.

THE FARMER.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

POPULARITY OF SOY BEAN AS PROFITABLE CROP INCREASES

In view of the rapidly increasing popularity of the soy bean as an oil plant as well as a forage crop in the corn belt, the Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture has extended its investigations with these beans to meet the demand for information relative to the culture, varieties, and utilization of the crop. About 175 introductions of soy beans were received from Manchuria, Japan, and China in 1922. Many of these appear to be of promise for northern and central conditions. Several factories have been equipped with machinery for the manufacture of soy-bean oil and meal as well as for various food products, such as soy sauce, flour, and milk powder.

Much progress according to the annual report of the bureau, is being made with soy beans in the south, where in past years the crop has been very popular because of the shattering tendencies of the varieties that were grown. The Biloxi variety, however, on account of its non-shattering characteristics, has done much to increase the popularity and acreage of the crop in the Gulf Coast states. The Laredo variety has been found to be resistant to nematodes and wilt. It has given most excellent results for forage and seed production.

LENGTH OF DAY BIG FACTOR IN CHOOSING ALFALFA SEED

The peculiar reactions of plants to a change in the length of day to which they are accustomed is being found useful in determining whether or not alfalfa seed is of the variety recommended and whether it is adapted to conditions in the sections of the country where it is being sold. By growing the seed in greenhouses in the late fall and winter the United States Department of Agriculture has been able to determine the suitability of alfalfa seed from Argentina to conditions in this country. As a result it has been determined that this seed is not adapted to the northern part of the United States. Most of it should not be sown any farther north than Kansas-grown seed.

By growing the seedlings for a short time in the greenhouse it is possible to tell to what group they belong. For instance, Turkestan, Kansas-grown common, Peruvian, and Grimm have their own peculiar reactions when grown out of season in the greenhouse or in the open in the fall. If started in the spring the various kinds can not readily be distinguished until they have grown to considerable size. In the fall and winter when the hours of daylight are shorter the seedlings of these various strains develop characteristic differences in height, erectness, and branching.

As a result of the discovery of the effect of the length of day on the performance of alfalfa plants, the ability of this crop to endure cold will not be the only factor to be considered in selecting varieties for the parts of the country with rigorous winters. The number of hours of daylight will have something to do with their selection. In the southwest, Peruvian alfalfa starts earlier in the spring and keeps going later in the fall than other varieties. It is able to make better growth during short days than other alfalfas, and is not particularly benefited by long periods of daylight but the plants suffer considerable winter injury this far north. Northern-grown varieties on the other hand, do not adapt themselves to the short days of Arizona. This shows why varieties of one section, even though they may be hardy enough, can not be used successfully in some other localities.

If you buy Argentine seed you can be sure that it is not suitable in the north. It should be grown at least no farther north than Kansas seed. Large quantities of seed are being imported from the Argentine; in fact most of the imported alfalfa now comes from that country. From July 1, 1922, to January 15, 1923, approximately 6,320,000 pounds were received from the country and only 281,600 pounds from other countries.

RECORDS ON 80,000 CATTLE PROVIDE VALUABLE FACTS

In order to compile dependable data on problems of beef production, the United States Department of Agriculture in the past four years has taken records on about 80,000 steers in various states of the corn belt. When the work is finished at the end of another year there will be records on approximately 100,000 steers fed for the market.

In the feeders covered—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, and Nebraska—80 per cent of the feeders are finished on corn and legume hay, 6 per cent are finished on legume hay and corn silage and all supplemented with a protein meal. The kind of hay grown in a particular locality usually determines the ration used, and a survey shows that about equal numbers of steers are fed each year by these two methods. Where there is plenty of alfalfa hay available the standard ration is corn and one of these hays. In other places where most of the hay is mixed, silage is included in the ration, and cottonseed or linseed meal is fed as a supplement to furnish protein.

The information collected during the four years shows some interesting comparisons of the two methods of making beef. To make the same gain of beef a steer required the same time where corn and alfalfa hay were used, but required more grain than was needed in the corn-silage-cotton seed-meal ration. With the first ration the steers put on an average of 1.63. In the first case it required 146 days to put on 300 pounds and in the other 184 days. It should be remembered that these figures are based on the records taken on approximately 20,000 steers a year for four years.

The feed consumed by the average steer in these two groups is given below:

Corn	52 bushels
Alfalfa hay	1,043 pounds
Straw	239 pounds
Corn	30 bushels
Cottonseed meal	177 pounds
Mixed hay	600 pounds
Silage	5,053 pounds
Straw	812 pounds

Other phases of beef production are being studied in addition to fattening rations.

GRADES APPROVED FOR FERTILIZERS

An effort is being made by agricultural colleges in New England to reduce to seventy to eighty grades of fertilizers registered in this section to about nine principal formulas. Fertilizer manufacturers have agreed to the program and at a meeting in Boston recently the movement was launched.

According to the terms of the agreement, the manufacturers will centralize their advertising on nine accepted formulas. The college crops specialists will recommend only these grades to farmers. In Connecticut leadership in this movement is being taken by Stanley Owens, crops specialist in the Connecticut Agricultural Extension Service.

Mr. Owens points out that the new plan will not tend to discourage the home mixing of fertilizers as farmers will think they can buy the materials and make their own mixtures. Home mixing formulas recommended by the college specialist will follow the plan of the nine accepted formulas.

The value of the proposed change is said to be largely in reducing the now confused method of handling fertilizers to an efficient system. "Less analysis" fertilizers are eliminated under the new plan. The formula becomes a statement of the ingredients. Thus a 4-8-4 grade specifies 4 per cent. ammonia, 8 per cent. phosphoric acid (available) and 4 per cent. (water soluble) potash.

The approved list of grades is as follows:

0-12-6, 2-12-4, 3-10-4; 3-10-6, 4-8-4 4-8-8, 5-4-5, 5-8-7, 8-6-6.

JEWELER GAINED THIRTY POUNDS ON TANLAC

Here is another remarkable statement that will add both force and dignity to the long list of Tanlac endorsements. W. H. Tarbox, well-known jeweler, of 32 Murray St., Burlington, Vt., says:

"Since I got Tanlac I have gained thirty pounds and am so well and strong that I feel just like new. For more than two years I had been in such bad way that I was discouraged. My stomach and digestion had troubled me so long and so severely that I never thought it possible to get well. If I ventured to eat any substantial food it would take me a week to recover from the miserable effects of it.

"I lost weight until I dropped down twenty-five pounds or more and got so weak I couldn't even walk down the street and took very little interest in anything. One day while having an awful time with my nerves and stomach I thought of what I had read and heard about Tanlac. So I began taking the medicine myself with the results already stated. Seven bottles have put me in the best of health."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation uses their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most Americans eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method—Measure off two tablespoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but no regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the hearty recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from unsafe, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you get through cold, do not take half way measures. Feeds with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you need here is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go to-day, get some!!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran bread, muffins, pancakes, cereal-bran, etc., Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! Ask your hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

A former citizen of Eldorado Springs, Mo., recently died, leaving an estate of $6,000. He had no relatives and his will provided that the interest from his estate each year be used in sending Christmas cheer to the needy families of his old home town, which is the most splendid sort of a monument.—Carthage (Mo.) Christy Pettee, of Francestown, N. H., who is thirteen years old, grew 354 bushels of potatoes to the acre, with practically no appearance of rot. Following the advice of the college extension department, he used certified seed, treated with corrosive sublimate, and "greened" for two weeks before planting. A half ton of commercial fertilizer an acre was used at planting and another half ton cultivated in later. Four cultivations, three hoeings, and four sprayings (or dustings) protected the plants and prevented late blight.

The star Alpha Centauri, one of the nearest to the earth, consists, as the telescope shows, of two suns, one of which is five or six times brighter than the other. But observations by Roberts, at the Cape of Good Hope observatory, led to the conclusion that the two companions of Alpha Centauri, much as they differ in brightness, are really twice as heavy as our sun. It seems to follow from these facts that one of those twin suns is losing its light, and in the course of ages may become only a gigantic opaque planet, while its companion will continue to blaze with solar splendor.

MARKET WAS NARROW.

New York, Feb. 1.—Little progress was made by today's stock market which seemed to be marking time pending more definite developments in the domestic business and foreign political and economic situations. Prices generally moved within narrow and irregular limits with the professionals doing most of the trading and the so-called outsiders showing no disposition to either buy or sell at present prices.

Some selling took place at the start in response to another break in the Durant Motor and related issues, but it was confined principally to the motors, chemicals and a few specialties. Continued heaviness of continental exchange and a higher renewal rate for call money influenced bearish sentiment, but the "shorts" brought out comparatively little stock and sufficient buying support was forthcoming to steady the list. Trading was dull on the rally.

Acute weakness of Fisher Body was again one of the features. This stock dropped to 150, as against this year's high of 212 1-4, and then rallied to 152 1-4, where it was off 7 3-4 on the day. Durant stocks on the curb also were depressed. In the reaction which followed this break Chandler dropped to 61 7-8, Studebaker to 113 1-2 and Stromberg to 63 3-4, the first two making up the loss and the last-named closing at its low price for a net loss of 2 1-8 points. Two conflicting movements took place in the last hour, Moon Motors rising to 20 for a net gain of 1 1-4 and Maxwell a breaking 2 7-8 points to 44. Strength of Moon Motors reflected the absorption of a block of 12,000 shares which have been overhanging the market and which changed hands at 19.

There were a few conspicuous strong spots in the industrial and specialty lists. Brooklyn Union Gas continued its rise to higher ground, gaining 2 1-4 points on publication of a statement showing net income for 1922 of $3,660,631 after taxes and charges and exclusive earnings of subsidiaries as compared with a deficit of $4,570,027 in 1921. Phillips Petroleum also gained 2 1-4 points on official denial of reports that new financing was contemplated. Associated Oil was pushed up 2 3-4 points.

Announcement of another increase of 25 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania crude oil prices and an increase of 10 cents a barrel in the price of bunker fuel oil in New York harbor were the principal items of trade news. Owens Bottle was quite active on overnight announcement of an extra dividend of 25 cents, the stock closing a point higher on total transactions exceeding 25,0005 shares.

Electric stocks were again among the most prominent of the standard shares General Electric rising nearly three points and Westinghouse 1 on reports of higher earnings.

Pressed Steel Car yielded readily to selling pressure, dropping 3 points. United Retail Stores was supplied freely on publication of a statement showing a large decrease in earnings.

Trading in rails was sluggish, a few dividend paying issues showing signs of heaviness, notably Louisville & Nashville, off 2 1-2; "Nickel Plate" First Preferred, off 1 1-4 and Reading First Preferred, off 1.

Call money opened at 4 3-4 per cent and then advanced to 5. Time money rates were unchanged at 4 1-2 bid and 4 3-4 asked with a few long term loans, bein garranged at the higher figure and some shorter maturities reported at 4 5-8. Interior institutions are making more inquiries for Commercial Paper, the bulk of the best names going at 4 1-2 per cent.

Demand sterling advanced nearly a cent to $4.66 but the continental exchanges were slightly reactionary, French francs again selling under 5.00 cents.

BOND MARKET

New York, Feb. 1—Chief interest in today's bond market centered on the further sharp recovery of foreign bonds several of which closed 1 to 3 points higher. Jugo-Slavian 8s jumped 4 1-2 points and Czecho-Slovakian 8s, 3 1-4.

Bordeaux 6s advanced 3 points to 74, Lyons 6s 2 1-4 points to 72 7-8, French 7 1-2s 2 points to 85 and the 8s 1 5-8 to 91 3-4, while Prague 7 1-2s Marseilles 6s, Belgian 7 1-2s and 8s, Paris, Lyons, Mediterranean 6s, Franmerican 7 1-2s, and 8s, and Queensland 6s each closed at least 1 1-2 points higher, Jurgen 6s and Bolivian 8s were heavy.

United States government securities also made partial recovery from recent heaviness, the second 4 1-4s gaining 20 cents on $100 and the fourth 4 1-4s and Liberty 3 1-2s, 2 cents each, while the other active issues either were unchanged or 2 to 4 cents lower.

Except for gains of approximately a point in Erie consolidated 4s and 2 points in Illinois Central refunding 4s and a loss of 1 3-4 in Erie Convertible 4s, series B, railroad mortgages showed only nominal changes. The principle changes in the industrial and group was a point gain in Steel and Tube s and losses of a point each in Interborough Rapid Transit 7s, Utah Power and Light 5s, Marine 6s, and American Telephone convertible 6s.

Total sales (par value) were $10,477,000.

The treasury statement showing a balance of $265,000,000 on January 29 was interpreted as indicating the need of further government financing in the near future.

An issue of $5,000,000 state of Oregon veteran's state aid bonds were purchased today by a syndicate headed by the Bankers' Trust company for $100,029. The issue consists of $4,000,000 4 1-2 per cent. bonds and $1,000,000 4 per cent. bonds due serially from 1923 to 1941. Public offering will be made tomorrow.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Wheat showed a noticeable tendency to climb to a higher price level today after general acceptance was given to an opinion that the Lenroot Farm Credit bill would pass the senate tomorrow. The market closed unsettled at 1-4c to 1 1-8c net gain, with May 1.17 7-8 to 1.18 and July 1.13 1-4. Corn finished 1-2@5-8c to 3-4c up and oats up 1-4c to 3-8c@1-2c. Provisions finished at 6 to 12c decline.

At first, the wheat market was depressed by selling based on downturns in Liverpool quotations and on a big increase of shipments from Argentina, as well as because of favorable crop conditions in most of the domestic winter wheat belt. On the decline in prices, however, offerings diminished, and many traders, especially traders who were short, turned to the buying side of the market, influenced in the main by talk which was current that the enactment of the Lenroot bill could only be discounted through an advance in price for all grain.

Announcement that a short term loan for the restoration of Austria would be made at once and that a long term loan would follow had a contributing effect in the upward movement of the wheat market during the last part of the day. There were also reports that 700,000 bushels had been purchased for Greece at the Atlantic seaboard and that some little export business had been done at ports on the Gulf of Mexico. Profit-taking sales eased the market a little at the finish.

Corn and oats moved up with wheat. It was said Argentine rains had turned out to be insufficient.

Provisions were lower with hogs, although grain strengthening led to some buying.

FIRE IN ROCKEFELLER'S MANSION IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Elsie Stillman Rockefeller, widow of William G. Rockefeller, capitalist; her 1-year-old daughter, Almira, and six women servants fled in their night clothes early today when fire was discovered in the Rockefeller mansion in Madison avenue.

The household was aroused by Molly Corbett, a maid, who discovered the blaze when she arose shortly before 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Rockefeller's first thought upon awakening was of her daughter. She ran barefooted, through smokefilled halls to the girl's room, lifted her from her bed and carried her down the stairs. Almira tried to go back into the house for her pet dog Chippie but was prevented by her mother. Chippie was saved by the governess.

Hailing a taxicab Mrs. Rockefeller took her daughter to the residence of Percy Rockefeller, in Park avenue, fully clothed herself and then returned to her home, directing the police and firemen in the removal of valuable paintings and tapestries.

The Rockefeller home is a five-story brownstone structure. Mrs. Rockefeller, her daughter and the governess occupy the second and third floors, the forth floor is reserved for guests and the fifth for the servants.

Spreading to the hallway, the flames ate through the ceiling to a bedroom, then to the maids' quarters on the top floor and through the roof, causing damage estimated at $10,000. The cause was undetermined.

HOME REMEDIES OF OUR ANCESTORS

Almost every man and woman in America can remember the botanic recipes of our mothers and grandmothers for the treatment of disease, and they were wonderfully dependable, too. Every fall there were stored away in the attic thoroughwort, pennyroyal, catnip, sage, wormwood, rue, etc., for treating ills of the family during the winter months that followed. In 1873 Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was first prepared from one of these botanic recipes, and the demand for it has increased to such an extent that hundreds of tons of roots and herbs are now used annually in its preparation. It has recently been proved that 98 out of every 100 women who try it have been benefited by its use, which is a marvelous record for any medicine to hold.

AT CANDLEMAS

That beast prophetic of this many a year,
The ground hog, sees his shadow and departs
For thrice a fortnight ere my Queen of Hearts,
All pied with mickle Violets, is near;
Flow'r breathed, bird voiced, star eyed, the beauteous dear
Pearls the green April moonbeams. Such be her arts
That her I'll love till, struck by Love's last darts,
Sinks my cold clay into Death's cavern drear.

What matters it, O fellow mortals! whether
The little prophet sees the sun or shade?
Have we not claimed the vernal hour together
In winter's cold despite? All undismayed
Have we not glimpsed, beyond the frigid weather,
The raining petals of the fragrant glade?

LEFFINGWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Taylor of Wauwecus Hill spent the week end in Ridgefield.

Seven from Leffingwell were present at the Odd Fellows' dance in Norwich last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas W. Leffingwell of East Great Plain entertained ten at a dinner party Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. Leffingwell's birthday.

Tuesday evening the Ladies' Aid society held a bean supper in the church vestry. About $11 was realized.

Eleven were present at the missionary meeting held at Mrs. O. B. Leffingwell's Wednesday afternoon. Miss Carolyn L. Beebe was accompanist. Mrs. A. H. Beebe and Mrs. N. E. Whiting sang a duet. Readings were given by Mrs. Carrie Park, Mrs. F. C. Leffingwell, Mrs. Jesse E. Rogers and Mrs. O. B. Leffingwell. Officers were elected for the following year as follows: Mrs. Ella Beebe, president; Mrs. O. B. Leffingwell, vice president; Mrs. C. E. Ellis, secretary and treasurer.

GALES FERRY

Tuesday evening the Entre Nous Pinochle Club of Uncasville, played the second game, in the series with the combined neighborhood and Gales Ferry Pinochle club in the Country Club house, here. The score was 25 to 24 in favor of the home club.

The individual scores of the home teams were: Mr. and Mrs. Avery Main 6-1, Mr. and Mrs. William Austin 4-3, Bennett and Lester 4-3, Satterlee and Buckingham 3-4, Miss Jennings and Miss Lester 3-4, Percy and Jennings 3-4, Mrs. Sargent and Rogers 2-5, making a total score to date of 34 to 37 in favor of the Gales Ferry clubs. The three clubs will give a series of three dance socials in the future.

The many friends in the place of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Chase and family of Long Cove learn with regret of their removal to Fair Haven, Mass., which is to take place soon. Mr. and Mrs. Chase, came here from Portsmouth, R. I., about eight years ago and purchased a tract of land, of the Wallace Perkins estate, at Long Cove on which, they erected a house and other buildings and made their home. Mr. and Mrs. Chase have entered into the interests of the community, in which they came to reside.

Mr. Chase is one trustees of the M. E. Church of the village and Mrs. Chase is president and organizer of the Ladies Aid society of the Long Cove auxiliary of the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church. Mrs. Chase entertained the members of the society at her home on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

The Epworth League social announced for last Tuesday evening at the vestry of the M. E. Church, was postponed, owing to the death of a relative of some of the members of the chapter, that will have a part in the program of the evening.

Miss Julia C. Richards of Long Cove was dismissed from the Laurence Memorial hospital, New London, last Saturday and returned to her home where, she is making improvement in health.

Mrs. Harold Peckham and daughters Nancy, of Waterford, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fabel.

TAFTVILLE

Great numbers of deer probably driven closer to the habitation of man can be seen in the woods skirting the village. A herd of sixteen full grown animals, headed by a magnificent buck, can be seen daily at the Mell farm in Lisbon. Solitary specimens have ceased to be a curiosity, as they put in an appearance every day. Behind the Ponemah Mills, one can generally see two or three deer on the Lisbon side, and not infrequently they swim back and forth across the Shetucket river below the mill dam, where the water is free from ice. The woods north of the village around the "Sand Bank" is a favorite hangout for deer, and now of the town make trips there each day to see how well the animals can be stalked. Other visitors which have probably been forced to visit the village ararm are English starlings which have descended in great flocks, driving out other birds, fighting and chattering and making a general nuisance of themselves. Two or three winters ago these birds put in an appearance, but this year the visitations have been from them until [illegible] The plight of game birds [illegible] become so serious that many sportsmen are taking long tramps in the woods scattering seed for these to feed upon. FRENCH GREATLY IMPROVE THEIR POSITION IN THE RUHR

Railroad Strike Has Been Called Off by the German Authorities—No Disturbances Have Been Reported From Any of the Occupied Regions—Major General Allen, the American Unofficial Observer, Has Withdrawn From the Rhineland Commission.

(By The Associated Press.)

The strike of the railwaymen in the Rhineland and a large portion of the Ruhr has ended and a resumption of train services begun. In the Ruhr basin, where strikers have not returned to their jobs, the French are operating trains. The tieup at Mayence continues because of a refusal by the French to release railwaymen pnnred arrest on charges of sabotage.

In the mines, however, the coal diggers are practically idle and Friday's output was virtually nil.

The French customs cordon which was set up to block the transportation of coal and other reparations goods from occupied into unoccupied Germany is being maintained rigidly. In addition to coal and coke an embargo also has been placed by the French on benzol, tar and all other coal by-products.

Along the canals and on the Rhine and in the portions of the Ruhr where the rail strike continues, the French have taken charge of the feeding of the civilian population and furnishing coal to industries.

Announcement is made that the French in a few days will be able to transport coal into France.

Major General Allen, the American unofficial observer, has withdrawn from the Rhineland commission.

No disturbances have been reported from any of the affected regions.

WASHINGTON WAITING TO BE HELPFUL IN THE RUHR

Washington, Feb. 2.—In reiterating today that the Washington government was waiting to be helpful in an adjustment of the Ruhr situation, a White House spokesman made it clear that the administration was not at all eager to assume sole responsibility for that adjustment as mediator, should proposals of that nature be presented.

It was stated that from the first the Washinton government has been anxious that a way should be found for American cooperation with other powers to reach a solution of the reparations crisis but not as a mediator because of possible dissatisfactions of the nations involved with the terms of an award.

EVENTS TRANSPIRING IN RUHR AND RHINELAND

Duesseldorf, Feb. 2.—(By The A. P.) The calling off of the railroad strike by the German authorities and obedience by the railwaymen to a request of the authorities that they resume work on all lines where they would not come in contact with armed French soldiers were the outstanding developments today in the events of a day that was regarded by observers as having brought forth a great improvement in the French position in the Ruhr and the Rhineland. A majority of the railroad workers in both regions adopted the suggestion of the authorities that they resume their jobs.

Complete stoppage of all exports of coal and coke into the interior of Germany during the last forty-eight hours, together with the extension today of similar restrictions on shipments of benzol, tar and all other mine by-products were other developments considered of advantage to the French.

In addition the French have taken over the handling of food trains consigned to the regions traversed by the railroads where strikes still are in effect and also directed the transportation by barges on the canals and the Rhine of sufficient coal for the needs of local populations and industries.

The complete cessation of coal production at the mines, now virtually an accomplished fact, and the inability of the French to send by rail into France any coal for the reparations account were the developments in the situation favoring Germany in her policy of resistance.

In assuming charge of the feeding of the civil population in the Ruhr where the railroad strike persists the French moved three trains into the region today manned by French crews. The trians were consigned to Essen, Dortmund and Gelsenkirchen warehouses and markets. French tugs commenced the hauling of coal through the Rhine to Dueseldorf to supply the needs of civilians and industries.

The resumption of work on the railroads is complete at Cologne, Coblenz, Trexes and Ludwigshafen, and partially complete on the Ruhr lines, excepting those encircling the industrial basin. These lines the French are operating. At Mayence the strike is in full swing owing to the French refusal to obey the ultimatum of the railwaymen that they release strikers under arrest. The French declined to acquiesce in this demand on the ground that the railwaymen had not been arrested as strikers but for common law acts and sabotage.

The mining operations today reached the lowest level. Production was practically nil. The miners descended into the pits but only to repair the galleries. They did no actual mining. In an endeavor to solve the situation created by a shortage in empty cars instructions have been issued not to send out from the Ruhr more loaded cars daily than empties are returned.

It developed today that orders from Berlin for the strike of the railwaymen to begin was delivered by special agents personally to every station master in the Ruhr and the Rhineland. The order was accompanied by one month's pay in advance.

The French announced today that their embargo on coal and coke, inaugurated at midnight of Wednesday, had been a complete success. They pointed out that on the last day on which fuel was permitted to enter Germany 122 trains, carrying 17,618 tons of coke and 29,353 tons of coal, went into the interior, but that today not a single ton of coal nor a gallon of tar or benzol passed the Ruhr frontier.

The French brand as a story circulated from German sources that one train since the embargo ran the blockade. They declare that no attempt at such a maneuver was made. It was added that the French were permitting coal cars consigned to Switzerland, Holland, Sweden, Norway and other neutral countries to cross Germany on the way totheir destination if their waybills were correct. Many of the French officials oppose this method of shipment to neutrals, declaring that in the next few months there is likely to be a large increase in cargoes ostensibly for neutrals which will be diverted to unoccupied Germany.

General Fayot today told The Associated Press that his forces now were sufficiently organized to insure the feeding of the civil population and that within a few days he would be able to undertake the transportation of reparation coal to France.

INVESTIGATING CAUSE OF SPRINGFIELD EXPLOSION

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 2.—While the investigation to determine the cause of the explosion in the purifying plant of the Springfield Gas Light Company yesterday afternoon, which resulted in three deaths, injuries to scores and widespread damage, is still under way, it is now believed that the explosion was caused by a spark form an electric elevator in the center of the building.

The inquiry indicated that workmen were at work turning off a valve on one of the purifiers which had been leaking when the explosion occurred. Officers are awaiting the results of an investigation by Captain Walter R. Wedger, expert on explosives of the Massachusetts state police. Six men who were at work in the plant who escaped serious injury said that water in one of the filter boxes had become dangerously low and that frantic efforts were being made to turn off the supply of gas into the filter at the time of the explosion.

Just how extensive the damage caused by the explosion will be may not be determined for some time.

The casualty list was three dead and about a score in hospitals throughout the city. Four of these are on the danger list. All of the relief organizations of the city have combined their efforts to relieve those affected.

PRESIDENT READY FOR CABINET READJUSTMENTS

Washinton, Feb. 2.—President Harding has about completed plans for the cabinet readjustments made necessary by the resignation of Secretary Fall of the interior department, and it was indicated today at the White House that a formal announcement on the subject might be expected within a week.

All indications have been that the president's choice for the interior portfolio is Postmaster General Work, who in addition to being an administrator of demonstrated ability, has a wide knowledge of the western problems with which the interior department is chiefly concerned.

It was understood also tonight that Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana, who retires from congress on March 4 still was foremost among those under consideration to succeed Dr. Work as postmaster general.

FORMER RUSSIAN OFFICERS NOW PENNILESS IN EXILE

New York, Feb. 2.—Ragged, penniless and worn from three years of itinerant exile, 112 former officers of the Imperial Russian army, who later fought in the unsuccessful Denikin and Wrangel campaigns against the soviet government, today arrived with their families from Constantinople on the Madonna.

The group, headed by General Vladimir Vareokine, who said he was once head of the late czar's guard, and General Erkusas, a former leader in the Denikin army, was taken to Ellis Island to await definition of their status by the immigration authorities. They said they had been given special permission to embark for the United States by the American consul in Constantinople on their plea that they would be massacred if the British withdrew from Turkey.

FOUR DAYS WITHOUT FOOD; HANDS AND FEET FROZEN

Danbury, Conn., Feb. 2.—After four days an dnights without food and suffering from frozen hands and feet, Frank O'Boy, a farm hand 65 years old, was found today in acritical condition in a little used barn on the farm of Albert McKay, three miles from here. O'Boy was removed to the Danbury hospital where it was said his recovery was doubtful.

O'Boy disappeared last Monday and it was thought that he had left the farm for another job. By accident one of the members of the McKay family entered the barn today and found him in a semi-conscious condition lying on some hay. Because of O'Boy's condition it was not learned just how he got to the barn.

TO BE PUBLICLY WHIPPED IN JUVENILE COURT ROOM

Kansas City, MoM., Feb. 2.—Clarence Persel, 14 years old, who, his parents say, never has been spanked, will be publicly whipped in the juvenile court room here tomorrow morning at 8.30 o'clock, Judge E. E. Porter Field announced today.

Clarence was before the court today on a charge of truancy. His father said Clarence never had obeyed his parents.

"I may use my razor strop," Judge Porter Field said.

"There is one thing sure and certain, I am going to teach that youngster to mind.

"I wouldn't have so many boys and girls in court if more parents would apply the palm of hand or hair brush where it would do the most good," the court concluded

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

All Ireland Convention.

Dublin, Feb. 2.—The all Ireland convention initiated by the association of old members of the Irish republican army will meet in Dublin on Sunday. The gathering is in connection with the peace movement.

Shop Wrecked in Dublin.

Dublin, Feb. 2.—An electric appliance shop in Dublin, owned by Sean McGarry, a member of the dail eireann, was wrecked by an explosion this evening. A few weeks ago McGarry's home was burned, causing the death of one of his children and injuries to another child and Mrs. McGarry.

FOUR MEN EXECUTED IN ARKANSAS PENITENTIARY

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 2.—Walking to the electric chair unassisted and displaying no signs of emotion, four convicted slayers paid the death penalty for their crimes at the Arkansas penitentiary early today. This was said to be the largest number of executions to be carried out on one day in the history of the state.

The first to be strapped in the chair was Duncan Richardson, who, with two others, was convicted of the murder of Ira N. Culp, a farmer, near Wilmot, Ark. He was followed by Ben Richardson and F. G. Bullen, who were convicted of the same crime. The fourth to be executed was Will Debord, convicted of killingMr. and Mrs. William Silsby, in Stone county, Ark.

When Duncan Richardson walked into the death chamber the apparatus was not yet ready, and after a pleasant "Good morning," to the attendants, he began to inspect the death machine. As he approached the switchboard, the executioner moved quickly away, but Richardson said to him "Don't be afraid of me, I would as soon have you do it as anyone." With a sad smile on his face, he entered the chair voluntarily. He was pronounced dead in three minutes.

"Look out there, fellow, you're mashing my hand," was the only comment made by Debord as he was being strapped in the chair.

TOPIC TO BE "A REVIVAL OF PERSONAL RELIGION"

New York, Feb. 2.—Announcement today that Bishop Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York would deliver a series of lectures at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on "A Revival of Personal Religion" was viewed as the latest development in the controversy between the bishop and Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension.

Although the announcement made no mention of the controversy, which broke out when Bishop Manning called on the rector to resign or recant a sermon questioning the deity of Christ, nevertheless the lectures will cover some of the questions in dispute between the two churchmen included among the topics of the first of such a series of lectures ever delivered at a cathedral are "the grounds for our belief in our Lord Jesus Christ as God" and "the present crisis with regard to marriage and the home."

Dr. Grant today declined to comment on the letter which he received yesterday from the bishop, indicating that the rector would not be brought to trial for heresy; rebuking Dr. Grant, who is engaged to Mrs. Rita D'Acosta Lydig, a divorcee, for his "advocacy of easy divorce" and stating that "there for the present the matter rests."

TO PERPETUATE NAME OF JOHN A. GRISWOLD

New York, Feb. 2.—Perpetuation of the name of his father, John A. Griswold, who introduced the Bessemer process to America and who aided in building the Monitor during the Civil war, was provided in the will of the late Francis B. Griswold, filed for probate today.

A trust fund is established for the benefit of a nephew and a grandnephew, who bear the family name, and provides for the perpetuity of the fund as long as descendants bear the name. The estate is valued at "more than $10,000," according to the petition.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Green, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a sister, was bequeathed $10,000, and a niece, Sara T. Tenney, Williamstown, Mass., receives for life the income from a $25,000 trust fund. Mrs. Harriette H. Burdon of New York, also a sister, receives $40,000 while the trust fund for perpetuation of the family name is set up from the residuary estate.

THREE MORE ARRESTS FOR ARMY STORES THEFTS

New Brunswick, N. J., Feb. 2.—Three more arrests were made today in the inquiry into the thefts of huge army stores at the Raritan arsenal. The men, Edward J. Temme, of New Brunswick, a chauffeur; Edward V. Rutzel, foreman of the automobile department, and Charles Humphreys of Highland Park, a checker, are employed at the arsenal. This brings the total arrests made in the federal investigation to five.

The three men were arraigned before United States Commissioner Ritchie and locked up in default of bail.

Agents of the department of justice, Hall and Navarro, who arrested the men, charged them with conspiring with Cecil K. Tittle and George J. Perpente, bot hof whom are under arrest in connection with the alleged thefts to remove 1,100 automatic pistols from the arsenal in a truck on December 12th.

WALLACE REID ESTATE ESTIMATED AT $50,000

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 2.—Letters of administration in the estate of Wallace Reid, motion picture actor, who died here January 18, were asked of the superior court today by Mrs. Dorothy Davenport Reid, his widow. Property listed with the application was estimated to be worth approximately $50,000. The principal item being the Reid home in Hollywood valued at $40,000.

INCENDIARISM CONTINUED BY IRISH IRREGULARS

Dublin, Feb. 2 (By the A. P.)—The campaign of incendiarism continues unabated and is directed largely against the homes of members of the legislature. Today's cases of complete or partial destruction included the residences of two senators, Colonel Moore, of Ballyglass, brother of George Moore, the novelist, and Thomas Lindsay, of Whitechurch, County Cork

Senate Passed Farm Credits Bill 69 to 0

Measure Provides for a Maximum Credit of $1,320,000,000 for Agricultural Loans.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Consideration of farm credits legislation was concluded by the senate tonight when it passed the Lenroot-Anderson bill. The measure now goes to the house where the Capper cooperative credits bill is under study.

The vote on passage was unanimous, 69 to 0, the measure going through without material amendment. The vote, however, was not made unanimous until Senator Norbeck, republican, South Dakota, had withdrawn a long negative vote, explaining that he would be "a good fellow."

The Lenroot-Anderson bill provides for a maixmum credit of 1,320,000,000 for agricultural loans through the eixsting farm loan system by establishment of twelve agricultural credit departments in the twelve land bank districts. Each would have 5,000,000 capital from the government with authority to double the entire capital of $60,000,000. Authority to issue $1,200,000,000 in tax free debentures, to provide additional loaning capital, would be given, subject to approval of the farm loan board.

The new credit departments would make loans from six months to three years on agricultural paper to cooperate agricultural associations on stable products for livestock. Interest rates chargeable would not be in excess of 1 1-2 per cent above the land banks' rediscount rates. The debentures authorized would not made unanimous until Senator Norbeck, republican, South Dakota, had withdrawn a long negative vote, explaining that he would be "a good fellow."

Loans would be made to individual farmers through local agricultural associations, and would be limited to 75 per cent of the market value of staple products or livestock given as security.

The senate also rejected the farmers' union plan for a $250,000,000 credit for foreign purchases of agricultural products. This, embodied in a bill by Senator Norbeck, was offered as a rider after being approved unanimously recently by the agriculture committee. Senator Lenroot said it would mean loans to bankrupt European governments and it went down to defeat without a record vote.

WEATHER BUREAU WARNS OF STRONG WINDS TODAY

Washington, Feb. 2.—The weather bureau tonight issued the following advisory southeast storm warning:

"Rock Island to Eastport: Disturbance of considerable intenaity over lake region, moving rapidly eastward will be followed by a decided rise in pressure. Winds will be increasing southeast and south, becoming and shifting to northwest Saturday, probably reaching gale force.

"Southwest storm warnings also displayed from Point Judith, R. I., to Virginia Capes."

BORAH GETS INVITATIONS TO SPEAK IN EUROPE

Washington, Feb. 2.—Additional invitations to speak in Europe on international relations have been received by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who for some time has had in mind a trip abroad during the coming summer of his personal affairs permit.

Because of his long fight against the league ofnations and European entanglements and his recent advocacy of an international economic conference called by the United States, Mr. Borah has been deluged with requests that he discuss international problems before organizations in European countries

Liquor Raids in the National Capital

About Ninety Arrests Made, Including Twelve Women—More Than 300 Gallons of Intoxicants Confiscated.

Washington, Feb. 2.—J. L. Asher, a revenue agent from the Kentucky mountains, who came to Washington three weeks ago, and has put in his time since in guises ranging from an ash cart driver to a Kentucky colonel at a fashionable ball, today directed more than sixty capitol revenue agents and police in liquor raids on sixty places, netting the arest of about ninety persons, including twelve women, and the confiscation of more than 300 gallons of intoxicants.

Evidence for the raids, which were begun in five police precincts at 11 o'clock this morning and were not completed until late in the day, the most all-inclusive campaign conducted in the city since the advent of prohibition, was obtained almost entirely by Asher.

The five precinct stations presented their busiest appearances in years as bondsmen hastened to gain the release of prisoners, practically all of whom were held for $1,500 bail, and police and revenue agents guarded prisoners and directed the storage of huge supplies of corn whiskey, bonded goods and wine carried in from the raided homes, in government trucks and automobiles. In only one instance were the raiders disappointed by failure to find the goods described by the Kentuckian.

Asher first drove into the underworld in quest of the bootleggers' rendezvous aboard an ice wagon as a helper. He then switched to an ash cart and quickly caught the trail of victims as he picked up the "empties" in all corners of the city. Then as a coal wagon driver he got into the homes again, assisting in storing away the coal and modestly accepting pint bottle rewards. He later appeared as a piano tuner, and again as a lawyer.

Before long Asher had won the confidence of the principal bootleggers in various sections 'and, by aiding to store away the goods in his capacity as a wagon driver and helper, gained knowledge of numerous and clever hiding places for the goods.

With this evidence in hand, the raiders went quickly to the secret caches, these including holes in the wall, baby cribs, pianos, Victrolas and chicken coops. In one home more than ten gallons of liquor was found tucked away behind the wall moldings in various rooms.

One woman was reported by Asher to be selling liquor in baby milk nursing bottles, and police confiscated more than a dozen such receptacles well filled from her home.

As a retired Kentucky colonel at a recent ball, Asher was introduced to several alleged bootleggers who were arrested today as an agent preparing to ship considerable whiskey here from Kentucky.

So complete was the agent's disguise that while returning to police headquarters one day, dressed as a tramp, with several quart bottles bulging from his pockets, he was arrested by his immediate superior before the officer discovered his identity.

19 RUM CRAFT NOW OFF AMBROSE CHANNEL LIGHT

Highlands, N. J., Feb. 2.—(By the A. P.)—Numerous rum-running craft, which have been idle for several weeks because of the unusual vigilance of coast guard, customs and prohibition enforcement agents put out this afternoon for a visit to Rum Row off Ambrose channel light ship. There were 19 vessels along the "Row" today—two tank steamers, two trawlers, one small steamer, two large ex-steam yachts, one three masted schooner and twelve small schooners.

Conditions were ideal for "running." The sea was calm, warm winds blew, there was a slight haze over the water, and the ice in Sandy Hook bay was broken.

Throughout the forenoon local runners were "tuning" their swift craft in Shrewsbury river, and after noon, one by one they began moving out to the fleet.

Meanwhile observers ashore could discern run-runnings boats from other places mixing in the fleet.

Better Results Than Anticipated

When better results are secured than were anticipated complete satisfaction is obtained. That is what is furnished by the use of classified advertisements in The Bulletin.

A want advertisement was placed in The Bulletin by The Waterman Worsted Co., Inc., of Putnam, to run for a week. After the second insertion the following letter was received:

"Would you kindly discontinue our ad. in your paper as we have already filled the position for which we wanted the man.

"We will say that the position was filled through the ad. in your paper, which gave us great deal better results than we anticipated."

This is only one of many similar instances which go to demonstrate the quick benefits obtained through the use of Bulletin wants ads. They circulate thoroughly throughout eastern Connecticut and bring those who want and those who can fill the wants into immediate touch with each other.

Make use of The Bulletin's classified ad. service if you want good results.

CONGRESS SHOULD ACCEPT BRITISH DEBT AGREEMENT

President Harding Deems the Arrangement So Worth While That It Should be Accepted at This Session of Congress—Final Draft of the Program is Expected to be Sent to the White House Today for Executive Approval—President Harding Regards the Injection of the Soldier Bonus Issue into the Debt Settlement as Unseemly at This Time.

Washington, Feb. 2 (By the A. P.)—The American debt funding commission in conversations today with Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, as representative of his government, completed details of the program for the funding of Great Britain's wartime debt to the United States. The final draft of the plan is expected to be sent to the White House tomorrow with recommendations that it be given executive approval and be sent to congress for legislative action in confirmation of the commission's negotiations.

While the commission and the British ambassador were working the final details of dates of payment, denominations of the British bonds to be issued and other minor phases of the question, statements emanated from the White House to the effect that the president believed the settlement so worth while that it ought to be accepted at this session of congress. High administration spokesmen represented the president as believing that the debt funding act should be adjusted to encompass the terms of the British settlement, and indications were given that such would be his request to congress.

It was said in authoritative quarters to be the president's intention to send the commission's recommendations to congress early next week. His approval of the settlement in all of its details is taken for granted, inasmuch as it is understood he has been kept advised of the most minute details of the commission's work.

The question of the soldier bonus amendment to any legislation translating the settlement into law, even if abandoned yesterday in congress, cropped up again today. The settlement was attacked and defended in the house.

At the White House it was said the president regarded the injection of the soldier bonus issue into the settlement as unseemly at this time and, so far as the executive branch of the government was concerned, the soldier bonus proposal should be considered separately. It was stated definitely, however, that the president will appear personally before congress to submit settlement terms and to ask their approval. Indications were given at the White House that conditions at the time the question was ready for transmission, together with the nature of the message to be conveyed by the president, would govern whether he personally would deliver the document or send it in message form.

Statements in connection and elsewhere that the rates of interest which the British government will pay for the agreement are lower than those being paid by this government on its own securities were denied again today at the treasury, where it was said that the average of rates paid by the United States was a percentage almost exactly offset by the British rates. The American average rate, however, it was explained, proves higher on its face, but attention was called to the fact that this government is depriving taxes on millions of dollars of incomes into which its interest payments have gone. The net result, therefore, officials declared to be little, if any, higher than that to be collected from Great Britain under the settlement terms.

THE PLAN FOR FUNDING BRITISH WAR DEBT T U. S.

Washington, Feb. 2 (By the A. P.)—The plan for funding Great Britain's wartime debt to the United States was completed late today by final action of the American debt funding commission in conference with Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador. Announcement was made later, when details of the plan were made public, that the draft would be sent to President Harding tomorrow with recommendations by the commission that it be given executive approval and transmitted to congress.

In conformity with previous announcements, the plan contemplates final extinguishment of the debt in sixty-two years, with interest rates fixed at 3 per cent. for the first ten years from Dec. 15, 1932, and 3 1-2 per cent. thereafter, together with a fixed schedule of annual amortization payments approximating an average of one-half of 1 per cent. of the principal.

The annual installments are scheduled to begin with a payment of $23,000,000 this year, but the British government is given the right to make the annual payments in three-year periods instead of every twelve months. The amount of the annual payments will progressively increase until in the sixty-second year the payment will be $175,000,000 and the total of all the payments will aggregate the total principal of the debt.

Great Britain will begin retirement of the debt with a cash payment of $4,128,098.74, leaving the principal of the debt at $4,500,000,000, on which the rate of 3 per cent. interest will apply retroactive to Dec. 15 last. Interest will be paid on June 15 and Dec. 15, or semi-annually, on the unpaid balances thereafter.

The present securities of the British government held by the United States will be superseded by British internal bonds which will be held in the treasury. The right is reserved to Great Britain to retire any additional amounts of the bonds her position permits, provided notice of ninety days is given the American government. As a further liberalizing provision of the American government grants to Great Britain the right to defer payment of one-half of the interest payments during the first five years and to consolidate it with the principal. British internal bonds will be issued to cover such deferred payments.

The principal of the debt when the funding arrangement becomes operative will be $4,604,128,035.74.

SOVIETS STAMPING OUT CORRUPTION OF OFFICIALS

Moscow, Feb. 2.—(By the A. P.)—Soviet government has launched a nation-wide campaign to stamp out the corruption of public officials, with death the penalty for flagrant offenders.

Throughout Russia, the courts are are busy convicting bureaucrats who have followed the custom of czarist days in accepting bribes for public services, and are also bringing swift retribution to members of village soviet officials who have misused their offices to oppress the populace.

Five men, including the chairman of the village revolutionary tribunal, have been tried and shot at Igoriefisk, in the Ryzan district, for accepting bribes.

At Orenburg fourteen officials, including the president of one village soviet, are on trial on charges of arresting peasants for the purpose of confiscating their stock as well as accepting bribes.

In Moscow itself last week three officials of the railway administration were ordered shot for corruption in office.

EDUCATION TO LESSEN DANGER OF FOREST FIRES

Boston, Feb. 2.—The state department of conservation hopes by a campaign of education to lessen the danger of forest fires, resulting from lighted smoking materials being thrown from automobiles, Commissioner William A. L. Barbour told the state forest wardens's conference today.

"Automobilists should realize," he said, "that in starting fires by the roadsides, which eventually set the woods on fire, they are destroying the very scenery which means so much to their enjoyment."

With the present system of observation towers and local forest wardens throughout the state, he said there was no need of any large forest fires in the future. In 1923, he added, a total area of 85,241 acres were burned over in Massachusetts and forest fires resulted in the loss of five lives, the destruction of 183 buildings and damage of approximately $500,000. Besides the $100,000 cost of extinguishing the fires. The number of fires along the railroads increased from 903 in 1921 to 1,611 in 1922.

TUGS TOWING RUM CRAFT SUBJECT TO SEIZURE

Boston, Feb. 2.—Tug boats used to tow vessels carrying liquor are subject to seizure, Federal Judge Brewster decided today. The question arose over a libel brought by the government against the tug Dolphin, in which the forfeiture of the boat was demanded. The defense contended that tug boats were separate entities from the rum-laden liquor carriers.

HOW THE INFLUENZA GERM WORKS ON HUMANS

Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Isolation of the influenza germ, "bacterium pneumonientes," and the presence of a mild influenza epidemic in parts of Europe and throughout the United States, were announced here tonight under direction of the state department of health, Dr. Simon M. Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, who prepared the address, delivered here, said that Dr. Frederick T. Gates and Dr. Peter K. Olitsky, of the institute, isolated the germ after study of the world-wide influenza epidemics of 1889-1892 and 1918-1923.

The influenza germ has been known but never previously isolated, state department of health officials said, explaining that the isolation will permit experimentation with antidotes and antitoxins. So small is the germ, Dr. Flexner declared, that it must be magnified 1,000 times before it is seen distinctly under the microscope. It was learned that the germ lodges in the nose and throat during the first 36 hours of influenzal infection, then attacks the lungs in such a way as to make them susceptible to other germs in the nose and throat, notably pneumonia and bronchitis.

HEFLIN STATEMENTS ARE EXPUNGED FROM RECORDS

Washington, Feb. 2.—Senate action today in expunging from the record statements made yesterday by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, during discussion of the British debt funding agreement, precipitated the most bitter and protracted exchange of the session.

Exploding tempers sent hot personalities sizzling throughout the air during hours of debate, which ended with Senator Heflin being reproved a second time for use of improper language and with remarks by Senator Couzens, the republican member from Michigan, also being declared objectionable and ordered expunged from the record. Several other senators were charged with similar offenses, but no action was taken against them.

By a vote of 40 to 28, the senate first decided that Senator Heflin had violated the rules by referring to Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, in yesterday's discussion of British debt funding as a representative of the "bond sharks and big financiers of Wall street.

OUTBURST OF STEAM AT SUMMIT OF LASSEN PEAK

Reddington, Calif., Feb. 2.—Pronounced activity at the summit of Lassen peak, "the only live volcano in continental United States," was seen from here early this morning. While not nearly so heavy as in past years, an outburst of steam larger than any seen for many months, appeared rising from the mountain. The disturbance at first was thought to be due to snow being blown about.

WESTMINSTER

The severe cold and sickness kept many from church last Sunday. The Near East relief field day offering will be kept open until after Sunday.

Mrs. Walter Mayette, after her recent successful operation in Hartford hospital, has returned to the home of her father, Salve Olsen, for a stay of some weeks.

Wednesday, Jan. 4, Deputy Game Warden William Johnson was notified that a large buck deer had been killed by dogs near the Nelson place, Canterbury Green. On examination, Mr. Johnson discovered an old gunshot wound which had been received some months previous, breaking the shoulderbone. This prevented the deer from escaping from the dogs in the deep snow of the locality.

It has been an unusually hard winter for game birds, and Warden Johnson has been feeding many in this region.

The game and fish warden of Windham county, Charles M. Letters, of Putnam, visited Deputy Warden Johnson last Sunday.

Noted Poetess Would End "Gimme" Plan

Mrs. Adelaide Mould Hughes, wife of the noted novelist-playwright, Rupert Hughes, and herself noted as a poet. Mrs. Hughes proposes an organization, open to all wives, of which the avowed purpose shall be to convince all husbands that the only assurance for domestic happiness is to make the wife economically independent—to free her from the bondage of "gimme this" and "gimme that"—in other words, to make her a full partner in the marriage "incorporation". "A woman's soul is a tender thing," she says; "but, alas! it is so easy to harden it. I almost believe that it is won or lost, in marriage, by her economic status. As our souls are separate, so let our purses be."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Norwich is to have the opportunity to welcome one of her own native born citizens who has achieved success in her chosen profession. Katherine Bates Bennett who will give a dramatic reading of the Yellow Jacket Feb. 7th in the new Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

Mrs. Grace Bronson Purdy, vice president of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs says in part:

It is with unusual pleasure that I recommend Katherine Bates Bennett. Her voice is mellow, her personality radiating and her conception of the character she portrays is real and charming.

I consider Mrs. Bennett's work in The Yellow Jacket par excellence.

M. C. A. takes pleasure in presenting Mrs. Bennett and solicit the patronage of the public to this high class entertainment at a popular price. Tickets at 50 cents each can be had from members of auxiliary. Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, president.

Slater Hall Musical Course

Frederic Lammond, the famous Scottish pianist will appear in Slater hall on Friday evening, Feb. 9th.

This will be the opening concert of the Slater hall musical course for this season and great interest is centered in the coming of this distinguished pianist.

This artist has a command of touch which few others can rival. He has learned to evoke beautiful tones, no matter how many technical difficulties are to be overcome.

It employs his skill in making superb interpretations of fine compositions.

A recent press tribute in regard to his London recital from Musical Opinion reads as follows:

"The Beehoven Sonata in E minor was played in the manner which is all Lammond's own and inimitable, and then he added delight to delight, by his consummately effortless and fluid playing of Chopin, Schubert, Glimka, Balakireff, Glazornoff and Liszt, urging all the changes both in color and mood succession of gripping scenes as The Snowshoe Trail Miss Novak and Roy Stewart, her leading man risked their lives not once but a dozen times in filming this subject in the snow-covered reaches of the Northwest.

If you had everything you wanted, how long would you want it?

There were a great many things Harry Bullway (Jack Pickford) wanted in The Man Who Had Everything, and his father, inspired by the prophetic utterance of a blind man saw that he got them. When the young man found that nothing which money could buy was beyond his reach he tired of being pampered. He started out for himself, found that he had overlooked the love of a wonderful girl, and—well you must see this picture to appreciate it. Its coming to the Broadway theatre as the second feature attraction.

Wallace Reid's Last Picture Coming to the Strand Monday.

Built for laughing purposes only is Thirty Days, Wallace Reid's latest Paramount starring vehicle, which will be the feature de luxe at the Strand theatre, next Monday and Tuesday. It is a melodramatic farce comedy packed with laughable moments.

Mr. Reid has the role of a wealthy young man whose sole activities are charity work with his fiancee, and mild flirtations with other girls. It is while engaged in a work of charity that he innocently offends a vicious Italian who swears to kill him. How the Italian tries to fulfill his vow and how Wally prevents him from doing so by going to jail, form the basis of many screamingly funny situations. Here are several of them.

The plight of John Cadwalader Floyd, the character played by Reid, as a man whom all the girls are crazy about; the melodramatic but comic flight of John with Polenta when the latter finds John apparently kissing his wife. John's scheme is to get away from the murderous Polenta by getting sent to jail for 30 days; scenes in the prison; John and two crook bedmates; the arrival in jail of Polenta whom John hopes to escape; John's discovery that the warden is a crook and his change from lowly inmate to the warden's pet; John's plight when his fiancee visits the jail with a group of prison reformers and John's clever ruse to put himself straight with her; Polenta's discharge from jail and John's desperate efforts to prevent being pardoned, resulting in his being kicked bodily out of jail; scene where John fights and rolls up in a rug the prowler he thinks is Polenta, only to find the would-be murderer behind him. Wanda Hawley heads the admirably selected cast.

Two Features at the Broadway Sunday Night Only

Face to face with a man-eating, grappling with the snarling brute till the man tottered on the very brink of eternity; hurled into a surging, ice jammed river in a blinding snowstorm to rescue a girl who was caught in the swift currents; both being borne on the tide over jagged rocks to the very edge of a great water falls—these are but a few of the thrills that combine to make Jane Noak's melodrama "The Snowshoe Trail," which will be at the Broadway theatre Sunday night, one of the outstanding dramatic thrill subjects of the season.

The screen has produced many a super-thrill in the course of its career but seldom, if ever, has a single production possessed such a stirring succession of gripping scenes as The Snowshoe Trail Miss Novak and Roy Stewart, her leading man risked their lives not once but a dozen times in filming this subject in the snow-covered reaches of the Northwest.

If you had everything you wanted, how long would you want it?

MULDOON PUTS BAN ON WILLARD AND WILLS AS OPPONENTS FOR DEMPSEY

New York, Feb. 2.—Jack Dempsey's chances of defending his heavyweight title this year, at least in New York state, were reduced to a minimum today as a result of the decision of William Muldoon, chairman of the state athletic commission, not to permit contests with the two men regarded as leading challengers—Harry Wills, New Orleans negro, and Jess Willard, former champion.

Excessive financial demands by Dempsey's manager, Jack Kearns, and alleged commercializing methods employed by promoters seeking to stage one or both of the bouts, Mr. Muldoon declared, prompted his attitude. Staging of a Dempsey-Wills or Dempsey-Willard bout in New York state, he said, would be detrimental to the boxing game.

On the surface it appeared that Muldoon's ... would eliminate the only decent fight proposition now being considered by Dempsey—an offer by Tom O'Rourke, Polo Grounds matchmaker, for bouts this summer with Wills and Joe Beckett. O'Rourke and Kearns, however, denied the bid had been withdrawn.

Kearns has promised to give O'Rourke an answer Monday. If it was rejected, he said, he would make no further ... for a bout in America. Muldoon's ... toward Wills came as a surprise to boxing circles because of the commissioner's previous insistence that the negro's challenge which resulted in the signing of a tentative agreement with Dempsey six months ago, be recognized. He pointed ..., however, that no promoter has ... him a bona fide proposal for a Wills-Dempsey match and that he would regard the negro's challenge as eliminated from further consideration. No racial question, he emphasized, however, was involved in his decision.

Meanwhile, neither Jess Willard, who has been in New York for several weeks seeking to sign with Dempsey, nor Kearns appeared discouraged by obstacles set in the path of heavyweight title matches this year.

Kearns reiterated his desire for bouts with both Wills and Willard, and hinted that an effort might be made to stage one or both at Tijuana, Mexico, just across the California border. If not successful in signing for a fight, he said, Dempsey might turn to motion pictures for occupation.

Willard, after resting for several days as a result of a mild case of grippe, engaged this afternoon in a strenuous gymnasium workout. He announced he would go ahead with plans for a limited ... exhibition tour and possibly a match or two with other ... eight contenders, in an effort to accumulate funds for a return bout with Dempsey.

Joe Rickard ... yesterday withdrew from the field of bidders for a title match because of his belief that the public was not ready now to support any particular contest, emphasized today that his action applied only to the present situation.

"I am not out of the bidding for 1923 by any means," Rickard declared "I will seek to match Dempsey with Willard or any other suitable opponent as soon as I am convinced the match will have proper support."

Rickard added that his decision would not alter plans he had made to match Dempsey with Luis Firpo, South American heavyweight champion, if the Argentinian defeated Gil Brennan in a match scheduled at Madison Square Garden March 12.

INGRAM TO COACH INDIANA FOOTBALL TEAM

Ingram will coach spring football training here and will return here September for the 1923 season.

The new mentor played quarterback on the Naval academy teams of 1916, '17 and '18, and was appointed first assistant football coach at the academy the fall after his graduation.

KILLINGLY HIGH FIVE WINS FROM WINDHAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, Feb. 2.—Killingly High school defeated Windham High school of Willimantic in a snappy game in the town hall this afternoon. The Windham team's uniforms resembled the Killingly uniforms very much and caused a number of mistakes to be made.

Windham took the lead at the start of the game and held it through nearly all of the first half. Killingly then woke up and overcame their opponents' lead and at the end of the first half had 16 points to Windham's 14.

The second half was very snappily played and many times brought the spectators to their feet. Good guard work by both teams prevented much scoring. Keech and Williams of Killingly each made two field goals in this half. Mandell, for Windham, shot two fields goals, and Simonds two foul goals. This was all the scoring done in the second half. The final score: Killingly 24, Windham 20.

Lineup:

K. H. S.		W. H. S.
T. Reeves	R. F.	Mandell
D. Blakely	L. F.	Heller
Keech	C.	Simonds
Williams	R. G.	Storrs
Meunier	L. G.	Burr

Scorer, Max Fretschneider. timer, Harry Beedt; referee, Sam Putnam of Connecticut Agricultural college.

Field goals: Killingly, Keech 5, Williams 3, Reeves 2, Blakely 1; Windham, Heller 3, Burr 3, Mandell 2, Simonds 1; foul goals, K. H. S., Reeves 2; W. H. S., Mandell 2.

This makes the sixth straight win that Killingly has made. To date, Killingly has lost but one game out of eight played.

YALE TO CONDUCT HIGH SCHOOL TOURNEY

Yale university will conduct its first annual invitation basketball tournament for the high schools championship of the state of Connecticut in the Yale gymnasium beginning Thursday, March 1, and concluding on Saturday, March 3.

High school teams to participate must be members of the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference. Entries will be received from all high school teams that meet the prescribed requirements, but the winning team and the runner up in each of the six regional sections of the state are the ones that the committee will select to play in the tournament. This makes 12 teams.

Yale desires 16 teams in the tournament and has suggested that the board of control of the athletic conference select the four best teams in the state, besides the 12 to be chosen from the regional districts.

The tournament is being run by the Yale basketball committee in conjunction with the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference. The four best teams will be chosen to represent Connecticut in the Tufts tournament.

A suitable trophy will be awarded the winning team and to the members of the championship team.

All ... must be made on the official ... blanks which is attached, and must bear the names of the principal and athletic director. Entry blanks should be forwarded by February 15.

Yale will provide housing quarters ... all teams, also meals, during the ... New Haven.

The rules will be those of the joint basketball committee in addition to the following:

No student will be allowed to compete who has reached his 21st birthday, and who is not in full scholastic standing.

McKETRICK SAYS HERMAN NOT IN BEST CONDITION

Dan McKetrick, manager of Babe Herman, who fought a draw with "Kid" Wagner in Hartford Wednesday night, has the following to say about Herman's performance:

Babe Herman, who fought Eddie "Kid" Wagner in Hartford Wednesday night, will never again undertake two hard battles within a period of 48 hours. Herman was not himself in the Hartford ring. He felt fresh and strong at the beginning but after the second round he became sore and stiff and was unable to do himself justice.

On Monday night, in Brooklyn, Herman won the decision after a terrific 12-round battle with Willie Kohler. As only one day intervened between the Kohler battle and his contest with Wagner, he had no time to take to the road and do his usual workouts to get rid of the soreness and stiffness of the muscles which always follows a strenuous battle. In his contest with Wagner he lacked his usual speed.

I have always been opposed to making alibis but I think this explanation is due the fans of Connecticut and hope that at a later date Herman will have the opportunity to show them his true form. Herman is ready to give Kid Kaplin a return fight and waits the word to get into shape for the contest.

LANDIS REFUSES TO ALLOW EXHIBITION GAME

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Permission to stage an exhibition game in San Francisco next Sunday between the All-Star club composed of members of the major leagues and a team composed of members of the San Francisco police department today was refused by Baseball Commissioner Landis.

KASKY CONTINUES HIS SPECTACULAR SKATING

Montreal, Feb. 2.—The highly spectacular performance of Harry Kasky, the Chicago speedster, who took Saranac Lake by storm during the gold cup series, the sensational racing of Charlie Gorman of St. John, N. B., and the generally excellent showing by the maritime province at the Dominion skating championship here tonight furnished many thrills in a meet that was characterized by fast time and close finishes.

Kasky carried off two events, the 220 yards and the half mile, and finished third to ... man in the mile. Joe Moore, New York state champion, was unable to launch into premier position in any of his events, placing second to Kasky in the 220 and occupying the same place in the mile.

In the juniors, the St. John juveniles carried off ... honors, the half miles under ages 16 and 14, pride of place going respectively to Logan and Buckley. Senior Montreal won the half mile under 18.

Of the six events decided on the first day of the meet, Canadians secured four, with the United States representatives scoring two.

Summaries:

220 senior final: First, Kasky, Chicago; second, A'Hearn, New York; third, Gloster, Toronto. Time, 30 seconds flat.

Half mile junior (under 16): First, Logan, St. John, N. B.; second, Paraday, Lake Placid; third, Vannotwick, Saranac Lake. Time, 1.30.

Half mile senior: First, Kasky, Chicago; second, Moore, New York; third, Gorman, St. John, N. B. Time, 1.24.

Half mile junior (under 18): First, Smith, Montreal; second, Bloomfield, Montreal; third, Nicholson, Montreal. Time, 1.26 1-5.

Half mile juvenile (under 14): First, Buckley, St. John, N. B.; second, Tebe, St. John; third, Smith, Moncton. Time, 1.24.

MRS. MALLORY DEFAULTS BECAUSE OF ILLNESS

New York, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national woman's tennis champion, this afternoon defaulted to Miss Lillian Scharman of New York in the semi-final round of the invitation singles tournament. A severe cold from which she has been suffering for several days caused the withdrawal.

Miss Scharman, who became a finalist for the first time in an important tournament, will play Miss Leslie Bancroft of Boston tomorrow morning for the title which Mrs. Mallory captured last year on the Casino courts. Miss Bancroft won her semi-final match yesterday from Miss Marie Wagner of New York.

Miss Marie Wagner and Mrs. Carl W. Hitchens, New York and Mexico City, won the final of the doubles on the courts of the Heights casino, defeating the young metropolitan indoor champions, Miss Lillian Scharman and Miss Ceres Baker, New York and Orange, N. J., 6-1, 6-1.

The order of the service for the match was Miss Scharman, Miss Wagner, Miss Baker and Mrs. Hitchens. In each of the sets the young pair led off by winning the first game. Then Miss Wagner by her cross courts and Mrs. Hitchens by her baffling cut shot tallied six games in a row for the victory. The match was fairly close, there being five deuce games.

NO-HIT PITCHER SAYS HE IS A HOLD-OUT

Chicago, Feb 2.—Charles Robertson, Chicago American league club pitcher, who in his first season in fast company, last year, hurled a no-hit, no-run game, today verified reports he is a hold-out, but denied rumors that he intended to jump to semi-professional baseball.

Robertson said the contract tendered him provided for an increase of $100 over his last year's salary, and that he had turned it back with a request that another cipher be added to the raise.

Robertson during the off season is a bond salesman here.

RED SOX WILL BE A FIGHTING TEAM

Los Angeles, Feb. 2.—Young players, who will keep fighting at all times, will represent the Boston club of the American league this year, according to Manager Frank L. Chance, who is here arranging his business preparatory to leaving for the east Feb. 14.

"It is my intention to build up a club of youngsters," said Chance. "Veterans might help me a little, but I will have to have the young players to win the pennant.

"It takes a club of youngsters some time to get playing together, and I believe the Red Sox will make a great fight the last of the season."

VETERAN HURLER SIGNS HIS SIXTEENTH CONTRACT

Reno, Nev., Feb. 2.—Walter Johnson, veteran pitcher of the American league, signed his sixteenth contract with the Washington Senators today and celebrated the event by announcing the arrival of a third member of his family, a baby girl.

Johnson declined to state the amount he will receive for his services with Washington but said it was no less than his salary of last season.

Shade Gets Verdict.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 2.—Billy Shade of New York won by a small margin here tonight in a ten-round bout with Joe Lohman of Toledo, newspapermen agreed.

DUNDEE GETS DECISIVE VERDICT OVER FLORES IN BATTLE FOR TITLE

Flores barely escaped a knockout, going to the canvas for the count of nine four times in the last three rounds. He went down the first time in the early part of the thirteenth round, being caught on the chin with a short right hook. Arising, he staggered about Dundee for a few seconds and was dropped again under a barrage to the body. He then evaded Dundee until the round ended.

In the fourteenth Flores was battered from one corner to another, but managed to stay on his feet. He took two counts of nine in the fifteenth, one from a right to the jaw and again from a left uppercut. His knees were near the floor when the contest ended.

Earlier rounds were slowly fought. Flores, though the aggressor, would not reach the Italian veteran effectively. Flores weighed 128 1-2 pounds and Dundee 129 3-4.

MT. PLEASANT SCHOOLBOYS SHOW WELL IN ATHLETICS

Nearly half a hundred lads representing the Mt. Pleasant grammar school met in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium yesterday for their preliminary athletic meet, and which was conducted to choose the school's best athletes for the coming meet between Greeneville, Mt. Pleasant and Broadway schools. If pep counted for anything, the boys were there, for there wasn't a lull in the entire meet, and the boys kept the athletic officials busy to keep ahead of them. The best records were as follows:

Hurdle racing: Meyer Rutchick, 8 sec., Ralph Johnson, Fred Soupernant, Isadore Yoselensky, Joseph Besade, Donald Royce.

Potato race: Ed Gulomb, William Hollender, Don Whitemore, George Haddad, Fred Soupernant.

Basketball shooting race: Ed Gulomb, Meyer Rutchick, Delmonte, Ed Fidelle, Richard Rankin.

Officials: H. Ludlow, C. Moody, L. Armstrong, J. Boynton, F. J. Fritz.

The other preliminary meets will be held Friday, Feb. 9 and 16, when Broadway and Greeneville schools will meet.

PREMIER SKATERS TO BE AT LAKE PLACID

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Virtually every amateur speed skater of prominence in the United States and Canada will participate in the final meet of the Adirondack gold cup skating championship series on Mirror lake rink at Lake Placid on Feb. 8, 9 and 10, it was announced today by the Lake Placid Skating association. Two events will be contested each afternoon and the skaters will be eligible for the Maxwell "300 point" silver trophy competition as well as the Adirondack gold cup award.

Jewtraw is leading for the Adirondack gold cup with 330 points, with Gorman, 150, second, and Donovan and Kasky tied for third with 150 each.

REYNOLDS WINS TITLE FROM SHOEMAKER

New York, Feb. 2.—Edward F. Raynolds won the national amateur pocket billiard championship title tonight, in a match filled with nervy cueing, the star of the Amateur Billiard club of New York defeated J. Howard Shoemaker, holder of the championship since 1914. The final score was 125 balls to 121. Raynolds made a high run of 29 balls.

The match completed the tournament at the Crescent Athletic club, Shoemaker taking second place and Carl A. Vaughan third, as their tie was decided on the Olympic system.

WILLIMANTIC FIVE TO PLAY "Y" SENIORS TONIGHT

The Willimantic basketball team will be the attraction on the "Y" court tonight, when they will endeavor to break up the "Y" Seniors lucky streak. The Seniors have won every home game so far, and are planning if possible to finish out the season with a perfect record. The Willimantics have promised to bring over some of their "pros" and the tussle may be an interesting affair. As a preliminary the "Y" Imps will play the Academy Boys.

Pittsburgh Sextet Wins.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 2.—The Eveleth team of the United States Amateur Hockey association failed to score in a league game with Pittsburgh here tonight and the home team won, 1 to 0. McGovern, a substitute Pittsburgh player, shot the only goal of the game in the first period.

Cleveland Wins.

Cleveland, Feb. 2.—Cleveland defeated Milwaukee 4 to 2 tonight in the first of a two-game United States Amateur Hockey association series.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Wearing flimsy running togs, the Boston college track team has been defying cold winds and snow by training outdoors.

The Texas open golf tourney at San Antonio has established a place among the leading tournaments of the winter season.

Manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals is opposed to any attempt to curtail home-run hitting through a zone system.

Bobby Wallace and Oscar Dugey, former big league stars, will help Manager Killifer to get the Cubs in shape at Cataline Island.

George Sisler, champion batsman of the American league, names Ed Rommel, of the Athletics, as the greatest pitcher in baseball.

It is said that Bill Brennan is a big winner in Wall street, so the loss of a boxing bout now and then doesn't worry him financially.

As more than 200 teams have already entered the Penn relays, a record-breaking list is assured for the Red and Blue track carnival next April.

With the Princeton hockey and football teams defeating all comers, Harvard and Yale will have to "step on the gas" to keep pace with the Tigers.

Ball players wearing numbers similar to those worn by football players would be a great help to patrons in keeping tabs on the pastimers during the game.

The greatest array of speed skaters ever assembled at a single meet are expected to take part in the national professional championship races at Saranac Lake, Feb. 12-14.

Joie Ray, the Chicago flyer, says he is in the best of condition for the Wilco A. C. games at Brooklyn and that he will attempt to lower his own 3,000-metre record.

With the record of 100 straight victories in the past three years, the Passaic, N. J., high school basketball team has set a considerable mark for other basketballers to shoot at.

Weather conditions cause a 50-50 break in postponed baseball and soccer game. Rain gives the ball players a lay-off in summer and snow does likewise for the soccer players in the winter.

In one respect Frank Chance has it on Art Fletcher and Donie Bush, new managers of the Phillies and Senators, respectively. The new boss of the Red Sox has had years of experience as a big league pilot and knows what he's up against.

STATE BUDGET $27,889,538; EXCEEDS ESTIMATED RECEIPTS

Appropriations aggregating $27,889,538, for the maintenance of the state government for the two years ending June 30, 1925, will be recommended to the general assembly in the biennial report of the state board of finance. This is nearly three million dollars more than the board's recommendations of two years ago and $1,529,16 in excess of maintenance appropriations made by the last session of the legislature.

Preliminary copies of the report were handed to Senate Chairman Rogers and House Chairman Keith of the appropriations committee on Thursday. Copies will be available for general distribution on Tuesday.

Large population in most of the state institutions and the new activities ordered by the last session of the legislature are held responsible for "a considerable portion of the increase."

New Construction Requests $8,911,209

Requests for new construction and new projects, as incorporated in the report, aggregate $8,911,209. The estimated state receipts for the coming two years aggregate $32,977,100. These include estimated receipts of $5,150,000 from motor vehicle fees, which by law, must be turned over to the highway department for repairs and replacements. Adding the estimated motor vehicles receipts to the maintenance appropriations recommended, therefore, it indicates a total outgo of 33,039,538, which is $62,438 in excess of the total estimated receipts. Adding to this total the aggregate of requests for new construction and new projects, the estimated receipts from all sources fall $8,973,647 short of meeting the demands upon the state treasury.

The new construction, equipment and new projects for which appropriation requests were laid before the finance board, were also provided for in bills offered in the general assembly, giving the items entering into the total requested for each institution or department.

$784,000 Norwich State Hospital.

The aggregate amounts of the appropriations for new work sought by the different branches are as follows:

Highway department $3,000,000 (not counting $5,150,000 in estimated motor vehicle receipts); Long Lane Farm, $102,000; Connecticut School For Boys, $1,387,328 (less than half of which is requested from the present session); State Farm for Women, $323,700; Mansfield State Training School and Hospital, $645,000; tuberculosis commission, $377,780; Connecticut State Hospital, $298,000; Norwich State Hospital, $784,000; Connecticut reformatory, $55,000; Connecticut state prison, $11,000; state board of education, $901,860; Connecticut Agricultural College, $787,041.

Economy Cuts.

The finance board recommended that $1,362.49 be pared from maintenance requests of $29,252,033.16 that were submitted to it. The greatest cut came in the education department, where the board pared $185,000 fro ma request for $5,097,108. From the motor vehicle department requests were cut $105,771; from the state police, $40,500; from the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, $15,000; from the compensation commissioners, $10,500; from the military department, $35,220; fro mthe highway department, $125,000; From Storrs College, $28,421; and from the requests from court assistants several lesser amounts.

J. E. MARTIN OFFICER IN PAWTUCKET BRAID MILL

In a change in management this week at the worsted braid mill of D. Goff & Sons of Pawtucket, John E. Martin of 20 Oak street, this city, was elected vice president and general manager. He is also treasurer of the Valley Falls Woolen Co.

In the Goff mill, Mr. Martin succeeds L. B. Goff as vice president and John F. Syme as general manager, the latter having been with the mill for over five years.

According to a statement made by J. G. Everett of Providence, re-elected treasurer, Mr. Goff will continue to have an interest in the mill.

It was stated that no changes to date have taken place in the status of the company or the stockholders, also that while the departments of the mill are in operation only part of the machinery is working. According to Mr. Everett the spinning department which is extra busy, would be in operation nights if the necessary help could be engaged.

TURKS AND ALLIES DIFFER ON MANY POINTS

Lausanne, Feb. 2.—(By the A. P.)—A list of some thirty points on which the Turks differ from the allies was sent to the allies today by the Turks in connection with the peace treaty which the powers are seeking to conclude. The Angora delegates to the Near East conference still refuse to accept the clause in the allied draft treaty under which foreign legal counselors would sit with Turkish magistrates in trials foreigners, steadfastly maintaining that this violates their sovereign rights.

The question of judicial guarantees for foreigners in Turkey, which is foremost among the thirty points, was considered this afternoon by the allied jurists and an answer probably will be handed to Ismet Pasha tomorrow. The Turks are compiling a formal reply to the allied draft treaty, and the treaty will be completed when this answer is received.

A conciliatory moods is being shown by the allies and the various delegations appeared to be optimistic tonight that the peace protocol will urgently be signed.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Anne John Edwards.

Greenwich, Conn., Feb. 2.—Mrs. Anne John Edwards, wife of George Wharton Edwards, well known artist and illustrator, died at her home here late today after a month's illness. Her death was due to the comparatively rare disease, "thrombosis" which interfered with the proper circulation of blood.

Mrs. Edwards was the daughter of the late General John Cox, of Quincy, Ill., who was also a former assistant secretary of the treasury. She was prominent in society here and was connected with many local organizations. During the war she received a French decoration for her work in aiding devastated France. There are no children.

Mrs. Eva A. Ingersoll

New York, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Eva A. Ingersoll, widow of Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, who was noted more than 20 years ago for his agnostic utterances, died today in her Gramercy Park home, in her 83rd years.

Born in Illinois, a descendant of the old Parker family of Massachusetts, she married Ingersoll in 1862, the day he became a member of the Union army. She followed him as far south as she could during the war. Her husband eventually became colonel of the Eleventh Illinois cavalry. He died in 1899.

Mrs. Ingersoll shared her husband's views on religion. Her body will be cremated, according to her wish. She is survived by two daughters.

Part of Time's Heritage.

Somehow Shelley's line in "Adonais" about one whose name was writ in water comes to mind while reading the announcement that a fossil brownstone slab bearing the imprint of raindrops has been presented to the geological museum of Trinity college. This was a rainstorm that occurred thousands and thousands of years ago, and yet the marks of it are still to be seen. Like the luscious, ever-vital personality of John Keats, these raindrops have become part of the heritage of Time.—Christian Science Monitor.

FOREIGN LOANS FOR BOND RETIREMENT.

Obstructionists have been conspicuous in congress when it comes to interfering with the progress of much needed legislation. They have left no opportunities to embarrass and seize upon the most innocent measures if the head has through such they can get consideration for impossible projects which have been turned down at one stage or another.

Thus they are playing true to form when they threaten to wreck the soldier bonus bill unless the resolution authorizing the refunding of the British debt. Open motives of course that if there is to be a discussion a year coming in which Great Britain that money ought to go to the payment of a bonus and provides that the revenue that is raised to help meet such an issue.

There is no question but what such revenue would be of much assistance in meeting the requirements of a bonus bill. But then the question arises as to how the Liberty bonds are to be paid as they fall due.

It is to be remembered, when the idea of utilizing such money for bonus purposes is proposed, that it has been specifically stated in legislation enacted at the time the loans were authorized that the funds obtained through the repayment of the loans must be devoted to the retirement of the Liberty bonds. That was a proper restriction and one that should be adhered to.

If the money paid us foreign countries is to be used for bonus purposes there will be nothing with which to retire the bonds when they become due. That being the case the bonus proposition should be made to stand on its own feet. Certainly it has no place in connection with the refunding of the foreign debts, and those who know are rendering a distinct disservice to their country if they insist upon bringing it up to obstruct prompt congressional action concerning the debt agreement.

RUNNING ENGINES IN GARAGES

Someone has said that there ought to be posted in every garage and motor repair shop the following sign: "Don't run the engine of your car in the closed shop."

It is the best sign a driver could have on the wall of his garage. At present there ought to be a sign on every garage door which says: "Don't run the engine of your car in the closed shop unless you want to be arrested." Then the police would have a chance to do some good work in the way of preventing accidents and saving lives.

Every year the list of those killed by carbon monoxide poisoning is increased. Many of the victims are those who have no idea of the danger they are in when they run the engine of a car in a closed garage.

The fate of the large number of auto owners from just such a cause should be sufficient to prevent others from making the same fatal mistake. The deplorable instances and the narrow escapes go to show, however, that it does not. The danger gets no more attention than does that existing at grade crossings from some auto drivers. It is not so much in a spirit of defiance that personal safety is disregarded as it is carelessness, and probably in many cases a lack of knowledge of the actual danger. In such cases as that the suggested idea of a warning in every garage would meet a much needed requirement. Even though nine-tenths of the auto owners know better than to run their engines in closed garages the value of such a warning to the other tenth is worthy of consideration.

SMUGGLED LIQUOR.

Much the same experience is being had by this country in the enforcement of prohibition laws as was had by different states which had previously insisted upon prohibition for themselves. They might do fairly well in the way of enforcement within, but they were next to powerless to deal with the flow of liquor that came from the outside. It was brought in by those who favored its use and it was sent in by those of other states where the manufacture and sale of liquor was not forbidden.

Some idea of what is now coming from the outside is furnished by the statement of a member of congress, who declares it to be a fact according to the records of the state department that 1,200,000 gallons of liquor are sent to this country yearly from the Bahamas. How much comes from other directions is not indicated, but in connection with the statement concerning the large quantities being smuggled in it becomes more and more apparent that whatever efforts are made to break up this work must be done by this country. It cannot be expected that the Bahamas or any other government will undertake to aid in the enforcement of our laws, unless it happens to be that it is also living under a dry law.

It isn't to be supposed that all the liquor that is consumed in the country these days and a beverage comes from the outside. A large amount of it is manufactured here regardless of the danger involved in the drinking of such. That which is being smuggled in represents quite a stream nevertheless, and it will continue to increase in volume and profit for those engaged in the rum-running unless measures more nearly adequate to meet the situation are adopted. It is useless to figure or depend upon cooperation from the outside. Whatever is done in the way of checking such quantities of liquor being landed along the coast rests with those who are entrusted with the enforcement of the law.

FORCING COAL SUBSTITUTES.

With no substitute for hard coal that makes it possible to greatly relieve the demand for that fuel every bit of pressure possible is being put upon the consumer to separate him from his money.

Not only have coal prices been sent skyhigh and taxes on coal sent out of the state collected by Pennsylvania but a heavier burden on the coal consumer is promised by the action of the commissioners of Schuylkill county in increasing the taxable valuation of the coal lands in that country by over $400,000,000. That action was questioned in the courts but the supreme court of the state has recently sustained the action of the commissioners.

The increased valuation of the anthracite land is going to mean that more taxes will be collected from the owners, or operators. But it is thoroughly understood that whatever the owners or operators have to pay in additional taxes is going to be passed on to the consumer.

With his back to the wall and his hands tied the consumer of anthracite may continue to be good natured. He may kick, for he has kicked before, but that doesn't mean that he can anticipate there will be any relief. He is the legitimate prey of those who want his dollars just as long as he thinks he must have anthracite coal.

Because of the fear that the coal fields would be exhausted much has been said in behalf of a substitute for such fuel. From all indications it will not be the danger of lack of supply that will force the consumer into the use of substitutes. It is possible that there is a limit to which the anthracite users can be gouged.

LACK OF UNITY.

The lesson of standing together and acting as far as possible as a unit is one that has been before the allied nations for years. It was only after costly experience in trying to fight for the common cause through divided leadership that the value of unity was recognized. That lesson of the war is one that the allies cannot afford to neglect now that the war is over. The importance of standing together and composing whatever differences arise is vital. There hasn't as yet been a break between them that has aroused enmity, but there have been differences of opinion both in regard to the seizure of the Ruhr and certain points at Lausanne which indicate what serious effects might result from a break.

With the allies at odds amongst themselves it is now a situation that is going to impress the Turks. Turkey hasn't driven a wedge in between the French and British, even though the former is disposed to be more tolerant of the Turks, but the absence of a united front encourages Turkey to display the arrogance that it acquired as the result of the successful campaign against the Greeks and to continue to insist upon having its own way concerning the adjustment of matters in the near east.

Turkey hasn't declared that it will not accept the terms that have been offered it. It is delaying and manifesting its opposition. It is not going to agree to any more than it has to and in that attitude it is supported by the known fact that those with whom it is dealing are not united amongst themselves. When the allies permit that to be known to the Turks they repeat the mistake that has been made on previous occasions.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Once more the groundhog is given an opportunity to reestablish his former reputation.

The man on the corner says: Wonder if the groundhog appeared with his galoshes turned down.

Unless his eyesight is seriously impaired the groundhog has gone back for another 40 days.

From the falls which the German mark is taking it seems destined to the fate of Humpty Dumpty.

Those not otherwise engaged are of course putting their time in planning the home garden plot for next summer.

With reports coming of people seeing bluebirds and hearing robins it's about time to learn that early peas are coming through the ground.

The demand for "pure coal" might be put up to Pennsylvania in such a way that the taxation of anything but coal would carry a stiff penalty.

In Philadelphia 307 of the 859 sudden deaths during 29 days are attributed to moonshine liquor. In other words were they murders or suicides?

Some consider it unfortunate that they are obliged to fill out the tax blanks and pay an income tax. How they would kick if their income was so small as to be exempt.

Congress has much to do this month, but what a whacking lot of business it could dispose of if it would only get down to brass tacks and eliminate the waste time.

There's something interesting about that chap who insists on making his battered snow shovel go through the winter because he hoped to spend next winter in Florida.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It seems hardly credible that in these days of social enlightenment there should be a disposition on the part of any one of our sovereign states to penalize those who are inclined to be charitable in the disposition of their property. Such, however, is the case in Mississippi. In this state it is illegal to bequeath property to charitable institutions. It is certainly an instance where paternalism on the part of civil authority is carried to absurdity. We may go farther than this and say that it is sheer despotism on the part of the state to curb individual liberty in the disposal of its own property. There is niggardliness enough now on the part of private fortunes without putting any premium upon it. Hospitals for instance that are not over endowed will suffer if kindly-disposed men and women of means are not permitted to make them beneficiaries of their will. One wonders what can be back of such outrageous enactment.

It ought to be kept constantly before the public eye just what is being accomplished by prohibition from reliable data, in view of the scare lines frequently seen in the daily press. It would be well to remember that obedience to the law is not news, but violation is. To print an item like the following would be sheer absurdity: "John Smith of Jones avenue is still working every day." Such a common and inspid thing as that is not news. But when some John Smith out of a thousand runs away with some Timothy Jones' wife you have a thriller; it makes people "sit up and take notice." The papers print it because the people want it. The thousands of vessels that sail into our American ports every day with no rum aboard do not get into headline space, simply because it is not news. When one does and is caught then from the size of its publicity one would think that prohibition is a failure. Enemies make the most of this and shout: Down with the Volstead act!" "Prohibition is not workable!" And some people actually believe it.

In the most conspicuous way has there been a great advance made in the last decade in editing magazines and especially religious magazines. Along this line of literature there seems to be a better understanding how really good material can be made interesting to those who have not been "educated up" to the very best. It is not so much the matter as the manner of its presentation that makes it attractive to the average reader. We have gotten over the idea that only the dime novel can thrill. It is because writers have a better understanding of the psychology of the reading public, that we are having more reading matter that is really worth while. "Blood and thunder" trash on the one hand and sentimental mush on the other get a foothold only in the mind and heart of the abnormal. The earlier religious magazines were exceedingly crude. But when religious matter must be made attractive if it is to be influential, and here is a great advance that has been made.

It must be admitted that it is not alone the reading matter of our present magazines that comes in for praise. The more artistic cover-designs are sometimes worth the price of the periodical. But the one external thing more than any other that helps to own the magazine is the great new world of photography. Isn't it pleasing to know just how the great ones look of whom we read. We are glad to know what sort of face the famous Frenchman, Emile Coue, the haymaker, has. (Wouldn't it be worth the price of a dozen boxes of pills to have a man with such a kindly, smiling human face stand by your bedside?) We are thankful that the papers and magazines gave us the features of the "Old Tiger." Such faces are only given to men capable of rulership. To oppose a man with such a face one wants to be pretty sure of his grouns. Think of the unknowns parts of the earth which photography brings before our eyes. It makes us feel like spending the next vacation in Alaska.

Did you every think what a blessing (or possibly, curse) to a man is his own individuality? Howver organic and unified the human race may be, every man stands forth in his absolute and eternal unlikeness to every other man who ever lived or ever will live. Two persons may look so nearly alike as to mislead us into making ludicrous and humiliating mistakes. But if the two persons are seen side by side the difference between them at once becomes apparent. This universal disparity in the race is a most powerful factor in the detection of criminals. Based upon this universal fact the finger prints of notorious characters are taken. No two persons have yet been discovered with finger prints alike. If a person of crime has ever been known to the police, his own individuality will bring him to justice. This is true everywhere; one's voice, gait, manner of speaking, and habits generally will disclose his identity.

What a sweet time we should have if we read everything our dear friends thought we ought, and especially the material they are so ready to supply us with! What a strangely mixed mass do they put into our hands and wonder why we don't rave about it! We get a taste of all the theories that are going the rounds about everything, from the dogmas of the Holy Rollers and Jerusalem Jumpers to the dyed-in-the-wool Presbyterians, and they all prove their positions from proof texts taken from the Pauline writings. Then again, there are those who put pamphlets in to your hands proving that their ancestors are sleeping in their graves, and they seem to be perfectly delighted that they are, and they prove their theories also from the writings of the Apostle Paul. The converse of this is the opinion of those who want you to read about your ancestors, not as dead, but as dancing all around you and resorting to all manner of tricks, both fair and foul, to attract your attention, and they prove it by the Apostle Paul.

We have a good illustration in these days of icy street of what faith will do. The more one sees how people of different ages and various temperament operate on the glare ice, he is inclined to feel that ability to stand up squarely on one's two feet is due less to youth, agility and strength than to confidence and faith. Look at the schoolboy on a perfectly level piece of ice! He is not satisfied to walk over it, but he must run or slide across it. He does this in all possible postures; sometimes forward, sometimes backward. If he loses his balance and tumbles it only adds to his pleasure. Not so the feeble, elderly lady. She is more at ease when leaning on somebody's arms. If alone, her footsteps are short and gingerly taken; she is mortally afraid of a fall. The main difference between youth and age on the ice is faith, and this is only another illustration showing that faith is one of the big things of the world.

Whether we are young or old, brave or timid, when standing on the ice, especially if it is on the incline, it is hardly safe to bet on our understanding. I am not sure that it is quite wise to bet on it anyway. The understanding which is supposed to lodge in our heads, as well as that which we know lodges on ice, is a very slippery proposition. We are not quite sure just how far our knowledge extends in any single direction; neither are we aware how thoroughly we know the things we think we know. Our understanding is limited in both quantity and quality. In order that we may get through this world in fairly decent fashion, this limited knowledge is supplemented by the faith faculty which is unlimited. What we actually know of this knowable world is pathetically small, but our faith extends to its utmost bounds. In referring to a fellow we never say: "I know him absolutely," but we do say, "I have absolute faith in him."

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

The Comfort From the Bible.

What is the world to the man who has no Bible? It is a place which offers many opportunities for self-indulgence and for the gratification of ambition, but it is full of uncertainties, full of fears of one kind or another, and full of worries. Such a man can have no assistance that he can make a success of his life. He cannot know that he will always be happy. There are a thousand and one things, indeed, which, if they happen, will make him very wretched. He may lose his money in many ways, and with it most of the things which give him pleasure, or, he may lose his health, or he may lose his loved ones, or he may be disappointed in regard to that which he most earnestly desires. And in any of these cases he can find no compensation.

Now look at the other side. Look at the man who walks as it were, with the Bible in his hand, receiving it as God; messages to him and referring to it continually as he journeys. If he reads rightly, he can always find comfort no matter what his condition. He has no occasion to fear anything, because the Bible assures him that nothing can hurt him. He has no occasion to worry over anything, for the Bible tells him that God has built the world for those who serve Him, and that all things work together for their good, as we are told in Romans 8:28.

Paul was such a man. He could write these words even though he had been through all manners of hardships. And that powers that what an ordinarily counted hardships lose their sting to those who are able to receive them as messengers from God. The comfort the Bible gives us is, not that we shall escape what is called misfortune, but that all troubles that comes to us shall be blessings. So Paul understood it and was always cheerful in consequence. You never hear him complain of what he had to undergo. If he had had a fortune and lost it, how do you think he would have acted? Can you imagine a fortune being worth anything to him if God saw fit to take it away? No, he would say, "and we know that all things work together for good to them that love God. Romans, 8:28. Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus, our Lord. Romans 8:39.

David was another man who took great comfort from the Bible, and from the thoughts of God that even the small part of the Bible which he had. Even in his worst straights he was hopeful. Now and again he lost sight of God, and then he was miserable indeed. But he soon recovered his faith and hope and was happy again. Generally, David's thoughts were taken up with praising God and being happy in the knowledge that God ruled the world, and not only the world at large but his own especial part in it. "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow in all the days of my life." Psalm 23:6. We all need the strength of the Lord, and we all need His salvation. While we have these nothing can take away our confidence in God, without them we are comfortless.

MILITARY AND COMMERCIAL AVIATION.

The air service, together with other branches of the army, has been required to bear its share in the general reduction in the military strength of the country which has been effected since the world war. Notwithstanding this fact, the air service furnishes a notable example of efficiency and has recorded many excellent accomplishments under trying difficulties. It has established and now holds the world's records for altitude, endurance, speed and long-distance non-stop flights. It occupies indeed a proud position for so small a force and speaks well for the ability, enthusiasm, skill and endurance of its personnel, writes Secretary of War John W. Weeks in the special aeronautic association number of the Aeronautical Digest.

Planes which can fly at a speed of four miles a minute, which can climb seven and a half miles in the air, which can stay in the air for a day and a half without landing, and which can cover a distance of more than two thousand miles in a single flight—the records of our Air Service—indicate the present trend of aeronautical development and direct especial attention to the possibilities in the use of planes in time of war. Furthermore, such records of performance constitute important factors in the successful execution of strategical and tactical movements. Aviation must henceforth be given a prominent place in the successful conduct of war. The experiences and performances of aircraft during the world war furnish ample testimony in substantiation without taking into consideration the progress and development since that time.

The Air Service of the Army will be trained in the attainment of the greatest possible skill in all possible phases of flying, including quick maneuver in formation and aerial navigation; marksmanship with all weapons with which equipped, strategical and tactical observation and reconnaissance; attack of objectives in the air, on the ground, and on the water; cooperations with other branches and with the Navy; maintenance of communications under all conditions; and use of its auxiliary equipment.

The Air Service will act as auxiliary to all ground troops. It will aid the infantry, add to the destructive power of artillery, and furnish a means for gathering information of inestimable value to the Commander-in-Chief and for distributing his orders to his command. Any arm which can accomplish such results is of major importance in the military organization. When, in addition, this arm can strike decisive blows of its own, it becomes of still greater value and it is a fact that a well-organized and well-equipped air force can greatly aid in defeating the enemy by attacking his ground troops, his concentration points, lines of communication, railroad centers, and his industrial establishments far behind the lines, which are employed in manufacturing supplies for his forces; provided always, that the air forces is able to secure and maintain supremacy in the air.

Supremacy in the air is now considered essential in the successful conduct of a war of magnitude. Future wars, if they are to be waged successfully by any power, will pre-suppose the complete mobilization of that power in the conduct of war. This signifies that every natural resource, every manufacturing plant, every individual, must be mobilized and coalesced into a complete unit; otherwise success will be doubtful and the probable loss of the issues of the war almost a foregone conclusion.

There emerges, then, from an argument based on such a promise, a concrete fact that aviation cannot be used upon a grand scale as a military factor, unless an aeronautical industry is mobilized behind it, supporting it making its work effective by enabling it to place in the field overwhelming aerial strength. Thus, we must have an aeronautical industry which can be counted upon with certainty in time of national emergency or if another war is forced upon us. A nation-wide industry is impossible unless nation-wide use of commercial aviation comes into being. In order for such an extensive use of air navigation to be realized, we must immediately begin to investigate the various industries and commercial activities of our land which can best be served by aeronautics, and business men, as a result of inquiries into these matters, must exercise the courage of their conviction and utilize aircraft wherever possible.

It is not believed that a nation owing its importance in the affairs of the world to industrial development, can neglect further the employment of this new factor in transportation and communication. Indeed, it is believed that we are on the verge of an era in development in aerial transportation which will speed up business enterprises and pay enormous dividends in terms of service.

One thing remains to be done to call forth capital in support of commercial aviation and that is the enactment of stabilizing and encouraging laws to take aeronautics out of the "outlaw" class of industries, and place it firmly on its feet with adequate governmental recognition. It is meant by this that air navigation is so swift in its operation that no longer are there state boundaries; for if the speed of an airplane is substituted for the speed of the railways throughout our present surface network of transportation facilities, the map of the United States will be greatly diminished.

Consequently, air navigation is an interstate activity, and must be subject to laws governing interstate commerce. Those laws, however, must be suited to the new agency, while founded on the broad principle of commercial law. We must have regulations to foster rather than to hamper the development of this new art. Only by Federal regulation can such conditions be brought about. Separate laws at the instance of forty-eight states would mean confusion. It is necessary then, to obtain the assistance of Congress in the form of legislation which will require the regulation of air navigation, to provide for the inspection of equipment, the licensing of pilots, the safe-guarding of passengers and the general public, and further, to maintain the national prestige.

With such comprehensive legislation will come immediate acceleration in the growth of air navigation. The country will be benefitted commercially thereby, and there will be the essential aircraft industry necessary for the national defense, in that, in a minimum of time the army and navy air services will be provided with the necessary aircraft for the expansion of the military and naval arms in time of national emergency. Not only can tactical types of commercial aircraft could be quickly changed over for military and naval use, but quantity production of proved types of aircraft may be started without delay.

In conclusion and recapitulation, the following facts stand out; aviation has proved itself to be a vital factor in war; it has proved itself to be an important factor in commerce and industry; its development is therefore a governmental and industrial problem, and its full development is dependent upon adequate laws.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Aggregate Income.

In the returns of married persons many errors have been discovered because of the failure to account for the aggregate net income of husband, wife, and dependent minor children. For example, John Smith, an artisan, had a net income for 1922 of $2,100. His wife earned $1,400 as a stenographer, and two sons, 15 and 17 years old earned $720 each as messengers. The exemption is $2,500, the family income being less than $5,000, plus a $400 credit for each dependent son, a total of $3,300. Deducted from $4,940, the combined net income of this lead a taxable net income of $1,600, which, however, may be further reduced by deductions of payments of interest, contributions, bad debts, etc., to be fully explained later.

Separate returns may be made by husband and wife, or they may make a combined return. In the event separate returns are made either husband or wife may claim the exemption allowed married persons, or they may divide it between them in such proportion as they chose. The one contributing the chief support may claim the $400 for each dependent.

The $400 credit for dependents is allowed only when such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. In the above example, the sons are dependents because both are under 18 years of age. They have not been "emancipated" and their parents have not abandoned their right to the son's earnings, which, therefore, must be included in the parent's return.

Stories That Recall Others

Speaking in Tons.

Billy was eight and good at figures. He had learned the number ounces in a pound, and pounds in ton among other things and one day he began quizzing his mother about the distances to different places. One she said was about 3000 miles and another about 3000 miles. Wishing to see whether he knew the difference between the two distances she asked him and his reply was "a half a ton."

The Rude Awakening.

The flapper daughter of the family came to the breakfast table in a distinctly bad humor. "I don't see why you wakened me when you did," she complained to her mother. "I was just about to receive a proposal. I dreamed John T—— had taken me out to dinner, we had just finished eating and he folded his hands and looked at me like he was ready to ask a question when you woke me up."

"Oh," her unsympathetic brother laughed, "I know that guy better than you do. He wasn't going to ask you to marry him at all. He was going to ask you to lend him money to pay the dinner check."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Earl of Denbigh, whose engagement to wed Miss Kathleen Emmet, daughter of the late Dr. Thomas Allis Emmet of New York, has been announced in London, has a distinguished war record dating back to the Egyptian campaign of 1882. Of late years he has devoted himself to business and finance, with such success that he is reputed to have accumulated a large fortune. But when he succeeded to his title in 1893 his circumstances were such as to render it essential for him to husband his resources. From the outset he rigidly addressed himself, to the task of observing economy at Newham Paddox, his place near Lutterworth, whose magnificent gates are the admiration of every visitor. The only luxury he permitted himself was the maintenance of the beautiful gardens. By prudence and self-denial he greatly reduced the burdens on his estate, while successful business ventures at the same time augmented his income. The family is one of the oldest and most distinguished of the British peerage, being descended from the Count of Hapsburg, who settled in England in the time of Henry III.

Today's Anniversaries

1811—Horace Greeley, famous editor and presidential candidate, born at Amherst, N. H. Died near New York city, Nov. 29, 1872.

1821—Elizabeth Blackwell, who received the first medical diploma ever awarded a woman in America, born in England. Died there, May 31, 1910.

1831—The Duke of Nemours was elected king of Belgium, but his father, the French king, refused his consent.

1916—Seven lives lost in a fire that destroyed the Parliament building in Ottawa.

1922—Jury disagreed in second trial of (Fatty) Arbuckle. Conclave of Cardinals took four ballots but failed to elect a Pope.

Wives of Famous Men

Margarita Barezzi, Wife of Verdi.

Nothing more touching has ever been told than the tragic story of Giuseppi Verdi, great Italian composer, and Margarita Barezzi, his fragile, lovely girl-wife, daughter of his first teacher. The composer of Aida, Il Trovatore and other famous operas boarded with his teacher and fell in love with his teacher's daughter. They gained the father's consent to the marriage, which took place when Verdi was 23 and Margarita 18.

Two years later, with his young wife and two babies, the composer set out to make his fortune in Milan. Failing ill there, he was unable to pay the rent for his tiny apartment, when it came due. Margarita, seeing his distress, pawned a few articles of jewelry she still had, and gave him the money. Happily, soon after he made some money through a composition, and was able to restore her trinkets to her.

All the while the composer struggled with his operatic manuscripts, which for a long time received no recognition, the delicate little girl who was his wife struggled to do the work in the home, take care of the children and help her genius husband in his working by always appearing happy, and never giving him any additional worries.

At last Verdi obtained an order for a comic opera, on which he set to work with feverish haste, for there would be no money forthcoming until its first performance. In the meantime, though, it was hard to keep the babies healthy, and thriving on nothing to eat but a few soup bones. One morning Margarita arose to find her bambino cold and at rest in the sleep from which she would never wake. She wept, but went bravely on, helping, always helping her husband. That was in the winter. Along toward spring the older child, a girl, gave up the futile struggle against starvation, and mercifully died in her father's arms.

This blow seemed to take the last of Margarita's physical resistance, though mentally she remained as strong as steel. She refused to show her unhappiness, and kept smiling. But her will was stronger than her body, for she failed swiftly, and before June was half over she died.

Verdi, although in later years he remarried, in the days of his prosperity never forgot his first love and her wonderful faith.

N THE DAY'S NEWS

Isle of Pines.

The Isle of Pines, in regard to which a treaty with Cuba has been taken from a state department pigeonhole where it has lain since the Spanish-American war, and submitted to the senate, probably is not a familiar name to the average American. But the chances are that the island, for all that, has contributed delightful dishes to his midwinter breakfasts, luncheons and dinners.

"From the Isle of Pines, as far south of Havana as Havana is south of Key West," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society, "come some of the earliest of the fresh vegetables and some of the most luscious of the grapefruits that reach snowbound American markets.

"This pine-clad island of the tropics, while probably not well known to the majority of stay-at-home Americans, is either permanent or temporary home to some thousands of Americans who have more than the average share of wanderlust in their makeup and who have made and are making over a unique region formerly almost wholly neglected. The island belongs to Cuba and is governed by that republic; but it constitutes probably the most American community under any foreign flag.

"The island was shunned by ordinary folk during the early centuries after its discovery by Columbus because it became a rendezvous for the notorious Caribbean pirates. Later under Spanish rule of Cuba it led a sleepy, isolated existence and was used for what the Spaniards called 'convict settlements.' But the 'convicts' were, in the main, political prisoners who had plotted the overthrow of Spanish rule in Cuba.

"During American control of Cuba after the Spanish-American war, Americans saw the unrealized possibilities of this fertile island of equable climate and began its development through the planting of citrus orchards. Other Americans followed and other industries were developed. Now the one-time pirate island is a 'Little America.' Ninety-five per cent. of its surface is owned by individual Americans and over half the population is English-speaking. American churches, schools and lodge rooms dot the countryside, and automobiles spinning over excellent roads, and farm machinery, clanging away in field and orchard, supply an atmosphere that might be that of Indiana or California.

"The island gets its name from its forests of pine which are said to exist there at a lower altitude than anywhere else in the tropics. But with these trees of a more northern region grow palms and oranges, mahogany and ebony.

"The Isle of Pines, almost a quarter the size of Porto Rico, has only about one-fortieth the density of population of that crowded island. About 7,000 persons were shown to be resident there by the latest census. But during the cold period in the United States, when tourists go south and winter homes are occupied, the population is considerably increased.

"Climate might be termed the chief asset of the Isle of Pines, for it makes possible its principal industries of early fruit and vegetable culture. In the tropics but continually blown upon by the trade winds, its temperature is neither hot nor cool. The thermometer seldom registers higher than 90 degrees or lower than 60 degrees. In such a temperature grapefruit and lemons and pineapples grow to perfection, and thousands of acres of them have been set out by American plantation owners.

"The Isle of Pines is governed as a part of the province of Havana on the Cuban mainland 40 miles to the north. The municipal officials, judges and rural guards are all Cubans. But they carry on most of their business in English; for most of their taxpayers and citizens hail from such places as Miami, Norfolk and Boston, and points west."

Coconuts Gain in Popularity in the United States

More than a billion coconuts grown under the American flag are among the 1922 contributions of our tropical islands to the comfort and convenience of the people of Continental United States. Some of these came in the natural form but a large proportion in a manufactured or partly manufactured state. Most of these contributions to our food supply came from the Philippine Islands as a result of large investments of American capital in the coconut industry, with much smaller quantities from our other islands, Tutuila, Guam, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Virgin group.

The American taste for the coconut, which was developed during the war period still lingers, and our 1922 importation of that article in its various forms shows bigger totals both in quantity and value than in the corresponding period of 1921 but of course less than during the war period when Europe was demanding such a large proportion of our meat supplies. Curiously, too, the share which our own islands are contributing to this large importation of strictly tropical products is steadily increasing, due in large part to the development of the coconut industry in the Philippines during and since the war. The millions of American dollars invested in this industry in the Philippines' lands about the beginning of the war period are now making these islands the chief contributor to our requirements in this line, and a very large proportion of the $25,000,000 worth of coconuts and coconut products coming in the country in 1922 came from those islands.

The coconuts and coconut products of which we have imported $300,000,000 worth since the beginning of the war come to us in four distinct forms. First, the nut in its natural form; second, the shredded meat of the nut; third, a much more important article, "copra" (the broken and dried meat of the nut in convenient form for transformation into oil); and, finally, the oil itself, which forms 70 per cent of the meat of the coconut and which is now turned out in enormous quantities by the American factories in the Philippine Islands. These factories in the Philippine Islands. These factories which are of course located conveniently near the coconut groves which line the shores of the islands are built in many cases at the water's edge and the refined oil runs through pipe lines between factory and the tank vessels which transport it across the Pacific. Of the 1,000,000 pounds of coconut oil imported in 1921, no less, than 164,000,000 pounds came from Philippin Islands.

Next in the importance of the various classes of coconut products is "copra" of which our 1921 importation was 190,000,000 pounds and nearly one-half of this came from the Philippines while the other islands on this side of the globe which sent considerable quantities are the Dutch East Indies, British Oceania, French Oceania, New Zealand and Australia. Most of the $5,000,000 pounds of shredded coconut imported in 1921 came from the Dutch East Indies, while nearly all of the 100,000,000 nuts in the natural state came from the Caribbean Islands or the area fronting on the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico especially Porto Rico, the British West Indies, Panama and Honduras.

While full statistical details of the importations of 1923 cannot yet be stated, sufficient information is at hand to show that the quantities imported in each of the four groups, coconuts "shredded," "copra," and coconut oil are in each case larger in 1923 than in 1921.

The uses to which the $300,000,000 worth of coconut products imported since the beginning of the war have been put are the manufacture of food supplies in their various forms, including artificial butter, also the manufacture of glycerin soaps, and many other articles of domestic requirements. The value of coconut importations in the various forms in the years since the beginning of the war, $300,000,000 is 5 times as much as the 8 years which preceded the war. And nearly all of this material which we import is paid for in the products of our farms and factories.

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method:—Measure off two tablespoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Foods with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go the limit; get relief!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

Rheumatism Left Him As If By Magic!

Had Suffered Over 50 Years!

Now 83 Years, Yet a Big Surprise To Friends

Regains Strength Goes Out Fishing, Back to Business, Laughs at "URIC ACID"; How the "Inner Mysteries" Reveals Startling Facts Overlooked By Doctors and Scientists For Centuries

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came over of the army over fifty years ago", writes J. B. Ashelman. "Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called cures, and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now, as if by magic, I am again in active business and can walk miles and write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change."

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Mr. Ashelman is only one of thousands who suffered for years, owing to the general belief in the old, false theory that 'Uric Acid' causes rheumatism. This erroneous belief induced him and legions of unfortunate men and women to take wrong treatments. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as to try and get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints, by taking treatments supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. Many physicians and scientists now know that Uric Acid never did, never can and never will cause rheumatism, that it is a natural and necessary constituent of the blood. Uric Acid is found in every newborn babe, and that without it we could not live!

These statements may seem strange to some folks, who have all along been led to believe in the old "Uric Acid" humbug. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out this truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other troubles, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," a remarkable book now being distributed free to all authority over disease, giving facts to the scientific study of this particular trouble.

NOTE: Every reader of the "Bulletin" wishes to look that reveals these facts regarding the true cause and cure of rheumatism, facts that were overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, may send a post card or letter to H. D. Thornwater, No. 2954-C St. Hallowell Mason and it will be sent by return mail, absolutely without charge whatever. Cut out this notice lest you forget. If not a sufferer yourself hand this good news to some afflicted friend.

Bet Lies Through Senator McLean

Special to the Bulletin.

Hartford, Jan. 31.—Senator Frank P. McLean of Old Saybrook is on the following petitions in the Senate today:

Petition of the Meriden Woman's club, Meriden and the League of Women Voters of New Haven, Hamden, in the state of Connecticut, favoring the passage of an amendment to the Constitution regulating child labor.

THE WONDERFUL FRUIT MEDICINE

"Fruit-a-tives" Is the Only Remedy Made From Fruit Juices

MARVELOUS RESULTS

The Original "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made from fruit juices — that is entirely different from any other preparation for the treatment of disease — is the one big reason why so many people are willing to give it a fair trial. They have used dozens of other treatments for Constipation, Liver and Kidney Trouble, Headaches, Rheumatism and Neuralgia, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervousness; Lack of Appetite, Poor Blood, Skin Diseases and run-down condition of the system. They realize that they must have something different from the ordinary remedies in order to cure themselves.

"Fruit-a-tives" is different. It is the discovery of a physician, who — after long experiments — succeeded in transforming the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes into an entirely new compound. By combining these intensified fruit juices with tonics and antiseptics, he created a new substance, which had all the medicinal properties of fresh fruit, but in a more efficient form. There can be no substitute for "Fruit-a-tives" because "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine made from fruit juices.

OBITUARY

Frederick William Prodell

Frederick William Prodell, aged 78 years, died suddenly Friday evening at 10 o'clock at his home at Wauwecus Hill of a complication of diseases. He was born January 6, 1845 in Prussia, Germany, but came to this country 50 years ago in July and had lived here since. For many years he was employed as a carpenter but retired 15 years ago. He was married 51 years ago to Augusta Leetkie, and is survived by the following children: Frank F., Charles L., and Henry E. Prodell of Greeneville, Mrs. Robert Beetham of Wauwecus Hill, an adopted son, Charles Pengman, and one brother August Prodell of Preston.

Mrs. William H. Crandall.

Mrs. Martha Evangeline Crouch Crandall of Center Groton, the mother of 15 children, died Tuesday from heart trouble. She had been suffering from that ailment for years. She was the wife of William H. Crandall, a farmer. One of their children died during the war.

Jared P. Comstock.

Jared P. Comstock, one of the oldest residents of East Lyme and a highly respected citizen died Wednesday in the house where his father, Peter Comstock, was born and died. He was 81 years of age and had been suffering from asthma for a score of years. His daughter, Mrs. Jennie Eaton, who herself is seriously ill at the Comstock home and a granddaughter, Mrs. Mary Moore of the same place, are his survivors. His wife, Georgiana Coles, died 12 years ago.

Jared Comstock was a farmer. He had held for two years the position on the board of assessors. He was one of the active members of the Order of United American Mechanics, and an ex-councilor of Warren council of Niantic, which has gone out of existence. He had also been a member of Union lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen.

His mother, before her marriage, was Maria Otis, a life-long resident of the so-called head of the river district of East Lyme, near Golden Spur.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Simon Brewster.

(Contributed.)

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Browning, beloved wife of Simon Brewster, was held from her late residence in Griswold on Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. John P. Richardson and Rev. John W. Payne officiated. The former read the thirty-first chapter of Proverbs from the tenth verse. Mr. Payne offered prayer and made remarks based on this chapter and the latter half of the tenth verse "Her price is far above rubies." He gave emphasis to the beautiful things that can be remembered in the life and character of Mrs. Brewster, and the prospects that are equally beautiful. In addition to the Scripture passage Mr. Richardson read a couple of appropriate lyrics. The vault in the Pachaug cemetery is the temporary resting place of the body. There Mr. Richardson offered prayer and Mr. Payne pronounced the benediction. The bearers were Arba Browning, Dr. F. D. Browning, both of Griswold, Ross Browning of Providence, Ira Burdick of Preston City, Russell Davenport of Holyoke, Mass. and Lloyd Brewster of Central village. Flowers were abundant in forms and sprays. The attendance filled the house. Undertaker George G. Grant of Taftville was in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Brewster was the daughter of Beriah H. and Sarah E. Browning, both natives of Griswold and both descended from the purest and best of New England stock. The parents of Mrs. Brewster after their marriage sojourned from a while in Norwich Town, where Sarah was born on the second day of April, 1854. In the year 1866, Beriah H. Browning returned to his native town and purchased the Morgan farm, now owned by his son, Arba Browning—made it his home and here his family grew up.

Sarah Elizabeth was twelve years old at the time of her father's return and in this home she spent her lovely girlhood, profited by our schools and endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact. On April 7, 1875, she was united in marriage with her neighbor, Simon Brewster and they made their home in the old Brewster homestead where she lived with her husband fifty years lacking two months. Seven children were born to them, two girls dieing in childhood. The surviving children are Martha (Mrs. Asahel R. Cook) of Seattle, Wash., Abbie P., of Flushing, N. Y., Sarah (Mrs. Russell Davenport) of Holyoke, Mass., Margery M., and Simon, Jr., who live at home, and two granddaughters, Mrs. Brewster is also survived by two sisters and two brothers. Mrs. Andrew Adams of Jewett City, Mrs. Allen B. Burdick of Preston City, Arba Browning of Griswold and Dr. Ralph Browning of Myersville, Md. She was a member of the First Congregational church, Griswold, and it can be said of her that those who knew her life and character best appreciated her most. The praise of a virtuous woman and a good wife and mother as found recorded in the 31st Chapter of Proverbs is her eulogy. Mrs. Brewster had not been well for several years but for most of the time had been able to perform her household duties. The end came suddenly and without warning on Saturday, January 27th.

NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL SHOWS LOWEST PER CAPITA

In contrast with eleven other institutions in Connecticut the Norwich State Hospital with a weekly per capita cost of $5.13 ranked lowest in the state during 1921-22. These figures were made public by the state board of finance. Second in the list for best averages was the Connecticut state prison with a per capita cost of $6.22. The highest weekly per capita cost was at the Soldiers' Hospital at Noroton, where $17.91 is expended weekly for each patient.

The second in the series of American Legion dances was held Friday evening at Roseland with a large attendance. A popular programme was rendered by the Philharmonic orchestra.

DEFENSE WITNESSES CLAIM RYAN WAS DRIVING ON RIGHT OF ROAD

Defense testimony was concluded in the superior court here Friday afternoon before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury in the suit of Mrs. Grace A. Fillmore of this city against Francis Ryan, once of Colchester, for $1,000 damages for an automobile accident at Yantic on the night of Aug. 30, 1918.

Two witnesses who were riding in an automobile behind the Ryan car testified that it was driven in a perfectly normal manner on its own side of the road, and that Mr. Ryan was perfectly sober, which was a direct contradiction of testimony of witnesses for the plaintiff who said that the Ryan car zigzagged and that the tracks of its wheels showed it swung from the left hand gutter to the point of the collision and that Ryan was under the influence of liquor.

Following some rebuttal evidence both sides rested their cases late in the afternoon, the last hour of court was used by the arguments by the attorneys, H. H. Pettis for the plaintiff and Thomas M. Shields for the defendant. Judge Brown will charge the jury next Tuesday morning.

Testimony for Plaintiff

When court came in Friday morning Attorney Pettis called to the stand Lyle Fillmore, son of the plaintiff, who was driving the car at the time of the accident. He told of seeing the Ryan car approaching as if to meet the Fillmore machine head-on, causing the Fillmore driver to turn to the left in an effort to avoid a collision, but the Ryan car also turned and ran into the Fillmore machine forcing it over to the side of the highway next to the trolley track.

A damaged wheel from the Fillmore car was laid in as an exhibit.

C. V. Pendleton, the auto dealer, Vincent Berkowsky, John R. Hart, Claude B. Kenyon, Abraham Wheeler and Mabel S. Wheeler, told what they saw of the position of the two cars immediately after the accident. Three of them said that the tracks of the Ryan car led from the gutter on its left to the point of the collision.

Mrs. Fillmore, the plaintiff, and Mrs. Irish who were both riding in the back seat of the Fillmore car gave testimony of what they saw of the approach of the Ryan car. Mrs. Irish was the only one thrown out of the machine by the collision.

Charles S. Peckham, an auto dealer of this city, showed the bill for the work on the Fillmore car and the amount was $288.78. The bill was laid in as an exhibit in the case.

Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton testified that he saw the cars within two minutes after the accident. The Fillmore car stood near the trolley track and the Ryan car had hit it somewhere near the radiator from the right hand side. The rear end of the Ryan car was about in the center of the road. The machines had to be moved in order to allow the trolley car to get by. Mr. Stanton said he saw one of the Ryan boys in the back seat, but he didn't know which one it was.

Testimony For Defense.

At this point Attorney Pettis rested the case for the plaintiff and Attorney Shields called to the stand William Ryan.

At the time of the accident, Mr. Ryan said his home was in Michigan but he was visiting his brother. The witness arrived at the scene of the accident a few minutes after it happened. He was driving a horse and buggy and had been passed by his brother in the Ford at Bean hill. He noticed nothing then peculiar about the way his brother, Francis, was driving then.

When he saw the two cars, the witness said the Fillmore car was almost diagonally across the road and the Ryan car was pointing towards the east side of the road. A good big half of the Fillmore car was east of the center of the highway and the front wheel of the Ryan car was 12 inches from the trolley rail. He heard conversation between Fillmore and his brother about getting, and Mr. Fillmore talked about not going to court, but wanting to settle then. Ryan, the witness said, wanted Mr. Fillmore to find out what the damages were and to settle in the morning.

The witness testified Fillmore told Constable Blumenthal he didn't have his license with him. Fillmore also told the witness he didn't have his registration with him. The Fillmore boy went away, the witness said, and when he came back handed a piece of paper to his father, which the latter put in his pocket.

Francis Ryan, the witness said, went to Dr. Howe to get his leg dressed. He was perfectly sober.

The next morning the witness saw Mr. Fillmore at the latter's home where Mr. Fillmore said he wasn't going to settle as it was out of his hands and they would have to see his lawyer.

The witness denied that at any time that evening when he saw his brother's car was there any zigzagging of the car.

Lewellyn P. Smith of Lebanon testified to coming along and viewing the wreck at the request of William Ryan. The Fillmore car, he said, was on the wrong side of the road. The right front wheel of the Fillmore car had been hit. Francis Ryan's condition, said the witness, was just as good as his own at the present time to all appearances.

Samuel W. Throop of Lebanon also testified to seeing the wreck and described the Ryan car as standing with its right front wheel 10 or 12 inches from the trolley track and the front wheels of the Fillmore car were towards the track but not as far as the Ryan car, with the left wheels near the center of the road. The witness said he didn't see anything about Francis Ryan but what was all right.

Says Car Didn't Zigzag.

Louis H. Burdick of Franklin, a jitney driver, testified that he was right behind the Ryan car at the time of the accident, having followed it from Otrobando avenue. The Ryan car was going 15 to 20 miles an hour and kept up that speed. The Ryan car was driving on the traveled portion of the road and not at any time on the left side. At the collision the Ryan car was practically on the right of the road. It had not been zigzagging, the witness said. Burdick said the Fillmore boy told him he took a chance to go round the other car. Ryan was as sober as he was, the witness said. He himself hadn't had anything to drink that day.

Herbert Fargo, of Bozrah, who was a passenger in the Burdick car, largely corroborated Burdick's testimony in his observation of the way the Ryan car was driven. He noticed nothing about Francis Ryan to indicate he was under the influence of liquor.

William Ryan recalled to the stand and said that he didn't know where his brother, Francis, the plaintiff, is now, except that he is in Ohio, but he doesn't know just where, but his last address was at Youngstown.

Constable Myer Blumenthal of this city, testified he arrived at the scene of the accident 20 or 30 minutes afterwards. Mr. Fillmore showed him his operator's license and told him the car registration was under the seat, but the witness didn't look for it. The witness said Ryan was under the influence of liquor when he saw him. The constable said he told Ryan he would have to appear in police court the next morning after the accident.

Mr. Peckham was recalled and testified that the damage to the Fillmore car was on the right front fender and the right side of the radiator.

Lyle Fillmore also was recalled to the witness stand, where he denied that he had any conversation with William Ryan and denied that he told anyone the accident occurred because he was trying to cut around the Ryan car.

George D. Fillmore denied that he told William Ryan he didn't have his operator's license or registration with him, or that Fillmore told Ryan that he (Fillmore) was to blame. He also denied that his son Lyle handed him any paper at the scene of the accident. Lyle Fillmore also denied that he handed his father any paper.

TERMINAL SENDS $100 TO BACKUS HOSPITAL

The sum of $100 has been sent to the Backus hospital from The Terminal, the newly opened cafe on Franklin square, with the following letter:

Directors of William W.
Backus Hospital, Norwich
Connecticut.

Attention of Mr. Hutchins:

Enclosed please find our check for $100 which is 20 per cent. of our gross receipts the opening day of The Terminal. We are very happy to be able to give this little aid to the building of a nurses' home for your institution and we sincerely hope to see the time near at hand when the Backus hospital will start out with a big campaign, both for the nurses' new home and additional funds to make this our local hospital, one of Connecticut's truly great institutions.

Assuring you of our well wishes and support, we remain respectfully yours.

CHURCH IS OF GREAT VALUE TO ANY CITY

Of what value is the church to any city? asked Rev. York A. King Friday evening at the Central Baptist church. Why, let me tell you that a prominent real estate man in a New England city said that if the churches in that city were suddenly razed to the ground, and never rebuilt, every decent person in the city would move out and a gang of people would move in that would lower the standards of the city, and value of real estate would be lowered by 50 per cent.

That my friends is the money value of the church but there is a much greater spiritual value.

Jesus told us: "Let not your heart be troubled". He knew that in this life there would be trouble but he was going to His Father's house where there were many mansions to prepare a place for us, that where He was there we might be also. In the world today are troubles between nations, communities, church and in the homes.

Isn't it a great pity that petty troubles can creep into families and cause so much sorrow. The Christian home is the one great institution on earth. Where else outside of the home can you find so much love, friendship, confidence and fellowship. There is something about the home that no matter where we go, we long for the place called home.

I once knew a man and wife and their family of 13 children. Morning and night the Father would read the Bible and then kneel and take his children to the throne of grace, naming each by name. Those children grew up and I met one of the sons, now a wealthy man in Providence, who is married and has two children, grown. He told me he never found time to go to church as he belonged to thirteen societies and had his business. His wife was as bad for she belonged to nine clubs. He said he would hardly know his children. I told him that some day he would die and perhaps leave his children much money that would be their ruination. He broke down and told me of the beautiful prayers of his father. I tell you that you men take an awful risk if you send your boy into this world without knowing prayer, and that you mothers send your girls out into the world without a chance if she hasn't heard you pray.

Jesus speaks of the heavenly home. We don't know much about heaven, the Bible doesn't tell us about heaven, but Jesus is there and that's good enough for me. If you can judge an architect by his drawings, a poet by his works, what a wonderful place heaven must be if we can judge God by this beautiful earth and world of ours.

The church home is the connecting link between our earthly home and our heavenly home. The church is the greatest agency in the civilizing of the world today, and is in a cold blooded business sense the greatest money making organization, for without the church, property is worth only half its value where the church is standing.

Not only this, but the church is the bride of Christ, and therefore my love of the church of God is above my chief joy. They say that church members are all hypocrites, I agree, they are, because they could all be more true and do better than they are doing. But, as a group the church members who are lined up with God are above any other group.

In every home there are two principles that are great, the principle of example and that of authority. Example counts for much in this life, but authority, that God given power in the parents, is too often used to damn the sons and daughters. Mothers and fathers pray, read your Bibles, and give your children the example, and there will be no need of the authority so often used for the wrong.

Resolve to yourselves that God helping, I want my home to be a Christian home, and resolve that you will make your home more of a connecting link between this life and the life in your heavenly home.

Friday night was family night and many parents were present with their children, Rev. Mr. King called for families to stand, which they did, families ranging from four children to one, all present. Rev. Mr. King asked them those who came from families of twelve or over to stand, four doing so, three from families of fifteen, one from a family of 17. Commenting on this Rev. Mr. King said that here was the convincing proof that the New England Yankee families were dwindling away.

It was announced that on Saturday evening Rev. Mr. King would give his address on Radicalism, Its Cause and Cure. On Sunday there will be preaching in the morning and evening service. Work is to be continued on the pledge to work for Easter when the right hand of fellowship will be extended to sixty new Christians at the Central Baptist church.

E. S. MANSFIELD NATIVE OF NORWICH, IS DEAD

E. Sumner Mansfield, honorary consul of Belgium and one of the best known lawyers in Massachusetts, died at his home at North Scituate after a year's illness. He formerly lived in Brookline.

Mr. Mansfield was born in Norwich, Conn., Oct. 25, 1847, the son of Asabel and Maria (Bates) Mansfield.

Entering Harvard at the age of 16, Mr. Mansfield was graduated in 1868. Following his graduation he went to New Orleans, and in April of the next year was admitted to practice law in Louisiana.

In September, 1869, he entered Harvard Law school and received his LLB degree in July, 1870. He immediately returned to New Orleans, where he opened an office. Soon afterward, however he moved to Boston and became associated with ex-Attorney General Charles Allen.

In 1871 he received an A. M. degree from Harvard.

On Dec. 3, 1894 he was appointed Belgian consul in Boston, on Aug. 31, 1906, he was decorated and made a Chevalier of the Order of the Crown by King Leopold II of Belgium.

While acting as consul, he was employed by Belgium to represent that government in important litigation proceedings here. Although he practiced corporation law he was also a specialist on international law and he spent much of his time traveling abroad.

On Jan. 20, 1885, he became a member of the Institute Juridique International, Milan, Italy. He was a charter member of the Social Law Library and a member of the Boston Bar Association.

After Germany invaded Belgium, Mr. Mansfield was tireless in relief work for the Belgians, and King Albert whom he knew personally, conferred the decoration of th Order of King Albert on him. Mr. Mansfield retired as consul after the war.

He married Maria Edgeworth Trowbridge of Cambridge on Nov. 20, 1871. Besides his wife he is survived by two sons, Philip, a practicing attorney, and Kenneth, both of Boston, and four grandchildren.

SENT $200 TO HELP NEEDY GERMAN CHILDREN

The employes of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company in Midway made a collection for the needs of German children, which was sent by Egon Blankenfeld to the central relief committee, New York. Following is the letter received:

Central Relief Committee
Office of National Campaign Committee,
New York
Charles Nagel National President

Mr. Egon Blankenfeld,
Norwich, Conn.
My dear Mr. Blankenfeld:

This is to acknowledge the receipt of $200 which was contributed to German and Austrian relief by your co-workers at Midway. The inclosed letter from Senator McCormick may give some idea of the need for just such help as that which you and your workers have given. It also shows that the heart of the American people still responds to the call of distress.

Thanking you heartily for your co-operation, I am

Yours sincerely,
(Sgd.) FRIEDA M. BURKLE.

Declaring that any nation whose children no "longer laugh and sing and play has lost its springtime" Cardinal Faulhaber in an address here today raised a Christmas appeal to foreign lands on behalf of Germany's youngsters.

He emphasized the deplorable psychological effect on the minds and spirits of the coming generation from being hungry, freezing and homeless, and from constantly seeing at first hand the sordid results of economic distress.

Don't judge our people by those who still smoke English cigarettes and live in the best hotels and restaurants, but by the actual conditions of the populace was his appeal.—New York Times.

BAPTIST WOMEN ARE TO HEAR BURMA SPEAKERS

An interesting meeting for the women of the city is planned for Tuesday afternoon, February 6th to be held in the conference rooms at the Central Baptist church at 3 o'clock. The meeting is primarily in the interests of women's work and women of churches of Norwich and vicinity are expected to attend in large numbers.

The speakers will be Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Chaney of New Haven and Mrs. James H. Morshead of Waterbury. Of Rev. and Mrs. Chaney the local committee has received word that they are in charge of the work at Maubin, Burma, under the auspices of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society. They recently arrived in the United States on furlough from their station.

Maubin is the center for work among the Pwo Karens in the three districts which support thirty-eight Pwo Karen churches. The population in this field is around 100,000 with 32 churches and 31 schools. The Sunday school attendance in Maubin averages 160 pupils and in station-[illegible] day school there are 181 boys and 119 girls. During the touring season, which covers a period of three weeks Dr. Chaney visited 130 villages and travelled more than 1300 miles, staying at each village from a few hours to two days. Dr. Chaney reports that the increase of funds for evangelistic work in the field is most gratifying. In five years it has gone up from 240 rupees to 1100 rupees and with these funds three full time evangelists have been employed on the field.

Dr. Chaney is a native of Connecticut, being a member of the Calvary Baptist church of New Haven. In 1907 he received his A. B. degree from Yale college and in 1909 graduated from Rochester Theological seminary in Rochester, New York.

WILLIMANTIC POLICE FIND JAKEY IN NORWICH TRUCK

Willimantic, Feb. 2.—Steve Panora of Main street, Norwich, will appear in the local police court tomorrow morning, charged with violation of the liquor law. Panora, and Michael Richards, also of Norwich, were arrested about 7.30 tonight by Prohibition Enforcement Officer Stanton L. Briggs, and Chief of Police Daniel J Killourey, when six cases of Jamaica ginger were found in a Ford truck which they were driving. The automobile was said to be owned by the American Confectionery company of Norwich.

Panora was driving the car when the officers seized the liquor, and he was later released under bonds of $200. Close watch has been kept for some time of the confectionery trucks, and Friday evening when it was parked on Main street in front of the post office building, the officers came and made a thorough search, finding the Jamaica ginger in the rear of the truck.

Richards was also notified to appear in court but was not held under bonds by the local authorities.

Officer Allen noticed Patrylo staggering along Main street, near the New Haven railroad parking place and when the man entered a Ford sedan there and started off with it the officer halted him and secured another man to drive the car with the prisoner to police headquarters.

While Captain D. J. Twomey was questioning the arrested man, Officer P. Murphy went outside to look over his car and brought out from under the back seat a half filled bottle of liquor that showed a strong alcoholic content when subjected to test.

Dr. Hanford in Arizona.

The Nogales (Arizona) Herald of January 18 stated that Dr. W. J. Hanford, a mining engineer of Los Angeles, to examine some old gold mines that had once been worked by the Jesuits. Dr. Hanford was also to visit mines in Mexico.

FOUND LIQUOR BOTTLE IN ARRESTED MAN'S CAR

Andrew Patrylo, 37, of Hallville, was arrested here Friday night about 10:15 o'clock on Main street by Officer Elmer Allen and was locked up at police headquarters charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Officer Allen noticed Patrylo staggering along Main street, near the New Haven railroad parking place and when the man entered a Ford sedan there and started off with it the officer halted him and secured another man to drive the car with the prisoner to police headquarters.

While Captain D. J. Twomey was questioning the arrested man, Officer P. Murphy went outside to look over his car and brought out from under the back seat a half filled bottle of liquor that showed a strong alcoholic content when subjected to test.

Try Coue on Weather.

February, said to be the month of rains, started in with a thaw that delighted every resident of Norwich and vicinity. Evidently the joy is to be short lived for advance notices from the weather bureau tell of gales and an intensive cold wave due to hit this vicinity this (Saturday) evening and continue over Sunday, bringing with it more snow. But then, why feel discouraged, try some of this Coue auto

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

No intention is included of subjecting dealers to a rain of telephone calls and other requests for fuel by making announcement here that several cars of hard coal arrived here and were being unloaded during Friday. Yet in this particular winter this is considerable of a news item and entitled to space. It goes almost without stating that dealers have, and have had for many weeks, orders enough to more than exhaust the entire shipment received Friday. As has been the case all winter, every effort will be made to apportion it among a clamoring public so as to come the nearest that may be possible to giving general satisfaction. Unloading of the coal was watched with as much interest as a similar operation with a circus usually commands.

The body of Mrs. Sarah O'Neil, who died at a private hospital in New London Thursday morning, will be brought here and entombed at Holy Cross cemetery. Mrs. O'Neil, widow of Michael O'Neil, was for many years a resident of Brooklyn, and left this section about six years ago to make her home in New London, where she has since lived. Her husband died in September of last year.

Principal Ernest R. Warren and Manager Max Bretschneider of Killingly High school's basketball team will represent the school next Monday at a conference of the Quinebaug Valley Basketball league to be held at the high school in Putnam to consider a protest that has been filed by Plainfield High school over a game played between the team of that school and the Woodstock academy team at Woodstock recently. All of the teams in the league, made up of high school and academy teams, will be represented at Monday's meeting.

A deputy collector of internal revenue has been assigned to Danielson on Feb. 20, 21 and 24, and will make his headquarters at the Windham County National bank. All citizens of this and surrounding towns are cordially invited to call upon the deputy collector for assistance in filing their income tax return. There will be no charge for the services rendered. The officials of the Windham County National bank also will assist people in income tax matters.—adv.

J. Arthur Atwood of the Quinebaug, Wauregan and Ponemah companies is a member of the committee of the Southern New England Textile club which is assisting in arranging for entertaining delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers to be held in Providence April 24-25. This convention will bring together cotton mill men from many states of the east.

At the Day Kimball hospital Friday morning the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick LaBelle of Carter street occurred. The child was born Thursday evening. The body was brought here in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy.

The groundhog held out no promise on Friday that the backbone of winter has been broken. He could have seen his shadow for hours at a time during the day—so that fact conclusively settles that there is going to be six weeks more of real winter weather, unless Cupe gets on the job and better and betters the weather into being decent.

A canvass to develop the sentiment of Brooklyn's people relative to having a community church will cover practically the entire town, excepting East Brooklyn, the residents of which attend divine services in Danielson.

The junior prom at the high school assembly hall Friday evening proved the delightful occasion that was anticipated. There was a large attendance and the dance was held under the supervision of the faculty.

One explanation of why approximately 4,000 applications have been received to cash war savings stamps of the issue of 1918 at the Danielson postoffice is that those who own the stamps want to invest their money at higher rates of interest. The stamps to be cashed represent a value of $26,423.85.

A few miles to the south of Danielson highways are far freer from snow and ice than is the case northward from Danielson, indicating that the variation of a few miles makes a very considerable difference in weather conditions or conditions induced by the weather.

Practically everyone here who has earned enough during the past year to make an income tax return has received forms on which to do it. It so happens that better industrial conditions and somewhat higher pay during 1922 will oblige some to make returns this year who escaped doing so last year, following a year of slack business.

A musical comedy company furnished entertainment for many who visited the Orpheum theatre at Friday's shows.

Work, long held up, is now progressing on the public comfort station being erected by the town at the southerly side of the town hall building. The new structure is of brick and will be well appointed.

From all sections hereabout stories are coming in of the unusual risks being taken by deer coming right into villages in their search for food. Such risks frequently result in the deer attracting dogs to their trail and long, hard runs thereafter.

East Killingly people are especially interested in the legislative measure that provides for the building of an improved state highway from Danville Four Corners to East Killingly. The building of such a road would reopen famous old stage coach route to navy travel again.

Miss Lena Fenn of Furnace street has gone to Moosup to be employed.

Next week will mark the approach of the end of the entertainment and dancing season until after Lent, which opens this year on Wednesday, Feb. 13.

Mrs. Henry Crosby, Mrs. John A. Paine and Mrs. James M. Paine make up a committee of the Congregational church to secure furnishings for the ladies' parlor of the new parish house.

Danielson is assured of an ample supply of ice for another year. Upwards of 5,000 tons are now stored and available for future use, and all of it is very good ice and especially heavy.

President R. W. Perkins, General Manager Larrabee and Treasurer Harris of the general office of the Eastern Connecticut Power company at Norwich and R intendent of the local territory, came here Friday afternoon to a get-together meeting at the Central Fire station with the employees of the company in the Danielson territory recently taken over the Eastern Connecticut Power company. All of the officials gave interesting talks, the general theme being the expression of the good will of the company toward all of the company for the cooperation of its employees. All who attended regarded the meeting as a successful affair.

PUTNAM

Even a near-sighted groundhog could have seen his shadow Friday, so people who believe in signs have settled down to endure six more weeks of winter. Notwithstanding the contrary prediction of the groundhog, Friday was one of the finest days weatherwise in weeks. Temperature remained above the freezing point during the greater part of the daylight period and there was a noticeable shrinking of the snow banks that have endured for a month. Old weather sharps who pay no heed to the groundhog theory are content to believe that the most severe part of the winter is over. February is not noted for a record of balminess or even a near resemblance of spring, but the old-time forecasters say it likely will not be very rigorous this year.

There appears to be an epidemic of petitions from eastern Windham county members of the legislature in favor of state highway building operations in their territories during the present year and the one to follow. There are indications that these petitions have gone in with the grist of other new business for the legislature at the behest of constituents of the legislators.

None who know the needs of Windham county as to state highway extensions will quarrel seriously with any of the proposals that have been submitted for action. The difficulty with the proposals is that they have come in such numbers this session that this in itself may operate as an excuse to shelve any number of them.

The proposals to build an improved highway from Pomfret Landing to Brooklyn, from Dayville Four Corners to East Killingly, from Brooklyn to Canterbury and from Canterbury Plains westward into the town of Windham are all in line with what eventually have to be done in building the state highway system in this northeastern corner of the state to a standard that those of future years may hope to expect.

The interesting question just now is how much of this building program will win the legislature's approval this year.

Representative of all the teams in the Quinebaug Valley Basketball league, made up of high school teams in this part of the state, will be at Putnam High school Monday afternoon to hear the formal presentation of a protest of a game recently played at Woodstock between the Woodstock Academy team and the Plainfield High school team. The protest, on Plainfield's part, is said to arise from an alleged violation of the league's ruling pertaining to notifying a visiting team as to who is to referee a game, this notification to be made several days before the game. In the particular game under protest it so happened that a Putnam man acted as referee, and it is claimed that no notice of who was to officiate was given the Plainfield team.

If after Monday's consideration of the case, the Plainfield-Woodstock game is ordered played over it may have an effect on the league championship. Putnam and Killingly, teams that do not figure in the protested game, have each lost a game to each other as their only defeats of the season and the battle for the flag is between them.

Scores of children have enjoyed skating under safe conditions in a busy part of the city the past few days through the thoughtfulness and activity of Mayor Victor Chapdelaine. The mayor obtained permission to flood a vacant lot at Church and Providence streets and used water from a fire hydrant to accomplish his purpose. The lot was covered with several inches of water, which has frozen over and developed into an excellent skating rink. Friday's weather temporarily ruined the skating, but another cold period will bring it back—and for this many children are happy.

Postmaster Archibald Macdonald has been reappointed a member of the board of trustees of the Connecticut School for Boys, at Meriden. Postmaster Macdonald's reappointment was by unanimous vote of the state senate following a favorable report by the committee on appointments. Postmaster Macdonald has served as a trustee of the institution for a long term of years and has been of inestimable value to the board.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Ralph C. Jenkins, superintendent of schools in Putnam, will be in Hartford attending the 75th annual meeting of the Connecticut State Teachers' association and other state educational organizations. This conference will bring educators from all parts of Connecticut to Hartford.

The following are the committees that have been named to have charge of the arrangements for the annual Valentine tea of the Woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital: Refreshments, Mrs. Louis M. Ream, Thompson; Mrs. Gladys Wicks, Pomfret; candy table, Mrs. Ernest C. Morse, Putnam, Mrs. Sidney W. Bard, Brooklyn, Mrs. Edward H. Snow, Putnam; fancy work, Mrs. George Twigg, Mrs. George Rawley, Mrs. Oscar Rich, Mrs. Raymond Wheaton; cake table, Mrs. George S. Bradley, Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock Mrs. Charles E. Dean; flower stand, Mrs. Herbert Bowen, Woodstock; Mrs. L. L. Lorillard, Pomfret. Members of the board will act as a reception committee.

Attorney General Jay R. Benton of Massachusetts on Wednesday announced the appointment of Day Kimball of Boston as assistant attorney-general. Mr. Kimball is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus M. Kimball of 343 Beacon street, Boston, and Bark Meadow House, Pomfret. He is a nephew of Lawrence and Russell Perkins of Ufton, Pomfret.

The appointment is a remarkable appreciation of the progress which Mr. Kimball has made since his entrance in active practice of the law scarcely two years ago. He is receiving congratulations from a host of friends and associates.

Mr. Kimball was born in Boston thirty years ago and was educated at the Noble and Greenough school, Boston, the Corbonne, Paris, and at Harvard. While a student at Harvard Law school, he entered the army in 1917, trained at the Plattsburgh encampment and was commissioned a first lieutenant. Later he became captain in the 303rd field artillery, 76th division, and saw service at the front in France. Subsequently he became one of the eight junior aides to President Wilson, having charge of the transportation of the presidential party throughout Europe. On his return to America, Mr. Kimball completed his studies at the law school, being graduated "cum laude." He also received the Sears Prize and was the editor of the Harvard Law Review.

On receiving his degree Mr. Kimball was appointed private secretary to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court and at the completion of this work he become associated with the Boston law firm of Choate, Hall and Stewart.

Mr. Kimball is a nephew of the Day Kimball for whom the local hospital is named.

R. W. Babbitt has sold his business in Pomfret street, this city to Stanley F. Bacon of Putnam. Mr. Babbitt plans to go to Florida in the near future and take up his permanent residence there, engaging in the same line of business to which he has given so many years in Putnam.

L. A. Lockwood, Sr., one of the owners of the Bowditch Dye Works, which had a plant at East Putnam until fire destroyed it about three years ago, was reported Friday as seriously ill with pneumonia at a hospital in Providence.

Miss Ruth Pratt of Grand View will have members of the Epworth league at her home for a meeting next Monday evening.

The organization of the Baptist church has elected these officers: President Merton W. Ames; vice president, Edwin Phillips; secretary, Miss Mildred Bard; treasurer, Miss Corinne Wilson.

Judge Mahlon H. Geissler presided Friday morning at a session of the city court. One man charged with having been intoxicated was fined $20 and costs, a total of $33.04. He had no recollection of where he procured the intoxicants.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cutler are to remove from this city to Plainfield.

J. J. Whitehead, Jr., is in New York for the week end. His mother is to return with him for an indefinite stay.

A union meeting of Woodstock church postponed from last Sunday evening as to be held tomorrow evening at the church in North Woodstock.

State highways showed bare in many cases late Friday afternoon following the thaw of the day.

Not A "Tiller Of Soil" Say His Opponents

COPYRIGHT KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK

Milo D. Campbell, of Michigan, named as a "dirt farmer," member of the Federal Reserve Board, will encounter considerable opposition when his nomination comes up for confirmation. It is contended by his opponents, that the farm bloc and the Senate generally have been befooled by the selection of Campbell as a "dirt farmer" A claim is put forth that he is a professional politician and not the tiller of the soil that was expected when the legislation was enacted stipulating that a genuine farmer be placed on the board.

NORWICH TOWN

For several days this week, which is being observed all over the world as Christian Endeavor week, there has been on display in the show window at the Norwich Town post office, an attractive assortment of Christian Endeavor emblems, which has attracted much attention. The window was arranged under the auspices of the Young People's society of the First Congregational church. The work was planned and carried out by George F. Hyde, who was appointed at a recent meeting of the society to have full charge.

Among the several features are an imitation birthday cake on which are the dates 1881-1923, the former signifying the birth of this society, with red and white candles in the center, denoting the society's colors. Around the edge of the cake are flags of several nations and the church flag, the latter representing the remainder of the 87 countries where there are C. E. societies. There is a large poster indicating the Eastern and Western Hemispheres, around which are strips of pasteboard which read Christian Endeavor Around the World. On the poster are quotations of the various countries, denominations, societies and membership which is as follows:

Members, 4,000,000, societies 80,000, countries 87, and denominations 50. Included in the exhibition are the two periodicals gotten out by the United society, also State union and Alumni council; pictures taked at Endeavor meetings such as the Bridgeport convention and a C. E. gathering at a luncheon. Another poster attractively arranged by Mr. Hyde, announcing the various services of the church, Christian Endeavor meeting, prayer meeting, Men's Forum, Home Missionary society, etc., completes the list. Friday morning the window was photographed.

Christian Endeavor was founded in the Williston church in Maine, 42 years ago Friday, by Rev. Mr. Clark, known the world over as Father Endeavor Clark.

The Norwich Town Congregational society was formed in 1834 as Young People's Society of Christian service. This was changed soon to a C. E. society. The records which have been kept from the first, show continued activity through the years. This church is a real C. E. church. Its pastors, four of its deacons, most of the Sunday school teachers, missionary leaders, Sunday school superintendents, trustees, clerks, treasurers, ushers, have all had their training in the C. E. society. The society owes much to its pastors who have taken a great interest in the work of the young people. Many have gone out of the society into the larger work of the world as ministers, missionaries, teachers and the business world. During the years, over 400 have been members of this society.

C. Q. Ives, of Portland, Me., who is touring New England on business for the firm he represents, was a guest at dinner and remained over Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Wyant of Town street, while en route to Stratford. Mr. Ives formerly associated in business with Mr. Wyant, at one time his family resided on Beach drive.

The Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms, will be in charge of Rev. J. Harlow Graham, the new pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church.

Miss Ida Beebe who has been passing two weeks at the home of Mrs. Clifford Lathrop (Elizabeth Luther), in Worcester, Mass., has returned to her home on East Town street.

Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters took charge of cleaning the chapel of the First Congregational church Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Large auto trucks heavily loaded with sawed wood have been coming through the winter several times a day from Scotland road, passing through upper Washington street and Huntington lane, keeping these roads open and in fair condition for winter traveling.

In larger numbers than usual winter birds are coming about homes in this section of the town. Sunday morning before the storm they crowded feeding places, clearing them of food almost as quickly as it could be replaced. The most attractive bird at this season is the chickadee, breaking the silence with the cheery "chickadee". The brown creeper slowly coming from the very bottom of the tree and going upwards towards the top, searches for grubs and insects. The woodpeckers, both hairy and downy, now eagerly pick up scraps and fly away to their nests. For their nests they bore holes perfectly round, true mathematical circles, and wherever in nesting time one notes fresh chips about a tree or pole the nest will be found. Tree sparrows have been noted mingling with other birds at one feeding place. Tree sparrows are summer residents of the Arctic region, passing the winter months in the northern part of the United States. Their song is strong and sweet, ending in a low warble. This sparrow is the same size, 6 1-4 inches, as the English sparrow, but can be told from that sparrow by its brownish spot in the middle of the breast.

In a week or two school children will be watching for the song sparrow and listening to its canary-like song.

The present great need of funds for the support of orphans in the Near East is due in part to expense of removal, in part that their supplies have been drawn upon to help starving refugees from Smyrna and other places. It is hoped Norwich Town will contribute liberally to help meet this present nation-wide call for funds. This collection to be completed by Feb. 14, if possible.

Soon after the destruction of Smyrna, a letter from Mrs. Lucilla Brigden Hulse, a native of Norwich, now a resident of Newark, N. J., stated that her son, George, who was the agent of the Standard Oil Co., in Smyrna, although safe, had lost everything he had except what could be crowded into a suitcase. Their home and office were burned to the ground. He stayed in Smyrna doing relief work until there were but six men remaining. His letters have been thrilling, his experiences past belief. His wife is in Athens and his last letter said that he, himself, was in Constantinople. George Brigden Hulse is a grandson of Dr. George Brigden, formerly and for a large part of his life a resident of Norwich.

HANOVER

The Hanover C. E. society was represented at the special meeting of the Norwich union at Norwich Town last Sunday evening. The special speaker of the evening was Rev. David N. Beach of Guilford, one of the directors of the state union. Mr. Beach used as his subject A No-Strike Year and called upon the young people of the churches to accept this challenge and work as they have never worked before. In spite of the storm there was a good attendance and many societies were represented.

On Jan. 28th Rev. Charles J. Albertus of New York preached at the Fitchville Baptist church on the topic From Prison to Pulpit. The congregation was increased by many from the Hozrah Congregational church. All listened with profound interest to his most inspiring sermon. He made it plain how a person may unknowingly take the first step that eventually casts them into prison, and also how, though even in prison, the gospel may reach their hearts and purify them and make them strong disciples of Jesus Christ. Rev. Mr. Albertus was faithful to the word and pointed out many popular so-called amusements that lead multitudes to destruction and death.

Thursday evening the C. E. society met with Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Adams. Nelson Stark was leader. The topic was What Are the Rightful Claims of Our Church Upon Us?

On Feb. 7th and 8th Evangelist Thomas E. Little of New York will be here. He will speak in Palmer Bros.' mill at the close of the noon hour, and in Palmer hall at 7.30 p. m.

Pencil Superstition

There is a queer superstition in Ireland that a broken pencil point is the percurer of a domestic jar; and an old-fashioned rule inculcated into shorthanded writers was to sharpen a pencil at both ends in case of a breakage during the taking down of important verbatim notes.

Carpenters always use flat lead pencils, as is well known, and the popular belief is that they are made especially this shape to prevent them from rolling off the bench—an exasperating trick to the man of shavings which might spoil his job. The reason for the flat pencil is, however that it forms a handy flat rule in case of emergency.

Artists, of course, nearly always carry a soft pencil with them. Sir William Orpen's favorite lead is said to be a half-length one, yellow in color outside, over which he crooks his fingers as he sketches upon the table cloth.

Never!

Love at first sight may be all right, but it doesn't cost a cent to take two or three more looks.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Cold weather, railroad accidents and fake sleight of hand performances gave Norwich people plenty to talk about fifty years ago. Some of the items in the Bulletin of 1873 are recorded under the following days:

Monday, January 27, 1873—Saturday night a large number of people gathered at Owaneco Hall, Greeneville to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns. As the birthday celebration fell on a Saturday activities were begun at an early hour. D. M. Cummings, president of the club called the meeting to order and John Wallace delivered the address to the haggis, which was brought in steaming hot on a platter. Cunliffe's band furnished music during the meal. The entertainment for the remainder of the evening included many toasts, songs to the bard, and speeches by the members of the club. It was close to Sunday morning when the big time came to a glorious close.

The postmaster general has, at the request of Hon. Mr. Pendleton, of Rhode Island, had the name of the Dorrville postoffice in the town of Westerly, changed to Niantic.

Weather conditions still remain bad and are affecting the railroads. The boat train was late again yesterday getting in this city at 9 a. m. instead of in the evening Saturday.

Tuesday, January 28, 1873—At a meeting of the First Ecclesiastical society Monday afternoon it was decided to concur with the vote of the church in extending a call to Rev. S. Scofield; also to accept the resignation of Rev. Dr. Arms, the same to take effect on the acceptance of the call by Rev. Scofield. Dr. Arms is to hold the position of pastor, emiritus.

The biting cold weather that set in Sunday has made ice rapidly in the Thames again closing that river to traffic portation. The City of Norwich made the trip up the river Monday but could get no farther than Allyn's Point where she was forced to end her trip.

Orders have been received from the Quartermaster Generals office in Hartford, that the National Guard shall cause all tompions on hand to be destroyed or removed from the armory. The orders state that the occasional use of an oiled rag will keep the rust from the bore. All Connecticut National Guard companies are affected by the notice.

Wednesday, January 29, 1873—At the annual meeting of the Delanoy steam fire engine company, No. 6, Tuesday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year, foreman, W. H. Anthony; 1st assistant, Robert McLaughlin; 2nd assistant, Henry W. Swan; secretary, Joseph P. Monaher; treasurer, John P. Murphy; engineer, George C. Sweet; stoker, W. H. Hawkey; fire police, Patrick Mahoney, John McMannis; steward, Charles Waterman.

Persons driving on runners should take notice that they are liable to fine if there are not two or more bells attached to their horse drawn furniture.

The engine Charles Osgood of the Northern road was badly smashed yesterday at Palmer, Mass., when it crashed into the Athol and Enfield mixed train. One man was seriously injured in jumping from the train and three others slightly injured. A wrecking crew was sent out from New London. A signal at the switch at Barrett's which read wrong for the Osgood caused the wreck.

Thursday, January 30, 1873—The Norwich postoffice was called upon Tuesday to supply over 1000 stamps to the Merchants & Farmers' Insurance company of Worcester, which company is to send out 35,000 sealed letters. This number is probably the largest ever sent out by one company in 24 hours.

Signor Blitz gave an amusing entertainment to a full house at Breed hall last evening, when a number of presents were distributed. His sleight of hand tricks were so good that he was kept over and will repeat his exhibition this evening.

The snow which fell yesterday brought with it exceedingly cold weather and this morning the temperature is falling, now being at 6 below zero.

Among the estimates allowed by the house recently was one of $4,500 for a fog signal for New London.

Joseph Dion, and Mr. Bennett, the champion billiard player of Canada gave an exhibition of their skill last evening at Foster's rooms. They play in Willimantic this evening.

Friday, January 31, 1873—On Tuesday Senator Buckingham presented a memorial to the senate from the national banks of this city, the memorial justifying the removal of bank taxes. The matter was referred to the finance committee at the suggestion of Senator Buckingham.

It has been five minutes to eight according to our town clock for the past 48 hours. That clock was evidently made to keep meantime.

A young gentleman of the law who neglected to tuck his ears inside of his vest last evening had them frozen.

The Bulletin received the following letter from William H. Putnam, 1st selectman of Brooklyn: "Will you please give some information where I can find some intelligent member (if there are any) of Charles Oake's family."

Saturday, February 1, 1873—The weather of Thursday inspired some of our citizens to tell of olden times. They recall the winter of 1807, when the cold was intense, the snow lay four feet deep in the woods, and the spring flood was terrific. Also that of 1814 when peace was celebrated at a temperature of from 20 to 30 degrees below zero. Also that of 1817 when the mercury went down to 42 below, and the list of persons frozen to death was fearful. Also that of 1835 when New London harbor froze solid and for several weeks 25 to 30 degrees below was the average weather. And several others. All of which pleasing reminiscences may teach us to be modest about our modern weather.

Signor Blitz, the sleight of hand man found trouble waiting for him in New London when he gave away a watch he said cost him $87. The man who received it priced it in a jewelers and found it to be worth the magnificent sum of $7 1-2 cents. New Londoners jumped at Signor Blitz and persuaded him to make up the $86. 92 1-2 difference and he then parted for Hartford. Now a New London constable is after him to make him pay even heavier for his trick as he took in over $1000 by his act in that city.

The colloesal Westerly granite statue of a soldier at "parade rest" to be used for the soldier's monument will be placed at William's park early in the spring.

Ice men in the city are happy. They have filled their houses and are storing extra ice outside at a thickness of 5 1-2 inches.

JEWETT CITY

William Knox has received a certificate of merit from the American Dahlia Society for the Beatrice Knox dahlia, a seedling of his own raising. It was tried out both at Storrs Agricultural College and the Southern Trial grounds. It has a beautiful buff and yellow blossom.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard and family go to Occum today (Saturday) called there by the death of Mrs. Millard's father, Joseph Oliver, a former Jewett City resident.

Miss Brennan has returned to her home on Brown Avenue after a four weeks stay at St. Joseph's Hospital in Providence, where she underwent a surgical operation.

The losing side in the Red and the Blue contest at the Congregational church was the Red and they are to entertain the Sunday school which includes any member who has attended during the last three months at a turkey supper this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Following are the scores made Tuesday night on the local bowling alleys:

Thursday evening in Rioux Hall, 41 tables were occupied in the second of the series of 4 whists being conducted by Rev. Michael McCabe Council No. 2364 K. of C. First ladies prize was awarded to Mrs. William Purydon, second to Miss Angelia Moraney and consolation to Miss Marie Dufresne. First gentleman's prize was awarded to George Lafavre, second to Henry Poplain and consolation to Patrick Ryan.

Preceding the whist Edward T. Connolly of Norwich entertained with several excellent solos and an Irish monologue. Frank Murdy, of Norwich rendered several solos in fine baritone voice. Both singers were accompanied by James Olson.

The last of the series of whists will be played on Monday evening February 12th and will be followed by dancing. On this night the grand prizes will be awarded to the lady and gentleman having the highest scores for the three nights in addition to the six prizes for that night's play. The names of the 10 highest ladies and 10 highest gentlemen will be posted in the window of a local store this week showing the leaders for the two nights already played.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 35c and 65c, jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

Appointed Head Of Armour & Company

F. Edson White, who has become the President of Armour & Company, one of the biggest packing concerns in the world, and he will have under his direction not only Armour & Company of Illinois, with its more than a billion dollars of business each year, but also any subsidiaries of the company. He started on the lowest round of "Packington," at the age of 17, in Peoria, Ill., where he was born. Later he came to Chicago as inspector, and from there his advance was a rapid one. Within ten years Mr. White was assistant to one of the Vice-Presidents of the company, later becoming a director, and then Vice-President. Today at the age of fifty, the prime of life, he has realized his life-long ambition.

OLD FASHIONED FAMILY REMEDY FOR COLDS, GRIP, PNEUMONIA AND BODY BUILDING

Father John's Medicine Builds New Strength During the Getting-Well Stage After Any Illness.

A Doctor's Prescription. Free From Alcohol and Dangerous Drugs — 67 Years in Use.

The getting-well stage of grip is the most dangerous of all because the body, weakened by the grip, is wide open to attacks of other lurking disease germs.

That is why all the organs of the body must be kept in their best working order, not only to drive out the poison left by the grip germ, but that the patient shall regain strength as soon as possible to avoid further attacks resulting from the poisons in the system.

As a means toward good health after the grip Father John's Medicine builds up the body because it is all pure wholesome nourishment and free from opium, morphine, chloroform or other poisonous drugs or alcohol. Father John's Medicine has had sixty-seven years' success for colds and throat troubles, coughs and sore throats, and as a tonic and body builder.

PLAINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Butterworth went to New York Thursday to see Mrs. G. A. Lawton off on her trip to the Orient, on which she will be away for about three months. Other Plainfield people making this same tour are Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Chase, George Weston and his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Weston. They all sail on the Empress of Scotland Saturday night.

Mrs. Nelson Greenwood, who has taken to the Day Kimball hospital last week, was operated on for appendicitis last Monday and is on the road to recovery.

Mrs. George Hutchinson, Jr., was operated on at the Backus hospital Thursday morning and is resting as comfortable as can be expected.

Marden T. Prentiss, freshman at Brown university, is at home a few days after the mid-year examinations.

Mrs. Robert L. Dawley has suffered with a grip cold, being confined to her homme some time, but is better and out again.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's parish was held on Monday evening when reports were made and accepted. The following committees were elected for the ensuing year: Executive committee, Charles Alexander, H. Johnson, W. Collins, F. H. Barker, George Kay, H. Beckett J. Peterson; sub committee, J. Riding, Thomas Bamber, P. Rhodes, R. Ward, F. Peterson, A. Hilton.

Mrs. Harriet Pallett of Central Village is very low, suffering from a shock of a week ago and no hope is held out for her recovery. Mrs. Pellett is the mother of Mrs. Elmer Bennett of Plainfield. Mrs. Susan Lester of Providence, Mrs. Pellett's sister, is taking care of her.

Mrs. Irving Hubbard has been visiting recently in the home of Ernest Starkweather.

George Dean has lost a valuable horse as the result of an injury received on Thursday on the state road near William Knight's home while on the way to work. The horse slipped on a piece of ice and in some way injured its spine when it fell.

The Young Men's Bible Class of the Congregational church is planning a special get-together meeting to be held with their leader, Ray W. Greene, at Grange hall on Monday evening.

The shop committee of Lawton Mills corporation will hold their banquet in the Community house on Monday evening.

The musical comedy Ketcha-Koo was staged at the Community house Tuesday and Wednesday evenings before large and appreciative audiences. The talent was local and the cast was made up of 150. The costumes were excellent as was the acting. The lines were well learned. The interpretation was good, the songs and dances adding a charm to the play. There was a dash and spirit to the entire performance which won the applause of the audiences.

The play was staged at the Community house by John B. Rogers Producing company and under the personal direction of Phil D. Merriam. The general supervision was by a committee composed of James Royle, president of the Community association, Edward King and Benjamin Dawson. The talent committee was composed of Miss Rose Beaudry, chairman, Miss N. R. Hartwell, Miss Fernande Lafrenicre, Ray Greene and Oro Gauthier. James Royle had charge of the ushers and William Collins had the management of the tickets.

A feature of the play was the music furnished by Lamb's orchestra of Rocky Point. Mrs. Agusta Nolan was pianist. At the conclusion of each play, the hall was cleared and all who wished enjoyed an evening of dancing. The comedy marks another success for the Community association.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.

THE GOOD OLD HYMNS.

There's lots of music in them, the hymns of long ago.
And when some gray haired brother sings the songs I used to know
I start of what to take a hand—I think of days gone by,
Of Jordan's stormy banks I stand and cast a wishful eye."

There's lots of music in them—those clear, sweet hymns of old.
Which visions bright of lands of light and shining streets of gold.
And I hear them ringing—hearing where memory dreaming stands
"From Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strands"

We hardly needed singing books in those old days; we knew
The words, the tunes of every one, the dear old hymn book through.
We had no blaring trumpets then, no organs built for show,
We only sang to praise the Lord "From whose all blessings flow."

And so I love the dear old hymns and when my time shall come,
Before the light has left me and my singing lips are dumb,
If I can only hear them, I'll pass without a sigh
To Canaan's fair and happy land where my possessions lie."

THE DEMONSTRATION.

If I could make my motor go the way that agent made it
The day he drove it to my house and playfully displayed it
If I could stall an engine's knock and keep a spring from squeaking,
With that salesman's line of gab, or hold a valve from leaking.
I'd feel much safer in a boat when I go forth to drive -
Feel far more certain that at length in safety I'd arrive
I'd burn of costly gasoline a deal less, by far,
Were I as skilful as the chap who sold me my car!

It seemed, what time he chauffeured 'round, as though we rode on air:
There was no bump, there was no shocks,-no friction anywhere!
The engine was as silent as the graveyard rabbit's tread
As it goes pussyfooting 'round the dwellings of the dead.
But since he left the thing to me and bore away my check,
The blooming 'bus is noisy as a freight train in a wreck.
Though using all discretion in choosing of my track,
The thing goes jouncing till it nearly breaks my back!

When he had done a score of miles, he showed me that the gas
Was high as when he started; yet when I'm in charge--alas!
I need a filling station every forty miles or so—
A league to every gallon is the farthest it will go.
No, I'm not kicking, brother, for I have a great machine.
The advertisements tell me so in every magazine.
Yet, oh could I but make it work the way that agent made it
The day he brought it to my house and pridefully displayed it"

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

February 7.—Meeting of Club No. 2, at Buckingham Memorial.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES.

NORTH DAKOTA: Letters received and forwarded as requested.

ROBERTA: Your name has been added to the Social Corner.

USING AN AITCH BONE.

Dear Social Corner. I always enjoy the Social Corner very much and have thought for some weeks that I would join you. I have missed several of the old names. What is the matter? Do you change names?

I want to tell you how I use an aitch bone. I get six or seven pounds of the best part. I take two slices off of the best meat for steak and can usually fry it without putting it through the food chopper. Then I cut off the good meat and make a beef loaf as follows:

One and one-half or two pounds of beef, with some of the fat; one cup bread crumbs, one heaping teaspoon salt, little black pepper, one teaspoon poultry dressing, one cup or more of milk. I like it quite moist and I bake it about an hour. This is very good cold, when first made, or cold, with salad dressing, but best of all we like it fried for breakfast. Slice it and fry like sausage, and we like it better than sausage.

I boil the bone and what meat is left and make, sometimes a stew and other times a soup, with turnip, onions, potatoes, summer savory and red pepper.

This gives us quite a variety and lasts about a week, for there are only two of us.

ROBERTA.

THOSE GOOD OLD HYMNS.

Dear Editor, Sisters and friends: I did not intend to write again so soon, but after reading Iola's letter about old hymns it touched a responsive chord in my heart, too. I love those old hymns, and many times my dear grandmother and I have sung them together. She sang one part and I sang the other. They were Exhortation, Ocean Sheburne, New Jerusalem, Mere Majesty and others. Those were dear hymns and had more music in them than the new songs of today. The name of the one that Iola wrote about, "Come, my beloved, haste away," is Invitation. We used to sing that one.

I will send a piece of poetry about the good old hymns.

Best wishes to all.

TREATMENT FOR COLDS AND PNEUMONIA.

Dear Sisters and Social Corner—Guess I'll start by trying to thank the members who kindly sent a pretty calendar to me. I would like to know who it was. I appreciate the present very much.

After a three years' absence, I enjoy being back with the Social Corner sisters. I would like to see them oftener.

Brave: I wish you could come over and have some coffee from my pretty new cup. Many thanks. My apron is too nice to use. I thank the giver.

For those who have colds, try this: Get some pine needles, boil them in plenty of water, strain the water and add enough sugar to make a syrup. Take a teaspoonful often. It tastes like raspberry.

An application of melted lard and turpentine on the throat and chest will generally break up pneumonia. We have just had that experience.

Hubby: My nerves are improving—with another chimney fire at the other end of the house last week.

I hope to meet all the members on Feb 14. I hope the snow banks will disappear soon.

With best wishes to all.

MARY FRANCE.

BEING A GOOD NEIGHBOR.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I thought I would write a few lines this lovely afternoon, so sunny and bright. This is really a beautiful world to live in—if we only stop and think about it. There is so much to be thankful for. Of course, we think sometimes our lot is hard, but when we hear of others who are worse off than we are, we think we are not as bad off after all. I have lived in the same neighborhood for nearly 40 years and never had a word of trouble in all that time with any neighbor, so I think that is a pretty good record. Someone said if you want good neighbors, you must be one yourself. I don't say that we are perfect, but we try to be kind and accommodating as much as we can.

Some of the sisters wanted a pork cake recipe. I have a very good one, so will send it:

Pork Cake: One cup fat pork, one cup boiling water, one cup raisins, one cup sugar, one-half cup molasses, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, five cups of flour.

Hope some of the sisters will try it. I am yours for good luck.

RURAL AUNTY

PORK CAKE AND HASTY PUDDING.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Having enjoyed reading the Corner letters last week so much, I am writing to thank the members for so many good suggestions, which help so much to scatter joy around us. Many good resolutions are being made and kept this new year, which makes the Social Corner better than ever.

The snow storm of the last Sunday in January makes me think of "Snow bound."

"The well curb had a Chinese roof,
And even the long sweep high aloof
In its slant splendor seemed to tell
Of Pisa's leaning miracle."

Several Connecticut Agricultural college students have just passed on skis. They seem to thoroughly enjoy the severe winter and can be seen sliding down the line hills near on skis and sleds.

I am sending Red Clover a recipe for pork cake.

Pork Cake: One pound of salt pork chopped fine, then wet with two cups of boiling water. Add three cups of sugar, one teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves and allspice, one pound of fruit, and two slightly rounding teaspoons of soda, then five cups of flour. This cake is nice and keeps well if folks don't find it.

For the cake of health and economy I often make hasty pudding for supper by stirring four and one-half cups of Indian meal in four quarts of boiling salted water and cooking for about two hours, stirring occasionally. It is all lumpy, stir in one-half cup of cold water at the last. This is very nice cooled in greased pans and sliced, then fried for breakfast.

Wish I could come to some of the meetings, you all seem to have such good times.

ROSARY.

PORK CAKE RECIPE.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Was glad to see so many letters in the paper Saturday. I see one of the sisters asks for a pork cake recipe so will send in one which is very good as I have made it several time. I always make it for Christmas and it will keep for some time.

Pork Cake: One cup of sugar, one cup molasses, one cup chopped fat pork, two-thirds cup sour cream or milk, one-half cup raising, one-half cup currants, two eggs, two-thirds teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon of cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon nutmeg, flour enough to make a stiff batter. Bake in a slow oven.

MORNING GLORY.

ENJOYING THE WINTER.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I hope everyone is enjoying this glorious winter weather as much as I am, with its sleigh rides, and hope to have many more before snow goes. One of the sisters wrote that she did not mind the snow so much because she had gone to the city for the winter. That is just the place I should dislike it, as it soon gets so black and dirty. There is no pleasure in looking at it.

Many thanks to A Social Corner Member for the lovely calendar. I have it hanging over the desk so I can see it every day. I think the one who sent it must have known I was a lover of nature, by the picture on the calendar.

Red Clover: It is a pleasure to report that Fringed Gentian is getting along so nicely. She came home from the hospital Jan. 5 and went back Jan. 26 and had the casts removed, but did not have to stay. Now she has crutches to use when she gets a little more strength. I was talking with her over the 'phone this morning. She is very happy that the operation was a complete success and has stood up twice, but does not feel strong enough to try walking as yet. She said as soon as she felt like writing she was going to write a letter of thanks to the Social Corner.

Here is a recipe for pork cake that we think is very nice:

Pork Cake: One pound fat salt pork entirely free from lean, chopped so fine as to be like lard, and pour one-half pint boiling water on it, one pound raisins, one-quarter pound citron, two cups brown sugar, one cup molasses, one teaspoon soda put into the molasses. Mix all together and stir in enough sifted flour to make the consistency of common cake, then add one ounce each of nutmeg and clove and two ounces cinnamon. Bake slowly.

How nice it was to see The Corner page filled last week. Hope it will continue to be filled each week.

Kensey: It's dandy sleighing now, why not take a ride to Lebanon?

Neighbor Ever Ready: I hope to come to the February meeting and get some of your Easter cards, as I had some of your Christmas cards and they were so pretty.

Am sorry to hear that some of the sisters are sick and shut in, and hope all will soon be well again.

My sympathy goes out to Althea in her great sorrow.

Best wishes to all.

DORINDA.

EARLY PENMANSHIP WORK.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: In reference to the methods of teaching penmanship in the schools in the earlier days of Grandma Gray and Sister Silver Locks, it reminds me also of my first lessons in writing. In those days we were taught to read from the alphabet to simple sentences before we used the pen. Our first instructions were given and practiced in the so-called writing book No. 1. I recall with great pleasure when I entered in the class of beginners to learn to write. On the first page the copy consisted of small slant lines and about four to be placed in an inch space on the running line the width of the book. The teacher started off with a few "slants" to show me how, also the proper way to hold the pen. Then she went to the others, and so on. I remember I was so enthusiastic to make the slants look well that I forgot that only four were to be put in the inch space, so I crowded them in about as thick as they could stand, probably 15 instead of the limited four. When the teacher saw it she kindly called my attention to it, and thereafter I was careful to follow the exact copy.

The second page of the writing book was devoted to the practice of making loops above the line, as also below, as in the small scrip letters of b, f, g, etc. About the third page of our wonderful book we began to make the small "a" and continued on as we turned the leaves until the full alphabet was completed. Next we started on capital scrip letters. Then by that time we had accomplished the rudiments of the elementary writing book. I remember that our writing period was about 15 minutes of the afternoon session of each day, so it required several weeks or a term to fill our book. As I repeat again, the memory of my first writing book was not all confined to the abundant stanks on the first page, but a deeper and broader significance that came to me as I finished that early task of penmanship. It was customary in those days for teachers to offer prizes for excellence in the various branches of study, most especially for good spelling.

At the time that I refer to, when my class was starting in the writing book, the teacher announced she would offer a prize for the best writing book in advanced classes, which of course we youngsters knew did not include our composition. When the closing day, the second term, which was always a "red letter" day, given to speaking, dialogues, singing, etc., and the hour arrived for the awarding of the prizes, the teacher announced that Carrie Clark was entitled to the prize for the best writing book of the older classes, and she was presented with a beautiful gold pen in a nice case. Oh! the smile on Carrie's face as she received her reward of merit! The whole school's attention was on her for the moment, and I am sure we were all glad for her success. In the next moment the teacher announced she had thought the No. 1 class was also entitled to a prize and she called me to her desk to receive the gift. It was a wonderful surprise to me and perhaps one of the happiest experiences of my whole life as those things of childhood days seem to have a deeper root than in later years. My prize was a beautiful green cloth bound book a story entitled "The Flower and the Star." I still have the "reward" book and cherish its associations with my early trials at penmanship.

A VISIT TO THE SISTERS VIA AIRPLANE.

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I want to thank the Corner member for the pretty calendar I received a few weeks ago. I was very much pleased with it.

Now I am going to carry out one of my New Year resolutions. I think I have the plane all ready to start. Hope nothing gives out before I get back.

Let's see, this is Hartford. Good morning, Jennie! Yes, this is pretty early for callers, but you see I am [illegible] day so in order to get back I have to start early. What a pleasant place you have! Are all your folks well? So many up our way are sick with measles, colds, grip and the many complaints they say Mr. Winter brings with him. No, our folks are all well, thank you. Yes, I will can't stay any longer. Yes, good-bye. You must come to see me.

Ten minutes later—I think I will light in this open place near Main street. Hello, Cricket! Well, didn't think you would see me so early, did you? My plane is right up the street. Well, how are you? And here is Dew Drop, Theoda, Kitty, and so many of the Willimantic folks. Glad to see you all. Now I will run into the hospital and see Ka-y. Did not all who are sick that haven't gone home yet. Good morning, Katy Did! Glad you are better and sorry you have been so seriously sick. Well, glad the others are able to be out again and I will go to their homes to see them.

Now for Scotland. My, but there's surely some wind. Why, good morning, C. E. S., and Aunt Jerushy! Well, how are you these days. Pretty cold some days, isn't it? And here's Conundrum. So glad to see you this morning. Yes, I know you are all busy and I won't stop but a minute. I have plenty of work to do at home, but thought I would take one day off calling on the sisters. I want to be sociable as long as that's the name of our society. Haven't had much chance to before.

Now for the rest. I Can't always get a good place to land but think here is a good place side of the river in Norwich. My, how do you do, Kitty Lou! I always enjoy your letters so much. How can you write such helpful things and do all the work you have to do? My, how pleasant it is here? And here is Triple E. So glad to see you. Busy, as ever, I see. And Calla Lily! No, thanks, I can't stop only to shake hands for the time goes so quickly. Today, though, I am taking time with me so I can get around to you all. Your letter was very instructive last fall, the one you wrote about children. We cannot learn too much in that line when so much depends on the coming generations. A little careful training and management, etc., will do wonders with children.

C. C. E.: Yes, I think the Corner recipes are very good.

That Different Woman: Those signs you told of last year have always been a puzzle to me. some more of them.

Ma of Greene Gables: Your letters are all so interesting.

Quite a trip you took that time, California Poppy. I am interested out there for some of our dear church folks went out there this fall, and how we miss them. They are enjoying it very much, as they wrote, in the land of sunshine and flowers. We are enjoying the cold snow and ice trying to keep on our feet if we walk outside. But the white landscape is just beautiful. There is no other way to have the black ground and fields so pure white. This is nature's house-cleaning time.

Grace: Pretty hard to get a vacation sometimes. Yours was very interesting. Quite an adventure you had.

Rosalind: That was the best one I ever heard given cards. Some of the soldiers in each of the wars were brave and noble and we can't realize how much they suffered and endured for the cause. I, too, was glad to have one of the sisters mention the fact of being kind and teaching children to respect those who were injured, etc. Anyone in misfortune is to be pitied and helped.

And now, at last I have found, North Dakota. My, but it took me some time to fly here, but such a pretty place it paid me to come. What lovely views all the way and such large fields. I would like to come in the summer and see the harvest machines working. Yes, I will be going home now. Glad you have such a pretty home. Good-bye. You don't think birds need aeroplanes? Well, you see I couldn't travel so far with my wings. Sorry I can't stay any longer. Now, if I don't strike a blizzard I will get back easy again.

L. H. K.: How you did scare me. I didn't expect to see you out here. Let me help you carry in those clothes. Your pictures you sent are fine with the kitty in your arms. All right, come on, glad to have you go with me to see Lonesome Pine, Olga and the rest. How we will miss Grandma H. All her relatives have my sympathy. Also all who are sick or shut in.

Hello, hubby and children! Yes, I have been calling on all the Corner sisters today and as there are about a thousand members and many miles apart it took all day, but supper will soon be ready.

Best wishes to all.

SPRY BIRD.

WINTER REVIVES MEMORIES OF YEARS AGO.

Dear Editor and Sisters: I wish to thank a Social Corner member for the little lavender calendar on my desk. It is a dainty reminder to me, not only of my appreciation of the Corner, but also of my duty to it.

I am sure we all agree with Hubby that we are having "some winter," the real old fashioned kind that brings to us memories of long ago. When a child I lived in the country about one and a half miles from school and no girl ever loved to go to school better than I did. Those were the days of two sessions, rain or shine, and in the rural districts, two long terms a year instead of three shorter ones, as now. No, thanks, I can't stop only to shake hands for the time goes so quickly. Today, though, I am taking time with me so I can get around to you all. Your letter was very instructive last fall, the one you wrote about children. We cannot learn too much in that line when so much depends on the coming generations. A little careful training and management, etc., will do wonders with children.

C. C. E.: Yes, I think the Corner recipes are very good.

That Different Woman: Those signs you told of last year have always been a puzzle to me. some more of them.

Ma of Greene Gables: Your letters

GREETINGS FROM BETSY TROTWOOD.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wonder who is so generous to be sending out so many lovely calendars? I received one a few weeks ago for which I thank the donor. Mine has a country scene, a winding road, an apple tree in full bloom and everything to make us look forward to the good old summer time.

Grace: There is a possibility of my going to the next Social Corner meeting. It will be a case of renewing my acquaintances with a good many of the sisters, as I have not been for nearly a year.

Betsy: Am glad to hear of your rapid progress. Let the good work go on.

Delish Dish: This is a pretty good winter to be shut in. With so much cold and snow it is hard for even the well to get about. It is much colder here than where you live.

BETSY TROTWOOD.

GOOD TO SEE SO MANY OLD NAMES.

Dear Social Corner: It has been some time since I wrote to the Corner and I wish to thank the sister who sent me the lovely calendar. It served me good last week to see so many familiar names in the Corner and I am hoping I may meet some of them February 7th as I hope to attend the Social Corner meeting, wind, weather and health permitting.

Those people who have remarked so many times that we didn't have the good old fashioned winters we used to have must be perfectly satisfied this winter. Love and sympathy to Olga and Bluebell in their loss.

BUG.

ANOTHER PORK CAKE RECIPE.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Good morning! I hope every one is well and happy.

Well, we have had two beautiful sunny days if it has been cold, and it did seem good to have two whole days pleasant.

Can you imagine how disgusted I was last Saturday to get only half of my Bulletin and the first three pages at that. No Social Corner, my paper was torn directly in two. I don't know who to blame but I hardly think my R. F. D. carrier was the guilty one. Anyway, I only got a glimpse of the Social Corner in another's paper.

Agatha: How I do envy you all those samples of lace and that friend of yours that lives near you, she is very lucky to have so many different patterns. I have quite a few nice ones. Wish I knew you, perhaps we could exchange some. I would be glad to let any one take my samples.

Well, some one asked for a recipe for pork cake and I have one that mother always makes and has for years and I tell you it is certainly fine, so hope your will try it. Here it is:

Pork Cake: One pound brown sugar, two eggs, one cup molasses, one cup finely chopped pork with one cup boiling water poured on it and let stand until the pork is soft and cool. One teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon allspice, one cup currants, one cup raisins, one cup citron, one teaspoon saleratus, four cups flour.

Tatts: Where are you, we haven't had any recipes from you in a long time."

Well hope some one will try that cake and let us know the results.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

NOT AS LADYLIKE AS GENERATION AGO.

Dear Social Corner: I enjoyed the last meeting very much. I met some old acquaintances I had not seen for some time. I wonder what the sisters think of knickers on ladies fifty years old or more; also on large girls to wear to school. I like to see ladies dress like ladies, and girls as girls and do not try to dress like the opposite sex. It seems as if girls are not as ladylike as they were a generation ago. I have been on trains and trolleys where a number of girls talked and laughed so loud that any one could hardly endure it. It does not seem as if they could realize how annoying it was to others.

I am sending a recipe for pork cake which some one requested. I have used it for 25 years.

Pork Cake: One pound salt pork, ground fine, one pint of boiling water poured on pork, one pint of molasses, two cups sugar, one pound raisins, one pound currants, three teaspoons soda, one teaspoon nutmeg, cinnamon and cloves. I use my own judgment about flour.

I think it a fine idea of Agatha's about the sample crochet book. As my letter is getting rather long, I will say good-bye.

JOVELLE FISCHLA

TEH GREAT FALL OF VIRGINIA.

Dear Social Corner Friends: The verses on Sargent's reader on the months has come to my mind often as it reads thus:

January brings the snow
Makes our feet and fingers glow.

The girls are disputing, it during last month
February brings the rain
Breaks the window's ice chain.

For a long time I've wanted words. Like Kind to "Thy Mother, etc." We used to sing the verses in school in the principal's room.

Was the name of the song book "Golden Wreath" Salome? If the song was still sung occasionally in schools, the inference might be homelike. When one recalls the youthful days, many early teachings are stored away, some times unconsciously, to be recalled in future years as conditions and circumstances draw them out.

A word I am very disappointed on the board of licensing for professional engineers and land surveyors of the State of New York, and also spoke before the Board of Supervisors, on Introducing the Map of Histadoo, last month. Do we realize many people who are not, themselves, are interested in our page, its contributions large or small? I believe they appreciate our efforts which take time at little expense, but which many, if not all of us could utilize in other ways. I enjoy all letters. If at first views expressed differ from mine, it is only a question of time to fully comprehend the true meaning.

Now about the Great Fall of Virginia. To visit the falls which are about twenty-five miles from Washington you go on what is called the Acqueduct road, so named because underneath the road is a large pipe which conveys the water from the upper part of the Potomac to the city and is used for drinking purposes. The water of the river naturally is repulsive looking, and quite unfit for such use, but it is purified in some manner and is now considered O. K. At our destination we first saw the canal that runs from the Chesapeake bay to Cumberland, Md., and is used for the transportation of coal and all general merchandise and the boats are towed by mules with drivers walking along the canal bank. It was used more before the B. and O. was built and is now controlled by the railroad.

Just before our seeing this canal a boy and girl whom our relatives knew were walking beside the canal which at that time was wholly unprotected. The boy fell in, struck his head and drowned. The girl fell in, too, but was rescued and then a frail protection was put up just where people had to cross to get to the falls. All this gave a stranger something to think about and then to be asked, "Have you ever been over a swinging bridge?" Never even heard of one before, and about this time I saw something in the distance without my glasses resembling a hammock only longer. Just then we came upon a lone man. After we had gotten over the water where the accident happened our nerves were not quite as restless. I wondered what he was there for in the shade and found it cost a nickle apiece to go any farther. Was our purser, so on we went over stones, came to the peculiar bridge consisting of two large iron cables, with narrow boards on them and just a railing on each side and no protection from the railing down to the boards. I stopped and looked, and did some more thinking and decided when with Romans to do as they do, by this time the younger members of our party (excepting two who decided to remain by the building where refreshments are sold, and about this time I began to admire their good judgment) asked me if I needed assistance? I said no, but do not want them on the bridge with me, decided the pleasure (?) would all be mine—put my hands out on the rail on each side at a slow pace—with a swift current underneath—reached the other end where we found earth and after going half a mile on these islands came to the main part of the Potomac. The swift current was a part of the Potomac, too. The falls on this main part of the Potomac was the roughest, stoniest and disorderly looking place ever saw. In color the stones were brown unstratified, and if you can recall how rock candy looks and magnify it enough in your mind's eye strung along at different lengths with the water winding its away along over and around these ill shaped stones of various sizes you have a little idea of the place. On the other side in Virginia, people were having what seemed to us to be a picnic. Also there was a canal along the side of the river in Virginia which used to furnish power for a grist mill owned by George Washington and which ground the grain from his many acres.

We returned over the bridge in the same manner, and if the man had offered me the whole amount he collected from us to cross that "swinging bridge" again I should have said, "No, I thank you. Some times I know when I've had enough." After getting back and seeing the refreshment stand, it seemed to me I was never as dry in my life. After refreshing ourselves and resting a little, I thought what risks we take and queer places we venture over when away from home. On our return over the same route we noticed what they call shacks beside the Potomac, where people live in the summer and was told some remain all winter and go boating and bathing in the river regardless of the color of the water. Suppose people of Washington call those small cottages "shacks" because they are so used to seeing such large and costly buildings.

Above the falls, where we were, is the government dam that feeds the aqueduct I've spoken of.

The distance across the narrowest part of the falls between Maryland and Virginia, was told to be about half a mile, and it is a pleasure resort where we saw the people.

CRETIA.

LIKES THE BIRTHDAY DATE IDEA

Dear Cornerites: I wish to thank Social Corner Member for the pretty calendar sent me. It was lovely.

This has certainly been a banner winter for snow, and I guess we shall all welcome the good old summer time.

Red Clover: Here is a good rule for pork cake, but I most always divide it and only make half the recipe:

Pork Cake: Chop 1 lb. of fat pork very fine, add one pint of scalding hot milk, stir until well mixed. When cold add 2 1-2 cups sugar 1-2 cup molasses, 1 tablespoon each of cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg; 1 teaspoon soda, salt, 7 cups flour, 1 lb. raisins and any other fruit as desired. It makes four loaves.

I am also going to send you a recipe for cake that has a genuine old fashioned "raised cake" flavor without waiting for the action of the yeast. Found it in a paper, tried it and found it good. Put 1-2 a yeast cake in a cup and fill with sweet milk. Cream 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup butter and 1 egg together, add milk and yeast, add 2 1-2 cups flour in which has been sifted 1 teaspoon baking powder, add raisins and citron, a little mace and a little cinnamon. Mix and bake at once.

Hope some of the sisters will try this and let me know results.

Scottie: Where have you kept yourself all winter. Had hoped to see you at the S. C. in W. Expected to be at the Buckingham before this, but hope to in the near future, and expect to bring your "twine" along with me when I do come.

We all miss dear Grandma H's smiling face, but our loss is her gain. Hope her daughters will meet with us again soon.

Wishing the editor and every Social Cornerite a prosperous and happy New Year.

I think Call Lily's idea about birthdays is all right. I have often wished I knew more of them.

ELIZA JANE (Sept. 30.)

GREETINGS FROM ANNA MELL

Dear Cornerites: Here I come for a little chat. I have been silent for a long time. I wish to thank a Corner Member for the pretty calendar received. If not too late I wish to thank all Cornerites for the Christmas cards sent me.

I have enjoyed reading the letters every week. Better to read them than to write them, but if every one thought that way I fear we wouldn't have any letters to read. Our sympathy goes out to all friends that have recently lost dear one. We shall miss their smiling faces at our gathers. Dear Grandma H was always so happy when she could be with us. But our loss is her gain. We can't wish her back as she is better off than we are.

Glad to see so many new members coming in to our club. After they meet with us at one meeting, they are ready to join as they have such a nice time and say the Corner is rightly named.

Diana: Am sorry you are feeling so poorly. I hope you may not get down sick. I received your card all right and will try to reply to it some day. Although I am feeling better and also get around better, I don't quite regain my natural feeling as yet. My hands and limbs are not natural, but will be some day I hope.

No Dom Pedro, I don't happen to know the friends you speak of.

Brave: Was very glad to see a letter from you. I think it would be better for you to go out doors more perhaps, as I think one stays in the house too much. If one doesn't feel like walking around, wrap up well and sit out in the sunshine awhile. It will do lots of good. I try to go out every day that it doesn't storm. We have plenty of snow and ice now which makes hard traveling. As I got the paper today and found the Social Corner page filled with letters I said, the sisters that have been begging the old writers to write would rise up and shout Hurrah. We have driven the advs out of our page."

Hello, Lola: I too, remember many of the old hymns that you speak of as we used to sing them at school, also at Sunday school, in my childhood days. Also after I was a young lady, as some teachers were fond of music and we always spent half an hour every day in playing the organ and singing usually after school was opened in the morning.

Now I wonder how many know there was a slave born and sold in Connecticut. His name was James Marr. He was born March 3rd, 1[illegible], in Canaan. I have the account of his life in a 38 page book, written by himself. His father was born in the state of New York and his mother was born in old Virginia. The minister of North Canaan whose name was Thompson, went to Virginia for a wife, or she came to him. They became man and wife. He brought her to Canaan, and she brought her slaves with her and James' mother was one of them. He thought there were two of her brothers also. He said he has lived to see slavery done away with in the United States, and the colored man allowed to be a man in Connecticut. He thanked the Creator of all men for this great blessing and he said while he lived he would do his duty.

I think I am making this letter too lengthy, so will close by wishing you all a healthy and prosperous New Year.

ANNA MELL.

REVIVES FOND MEMORIES

Dear Editor and Social Corner members: Jim has written interestingly of sausage and hymns. I see my mother's dimpled hands patting the sausage meat into cakes, the big square and blue platter holding them, the long iron griddle next morning, the big brown pitcher on the shelf behind the stove, the buckwheat batter poured on the griddle, two spiders on the middle of the stove full of sausage, father back the coffee pot full of Java and Mocha, the baked potatoes raked from the oven into two colanders, eleven children, eight girls and three boys, two one side and six the other, did one end and mother at the other end. When mother showed fatigue dad would flip the cakes.

Jim: That handsome, husky son is some boy. Do you know my dad?

He said, I congratulate you.

I suppose Slim Jim is eating strawberries and alligator pears now.

SOCIAL CORNER

trouble. I know you will be lonesome. We always miss those who are called. Try to be cheerful. There is never a dark day but the sun comes out again. You know the adage says, it is always darkest before dawn. We all have the same trouble. We must make the best of it.

When we think how many of those we were so fond of meeting at the Corner have gone the past year—Married and Happy and Grandma H., we sadly miss. It was their greatest pleasure to be with us.

Scottie: I still have my lemon.

Look out! Who knows who will get a lemon?

Glad to see your name again Calla Lily.

Chocolate has either melted or been eaten. I do not know which.

I must thank the Social member for the pretty calendar I received. They must have known I was fond of apple blossoms.

With best wishes.

NECIA.

DAYS THAT ARE GONE FOREVER.

Dear Sisters: The Social Corner page may be filled without my help. As many may be shut in and have this time to write. If weather and traveling are the same as in this vicinity. I read now and then of a sleighing party and it brings to mind many happy events, getting up a party of merry young people and with the jingle of the bells enjoying a moonlight ride over hills and across plains. Then the returning to the home of some member of the party and having supper.

I received a letter from a far away friend in Oregon, recalling some of those pleasant times. I will quote her words: "In speaking of Christmas festivities now and then, I suppose those gatherings would be called simple affairs. Still those neighborhood Christmas trees are fresh in my mind and the pop corn ball with molasses candy cannot be duplicated, for the modern confectionaries are not in it, as far as my preference goes. Modern literature says those days are gone forever and so they are, I guess.

A nice way to make a picture book for a small child is to take some cambric of any desired color or several colors, cut out pictures from old magazines, some very pretty ones, in bright coloring may be found and paste these into the book, which has been stitched together. It makes quite a variety of pictures and cannot be easily torn. A receptical for large paper bags, small and middle sized, may be made by taking bed ticking eighteen inches wide or so, and twenty-seven inches long and sew three pockets across it. Hang in the pantry and it is very handy.

Has May B. lost her pen or is the ink frozen?

To the unknown who sent me the pretty calendar I send thanks.

BREEZE.

A NICE APPLE PUDDING.

Dear Social Corner: It is some time since I sent in a line, but I have been busy tieing bed comforters and with the other work have been too tired to do any writing except what I was obliged to do. Now I would like to see a patch of green grass, or even mud would be better than snow, for I think we are all tired of this whiteness all around us. Plenty of cold and the lack of coal have made it a most disagreeable winter. Many are sleighing and coasting, but I had rather take my sleigh ride in July

Here is a nice

Apple Pudding: Fill a well greased baking dish with sliced apples and cover the top with the following batter: One tablespoon of butter, one half cup of sugar, one-half cup sweet milk, one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder. Bake in a moderate oven. Serve with rich cream.

A friend gave me the recipe. She said it came over in the Mayflower. I don't believe it, do you, for they had no baking powder to bring over in the Mayflower three centuries ago.

Twice Twenty: Did you get the card I sent you from Willimantic? I wonder if H. and T. have got anchored at last? Have you any idea where the house is? How many snowbanks have you between the house and barn?

I have a very beautiful calendar that one of the members sent me, and I will return many thanks for the kindness for it means so much to me.

One month gone out of the new year but will send best wishes for what is left. And may we all have charity for each other.

PICES.

BUSY AT RUG MAKING.

Dear Corner Sisters and Editor: I wish to thank Social Corner Member for lovely, dainty calendar and for numbering me among the calendar list. I have one for every year since they began sending them out. I was pleased to see the page full and running over last week. I have enjoyed the letters, especially North Dakota's and others in far-away homes. It is interesting to know how they are living and doing.

Calla Lily: I am afraid you won't see me Feb. 7, unless we have a thaw, for I can't get out anywhere with this bad slippery traveling. I don't even get to church. I go nowhere unless I have a chance to ride, and that isn't always pleasant. I went on two occasions out into the country at Grace's home and got stalled and had to be helped out. No harm done, though. Rather enjoyed it—a little excitement. Our car is put up for the winter. In case I don't get there, can't you send me the sample? I will copy and return at once. Have you ordered that badge for R. L.?

I. J. B.: I didn't know J. was sick. Why didn't you tell me? Hope he is all right now.

I am improving my time while shut in using up old clothes. I am on my third braided rug; am making one now with three braided circular mats the size of an ordinary dinner plate sewed together to form the center, then braid sewed around it as large as you want to make them. When done it will be scalloped. I have sewed enough to weave two large rugs which was done on a loom set up in Grace's home for two weeks by the Connecticut farm bureau. I expect to crochet some. Have the sisters ever crocheted them by taking up the back stitch instead of the old way? It forms an accordion effect and is very pretty.

I believe in feeding the birds. I feed quite a flock every day. If they get there first, they will look up at the window as if asking for their breakfast.

My sympathy goes out to all in their affliction. Athea has just lost her husband suddenly. No warning.

Yours for the good of The Corner.

AUNTY NO. 1 (Aug. 19).

THE OLD SONGS IN PLYMOUTH CHURCH.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Big thanks to the member who sent me the pretty calendar. One sister writes about the old songs and Prof. W. O. Turner. I well remember him. Some time ago a man up north wrote about hearing the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher preach out in New York state some where. When I was a girl I used to attend Sunday school at Plymouth church, Brooklyn, N. Y., Rev. Beecher was pastor at the time. He always had a bouquet of flowers beside his Bible. There were folding chairs on every pew and when there was no room seats they were let down, which filled the isle. The congregation would join in singing the chorus. One song in particular I remember was "The Shining Shore." Such singing I never heard in my life and never expect to again.

Crimson Rambler: I am still on Lazab's Hill. Take your cutter and old dobbin and come up. We will ramble to Gardner Lake. Perhaps we will get some more fried chicken.

Red Rose: Sorry I have no eled for the coasting is fine on this hill. The temptation is strong for me to go out and try it.

Red Clover asks for a recipe for pork cake, so will send mine.

Pork Cake: One cup finely chopped fat pork, pour over it one cup of boiling water, two cups of sugar, two eggs, one teaspoon saleratus, spices of all kinds and lemon if you like; as many chopped raisins as you please, flour to thicken like any cake mixture. This will make two loaves. Cold boiled or baked pork can be used if it is all fat. You can use one and one-half cups of molasses. I use all sugar. It can be made without eggs. It is really an economic tion cake. It will keep a long time under a lock and key.

J. E. T.: There is something here you ought to come and see. Get busy with your pen and send us one of your jolly letters.

To all those who are sick and have lost dear ones my sympathy is with you.

Best wishes to all.

JOAN.

APPROVES THE GOOD RESOLUTIONS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: We are having something like an old fashioned winter, and I hope you are all well supplied with coal. Well we are all apt to make good resolutions at the new year, and some of the Cornerites made one to help keep the Corner page full and I hope those who write such interesting letters will continue to do so. I often wish that I could write something real nice.

Deliah Deal: Perhaps you will feel better when the cold weather is over. There are others who are sick. Nannie Lue is sick in bed and Goody has had a very severe cold, but is some better.

Bonie: Some time when you are going to Versailles I have an invitation to go, too.

Blue Bell: You have my sympathy in your bereavement and I think you are very sure to overcome that lonesome feeling soon when you look at it that God knows best. That is the way the Christian finds help in trouble, and if we would look about us and try to help someone perhaps worse off than we are, we forget some of our own troubles.

I want to thank Social Corner member for the pretty little calendar. It hangs in my dining room and looks very nice.

Comfort: Where are you? Have missed you.

Wishing you all a prosperous year and to meet many of you at the Buckingham Feb. 7th.

SCOTTIE.

WASHING A CREX RUG.

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Socialy Corner: As I wrote last week I find it much easier to write again. Our Corner page was filled last week and the letters continued on another page. Hope as many will write this week. The advertisements had to look for a different page, as they were well crowded off. Hope the sisters will have the same spirit this week and send in enough letts to fill two pages. We can do better than that if they all write. What say?

Red Rose: Have you done anything with the butterfly? You must watch your step for that hill is dangerous at the present time.

Necia: Have missed you. Hope you can be with us at the next meeting. Sorry you have had so much trouble. Try and get out more. It will do you good. We have had nice times at the two last dinners with plenty and many different dishes. As they all said, "a good spread." Come and enjoy it with us.

Student: Just had time to say hello, as you was boarding the car. Try and be with us Feb. the 7th.

Sweet Fannie: I hear you have been quite sick. Would like to come and see you but the snow is so deep it makes the traveling very difficult in some of the rural districts. You have my best thoughts and will see you as soon as the weather permits. I trust you are much improved by now. Tell M— to send in that letter. How are all of the kiddies? Well, I hope. This is some winter. Tell M. I have been skating. Wonder if she has will watch my step from now on.

I wonder if any of the sisters ever have tried to wash a Crex or grass rug. I take a short handle broom-corn brush and a pail of hot water and put in one-half cup of ammonia and scrub it well. The broom-corn brush cleans all of the cells very fine. Then I take a clean cloth and a pail of warm water and wash it again and then dry it with a cloth and keep it away from the heat until it is dry. The sun is the best for drying it. When dry it looks as good as new.

Hope to see you all at the next meeting.

As ever,

RED CLOVER.

SMILES AND LAUGHTER.

Dear Editor and Corner Friends: I want to thank "A Social Corner Member" for another dainty calendar. I certainly appreciate this annual remembrance. It means a lot of work for a busy person to select and mail so many each year. A letter now and then on the Corner page would be a nice way to show our gratitude.

An article in one of the magazines lately had this for a heading: When did you laugh last? We all have our troubles, but the one who can cover an aching heart with a smile is to be envied. It may be natural for some, but perhaps all might improve by adopting M. Coue's method by what he calls "auto-suggestion." He claims that by our own will power, we can cure ourselves of many ills. Why not adopt a formula like this? "Day by day in every way" I will laugh the blues away. A hearty laugh is always contageous, so by helping ourselves we may help others.

After a serious illness I boarded one winter at one of our hotels. Stormy evenings the boarders would congregate in the parlor for a social time. If the interest seemed to lag, one of the gentlemen would suddenly burst out laughing. We all knew it was a "stage laugh" but it was so real and hearty, that in a moment the whole party would be in a roar of laughter, the starter among the others. It was such a joke, for we were all laughing at nothing. He is one of our leading business men now, and no doubt his ability to please has been no small factor toward his success. But can you imagine anyone being afraid to laugh for fear of making wrinkles? I used to see a lady who always wore a blue veil. I thought it must be to cover some facial blemish, but I learned it was to protect her complexion, and that she never allowed herself to show any emotion for fear of wrinkles. She has gone to her long home, where I trust she is making up for what she lost here. They say wrinkles are but expression lines. We all love the one whose face may be lined like a Chinese puzzle, who always greets us with a smile and a cordiality that we feel is sincere.

That is one reason why I love our Corner gatherings for that day at least we can leave our cares at home and "laugh and grow fat." If we don't it is no fault of our hostesses.

Billy Sunday said in one of his original talks that "God meant for us to laugh or he never would have created parrots or monkeys." So sisters, let's "pack up our troubles in our old kit bag and smile, smile, smile."

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

ELKS.

Norwich lodge, No. 430, had a class of twenty-six for initiation at its meeting Thursday night at the Elks home, when the special attraction was Past Exalted Rulers' night with a staff of past exalted rulers doing the degree work. This was performed in admirable form with Lawrence E. Miller in the past exalted ruler's chair and James J. Casey, Thomas R. Cranley, James McCormick, James Purdon and John Carney at the other stations.

An enjoyable social session with refreshments closed the evening.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS.

Under the auspices of Clara Barton tent, No. 7, Daughters of Veterans, a successful whist and food sale was held Tuesday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial. A good sum was realized from the sale as there was ready patronage for the display of bread, rolls, biscuits, cookies, doughnuts, pies and cake, also home made candy.

There were fourteen tables of whist in play. The prize winners on the pink counters were First ladies' Alice Sieweck, Providence; second ladies, Mrs. H. P. Davenport. On the green counters, first prize was won by Mrs. Mary Carpenter, and the second prize was won by Mrs. Jane Seed. The very pleasant affair was arranged by the council and the president of the tent, assisted by several members.

OWLS

The regular meeting of Norwich lodge, No. 1396, was held Tuesday evening at Owls hall on Main street President John A. Walz officiating. Routine business was transacted following which a social time was enjoyed.

RED MEN

Mohegan Tribe, No. 64, will hold its regular session Wednesday evening, February 7th at Steiner's hall, when it is expected that work in the adoption degree will be given on a class of candidates. Captain George Farrell has had the degree team holding weekly drills in anticipation of the work.

JUNIOR AMERICAN WORKMEN

Buckingham Council, No. 14, held its regudah session on Wednesday evening at Buckingham Memorial with Councilor A. L. Atchison, presiding.

Routine business was transacted and they had a very good attendance. It was expected that F. C. Prelle of New Britain, treasurer of the state council, would be present, but owing to bad traveling he was unable to be here. He will be here on Feb. 14 to talk on matters of interest in the order and it was voted to have a supper on that evening and all members of this council are urged to attend.

Toward the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the social committee, making it a very enjoyable evening for all.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

The regular meeting of the Loyal Victory lodge, No. 4, was held Thursday evening, in Steiner hall with Noble Grand Anna Addison in the chair. The gift of a past noble grand's pin was made to Past Noble Grand Anna Olson by the district deputy, Annie Partridge, to which Mrs. Olson responded with warm words of appreciation. Plans were made for a whist early in March. Two applications were received and acted upon After the close of the business meeting, refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

CATHOLIC L. OF C.

Mercier assembly has plans completed for one of its most enjoyable social occasions of the season in a whist and dance to be held at the Wauregan house. A number of prizes have been donated for the whist and it is anticipated that the attendance will be unusually large.

MANCHESTER UNITY

Brother Charles Barnes of Samaritan lodge conferred the scarlet degree on four candidates at the meeting of Hugh H. Osgood lodge, No. 6920, in Steiner hall Friday evening. Noble grand Sylvester Tarbox presided at the regular business meeting at which routine business was transacted and the whist committee made its report that the whist would be held on the next regular meeting night.

He—But really, dear, I can see no difference between this $30 coat and the $2.00 one.

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat wring their hands in mortification and helplessness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and surely without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly secretly and quickly reaching their ideal of figure with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a case, or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4613 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets.

MARKET WAS ACTIVE

New York, Feb. 2.—Encouraged by several constructive development including a further brisk recovery in foreign exchange and foreign bonds and higher prices for steel products, mid-continent crude oil and sugar, speculators for the advance had little difficulty in bidding up prices in today's stock market.

The demand embraced virtually all sections of the list but was most effective in the steels, equipments, oils, sugars and food specialties. Railroad shares also made marked progress but the gains were less extensive than those in the industrial group. There were a few isolated weak spots, notably Allis Chalmers preferred, "Steel" preferred, Vanadium, Carolina Chemical and Woolworth. Coast Co., the last named touching an exhibition since of recent U. S. Steel touched 1.34, Crucible, Gulf States and Republic Steels, moved up 1 to 1 1-2 pts. Steel Products, Baldwin, Westinghouse Electric, Texas Co., Mexican Petroleum, Pan American B, Simms Petroleum and Royal Dutch gained 1 to 1 1-2 points.

Announcement that the directors of the standard industrials, closing at 153 1-2 for a net gain of 1 1-2 points. Other equipments improved in sympathy. General Electric touching a new top for the year at 150 1-8, and then reacting to 148 1-2 on profit taking. Squeezing of the recent short interest in Fisher Body was reflected in a jump in that stock of 12 3-4 to 265.

Oils were heavily bought. Some of the leaders being Pan American A and B, Continental Petroleum, Mid-Kansas Petroleum and Royal Dutch, up 1 1-2 to 3 points.

Announcement that sugar, up 3 1-2, led the advance in these shares. Some of the lesser individual scoring spots included Wyoming Valley Gas, Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad, Postum Cereal, Stout Motors and United Retail Stores, all up 2 to 3 points.

Call money held at 4 1-4 per cent. throughout the day. The time money market was quiet with no change in rates, brokers holding 4 1-2 and bankers demanding 4 3-4. Interest within those of the best buyers of commercial paper for which there is a broadened demand, the bulk of the prime maturities at 4 1-2 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were strong. Demand sterling sold around $4.67. French francs gained 32 points to 6.24 cents and Belgian francs were up 6 points at 5.47 1-2 cents. German marks were quoted at .0075 cents as against the recent low of .0020 cents. Scandinavian exchanges were inclined in heaviness, the Danish crown dropping to the lowest level of the year in response to the disturbed banking situation in that country.

BOND MARKET

New York, Feb. 2.—All classes of bonds registered substantial gains in today's market, foreign securities leading the advance in response to further marked improvement in exchange rates and more hopeful news from abroad.

French 7 1-2's and 8's closed at 90 1-2 and 93 1-4, respectively, as against their recent lows of 85 and 86 1-4 made only a few days ago. Other issues in that group which moved up 1 1-2 points or more on the day included Bordeaux 6's, Marseilles 6's and Lyons 6's, Seine 7's, Belgian 7, 1-2's, Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6's and Czecho-Slovakian 8's, the last named closing at 82 1-2 as against their recent low of 70.

More than a score of active railroad mortgages closed a point or more higher, some of the leaders being Union Pacific 4's, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4's, Illinois Central refunding 4's, Virginia Railway 5's and Central Pacific 4's. Northern Pacific refunding 3's and Atchison adjustment 4's showed were heavy.

Sugar company bonds made the best showing in the industrial group, Punta Alegre 7's moving up 5 points and Eastern Cuba 7 1-2's, 1 1-2. Other gains in the group were limited to a point or less.

Liberty 3 1-2's dropped 10 cents on 100 but the other active U. S. government issues advanced 4 to 14 cents.

Total sales (par value) were $11,-770,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Cold wave predictions together with anticipated passage of the Lenroot farm credits bill through the senate had a strengthening effect today on the wheat market. The close was firm at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-8c higher, May 118 1-8 to 1-4 and July 1.12 5-8 to 3-4. Corn gained 1-2 to 7-8c a bushel and oats 1-8c to 2-8c. Provisions closed 2 to 10c off.

Fears that expected zero temperatures in the winter wheat belt would for the most part find the crop without snow protection and that considerable damage might result led to relatively greater strength in the July delivery than in May, the latter month representing wheat already harvested, whereas July stands for wheat still in the ground. All months, however, showed an upward tendency as the day drew to an end, and an affirmative vote in the senate was momentarily looked for in regard to the Lenroot bill. Speculators who previously had sold were the chief buyers.

Bullish developments as to corn tended to make sellers of wheat cautious. The principal reason given for rising prices in the corn market was confirmation of heavy damage to the Argentine corn crop, a large portion of the crop being reported as having been irreparably injured by drought.

Corn rose to within a fraction of the highest prices this season. There was good commission house buying from the outset, said some authorities said part of this buying was for export account. Aside from Argentine news, talk was current that Germany was purchasing grain because of being forced to substitute alcohol for coal as fuel to run factories. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were depressed by a decline in hog values.

MYSTIC

The marriage of Mrs. Sarah F. Darrach of Greenmanville avenue and Thomas W. Copperton of Manchester Conn., took place at the bride's home, Tuesday evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day church of Westerly. The couple were attended. About 50 relatives and friends were present, and a delightful collation was served.

The gypsy moth scouts, who are in the employ of the United States department of agriculture are working in the towns of Stonington and Groton, looking for signs of the gypsy moth. A few have been located in Groton.

A chimney fire started in the home of Joseph Startz on High Street on Thursday. A call was sent in from Box 12, and both the B. F. Hoxie Hook and Ladder co. and the Mystic Hose Company were soon on the scene.

The Community House director has made the boys enthusiastic in their winter sports. Two hockey teams were seen on the ice. They were named the Red and Blue teams. Dick Gray was the winner of the 200 yard dash. And M. Berry was in the 130 pound class. Donald Ainsworth captured first place in the 140 pound class and defeated six other entrants. Miss Lyman of the oral school, who is an expert at hockey playing, having played with the Northfield team in Massachusetts, was seen at her best. Her knowledge of the game, was soon recognized by all those who witnessed the games.

The evening games were played in the moonlight. R. Batty was awarded first prize, for turning in graceful handspring and toe dancing on skates. Miss Helen Lyman was given first place among the women. Hot chocolate and doughnuts were served free to the skaters.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church gave a roast beef supper in the parish house Thursday evening. The ladies spared no pains in preparing the dainty menu. There was a large number present. The chairman of the committee was Mrs. Robert Nicholls.

The Stonington lodge, I. O. O. F. at their last meeting was presented a set of gavels which were most excellently made of solid walnut. Courtland C. Potter made the presentation gift in behalf of Stephen Austin, who was the donor, and Noble Grand Donath, occupied the gift in behalf of the lodge.

Wednesday night the 8:30 car out of Mystic, when near Ashby street, Noank road was held up by a truck from Boston, which was across the tracks. The passengers were transferred to a car at the other end of the blockade. It was some little time before the tracks were cleared.

The activities committee of the Community house have been busy and Mrs. C. K. Nash, the newly elected chairman, has appointed a sub-chairman who will take charge of the coming events. Thursday evening a whist and auction bridge party was held.

Rev. Charles Merrill has been confined to his home with a severe attack of grippe.

Miss Annie Robertson of Chelsea, Miss., is spending a few days with her parents on Pearl Street.

W. A. Fraser has returned from Brooklyn, N. Y., where he attended the funeral of the late Fields Pendleton. Barton Brown of Sawyer Court is confined to his home by illness.

Leon Sistare and Neill Morrison were recent callers in New London.

Mrs. Lewis Main is spending a few days with Mrs. Luciare Sheffield of Saybrook Point.

Mrs. John Daboll and Miss Effie Lamb were in New London on Thursday.

About twenty members of the Noank Fire Co., are planning to attend the P. S. Barber fair in Westerly Saturday night.

The Reading Club met with Miss Juliette Chester Thursday afternoon.

R. W. Morse of Boston was in the village Thursday on business.

WESTERLY

Mrs. Mary Higgins, widow of Michael Higgins, died at the home of her son, Dr. Joseph Higgins, in Manchester, Thursday. Mrs. Higgins was born in Westerly and lived here all her life. She was 62 years of age. Mrs. Higgins left Westerly some time ago to spend a short time with her daughter, Mrs. Mattingly of Cleveland, Ohio. Shortly after arriving at that city she became ill and was removed to the home of her son in Manchester where she remained until her death.

The deceased is survived by six sons, Dr. Joseph Higgins of Manchester, William of Fall River, Rev. Father Cyril Higgins of Rockville, Conn., Edwin, a student at Tufts Medical College of Boston and C. Leo and and Walter Higgins of Westerly and four daughters, Mrs. Charles Trebbe of Manchester, Conn., and Miss Madeline Higgins of Westerly.

The deceased was a member of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church.

Judge Michael J. Turano took his seat Friday morning as justice of the Third judicial district court. He was presented a basket of cut flowers by his friends and M. Walter Flynn, the clerk of the court, was also the recipient of a similar token from his friends.

At the annual meeting of the Westerly local union of the Christian and kindred societies held on Thursday night, the following officers were elected: Rev. S. M. Stoning, president; Rev. A. L. Davis, vice president; Theodore Whitford, secretary; Miss Edwina Krebs, assistant secretary; Leo C. Nye, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Alexander, junior superintendent; Miss Elizabeth Kenyon, union press agent; Miss Christine Krebs, union C. E. World representative; George Sanders, Miss Louise Payne and Miss Edwina Krebs, social committee.

The resolution introduced by Charles Ledyard at the budget meeting of the Westerly town council in reference to provisions being made by the town for the collection and disposition of garbage, met with approval by the people of the town in general. The present method of collection of garbage is made by one individual and is very unsatisfactory. The town now realizes that it is a matter of serious consideration. It has been suggested that the incinerator at the new sewerage plant would be able to take care of the solid matter. This matter will be taken up at the financial meeting of the town Tuesday night, Feb. 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Solomon of Elm street have returned from a visit to St. Petersburg, Florida.

William Loughboro of Granite street is able to be out after an illness extending over a period of five weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Opie are to leave town Sunday for a two months trip to Florida.

Richard Mitchell was back at his office Friday after a severe illness.

Dr. Michael H. Scanlon of High street has presented his resignation to Governor Flynn of Rhode Island as a member of the Charitable and Penal Institutions of the state. Dr. Scanlon gives pressure of business as a reason for his resignation.

NOANK

Howard Brown of the village recently found a rather peculiar stone which is attracting a lot of attention. It is of horse shoe shape and when closely examined shows 36 different small stones. No opinion has yet been given as to just what family the store belongs to.

The yearly survey of the gypsy moth hunters is taking place. This work is done by men sent out by the United States department of agriculture. As yet but very few have been found.

A second crew of workmen follow up those new engaged, to check up the work, making it impossible for any of the moths to escape.

A carload of coal has been received in the village and will help somewhat to relieve the present distressing situation.

Mrs. James Staphies of Stonington was a caller in the village Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mitchell have returned from a visit with friends in Willimantic.

STONINGTON

James E. Lord has secured the papers from the office of the Secretary of State at Hartford incorporating the Lord's Point Community association. The officers are: President, Miss Roberta Tener Johns; vice president, Dr. Armand J. La Piere; Secretary, Mrs. Theodore L. Hopkins; treasurer, J. E. Lord.

The board of directors are Ernest Davis, Henry Branche and Irving Kemptner. The association boasts of 93 paidup members.

Richard Wheeler, who spent a few days here, has returned to the Trade school at Putnam.

There have been 2 deaths in the Road church membership since Jan. 1st.

The new Grange officers elected for the year include: Master, Ralph C. Wheeler; overseer, Harold Critchercson; lecturer, Marion Wheeler; chaplain, Mrs. Cyrus Stewart; secretary, Mrs. Fernando Wheeler; treasurer, Courtland York; steward, Joseph Noyes; gate keeper, John Cronin; assistant steward, Raymond Sparge; lady assistant steward, Esther Billings; ceres, Mrs. Allan Harvey; pomona, Mrs. Daniel Cronin; flora, Josephine Cronin.

Miss Dorothy Wheeler, who has graduated from the training school at Montclair, N. J., has accepted a position as teacher at Trenton, N. J.

Mrs. Martha Hanis and daughter left Tuesday for several months stay in California.

There will be many from here who will attend the two joint meetings of the Woman's Baptist Missionary society of Stonington, Union and New London associations. The first is to be held at Norwich at the Central Baptist church, February 6 and the second will be held at New London at the First Baptist church, February 7.

The new officers of the Mistuxet club are: president, Alexander P. Loper; vice president, Cornelius B. Crandall; treasurer, Frank R. Tracy; secretary, Louis B. Carson; executive committee, H. N. Pendleton, H. A. Muller, Henry Pendleton, Delmonico C. B. Crandall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stivers, have left town for Naugatuck.

Friday February 9th, Charles B. Holmes, is scheduled to speak at the meeting in the borough. Mr. Holmes was formerly with the Holmes Shipbuilding company of Mystic. Important incidents will be disclosed for the first time showing this section of the state was engaged in helping win the world war.

Town Treasurer Elias B. Hinckley and Selectmen Vargas, Purtill and Tribance were in Hartford Thursday and attended a hearing on the contemplated bond issue for Stonington to pay the bridge debt.

Miss Rae Denison, is confined to her home by illness and is being cared for by Mrs. Edwards.

The weekly meeting of the "Y" branch was held Thursday evening with Rev. W. F. Williams at the rectory.

Paul Seepis has been confined to his home by illness.

Mrs. O. C. Guffis has returned from a trip to Providence.

Alex P. Loper was a week end caller in New York.

Thousands of tons of ice have been cut and housed by local dealers here this winter. All of it during the month of January. Many men who applied for work cutting ice have been given work from three to four days at a time. Vargas Brothers' ice averaged from 10 inches up, in thickness and cakes of from 400 to 600 pounds were packed in.

THOMPSON

William N. Bates is having an electric motor installed in his picker-stick shop.

The Thimble club meets next Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Charles L. Knight.

The Woman's Missionary society is to meet Wednesday, Feb. 6th, with Mrs. S. T. Livingstone at the parsonage.

Hamilton Paine was home for two days at the midyear semester of Northeastern college, which he is attending.

LEDYARD

Deacon Isaac G. Geer, while carrying a pail of feed to his pigs recently, fell on the ice and was badly shaken up. A Norwich doctor was summoned and upon examination found that he had fractured his first rib. The fractured rib was bandaged and he is resting comfortably at present.

The regular meeting of the town school committee will be held at Ledyard Center on Tuesday afternoon.

The amusement committee held a dance and entertainment in Grange hall Saturday evening, Jan. 27. There were over 50 present, and refreshments were sold.

FINES AND WARNINGS FOR DRIVERS WHO HAVE BEEN IN AUTO CRASHES

Fines in one or two cases and warnings that they must avoid accidents were passed out to operators of automobiles by Commissioner Melvin Snow at a hearing given Friday afternoon at the New London court house, where fourteen automobile operators had been summoned to appear before him.

Perry Fox of 41 Ocean avenue, New London, had his operator's license revoked, although the commissioner pointed out to Fox that one more conviction on a charge of intoxication would mean the revocation of his license for at least five years and possibly for an indefinite period. He also cautioned Fox that a second conviction would mean a jail sentence. Fox was fined $25 and costs in the case against Jewett City because of an accident which caused injury to [illegible]. Fox admitted that he had had a few drinks at the time.

Fox said that he needed the license to continue the "furniture" business. Commissioner Snow brought out that Fox was employed by a New London company for soliciting business and [illegible]. Mr. Sharaf testified that Fox worked for him several years and that he has known him [illegible] years and recommended him as a proper person to have a license. Commissioner Snow said that the only way he would return it to him was for the benefit of his family so he could work.

Several Norwich Cases.

[illegible] on other cases was taken as follows:

[illegible] Arvan, 225 Main street, Norwich, accidents, was cautioned.

[illegible] Ward, 21 Huntington street, Norwich, one accident, one conviction, was fined $25 on a charge of reckless driving and cautioned.

[illegible] Morgan of Chaplin, had two accidents in 1921, and one in 1922. He was given a warning.

[illegible] Klass of Putnam was also fined $25.

[illegible] of license to [illegible] Hazelhurst, 59 Spring Garden street, Norwich, was reserved. He was charged with reckless driving.

License of Rudolph L. Erickson, 11 Bath street, Norwich, was returned with a warning. Erickson was charged with operating while under the influence of liquor.

O. E. Ryther of Rye, N. Y., formerly of Norwich, was in collision with William Jodoin of Central Village. The details of the collision were stated by Officer Keith. The accident occurred June 2, 1922. Jodoin testified that he was on the right side of the highway. Says he struck Ryther's car while on way to take examination for operator's license. Says he had Claude Morgan, licensed driver, with him. Never has had a license yet.

Herbert H. O'Neil, 121 Broad street, New London, 3 accidents; said he has had three or four mishaps but was never arrested, nor had license suspended. He had been driving since 1917. He was cautioned to use more care.

Henry Rouillard, Central Village, one conviction, two accidents; said he had been driving three years. His one conviction was for reckless driving. He never had licenses suspended. He was cautioned.

Lenient to Brooklyn Man

Victor Smith of Brooklyn, arrested by State Policeman Keith, who said he was called to arrest Smith because of intoxication. Smith said he had driven since 1914, was engaged in his own trucking business and admitted taking a drink when he wants it. He said he was concerned in a fatal accident in Providence, but was exonerated. Said he didn't know law regarding operating under influence of liquor.

Commissioner Snow told him his license will be revoked the next time he is caught driving while intoxicated. "I don't think you deserve a license when you admit you take a drink," said the commissioner, "but on account of your business and your family I will give you one more chance. If you abuse this, mark my word, you're a goner."

Charles Garion, Killingly, overloading, Nov. 13, 1922, said he didn't realize how heavy the load was. He was fined $25.

Jesse M. Burgess, 123 Farrows street, Putnam, concerned in three accidents, two in auto and one on bicycle, was cautioned.

BOY SCOUT COUNCIL ISSUES ANNUAL REPORT

On February 1, 1923 Norwich Council of Boy Scouts of America mailed the annual report for the year 1923 to all who contributed to maintain the Boy Scout organization in Norwich during last year, and the results achieved were very gratifying.

The work of organizing the campaign to raise a quota of $5,500 for 1923 is being carried out with marked enthusiasm. Some of the most prominent and public spirited citizens of Norwich have enlisted to work for the success of the Boy Scout movement in our city. They feel with most of the great men in our country that the Boy Scout movement tends to imbue an American spirit and American manhood in our boys and that it has become a national institution.

It is contemplated to arrange a preliminary mail campaign to begin on February 7, Anniversary Week—by which a personal appeal will be made to every citizen in Norwich and vicinity to contribute something toward the maintaining and improving the Scout organization in this city during the coming year. Those who are familiar with the character and patriotism of the citizens look forth with confidence that in this appeal no member of the community will stand aside and therefore they hope for very satisfactory results.

On February 15, 1923, the committee of prominent men and women who have volunteered their services to forward the movement will launch the Boy Scout drive, and they will continue their effort until February 22 when it is hoped to carry the enterprise to a successful consummation.

It is expected that when the drive is over the citizens of Norwich and surroundings will have good cause to be proud of the manner in which this American idea will be propagated.

FITZGERALD AUTO TRUCK AGAIN FIRE DAMAGED

The Reo automobile owned by J. A. Fitzgerald caught fire about 8:30 o'clock Friday morning in front of No. 8 North Main street calling out the fire department. Twenty-eight gallons of chemical were used to extinguish the blaze. The car was badly damaged, the top being burned off, the dash board destroyed, and the wiring of the car burned. The truck had only recently come out of the repair shop where it had been taken following a fire about three weeks ago, and the firemen could not understand the cause of the second blaze.

BOOST THIS STATE FOR VACATIONS AND INDUSTRY

To organize all the civic and social organizations in Connecticut in an effort to make Connecticut a larger industrial center and a paradise for summer tourists on the plan of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, which has issued an invitation to all the civic, social, and trade organizations in Connecticut to send five representatives to a "Boost Connecticut" luncheon meeting, to be held at the Hotel Bond, February 13, at 12.15 o'clock.

For several years it has been the aim of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce to conduct an organized campaign along these lines in connection with State Chambers of Commerce in other New England states to make New England a greater industrial center and the largest vacation center in the country. Plans to boost Connecticut were laid at a meeting several months ago of the secretaries of the Chambers of Commerce in Connecticut at a meeting in Waterbury. Since that time the movement has gained state-wide recognition, and Governor Charles A. Templeton, in his inaugural address, strongly emphasized the value of organized effort along these lines.

Governor Templeton in his message said that, "While Connecticut does not enjoy the natural resources of mines, forests and rich agricultural lands possessed by some of the states, still our state presents many attractions not only to the temporary visitor but to the permanent residents. We have the variety of natural scenery afforded by seashore, mountain, lake and stream. There are abundant reasonably priced farm lands worthy of more intensive cultivation. Our schools, primary and secondary are excellent. Our institutions of higher learning are second to none. In many places opportunities for establishing industrial enterprises are unsurpassed. Our government, state and local, is safe and efficient, and our public affairs honestly managed. Connecticut is comfortably accessible to all of the great cities of the east. Some sections of the state have already profited enormously by the accession of city business men who have acquired residences in the country districts and millions of dollars have thereby been added to the grand list of the towns so favored.

"Other states, including Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, less favored in many ways than Connecticut, have for some years made liberal appropriations for the purpose of attracting outside people and have met with marked success. Connecticut could with reasonable expenditure in this field, accomplish much for the interest of all sections of the state.

"I recommend the enactment of legislation providing for the appointment by the governor of a commission to make a thorough and comprehensive study of this matter with an especial view to the needs of the smaller communities. Such an organization would serve a great public need and material gathered from time to time would be of service to the state and to the general assembly. It might properly include in its activities the accumulation and dispensing of information regarding all the natural resources and advantages of the state. I warmly commend this subject to your thoughtful attention."

It is expected that three hundred representatives from Rotary clubs, Kiwanis clubs, Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, Advertising clubs, Get-together clubs, Exchange clubs, and other organizations will attend this meeting. Every organization has been invited to send five representatives, and it is hoped that by this way the movement will receive the endorsement of these organizations.

Governor Charles A. Templeton has accepted an invitation to be present and address the gathering, and other state officers of the general assembly have been invited to attend. All the hotels of the state will be represented and for speakers the State Chamber secured several men from other New England states which have made a success in this movement. Suggestions have been made that the governor appoint a commission to supervise this work, in co-operation with civic organizations.

In Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, approximately fifty thousand dollars is appropriated by each state every year to further the industrial and tourist activity, and it is hoped by the State Chamber that in time Connecticut will see its way clear to adopt a similar programme of publicity.

POETRY

MY LITTLE MOUNTAIN NOOK.

Far up the height, beside a rock,
Two stalwart pine trees stand;
Of many a storm they've stood the shock,
And braved the lightning's brand;
It is a spot where nought can mar
My peace, and with a book
Oft there I rest and gaze afar—
My little mountain nook.

Twixt earth and sky in that high place
By rugged rock and tree,
There seems to bide a secret grace
That lifts my fancy free—
Ay, free of all that clogs its wing
Beside the filled brook;
Hath it glad spirits hovering,
My little mountain nook?

I read, and muse, and gaze afar—
How far I cannot tell;
So fair the distant haze are
They weave a purple spell
Made half of mist and half of gleam
Before my wildered look—
It witches till I'm all adream,
My little mountain nook.

Lonely am I? Ah, never there!
Though all seems far away
With lifted soul bereft of care
Were distance in no stay;
My thought hath there far fleeter flight
Than wild bird ever took—
'Tis there I'm with my loved aright—
My little mountain nook.

There heaven lends its tenderness
Sweet wishes unto their birth;
'Tis easy there to love and bless
All who are dear on earth;
And memory lends, when down I look,
Like a child's shepherd's crook,
The love that lifts it gave my soul,
That little mountain nook.

EVEN SONG.

A rift in the sunset gold
Deep like a font, her veil
Drops slowly, fold on fold,
Pale in the twilight pale.

Over the fading hill,
Misted with coming night,
One star serene and still
Hangs like an altar light.

Sweet is the darkening air,
Breathing a solemn hush;
Then like an evening prayer
Deep in the wood, a thrush.
—Maurice Morris, in New York Herald.

It has been pointed out that, in addition to the many tremors due to seismic or earthquakes, influences which modern delicate instruments detect, there are certain pulsations which seem to have some other origin, says the Washington Star. Some of these are diurnal, and are probably due to the influence of the sun and the weather on the ground. In wet weather the sides and bottom of a valley carry a heavier load than the bounding ridges; in dry weather the case is reversed. Even the transpiration of moisture by plants may produce perceptible effects upon the face of the ground. Thus the face of mother earth is almost as sensible to eternal influences as the skin of a living creature.

TURKS HAVE REFUSED TO SIGN TREATY; LAUSANNE CONFERENCE HAS COLLAPSED

Turks Refused to Sign the Capitulations and Economic Clauses—Italians and French Were Ready to Make Further Concessions on Economic Capitulations, Which Had Caused the Rupture—Lord Curzon, the Chief British Delegate, Has Left Lausanne—Turks Were Unmoved by Pleas of Americans, British, French and Italians—Mention Made of a Secret Military Convention Between Turkey and Russia.

Lausanne, Feb. 4 (By the A. P.)—The European statesmen have failed to restore peace in the near east, and the conference called for this purpos definitely collapsed tonight after desperate efforts to save it—efforts which were continued up to the very moment Lord Curzon's train left.

Scenes in the history of political conferences were such amazing scenes witnessed as marked today's tragic ending of the negotiations, which extended over almost three months. Practically the whole diplomatic world ran after Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, trying to induce him to sign the treaty, but Mustapha Kemal's foreign minister, with gentle smile, was immovable. He said "No" to the Americans, British, French and Italians alike.

The American representatives Ambassador Child, Joseph C. Grew and Rear Admiral Bristol, called upon him after the break, in an endeavor to save the conference, and later there appeared at departure platform half an hour in the hope that Ismet Pasha would change his mind, but all in vain.

The conference failed because the Turks refused to accept the clauses concerning the future economic regime in Turkey, and, to some extent, because they could not accept the allied formula dealing with judicial guarantees for foreigners, which were to replace the existing extra-territorial privileges.

Briefly, the Turks wanted to strike from the treaty the clauses leading them to recognize contracts and concessions granted by the old Ottoman empire.

The Turks agreed to a formula whereby foreign legal advisers would be appointed to reframe the penal code and be empowered to [illegible] judgments from foreigners [illegible] possible administered, but insisted that be selected by The Hague permanent court of international justice [illegible] the great powers [illegible] advisers control over all [illegible] foreigners or domiciliary [illegible], maintaining this was a violation of their sovereignty.

Further concessions as to both the economic and judicial affairs were submitted to Ismet Pasha at the last moment by the allies, but he remained obdurate and declared that Turkey could not sign such a peace, incompatible [illegible] the allies to [illegible] that [illegible] agreement on eighty [illegible] articles of the [illegible] and recommended the signature of the treaty based on questions already settled, and leaving the others for future negotiations. To them the fundamentals of peace appeared [illegible] agreed upon.

Lord Curzon and the other allied leaders, however, deemed otherwise. [illegible] official emissaries went back and forth between the allied headquarters in the Curzon apartment in the hotel at Ouchy, on Lake Leman, and the Turkish headquarters at [illegible] in an attempt to conciliate the treaty to its entirety. After the break desperate efforts [illegible] an agreement. [illegible] and French said they were ready to make further concessions on economic capitulations, which had caused the rupture, and despatched representatives to the Turks, who had returned to their hotel later they announced the complete collapse of the negotiations. [illegible] Fuad and Riza Nur [illegible] session confidence reigned the allied circles that they would sign. Neither Ismet nor Riza had been to bed during the night and they appeared haggard and weary as they entered the elevator; they looked like men going to their execution, and not like men on their way to sign a document which, it was explained, would end the war and the sufferings and woe of millions of people.

Then was fought out the historic battle in Lord Curzon's room which culminated in disaster. The Turks emphasized their objections to the economic and financial clauses of the treaty which they declared fettered national development.

Lord Curzon, M. Bompard and Marquis Di Garroni, for Great Britain, France and Italy, argued, pleaded and cajoled—all to no purpose.

There was a dramatic moment of silence: Ismet reached for his hat and walked to the door.

Lord Curzon said: "Remember, I shall stay here until [illegible] o'clock."

When the Turkish delegation [illegible] from the hotel Ismet said to the Associated Press correspondent: "Peace impossible; they [illegible] war."

The hotel lobby was crowded with excited and expectant people—diplomats, correspondents, travelers, [illegible] two score attaches of the British delegation with luggage bound for the train for England. The majority expected an announcement of peace, and the word "rupture" left all blankly amazed or dumfounded.

Ambassador Child, Mr. Grew and Rear Admiral Bristol, standing near by, immediately mounted the stairway and conferred with Lord Curzon; then, like M. Bompard and Marquis Di Garroni, dashed by motor car to Lausanne to make a final appeal to the Turks.

Lord Curzon held up his train, but when he received a telephone message that all appeals had been useless he departed for England.

M. Bompard said: "The conference is over. It is a misfortune for Europe, especially Turkey. Perhaps we can negotiate peace later."

Efforts of Marquis Di Garroni to have Tchitcherin, head of the Russian representatives sign the straits convention were fruitless.

The failure of the Near East conference has caused a recurrence of alarmist reports of a secret military convention between Turky and Russia. An eminent European statesman, who was one of the main participants in the conference, said to the correspondent a few days ago: "We are confronted here with incalculable forces. Who knows whether peace can be obtained?"

In view of the existing economic situation in Europe it is these incalculable and mysterious forces which have created the note of genuine alarm in official circles, for if the Turks have refused what seems to the allies a reasonable peace it is believed they must feel sure of themselves and their future.

ISMET PASHA GIVES HIS VIEWS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Lausanne, Feb. 4.—(By the A. P.)—Receiving the correspondents late tonight, Ismet Pasha remarked that he was awaiting official notification from the powers that the conference was closed. This was certainly important because the armistice of Mudania continued during the period of the conference only. Until officially notified he would consider the conference as still existing. He was ready to reopen the discussions he said, but would make no more concessions, on which he had gone to the utmost limit.

"The allied treaty choked Turkey to death economically," said Ismet. "The allies wanted the new Turkish government to subscribe to cast conventions and concessions made by former regimes, especially during the allied occupation, without even knowing what they were. I refuse to accept economic slavery for my country, for the demands of the allies remove all possibility of economic rehabilitation and kill all our hopes.

"I want the world to know that we did not sign because the treaty as it stood strangled us economically."

Before the breakup, England and Turkey agreed to try to settle the Mosul controversy between themselves, and in the meantime, for one year, England was not to refer this question to the league of nations, provided the military status quo in Mosul was not disturbed.

CONN. COMPANY'S BARNS IN MERIDEN BURNED

Meriden, Conn., Feb. 4. A spectacular fire this morning destroyed the Connecticut company car barns with a loss, unofficially estimated at about $150,000. Eight passenger cars and eight work cars were destroyed with the buildings. The fire also destroyed one small residence adjoining but the flames which threatened to spread to wide proportions were otherwise confined to the trolley company property. The cause of the fire was undetermined, having started in a storehouse that had not been occupied over the week end. Within a few minutes after it was discovered, the huch structure was a mass of flames and was left a heap of wreckage in a very short time.

A safe containing the Saturday receipts, amounting to several thousand dollars, was recovered after the fire, with contents intact.

OBITUARY.

John H. Landis.

Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 4.—John H. Landis, for twelve years superintendent of the Philadelphia, Pa., and a former member of the state legislature in both the house and the senate, died here last night. He was 71 years old.

Active in the affairs of the republican party, he attended every national convention in the last forty years. He was a supervisor of the census in 1900.

John J. Barry.

Boston, Feb. 4.—John J. Barry, a former president of the Boston Central Labor union, died yesterday at his home in the Dorchester district. For many years he was president of the International Association of Theatrical Stage Employes.

William H. Thompson.

New York, Feb. 4.—William H. Thompson, for more than fifty years a star in English and American drama and said to be dean of motion picture actors, died today from pneumonia contracted while on "location" work. He was 76 years old.

Born in Scotland, he came to the United States in his youth and made his first appearance on the stage in the early '70s. He was a member of Augustin Daly's company in 1888, and played leading roles in "Robert Elsmere," "A Doll's House," and "Trilby." During his career he played with many notables, including an appearance with Maude Adams in "The Little Minister." When motion pictures were inaugurated Mr. Tohmpson was one of the first of the stage stars to enter that field, and had continued to be identified with the film world in various roles. He celebrated his fifty-fifth anniversary of his stage appearance a few months ago.

Hawaiian Tidal Wave Caused 12 Deaths

Was the Result of an Earthquake Reported to be Between 2,000 and 3,000 Miles Away.

Honolulu, T. H., Feb. 4.—(By the A. P.)—Between ten and twelve persons were killed by the tidal waves in Hilo bay after yesterday's earthquake, which was reported to be between 2,000 and 3,000 miles away, it was estimated here today.

The damage at Hilo, according to a conservative estimate, was $100,000. Several days will be required to ascertain the number of lives lost and the exact amount of the damage.

The Matson Navigation company's liner Matsonia touched the bottom once while in the grip of the tidal wave, but floated off with the next wave.

The escape of the Standard Oil company's tanker Doane was characterized by shipping men as remarkable. The ship was carried reefward from an anchorage by an inrushing wave, then carried back to safety by the recession.

Residents of Lower Hilo trudged toward the highlands with their possessions all yesterday afternoon, and storekeepers and others deserted their work at the docks to go to the aid of their families.

Firemen were drafted for the police department to maintain order. Hilo bay remained turbulent throughout the night. The volcano observatory at Kaluea recorded earthquake shocks yesterday morning which, the seismographer said, were from between 2,000 and 3,000 miles away, the direction being unknown. These shocks were stated to be the heaviest ever recorded on the seismograph here.

Tutuila, the largest island in American Samoa, reported that no disturbance took place there. No replies have been received from Guam. Local navy men stated they are sure that Guam was not affected.

The tidal waves that swept Hawaii yesterday apparently traveled approximately six hours and one-half from their point of origin at the center of the tremor-affected area to the windward beaches of the islands.

The seismographs throughout the United States recorded the first shocks at approximately 11 o'clock, eastern standard time, or 5.30 a. m., Hawaiian time. The tidal waves began to pound the shores of the islands shortly after noon, Hawaiian time, or between six and seven hours later.

Windward Hawaii, or the shores nearest to the mainland of the United States, were most affected, the leeward seaboard of the group being practically undisturbed. The apparently obvious inference would be that the tembors which caused the tidal waves occurred in the ocean somewhere in the Pacific east of Hawaii and west of the Pacific coast.

Hilo, the city on the island of Hawaii where most of the damage was done, has a population of approximately 10,000 people. Back of it rise the volcanic hills, the most notable of which house the craters of Mauna, Loa and Kilauea. The former is only intermittently active, but Kilauea, about thirty miles from Hilo, is the greatest constantly active volcano in the world.

DRASTIC "DRY" BILL FOR PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 4.—Elimination of all licensed saloons, enforcement ipdovisions with "teeth in them," and a search and seizure clause that "goes even beyond the constitution of Pennsylvania in protecting the rights of law-abiding citizens" are features of the administration's prohibition enforcement bill which will be introduced in the general assembly tomorrow night.

"Not only is the manufacture, sale, transportation, delivery or possession (except when lawfully acquired before this act goes into effect) of intoxicating liquor declared to be unlawful," said Governor Pinchot, "but so is the advertisement, sale, manufacture or possession of any still or other contrivance, tablet or formula designed or intended for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor."

DE VALERA WRITES OF LLOYD GEORGE'S "CRIME"

New York, Feb. 4.—Eamon de Valera, in a letter to the editor of the Irish World, made public today, says that "the greatest of all the many crimes English statesmen have committed against Ireland was that committed by Lloyd George in December 1921, when, under the threat of immediate and terrible war he compelled the signatures of our delegates to an impossible 'treaty.'"

"The key to a proper understanding of th esituationg in Ireland today is a realization of this fact," says the Irish republican leader. The letter was dated January 10 and was published as having been written in his hiding place in Ireland.

British Debt Pact Ready for Congress

President Harding May Make Presentation in Person Tuesday at a Joint Session of Senate and House.

Washington, Feb. 4.—President Harding will submit the British debt settlement agreement to congress, probably on Tuesday. While he has not yet made a definite decision, the expectation is that he will make the presentation in person to a joint session of the house and senate in the house chamber.

Members of the American debt commission, who drafted their formal report to the executive yesterday, said today that the exact form of the legislation which congress would be asked to pass remained to be determined. However, it will take one of two forms, a general amendment of the existing statute or a formal approval of the British agreement only.

While anticipating some opposition in both the house and senate administration officials and republican congressional leaders appeared confident of favorable action by congress before the expiration of the present session on March 4. Some democrats are opposed to the interest rates agreed upon because they are below those now being paid by the government on its sureties and they plan to voice that opposition on the floor of the house and senate.

Debate is expected to develop many details of the negotiations between the British and American commissions which have been withheld thus far. Some administration leaders are of the opinion that the terms to which the British cabinet finally assented are so much more liberal than those originally advanced by the British mission that much of the opposition in congress will be dissipated when the facts are brought to light.

The first step in the legislative program in congress will be a reference of the subject to the house ways and means committee, prompt action is forecast in that committee with a report to the house probably by the end of this week or early next week. Under the general rules, house action will be prompt and the whole matter may be ready for the senate within ten days after the president submits the agreement.

NEWFIELD NEGRO CHARGED WITH DOUBLE MURDER

Middletown, Conn., Feb. 4.—Julius Land, negro, of Newfield, arrested early this morning on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the deaths last night of Walter Thorell and Arthur Swanson, both of Cromwell, will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace W. C. Noble in Cromwell tomorrow afternoon. Land is being held without bail.

Thorell and Swanson were shot to death near the Cromwell railroad station by a negro after a quarrel last night. After the shooting the negro fled down the railroad tracks towards Middletown. A short time later Middletown police arrested Land as he entered the city and held him as the man who had done the shooting. State police today asserted that they had secured a written confession from him.

According to the story told police, Land and Swanson engaged in an altercation while riding on a trolley car from Middletown to Cromwell. Thorell, who was a friend of Swanson, sided with him and all three men alighted near the Cromwell railroad station. Swanson and Land continued their quarrel and had exchanged a few blows, when the negro drew a revolver and shot Thorell who stood nearby. Thorell dropped with a bullet throught his head.

The negro then ran down the railroad tracks with Swanson in pursuit. A moment later he turned and fired a shot at his pursuer which pierced Swanson through the heart. The negro disappeared in the darkness and was later arrested.

An autopsy was performed this morning by Medical Examiner Charles E. Bush. A double funeral will be held for the men in Cromwell Wednesday.

Land told the Middletown police that he had shot at Thorell because he did not "want to take a beating."

ABOUT 50,000,000 BUSHELS OF POTATO CROP WASTED

Washington, Feb. 4.—About fifty million bushels or more than 11 per cent of last year's record crop of white potatoes were wasted or consum on farms or left undug, the department of agriculture announced in connection with its survey of marketable stocks of potatoes on hand January 1.

In the 35 late potato states, which produced 93.5 per cent. of the country's entire crop, stock on January 1, were estimated at 125,290,000 bushels, or 35,267 bushels more than on hand January 1, 1922, while production was 84,142,000 bushels larger than the 1921 crop.

Stocks in the 19 surplus producing states aggregated 114,078,000 bushels, stock in the 16 non-surplus producstates aggregated 11,212,000 bushels.

GERMANY ENDEAVORING TO REVIVE RAILROAD STRIKE

Active Propaganda is Accompanied by Cash Bonuses—French Are Extending Their Control of the Coal Traffic—The Communist Party is Organizing Counter Agitations and Have Requested That the Property of the German Capitalists be Confiscated—Germany Has Sent a Note to France Protesting Against the Coal Blockade of Unoccupied Germany.

Duesseldorf, Feb. 4.—(By the A. P.)—The railroad situation is not improving as rapidly as expected and local strikes are cropping up here and there. Although international trains are being despatched through the Ruhr regularly, local traffic is still in a state of confusion, and agents of the Berlin government are keeping a great effort throughout the Ruhr and the Rhineland to keep the railroad men from work.

Active propaganda, accompanied by cash bonuses, is being conducted in an attempt to revivify the railroad strike. "Indemnity of fidelity to the Reich" is the name given to the allowances advanced to the strikers so long as they remain on strike.

The communist party is organising counter agitations, and held a meeting at Solingen, just outside the Cologne bridgehead, in protest against the nationalists interfering with Ruhr labor and requesting that the property of the German capitalists be confiscated, on the ground that these capitalists are responsible for the present situation through failure to pay the coal tax and meet reparations deliveries.

Dortmund and Recklinghausen are still centres of the most stubborn resistance to the French, while Essen has been completely isolated so far as telephone communication is concerned.

GERMANY SENDS NOTE TO FRANCE ON COAL BLOCKADE

Berlin, Feb. 4 (By the A. P.)—The German government has presented a note to France protesting strongly against the coal blockade of unoccupied Germany. It repudiates the French contention that Germany has committed a breach of the peace.

The note declares that the real real reason for the coal blockade is the unsatisfactory result for France of "the first act of violence, namely, the occupation of the Ruhr, the failure of which is driving the French to commit fresh acts of injustice."

FRENCH ARE TO EXTEND CONTROL OF COAL TRAFFIC

Berlin, Feb. 4.—The French today occupied Offenburg and Appenweier in Baden.

Notification by the inter-allied Rhineland commission of the French intention to occupy Offenburg and Appenweier owing to interference by the German railroad administration with the international train service between Paris and Prague is commented upon here as a new and grave violation of German rights, which is likely to place under French control all coal traffic along the Frankfort-Basle line.

TIRED OF PROMISES; FRANCE WANTS REALITIES

Paris, Feb. 4 (By the A. P.)—Speaking at the banquet tonight of the Association of Republican Journalists, Premier Poincare said: "Germany, by our entry into the Ruhr has been led to show us what she would have liked to hide from us. A few years longer, she was forced to show her hand. Never up to the present have her governments wish of success to execute the treaty ever had they failed to pay reparations. They had but one idea—to delude and tire us out.

"As to us—what do we want? Two things only—to be protected as our rights and to be safe from future attack. Never in the Ruhr nor on the Rhine do we seek anything else. But what we seek we intend to get. We will not give way, but the day Germany opens her eyes to the evidence and is ready to make honest proposals we will not refuse to examine them.

"We will examine them, however without preliminary conditions and without giving up against promises no matter what may be the pledges we have been obliged to seize. We have had too many promises; we want realities, and merely fugitive realities, but lasting realities.

"The restoration of our devastated regions is a sacred duty rather, it is the keystone of [illegible] of the peace of Europe. And the peace, for which we ask not a square inch of German territory, that peace is which we seek only reparations and safety, we are resolved to establish at last on indestructible foundations."

HANGED HERSELF IN GRACE HOSPITAL, NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Feb. 4.—Unsuccessful in her first attempt to commit suicide, Mrs. Mary Brancini, of this city, succeeded in a second attempt today by hanging herself with a sheet from an iron bar above her window in Grace hospital while her nurse was out of the room. Her body was found partly out of the window and it is believed that she leaped from the window sill.

Mrs. Brancini made the first attempt to kill herself early this morning when she jumped from a window at her home. She was not badly injured and was taken to Grace hospital where she was placed in a private room. Less than three hours later her nurse, returning to the room after a few minutes absence, found Mrs. Brancini dead. The first attempt followed a family quarrel.

CHICAGO TO DISCARD LAST HORSE DRAWN FIRE ENGINE

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The screech of a steam siren, the sudden clamor of bells and the pounding of iron-shod hoofs tomorrow will mark the passing of Chicago's last horse drawn fire engine.

Its final run in answer to a mythical "3-11" alarm will be made to give the fire fans and children their last sight of a real and regular "goin' to the fire" Mayor Thompson and other city officials will be present at the ceremony.

The horses—Buck, Beauty, Teddy and Dan—will be sold unless pleas received from humane societies are heeded and the animals are turned out to pasture for their remaining years.

WATERBURY YOUTH IS CHARGED WITH FORGERY

Waterbury, Conn., Feb. 4.—Joseph Blecher, 18, of 262 Cherry street, this city, was arrested here today by Lieutenants Hickey and Stevens of the detective bureau and held for the United States authorities on a charge of forgery.

It is alleged he endorsed a post office money order and cashed it although it was not made out in his name. He claims he won it in a game of dice, but the police contend that they have evidence to prove that he opened a letter and too the money order out of it.

BANDITS DRIVEN FROM THEATRE IN THE BRONX

New York, Feb. 4.—Three armed bandits late tonight were frustrated in an attempt to blow the safe in Miners' theatre, in The Bronx, when they were surprised by employes after having bound and gagged the night watchman.

They escaped after a pistol duel.

CALLED GEN. LUDENDORFF "GERMANY'S GRAVE DIGGER"

Vienna, Feb. 4 (By the A. P.)—The arrival of the German General Ludendorff in Klangenfurt, Carinthia, today, was the cause of serious fighting between socialist workmen and Pan-German irregulars.

Ludendorff had intended to address the national peasant congress. While he was driving from the station workmen tried to drag him from his automobile, meanwhile characterizing him as "Germany's Grave Digger!" "Bloodhound!" and "Murderer!"

Ludendorff was not permitted to deliver his address. The street decorations were torn down and burned amid great excitement.

CROWD OF COMMUNISTS DISPERSED BY FRENCH

London, Feb. 4 (By the A. P.)—In Essen tonight, after vain attempts by the German police to disperse a great communist demonstration, the French guard at the postoffice suddenly opened a machine gun fire over the heads of the crowd, which instantly dispersed, says a despatch to the Times from Essen.

The despatch adds it is rumored in Essen that the French have received orders to fire on all gatherings exceeding 200 persons.

OPPOSED TO NATIONAL POOL OF FREIGHT CARS

Washington, Feb. 4.—Plans for creation of a national pool of railroad freight cars to eliminate car shortage, under direction of a general agency representing all railroads, which have been presented to congress and the interstate commerce commission by the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, were unqualifiedly condemned today in a report of the American Railway Association. Its investigation of the proposals, the association declared, determines the scheme to be "economically unsound, impracticable of application not in the best interests of the shipping public, and contrary to the fundamental principles of private and competitive operation of American railroads." Both houses and senate committees on interstate commerce and the interstate commerce commission have been given the rport.

UNCONSCIOUS OVER AUTO STEERING WHEEL

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 4.—Bent over the steering wheel of his automobile, George Fox, Rockville, unconscious from a blow suffered in a collision, rode for three miles along the main line tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad here today, before a towerman stopped his car.

The automobile which Fox was driving collided with a car at a grade crossing at Lucknow, and the car was turned from the road to the tracks, and the wheels kept the wheels of the machine along the course it was traveling about ten miles an hour when a towerman saw the runaway automobile. Fox is in a serious condition.

BULL ON RAMPAGE IN STREETS OF BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Feb. 4.—Escaping from his owner somewhere in Baltimore county a large red and white bull today wandered into the city. For three hours he resisted the combined efforts of police, amateur amateur toreadors and agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to capture him. Scores of churchgoers were scared into panic during the chase and several men were attacked an dknocked down by the animal.

"NO MOVIES SUNDAY, NO SUNDAY CHURCH SERVICES"

West New York, N. J., Feb. 4.—"No Sunday movies, no Sunday church services."

That was practically the alternative of nearly 300 women of this town, delivered to Police Chief Charles Hangley today, as a result the four movie theatres in town were wide open today.

WILLIMANTIC

NORWICH BULLETIN

Willimantic Office
4 Church Street Telephone 1068

Steve Panora, a member of the American Confectionery Company, No. 381 Main street, Norwich, and Michael Richards, his chauffeur, were arraigned before the local police court Saturday morning, charged with having in their possession intoxicating liquors with intent to sell. Through their attorney, a demurrer was entered to the complaint, which was overruled by Judge Foss. The attorney then stated that he would introduce a witness who would throw some light on the defendants' side of the case.

The appearance in court of the men was the result of their arrest Friday night by Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officer Stanton L. Briggs and Chief of Police Daniel J. Killourey. At the time of the arrest, six cases of Jamaica ginger were found in a Ford auto truck belonging to the American Confectionery Company.

The first witness called was Chief Killourey who stated that he was on his way home after his day's work and met Officer Briggs who called his attention to the American Confectionery truck parked against the curbing near the postoffice. Officer Briggs said that he had received complaints regarding the liquor which was being peddled by the drivers of the truck. A search of the machine was then made and the Jamaica ginger found. The two men were seen coming from a store on the opposite side of the street and were apprehended and taken to the police station. They claimed that they were taking orders for candy.

Federal Prohibition Officer Briggs stated that he had been watching for a certain car which bore the name of the American Confectionery Company for reports had been received by him that it was delivering contraband liquor and ginger. When he spied the truck in question he asked Chief Killourey to assist him. Upon asking Panora how the six cartons of Jamaica ginger got into the truck the latter replied that he had it to deliver to a pharmacy in Norwich and later said that it was for another drug store. Panora claimed that he had the right as a wholesale dealer to sell the Jamaica ginger to drug stores and had done so but did not sell to any other places.

Michael Richards testified that he had worked for the American Confectionery Company for six or eight weeks. He drove the truck and delivered packages of candy. He stated that his employer, Steve Panora, could not speak English, and he had to go with him and write the orders down. Richards said that he had never taken down an order for Jamaica ginger, and that he did not know what was in the six cartons until they were put on display Saturday morning in the court room. He replied that he had no interest in the business except to drive the truck and collect his wages every week.

John Panora, brother of Steve Panora, was next called to the stand and he testified that the American Confectionery Company of Norwich, was one of the largest in the state and was not engaged in any illegal traffic. He stated that they had bought considerable amounts of Jamaica ginger which they sold to drug stores only, and he believed that he had a right to do so as he had been told that it is allowable in Massachusetts and they had never been interfered with in this manner before.

The attorney for the defense then argued that they had a right to dispose of Jamaica ginger to drug stores and that there was no evidence which would prove that a disposition of the contraband had been made in Willimantic.

Judge Foss nolled the case against Richards and fined Steve Panora $100 and costs, amounting to $107.15, which was paid. After court Federal Prohibition Officer Briggs notified Panora to prepare himself for a hearing before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson at Norwich at a later date.

Herman Galley of New York city has brought civil proceedings against Irving Greenberg, proprietor of Irving's Variety Store on Church street, and the case is returnable before the Windham county superior court the first Tuesday in March. The New York man claims damages of $2,500. Papers have been served by Deputy Sheriff Addison J. Greenslit of this city and the store is now closed. Charles H. Baker assisted the officer in taking the inventory of the stock.

According to the first count in the writ and complaint, the defendant in the case, by his note of April 1, 1922, agreed to pay the plaintiff the sum of $1,250 four months after date on demand for value received. It is alleged in the writ that Greenberg paid the plaintiff $250, leaving a balance of $1,000, which amount the defendant refused to pay when so requested.

The second count states that on August 1, 1922, the defendant promised to pay the sum of $1,000 four months after date but this amount also remains unpaid, according to the allegations.

Arrangements for the staging of the triennial state convention of the Connecticut Independent Order of Foresters were completed Saturday afternoon by Lawrence A. Walsh of Hartford, high chief ranger of the high court. The convention will be held in this city, Saturday, May 26, in the town hall. It was stated by High Chief Ranger Walsh that the convention will be one of the greatest ever held in Willimantic, as there are to be close to 400 delegates from various courts in the state, with delegations coming from Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Chief Ranger Walsh: "At the convention held in Hartford three years ago there was a two hours' fight on the convention floor to get the next convention for the eastern section of the state. It is over twenty years since that honor came east and at that time the convention was held in Norwich. We have courts in Baltic, Taftville, North Grosvenordale, Wauregan, Moosup, Plainfield, Voluntown, Norwich, Jewett City and Willimantic, with a membership of over one thousand. The local court is to aid the high court in the staging of the convention" he said.

There no doubt that the convention will bring hundreds of people into this city, aside from the members of the order and it will mean a great benefit to the stores and other places of business here. The chamber of commerce will also assist in the convention plans.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wallace Reid at the Strand Today.

After knifing a man for kissing your wife, isn't it rather irritating to come home and find her head on another man's shoulder? What would you do—throw up your hands in disgust or slap the offender? Wedded folk will enjoy a picture, the fun of which is based on this situation.

Polenta, an Italian butler in Thirty Days, Wallace Reid's new Paramount picture which comes to the Strand theatre today didn't waste any time deciding. He raised his left eye, drew back the lids and showed the eyeball. The ceremony was the death sign of the "Society of the Thousand Eyes." Of course, Wally Reid, as the hero, didn't know this, but when he saw the enraged husband draw a chill-producing stiletto he took a chance and guessed something wasn't just right. The first law of nature is pretty well developed in John Floyd, the hero, and he promptly makes a fort out of a table. Polenta attacks the fort ferociously but only succeeds in plunging his knife into the table—not into Floyd, who didn't believe he ought to stand for that, and he didn't. Delicately he picks up the table, drapes it over his shoulders as one would an overcoat and runs. Each minute he expects a thousand stilettos to pierce him, but he manages to escape.

Later the "Society of the Thousand Eyes" get after him. Floyd doesn't mind the "eyes," which rather amused him ,but he did mind the accompanying knives. That's why he went to jail for 30 days. But that didn't get him out of his screamingly funny troubles, as the picture proves. Wanda Hawley heads a splendid cast chosen to support the star.

Jackie Coogan Coming in Oliver Twist.

There comes Wednesday to the Strand theatre a picture heralded as a "milestone on the highway of art," and which bears the highest recommendations in its own right. It is Oliver Twist starring that adorable child actor of the screen, Jackie Coogan; produced by Sol Lesser; directed by Frank Lloyd, and presented by a company of the most distinguished screen celebrities, including Lon Chaney, Gladys Brockwell, Lionel Belmore and a host more.

The picture is described as the most ambitious in which the juvenile star, Jackie Coogan, has ever appeared, and it is asserted that in it he has registered an appeal that strikes the hearts of young and old and of all classes of picture patrons as well as those that are not usually enticed to the theatre. It is the appeal of innocent boyhood through the medium of one of the greatest stories ever penned—Charles Dickens' Oliver Twist. The plot has been followed with unusual fidelity, it is claimed, and the characterizations will satisfy the most enthusiastic of Dickens' readers. Oliver Twist is a First National attraction — listed among the biggest of the year.

Lon Chaney, one of the principals in support of Jackie Coogan in Oliver Twist, says that Fagin is the most important role of his career.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

W. C. T. U. meeting Wednesday at 3 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A.

Y. M. C. A. Woman's Auxiliary.

The monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors Tuesday of this week at 3 o'clock. In addition to the various reports, etc., the programme will include the showing of several films of moving pictures.

Sale of Bushnell Place Property.

Burdick & McNicol, real estate brokers, have sold for Mrs. Agnes H. Bennett of 17 Kensington street, New Haven, her property located at Bushnell place, Norwich. The new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Daigle of Norwich will erect a modern bungalow on the premises to be used as a home.

Breed Theatre.

The Breed theatre last evening fairly shook with laughter. At one time it was the women; then a few seconds later the men and then at odd intervals it was both together. This sequence of incidents so happened because the picture that was being screened fitted itself to these outbursts of spontaneous laughter. It was a Paramount Special comedy, Is Matrimony a Failure? filmed with an all star cast and directed by James Cruze.

The laughter which arose then can readily be understood from the title and from the thousand and one little household incidents so recognizable to the individual members of the audience. When one of the male players on the screen scored a minor victory, the male members of the audience chortled and when the women players scored a big victory every few seconds, then the fair sex among the lookers-on applauded vigorously. As for the youngsters present they recognized what was going on as a reproduction of what they see so often in their homes and were highly enthusiastic.

Altogether it was a picture readily to be classified as wholesome, and the performances of T. Roy Barnes, Lila Lee, Lois Wilson, Walter Hiers, and a host of other players were excellent.

Is Matrimony a Failure will be shown again today and tomorrow at the Breed and other pictures on the bill include the Pathe News and an Educational comedy.

Vaudeville at the Broadway Today.

For the first half of this week the management of the Broadway theatre has arranged a fine profram of B. F. Keith vaudeville as follows:

John Reray & Co. present a series of modern dances with a number of songs included; Alf. Ripan & Jiggs have an excellent comedy offering called A Night at Dinty Moore's; Turner & Grace appear in Eight Minutes on the Golf Links; Paul Moher and Harry Lidredge offer the comedy, I Don't Care, and the Pesci Duo who term themselves The Harplet and Singer, close the bill.

Slanderous tongues are a weapon against which naught but woman's wit can prevail.

This truism is graphically, and dramatically illustrated in White Shoulders, the First National attraction in which Katherine MacDonald is now starring at the Broadway theatre.

Virginia Pitman, the heroine of the story, and her mother are staying at one of these summer hotels where the rocking chair fleet of gossip mercilessly dissects each and every guest. So charming a young girl as Virginia is a rich morsel, especially when the gossips scent that there is something mysterious about Virginia and her mother.

The worst of the matter, from Virginia's point of view, is that the gossips may at any time discover the bitter truth and learn that she and her mother are practically penniless and are staying there in the forlorn hope on the mother's part that Virginia may marry a rich husband.

How Virginia turns the tables on the gossips and finally says "Yes" to the man of her heart forms the unepected denouemxent of the story after several twists which carry surprises.

Miss MacDonald is at her radiant best in this production which was taken from the Saturday Evening Post serial story by George Kibbe Turner.

HARVARD AND YALE HAVE ACCEPTED INVITATION TO COMPETE IN ENGLAND

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 4.—Harvard and Yale have accepted the invitation of Oxford and Cambridge of an international intercollegiate track meet to be held in England in July, it was announced today. After a meeting here yesterday of committees representing the athletic bodies of the two American universities a cablegram was sent to B. G. Rudd of Oxford who was captain of the track team from that university that visited this country several years ago. The message read:

Harvard and Yale accept. Arranging transportation on assumption meet will be held July 21.—Cable Gilbert confirmation. The 12 events discussed were satisfactory except would prefer two instead of three miles, same as the last two international meets."

The Gilbert referred to in the cablegram is A. C. Gilbert, of the Yale track committee, who with Fred W. Moore of Harvard, handled the international meet here two years ago.

Biennial international meets were favored by the Harvard-Yale committee at yesterday's meeting and it was decided to broach the matter to Oxford and Cambridge. The meets would be held in the two countries alternately, that of 1925 being in America.

Although July 21 seems at present the probable date for the meet in England some uncertainty still remains. On his return recently from England where he acted for Harvard and Yale in making tentative arrangements with Oxford and Cambridge, W. J. Bingham, former track director and coach at Harvard, mentioned July 14 as one suggester date. The American team has engaged transportation tentatively for three sailing dates, July 28, June 30 and July 3.

If July 21 is finally decided upon the latter date will be chosen.

The meet will be held in the stadium at Wembly, a suburb of London, which will be ready in April and will accommodate 100,000 spectators. The combined American college team will include about 20 athletes, two being entered in each of the twelve events. The necessity of doubling up brought about the request that the two miles run be retained instead of the three mile event. This summer's meet will be the sixth of the kind. The American colleges have won three of this already held and the English universities two.

The 12 events on the program, replacing the list of 10 in previous international meets will be. High and low hurdles, 100 and 220 yard dashes, quarter, half and mile runs, two miles or three miles runs, high jump, broad jump, pole vault and putting the 16 pounds shot. Each man finishing first in an event will score a point for his team. In case of a tie contestants finishing second would be taken into account.

"SANDLOT" TENNIS TO BE DEVELOPED THIS SEASON

New York, Feb. 4.—(By the A. P.)—Development of "sandlot" tennis players—applying that baseball term to the court sport—will be one of the features of the administration of Dwight F. Davis as president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, to which position he was elected yesterday.

A national campaign to stir interest in the tennis players on municipal courts with a national championship tournament for public park players late this season are among Mr. Davis' immediate plans, the Associated Press was informed today. Preparations will be begun immediately.

Mr. Davis proposes a national survey of park tennis conditions in the larger cities of the country in his aim to improve the playing facilities of those centers not now up to the standard of the more progressive "tennis cities," such as Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Sectional bodies of the association will be asked to start soon their canvass of conditions and to solicit the cooperation of municipal governing bodies, such as boards of aldermen, park commissions, playground associations and similar organizations. Text literature, moving pictures and other "educational material" will be supplied by the association.

Eligibility rules for the initial championship tournament, and selection of the site and dates for it will be announced later. President Davis intends that a large silver vase trophy now held by St. Louis as an inter-city prize, will be donated for the new championship.

In discussing his plans today Mr. Davis drifted to the origin of the Davis cup. He said his idea was copied after the international yachting trophy, the America's cup. In 1889, Holcombe Ward and other eastern court stars visited the Pacific coast, giving a series of exhibitions to stir interest in tennis and they met with such success that international matches suggested themselves to him.

He donated the cup which bears his name, and later rules were formed for the international contest by a committee which included Richard Olney, then secretary of state, Dr. James Dwight Presbrey, Holcombe Ward and Mr. Davis.

BRITISH POLO TEAM TO PLAY EXHIBITIONS

New York, Feb. 4.—The British international indoor polo team, which arrived here Tuesday on the Olympic will play exhibition matches in five cities outside New York before it meets a selected American trio in the tournament for the John R. Townsend cup beginning at Squadron A armory, here, March 3.

The itinerary of the invaders, announced today by the Indoor Polo Association, schedules matches February 10 and 11 with an army team at West Point; February 14 and 15 with the Cincinnati Polo club and the Miami Valley Hunt and Polo club at Cincinnati; February 17, the first city troop at Philadelphia; February 23, Yale at New Yavcn; and February 24; Essex troop at Newark.

The British players are F. W. Egan, team captain, Captain F. L. Walford, Captain W. F. Holman and Captain H. McMullen. Their ponies will not arrive for some time and in their early exhibition matches, including all those outside New York, they use the mounts of their hosts.

The team is the first to challenge for the cup, new to the sporting world, donated by John R. Townsend. The winner of the tournament will be the victor in three out of five matches.

WILLIAMS AND WASHBURN LOSE IN TENNIS TITLES

New York, Feb. 4.—Karl H. Behr and Dean Mathey, of New York, won the doubles championship of the indoor tennis tournament of the Heights casino today, defeating R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia, and Watson M. Washburn, of New York, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

Washburn's errors throughout were costly to the team that represented the United States in the Davis cup doubles two years ago. Behr's terrific volleying and the cross court shots of Mathey overcame the steadiness of Williams.

Williams and Washburn entered the final round by defeating Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Samuel Hardy, of New York, former Davis cup team captain, 6-1, 6-3. Richards was unsteady in this match, as he was in a two-set singles match that followed with Francis T. Hunter, of New York, the first set of which he lost, though the second with difficulty at 9-7.

NUGGETS CLASH WITH BATTERY B TONIGHT

This evening at the state armory the Nuggets indoor baseball team will clash with the Battery B team in the fourth game of the series between these two teams. The Nuggets have won two out of three games, although the Battery claims that the first practice game is a victory for them, but the Nuggets claim that this game was not in the series.

Some of the fastest indoor baseball games this season have been played between these two teams. "Stew" Wilson, who pitched some very good games at the armory, will not be seen in the Battery lineup tonight, according to reports from the Battery headquarters. George Madden says that he will have his regular lineup, which will be good enough to combat anything that the Battery can produce. George will do the twirling for the Nuggets. The game is slated for 9.15.

STAFF BREAKS WORLD INDOOR ICE RECORD

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—Breaking one world's record and winning first place in all three events, Art Staff of Chicago scored 120 points and took the lead in the first of a two days' program to decide the national indoor professional skating championship here today.

Staff skated the 220 yard dash in 19 1-5 seconds, a world's record for an indoor track. The former mark was 19 4-5 seconds. The Chicago speedster also took first in the half and three mile contests, winning the latter by a foot from Everett McGowan, St. Paul. McGowan finished second in all the events and has 90 points. Edmund Lamy, Saranac Lake, N. Y., and Norval Baptie, Bathgate, N. D., are tied for third with 45 each.

HOLY CROSS TO PLAY 28 DIAMOND ENGAGEMENTS

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 4.—The Holy Cross 1923 baseball schedule made public today, provides for 28 games. The dates include:

FORMER MAJOR LEAGUER DIES AT DENVER

Denver, Col., Feb. 4.—George Tebeau, minor and major league baseball player of note a few years ago, and later owner of the Kansas City American association baseball franchise, died at a local hospital this morning after an illness of two months' duration.

Tobeau was a member of the New York Nationals while engaged in major league ball, and also played with the Washington Americans.

CORNELL LOSES TO PHILLY POLO TEAM

Philadelphia, Feb. 4.—The First City Troop polo team defeated Cornell university today 12 goals to 2. George Hahn scored nine goals for the local trio.

It was the second defeat in as many days for the Ithacans, the University of Pennsylvania having beaten them last night, 10 to 5.

RAY DENIES THAT HE IS TO RETIRE

Boston, Feb. 4.—Joie W. Ray, national champion, and winner of the Hunter mile at the Boston Athletic association games here last night, today denied reports that he intended to retire from the running track. The little Chicago taxi driver said he intended to compete in the 2,000 meter race at the Olympic games in Paris in 1924, and in coming events in this country.

Stroem Wins European Ice Title

Christiania, Norway, Feb. 4.—Harold Stroem, who last year won the world's skating championship, today won the contest for the European title.

KASKY PERFORMS BRILLIANTLY ON ICE IN NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

Binghamton, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Harry Kasky, Chicago, who Saturday won the Canadian national championship, assumed the lead in the race for the American national championship at the Ideal Park rink at Endicott today by winning the three-quarter and mile events and placing third in the 220. Joe Moore of New York, former international champion, won the 220 yard.

Kasky got off to a poor start in the 220, and despite a spirited spurt in the stretch could do no better than place third. In the longer distance events Kasky allowed his rivals to set the pace and then beat the pack to the tape in the final drive.

Kasky's long stride apparently caused his rivals to misjudge his speed and in the sprint for the five Kasky, whenever he was in position, outskated the field. He won the three-quarter mile event with yards to spare and the mile by several feet.

Charles Gorman, St. John, N. B., finished second to Joe Moore in the 220 yard event, while Kasky finished third. Richard Donovan, Endicott finished second in both the three-quarter and mile events. McWhirter was close behind Donovan in the mile, while Gorman trailed Donovan in the three-quarter mile.

Miss Gladys Robinson, Toronto, holds the lead in the race for the women's national championship. Miss Robinson finished second to Miss Elsie Muller, New York, in the 220 yard, while she tied with Miss Rose Johnson, Chicago, for first place in the mile. Miss Muller, with a lead of 25 feet, fell in the final lap and was outdistanced.

Charles Jewtraw, Lake Placid, failed to attend the meet, due to injuries suffered in the gold cup championships at Saranac Lake. Four thousand persons saw the races despite the zero weather. A stiff wind hampered the skaters.

Summaries:

220 yard (national championship): Won by Joe Moore, New York; second, Charles Gorman, St. John, N. B.; third, Harry Kasky, Chicago. Time, 20 1-5 seconds.

Bantams Lose to Lebanon.

The Baltic Bantams were defeated at Lebanon Friday evening by a score of 30 to 20. The game was played under poor lighting conditions which the Bantams claim greatly handicapped them. Hoxie and Standish starred for the Lebanon five, while Desjathy starred for Baltic.

"Y" SENIORS WIN FROM WILLIMANTIC QUINTET

The Y Seniors added another victory to their record Saturday night by defeating the Willimantic quintet by a score of 45 to 33. Both teams seemed able to locate the baskets and quite a few fancy baskets were caged. Then, too, there was enough hard playing and team work to please the spectators. The line-up:

Willimantic.	Y. M. C. A.
Couchon	N. Finlayson
Right Forward
A. Lamoureux	A. Pineault
Left Forward
Connell	C. Davis
Center.
Shea	A. Grebe
Right Forward
Haggerty	Daley
Left Forward

Field goals—Pineault 7, Finlayson 6, Connell 6, Haggerty 4, Davis 4, Charnetski 2, Lamoureux 3, Grebe, Daly and Couchon 1. Foul goals—Haggerty 1, Lamoureux 4, Davis 4. Substitutes, A. Charnetski for Daly.

In the preliminary the Y Emps won from the Y Academy class team 42 to 24.

HOPKINS AND ALLEN FIRE ANNIVERSARY

Sunday was the anniversary of the Hopkins and Allen pistol shop fire on February 4, 1900. That date in that year was also a Sunday and the fire broke out at 6 o'clock in the morning, being first discovered on the second story on the Franklin street side of the building. In an hour the main building was in ruins. The loss at the time was reported at over $400,000, the most disastrous fire in the history of the city.

Other buildings to which the fire spread were the drug store of E. A. Small at the corner of Franklin and Willow streets, the Providence bakery on Willow street, the Max Gordon & Son building on Willow street, the livery stable of John B. Stoddard on Franklin street and two adjoining dwelling houses. These losses by fire were comparatively small.

CARDS DISTRIBUTED FOR OPINIONS ON SUNDAY SPORTS

Hartford, Feb. 4.—In an effort to learn the concensus of the churchgoers of the state upon the question of legalizing professional sports on Sundays the Connecticut Federation of Churches has distributed 10,000 printed cards asking whether or not the recipient is in favor of professional Sunday sports and if so whether they should be regulated by local option or by state laws. The cards were distributed in Hartford and Waterbury. It will depend upon the number of cards returned whether or not 40,000 more questionnaires cards are sent to the other churches of the state.

CONN. A. A. U. TO PROBE CHARGES AGAINST COACH

Bridgeport, Feb. 4.—Charges that Kenneth Robins, coach of the Bridgeport High School basketball team, played on the team himself in a recent game at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson will be investigated by the Connecticut A. A. U., according to an announcement made tonight by Vice President Fred A. Hunt.

Commissioner John Fox, will make a personal investigation and will submit a report at the next meeting of the registration board in New Haven, February 11, Mr. Hunt said.

Robins, who is a paid coach, is charged with taking the place of one of the players contrary to A. A. U. rules.

SARAZEN AND HUTCHINSON WIN FROM AMATEURS

San Diego, Cay., Feb. 4.—Gene Sarazen, national open golf champion and Jock Hutchinson, defeated Jim Simpson of Chula Vista and Bob Simpson, of Coronado, 4 up and 2 to go in a 36-hole match played over the San Diego Country club course today.

Hutchinson starred for the visitors in the morning play, winning five holes. Sarazen won two.

Hutchinson had a medal score of 67, five strokes under par.

B. U. AND HOLY CROSS TO MEET ON GRIDIRON

Boston, Feb. 4.—Boston College and Holy Cross will again meet in football in 1923, despite recent reports to the contrary. The game will end the Boston College schedule December 1, according to the programme made public today. The other dates are: September 29, Providence College; October 6, open; 12, Fordham; 20, Canisius; 27, Marquette; Nov. 3, Georgetown at Washington; 10, Centenary; 17, Villanova; 24, Vermont.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

W. W. Roper, coach of the Princeton university football team, has signed a two-year contract to continue in that capacity.

"Gene" Tunney, former light heavyweight champion, is practically matched to meet Harry Greb, the present titleholder, in a return match.

Charles Root, who pitched for Terre Haute, in the Three Eye league last season, has signed with the St. Louis Browns for the coming season.

Some of the Japanese newspapers laud the work of Herb Hunter's players, while others pan the big leaguers for tossing away a game in a weaker Jap team.

The Albany club of the Eastern league is to do its training at Trenton, N. J., the coming spring, players to report to Manager Rodgers at that city on Tuesday, April 10.

The New England featherweights, Bobby Dyson and Chick Suggs, have been signed to meet in a ten round decision contest at the Casino A. C. in New Bedford, Mass.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Nationals since 1919, has signed a contract to manage the club for the next five years, it was announced by Sam Breadon, president of the club.

Jimmy Kelly, Bronx welterweight, and Young Laurette of Albany have finally been matched. The men will clash in a twelve-round contest at the Collar City A. C., in Troy, N. Y., February 12.

Moe Ginsberg, the featherweight who has been doing will of late, will go to Albany February 13, where he is to take on Danny Brown in one of the star ten-round bouts of the Knickerbocker A. C.

Jack Bentley, $65,000 Baltimore beauty, has refused to sign a New York Giant contract. He's satisfied with the terms but he wants some of the cash that the Giants gave the Baltimore club for him.

Rocky Smith, Battle Creek welterweight, will have it out with Johnny Kelly in a ten-round no-decision bout at Phillipsburg, Pa., on Feb. 16. Smith was scheduled to meet some good lad from Boston.

Archie Walker, former amateur lightweight, who was matched to box Johnny Williams at the Ridgewood Grove Sporting club, was prevented from going into the ring because of the rule that keeps a boxer under age out of main bouts.

Billy Ryan, Cincinnati welterweight, who was scheduled to meet Soldier Bartfield at Cincinnati on Monday evening, has asked to have the match postponed until Feb. 19. Ryan sought the extra time to get into shape, as he recently recovered from the grip.

Four star 10-round contests, headed by the Johnny Dundee-Tony Julian scrap, will feature the card at the Armory A. A. in Boston Tuesday night. In the other three bouts the pairings are Paul Doyle vs. Steve Latzo, Jimmy Amato vs. Willie Harmon and Johnny Fox vs. Freddie Madden.

Jackie Marlowe, army bantamweight, is slated to hook up with Willie Ryan in an eight-round contest at the 212 Regiment armory on Tuesday night. Joe Wright and Bobby Wagner clash in the semi-final of eight rounds.

In a rather slow game, with sensational features lacking, Connecticut College defeated the Holy Cross quintet here tonight, 31 to 22. Connecticut played better in the first five minutes of play than at any other time during the game.

Three eight-round contests will be decided at the 212th Regiment armory, New York, on next Tuesday evening. Willie Ryan is paired with Jackie Marlowe, Joe Wright will meet Bobby Wagner and Sonny Cashin will tackle Andy Ketchell.

Young Bob Fitzsimmons has placed himself under the management of Billy McCarney, who has matched him to box Ad Stone, the Quaker City light heavy, in an eight-round contest at the Arena A. C. in Philadelphia February 26.

Crew and coaching cups which belonged to Robert Johnston Cook—the Bob Cook who made Yale famous on the water—have been placed in the trophy room at Yale gymnasium. They were presented to the university by Mr. Cook shortly before his death.

Henry Garrity, star halfback on the Princeton football team of 1920-21 and coach at the University of Missouri, was elected head coach and director of athletics of Wake Forest College at a meeting of the executive committee of the board.

Middleweight Champion Johnny Wilson probably will be reinstated by the New York state athletic commission, and will box Tommy Robson of Boston in a 15-round championship match at Madison Square Garden before the club closes for the summer. Robson has already signed.

Harry Stone, the veteran American welterweight, who now makes his home in Australia, staged a successful comeback at Melbourne the other day when he defeated Jack Josephs in a 20-round decision bout. Stone is billed to meet some good opponent at Sydney Feb. 19.
